William Stevens was charged with breaking into a camp at White Lake, with another man, Leonard Davis, and stealing a canoe and other property. Davis not appearing, the case was remanded until Tuesday next, when it will be heard in the Court-House at 2 p.m. The offence was committed on August 1.

CONTRACT IS CANCELLED BY ONTARIO GOVERNMENT

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(Canadian Press.)— Announcement was made yesterday that the Ontario government had cancelled the contract entered into some months ago with the Canadian Colortype Company for the supplying of automobile markers for the year 1924. It is claimed by Ferguson administration that former Minister of Public Works and Highways, Hon. F. C. Biggs, awarded the contract to this company in May last, just at the time or immediately after the House rose. It is claimed further by the Government that Mr. Biggs awarded the contract on his own responsibility, and without reference to Cabinet Council.

The contract a year ago to this company for autoombile markers was made the subject of criticism and questioning by Conservative members and Liberal members last winter in the Public Accounts committee of the Legislature.

TRAVELLERS LEAVING RUSSIA ARE SEARCHED

MOSCOW, Aug. 4. — (United Press).—All travellers leaving Russia are subject to a scrutinizing search as a result of the theft of secret documents alleged to involve Premier Lenie and Trostky in an intrigue with Imperial German Government during Kerensky's administration according to information from a reliable source. Explaining the search orders to-day it is believed here the thieves intend to publish the papers in the United States.

Reparation Efforts.

LONDON, Aug. 4. — (United Press).—Publication of recent interchange of opinions between Great Britain and her continental Allies on the subject or reparations is expected shortly as a result of Premier Poincare's permission in which Belgium is expected to acquiese. Premier Baldwin in his common's speech said this would be the next step in Britain's effort to reach a settlement. A change in sentiment here favorable to France has been noticeable since the Prime Minister and Marquis Curzon delivered the Governments statement of policy to parliament. There is a growing sentiment in favor of letting France and Belgium carry on with their Rhur Policy.

Bloody Clashes.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—(United Press). —Bloody clashes between police and student occurred in Budapest to-ady in connection with awakening of Hungary demonstrations, the Telegrafen Unions correspondent wired from Budapest.

HON. E. C. DRURY GAVE AN ADDRESS TO THE FARMERS

BARRIE, Aug. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Addressing the farmers of North Simcoe at a picnic at Wasaga Beach yesterday afternoon, Hon. E. C. Drury declared that the time was ripe in Canada for the birth of a really Progressive party, and at the same time called for a house-cleaning in the head office of the U.F.O. organizations. He attacked the U. F. O. leaders for what he termed their folly in attempting to force the Government by occupational groups on the people of the Province, and declared it was time that the farmers found out "how this clique are discharging the task you have reposed in their hands." The former Premier would entirely divorce the political activity from the U. F. O. movement. He suggested that it was only by getting away entirely from an occupational class appeal that the Progressive or people's party had a chance of being of service to the country.

Mr. Drury remarked that he was now back on the farm, and was, in fact, much more of a farmer than the men who were at the head of the Farmers' organizations.

GOVERNOR DONAHEY LEAVES FOR HOME

Death of the President Brought About Speedy Return.

COBOCONK, August 4 (Special to The Examiner). — Governor Donahey terminated his fretful holiday here, and returned this morning to Ohio for the funeral of the late President Harding.

With him were his six children, Warden Thomas, Don Thomas, and the two trusties, Jennings and Zipriani.

The announcement of this intention was made by the Governor following a conference with an official representing the Canadian Government. But the funeral of the late President of the United States in the State of which Donahey is Governor would inevitably have necessitated his return, so speculation as to what element was injected into the Governor's consideration by the visit of the Ottawa official is useless.

So has death interposed to draw the curtain over an unusual situation that has made this peaceful place the centre of more attention than the beauty of its scenery and the bounty of its river could ever command.

Before leaving, Governor Donahey said, "Good-bye, boys; you have treated me right, and I am coming back again."

WHITE-ACKFORD GIVEN DAMAGES

Won Counterclaim While Plaintiff's Claim Was Dismissed,

This morning, in the County Court, His Honour Judge Huycke gave judgment in the action brought by James E. Carter, who ran a used car sales agency for some time in Peterborough, against White & Ackford, automobile machinists, and repair men.

Mr. Carter gave instructions to have his car repaired by White & Ackford, about a year ago, and claimed that the price was fixed at $150.00 for furnishing parts and the work on the car.

White & Ackford refused to allow Mr. Carter to get his car, and claimed a mechanics' lien on the car for the work done, and the parts supplied.

Hence, the action was brought by Mr. Carter for $500.00 damages, for the detention of the car, and $1,000 for the value of the car.

White & Ackford's counterclaim was $289.00 for work and repairs furnished, which also included storage.

The judgment provides that Mr. Carter's action against White & Ackford is dismissed, with costs, and Judge Huycke allows White & Ackford's claim for work and parts supplied, at $230.00, with costs.

The claim for storage was not allowed.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for White & Ackford, and Mr. S. T. Medd appeared for Mr. James E. Carter.

God knows how much I miss her,
He counts the tears I shed;
And whispers, Hush, she is only sleeping—
Your loved one is not dead.

CHANGES AT POST OFFICES

An Aggressive Policy Inaugurated by Which the General Public Are Reaping Benefit.

The C. O. D. service has proved to be of particular advantage to firms who do not issue catalogues, and whose prices are not known to the buyer, and in cases where the buyer is not known to the dealer. It protects both the buyer and the seller, eliminates the carrying of small charge accounts, makes refunds and adjustments unnecessary, and speeds up the whole transaction.

Post Office Philatelic Stamp Agency

In response to requests from philatelists of Canada covering a long period of years, Hon. Mr. Murphy established in March last an agency for the sale of current issues of all Canadian postage stamps. This is proving very popular with the stamp collectors, and, although the agency has only been in effect for a period of four months, it gives promise of proving a substantial source of revenue to the department. Recently orders have commenced to come from foreign countries and the sales are increasing accordingly.

Post Office Publicity.

An aggressive policy in regard to Post Office publicity was inaugurated some months ago whereby the various services were brought before the attention of the public with a view to increased business and increased revenue This publicity included poster advertising, advertising by leaflets distributed to housekeepers, radio talks, and postal talks by postmasters, with illuminated lectures on postal subjects of special interest to the public.

A result of this educational campaign is evidenced in better delivery of mail matter, a marked decrease in mails forwarded to the dead letter offices, and an evident improvement generally in the better comprehension by the public of postal regulations so as to avoid delay and non-delivery.

A Post Office Weekly Bulletin has been sent out to the employees, making for a general improvement in the morale of the service and a better spirit of co-operation among all the branches.

Improvement in the Working Condition of Employees.

It was the practice in the past to take on relief employees in the postal service during the annual leave season. These temporary men commenced their employment in April or May, and were released after the termination of the holiday season, often at the commencement of winter. By extending the period during which annual leave is taken and by establishing reserve staffs, known collectively as the postal pool, it has been possible to take care of the holiday relief and other emergencies peculiar to the postal service with comparatively no additional expenditure. Moreover, this reserve staff constitutes a training school and makes it possible to give better public service through retaining experienced men instead of releasing them in the fall of each year and taking on "green" hands in the spring. By the introduction of the postal pool, it has been possible to give a greater degree of permanency to the positions of the men engaged on relief work than was formerly practicable, which creates a greater measure of content amongst the staff and reacts favorably upon the public service. This arrangement has been further developed to provide avenues of promotion to all branches of thesdervice, thereby enlarging the field of opportunities to which postal employees may aspire.

Steps have also been taken to improve conditions under which employees work. Lunch rooms have been established as the larger centres, and this will be further extended at other offices where circumstances are favorable and the necessary accommodation available.

"Crime Wave" Diminished

Two years ago thefts and abstractions from the mails were increasing to an alarming extent and reflected what was known as the "crime wave," which at the time was more or less universal throughout Canada and the United States. In carrying out the reorganization of the postal service special attention has been given to investigation work with the result that in the past two years a greater number of arrests and convictions for thefts from the mails were made during any corresponding period, and a greater percentage of the cases were satisfactorily concluded. This has resulted in a marked diminution of the so-called "crime wave" in so fars as the posta service is concerned.

Reduced Rates Paid to Railways

Of the various economies effected, perhaps the most important in postal matters is that which was made by reducing the rates paid to railways for conveyance of the mails. This was brought about through conference between officers of the Post Office Department and the Department of Railways and Canals respectively, who were directed to make a compilation of the cost of operating the different kinds of mail service performed by the railways, with a view to fixing rates which would give fair compensation and put the baggage car-mail service on a fairer basis. The railways agreed to accept the new rates effective from the first of June, 1922, and these have resulted in a saving of $400,000 per annum to the Post Office Department, and consequently to the tax-paying public.

Foreign Accounts Settled

A considerable number of accounts for the carriage of mails of foreign countries across Canadian territory had not been attended to, nor had settlement been made. Eventually, the Postmaster General succeeded in getting all these accounts settled, with the result that the treasury of the Dominion of Canada benefitted to the extent of $950,000.

Improved Business Methods

Improvements have been made in the method of conducting post office business, both in the operating field and at the seat of administration. These improvements embrace a variety of subjects and cover such items as mechanical accounting in connection with money order accounts, Government-onword motor truck transportation services for the collection and delivery of mail, Improved registration system improved lay-out of postoffices in connection with the new buildings Other potential improvements being tried out, addition changes in organization have been effected, resulting in an aggregat saving, on this account a one, approximate y $200,000 and at the same time increasing the efficiency of the service.

marriage against me. Nor do I care whether Jonah really spent three days in the whale's society or not. What do these things matter? And yet churches are divided over them. The great need is for a return to the active worship and the following of the God of our fathers. Roger W. Babson, the great statistician of the United States, said at a meeting of world known financiers, that there was a crying need for less legislation and more religion. Integrity is the spiritual need of your life, and the need of the economic heart of your country."

"How often are your Bibles opened here? Up in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont they are opened when someone is born, or gets married or dies, or as the Westener puts it: 'is hatched, matched or despatched!' Some of our Christians up there are like the man who thought that Sodom and Gomorrah were man and wife, or the other who said he always understood that the Epistles were the wives of the Apostles. But I have known deacons and elders of the church who sanded the sugar and watered the milk and whom I wouldn't trust to pass the plate unless there was a cash register attached."

The Woman Question.

Turning to brief consideration of the woman question, the speaker said: "A nation without women would be stag-nation. The woman of fifty years ago would hardly recognize the woman of to-day. Eve might. But apart from her dress (and she seems to be) woman is improving. We may sometime have a woman as president of the United States, but thank God, I will be dead then."

Speaking of the influence of a good woman over her children the Judge said: "I think there are two evils in the world to-day: too much prosperity among the rich and too much posterity among the poor.

It isn't the divorce evil that we should be taling about. It is the unwise marriage problem. Ministers should put something more in the marriage service than "love, cherish and protect." They should put "Stop, look and listen!" Forty years ago we looked on divorce as a disgraceful thing To-day there isn't an American family that hasn't had either a divorce or a case of appendicitis. And these people call themselves the cream, because they have been through the separator."

With an allusion to the love of parents for their children, and especially of fathers for their boys, "although they don't always show it," and with a warning to his audience to disbelieve what they hear and see in the yellow press of the United States, and the editorials of a man, "who although he is the owner of twenty-three newspapers, is as much disliked in the United States as he ought to be in Canada" the speaker concluded with a tribute to the friendship of the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack."

Audience Grows.

The audience last evening was an improvement over the preceding night, numbering between three and four hundred people. Yesterday afternoon's programme was much enjoyed. The Glen Wells Company, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wells, gave a charming presentation of a three act melodrama, "Atonement," which was excellently done. The real talent of the two actors put the little play, with its inadequate staging, across in fine style. There was pathos and human interest a-plenty in the story of the mother whose son had been made a crook by his father. When the boy comes to rob his unknown mother, there is a dramatic scene, and a pleasing finale in the third act.

Last evening, Mr. and Mrs. Wells tickled their audience with a one-act farce, "A Pressing Matter," and during both sessions, they gave a number of pleasing musical numbers with a monologue by Mr. Wells; vocal solos by Mrs. Wells, which included Arditis "Parlez," and a fetching doll song from "The Tales of Hoffman," done in mechanical boy style. Vocal duets included "I'll Remember you Love, in my Prayers," and "Birds on the Wing." In the evening, also, Mrs. Wells sang very charmingly, the pretty "Jewel Song" from "Faust."

The manager of this year's Chautauqua, Mr. B. F. Davis, has arrived and made last evening's announcements.

This year, special attention is being paid the juniors, with various entertainments every morning. Yesterday morning, Kelly, the Ventriloquist, with his talking dolls, attracted a good crowd of children. This morning a story hour with "Characters from Story Books," featuring the Tom Sawyer type, was given by the Misses Miller and Aderton.

This evening, Capoy Ricks," a comedy drama, will be the attraction, with opening time at eight-thirty, half an hour later than usual to accommodate business men of the city.

WOMEN SHOULD NOT BE CONTENT

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 4 United Press).—Many women are like the little freckled-faced, red-haired lad who refused to wash his face and brush his hair because nature had made such a mess of him that it was no use trying.

Women should never be content to place themselves on the "as is" counter! The woman who is content with what nature gave her is indeed vain. There isn't a woman living who can not improve upon nature if she wishes. Be she as drab as the proverbial church mouse, she can make herself attractive by wearing colors which bring out her best points and conceal her worst points.

Many women depend upon makeup to put over their otherwise colorless personalities. Others who do not believe in the use of makeup try to develop charming personalities. Neither of these two routes is entirely satisfactory, as too often rouge and lipsticks cheapen without beautifying and the person who is continually trying to be "sweet" becomes tiresome.

Colors for the Colorless

If one has eyes of no particular color, hair that is of no decided shade and a colorless complexion one must depend upon colorful clothes to bring out their personalities. Let the vivid person wear the drab shades. Colorless persons are usually prettier in pastel shades than in vivid ones. The pale, ashblond, for instance, is always lovely in Nile green, shell pink or orchid.

Many people believe that all blondes can wear black, but this is a mistake, for many blondes look decidedly faded in black as it gives pallor to the face and seems to accentuate lines. Golden blondes with vivid coloring and dark haired women with ivory complexions wear black well. Sallow skinned persons should beware of black or white, or the combination of these two.

It is impossible to say that all blondes can wear one color and all brunettes another, for there are as many varieties of blondes and brunettes as there are pickles. If the pale blonde wore pastel shades, the medium blonde wore medium shades and the brunette wore vivid shades, they would be following a pretty safe rule. For instance, an ash-blonde can wear pink; a medium blonde can wear rose and a brunette can wear flame.

Auburn haired women are at their best in deep blues, reddish browns, black and white. There is a theory that all red-haired women look well in green but if the hair is too red one is apt to have a "port and starboard" effect as the contrast between red and green is too distinct. Hair that is slightly auburn, however, can stand certain bottle-greens and bluish greens nicely.

Gray-haired women should avoid gold or yellow tones as they give the hair a coppery look. Platinum, however, is lovely on gray-haired persons and all dark shades are becoming to them. Lavender should be worn only by the very young or the very old, as the middle-aged person is aged by it. Persons who have passed the bloom of life should not wear vivid colors, as shades that are slightly subdued are prettier on them. Browns are seldom becoming to the middle-aged, although all shades of blue are usually becoming.

Size is another fly in the feminine ointment which restricts one's color selection. A woman may have a peach bloom complexion, glistening hair and sparkling eyes, but if it takes two nickles to weigh her she knows that she can't wear light colors.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The French Government to-day ordered flags on all Government buildings half masted until after the funeral of President Harding.

President Harding's death is taken in France as an event of first importance. It even has created a grave political crisis which may lead to an end of Entente in background for the time being. The President of the Republic and Prime Minister transmitted Expressions of sympathy to Mrs. Harding and to the United States and officials and public bodies, like, the Paris Municipal Council, did the same. In sympathetic messages there was evidenced realization that France had lost a true friend.

Hopes Shattered.

BERLIN, Aug. 4. — President Harding's death abruptly terminated all speculation over the question of whether he eventually would have succeeded in devising and putting into execution a programme of constructive world. Politics and if any hopes had been rested upon him in this direction these are now transferred to his successor. This opinion is underlying the bulk of obituary apprisals of the dead executive published here, which are warmly sympathetic throughout, despite the general conclusion that Harding's term in the White House marks the United States detachment from Europe.

MINERS INSIST ON A BONUS OF TEN MILLIONS

Emyloyers in Ruhr Offered Big Wage Increase, Which Failed to Satisfy Strikers.

RESISTING FRENCH

DUESSOLDORF, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Many miners in the Ruhr are using their own form of passive resistance on employers, according to reports to the French headquarters.

Miners when they fail to get their wage demands, instead of striking, go to work, but in lieu of laboring, sit down and play cards and tell their troubles.

Granted Increase.

Employers granted a wage increase of 110 per cent. but the miners insisted on a five million mark bonus to meet the high cost of living. Employers countered with an offer of half the bonus requested, but this failed to satisfy the miners, who increased their demand to 10,000,000 marks and asked that half of their wages be paid in Reichsbank paper instead of local "Notgeld currency."

BUFFALO, Aug. 6. — (Canadian Press).—Shot through the chest by bandits, who last night raided his soft drink establishment, rifled a cash register and robbed patrons of money and jewellery, Bronislaus Smech, 34 years old, died the hospital this morning.

The trio of masked men began shooting as soon as they entered the place, witnesses said. Smech rushed for the cash register. The foremost bandit dropped him as he reached it. After Smech went down, armed men gathered the available money together, backed out of the door and escaped in an automobile parked near by.

PUBLIC WEARY NOTE WRITING ABOUT POLICY

Would Like to See Some Action in Regard to the Ruhr Situation.

PRESS COMMENT

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(Special). — Outspoken criticism of what is termed Premier Baldwin's "weakness" in dealing with the Anglo-French reparations features the week-end comment in various sections of the London press. There were occasional hints that the Premier's resignation is the only alternative unless he formulates and carries out a definite policy. Baldwin is being attacked on all sides. Matured reflection on his statement before the House of Commons Thursday fails to find it in the material on which a definite settlement on reparations can be achieved.

Independent British action toward Germany was intimated, but beyond that there was nothing definite. The gravity of the European situation was stressed, but the expected action, the cutting of the Gordian knot, failed to materialize.

There was no Anglo-French break. Instead, there is a feeling of optimism in Paris, a feeling that probably further conversations, deliberations and exchange of views will be possible.

But the great mass of public opinion is weary of the policy of caution and hesitation. The Englishman looks with scant optimism on the prospects of further arrangement, more bickering.

Belgium's reply to the British note, published during the week, took a middle course, suggesting that the cancellation of inter-allied debts was a possible method of untangling reparations. Italy's note largely supported the British stand. But neither unified action toward Germany nor the isolation of France and separate British action were achieved.

The present prospect seems to indicate nothing more than note exchanges.

The Sunday Express, organ of Lord Beaverbrook, complains because Baldwin does not abandon the continent altogether, adopting an isolationist policy.

Lord Rothermere's Weekly Despatch and his Sunday Pictorial demand that he give unqualified support to France.

NEW PRESIDENT HAS GOOD WILL TOWARD CANADA

But Expected to Prove a More Pronounced High Tariff Supporter Than Predecessor.

TOUCHING TRIBUTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press) — Washington is still waiting for a sign as to what will be the foreign policies of President Coolidge. No indication is given that these will be revealed for some time.

So far as the tariff is concerned, President Coolidge is expected to be even more pronounced high tariff supporter than the late President Harding. He has been brought up the Massachusett's high tariff atmosphere, and there is little expectation that he will use the flexible tariff law to lower rates except in a comparatively few instances.

President Coolidge shares the good will toward Canada which President Harding entertained.

For World Court.

Outwardly, President Coolidge is for the world court, but it is uncertain whether he will press the issue in view of the wide division of the reparations on this score.

Iowa Pays Tribute.

BOONE, Iowa.— The prairies of Iowa to-day paid their tribute to the memory of the late Warren G. Harding.

Silent as are these prairies, they were not more silent than the men women and children who gathered in small towns to see the funeral train pass by. Many of these mourners had driven in from farms before daylight and others had remained up all night, but all had the one desire —to stand uncovered by the railroad side as the train representing the nation's sorrow hurried by.

DISCUSS AFFAIRS WITH EX-KAISER

Crown Prince Denies Politics Enter Into Visits to the Old Man.

LONDON, Aug. 6—(United Press) —"Father and I sometimes discuss affairs in Germany, but naturally have no intention of participating further in our country's politics."

The former German Crown Prince is reported as saying in an impromptu interview with the Daily Express Doorn correspondent.

The correspondent found the ex-Crown Prince seated in an automobile by the roadside near Zeist, lost. Before putting "Willie" on his way, he secured an emphatic denial that the recent visits to the ex-Kaiser's estate at Doorn have anything to do with monarchist plots in the Fatherland. "It is true my father receives guests at Doorn, but there is nothing political about these visits," the former Crown Prince insisted. "You must deny these fantastic rumors. I probably shall remain at Doorn ten days and then go back to Wieringen."

Prince of Wales is A Jolly Good Fellow

Sometimes Works Ten Hours a Day and Takes an Interest in Common Folks.

LONDON, Aug. 6—(Canadian Press).—"I believe the Prince of Wales is one of the most remarkable young men of our time," declared the Duke of Portland at the opening of a miners' welfare centre on his estate in Nottinghamshire. "I read not long ago," continued the Duke, "a statement that the Prince was not a worker. Who ever made that statement could not have known anything about the matter. Ten hours' work in a day is a common experience in the Prince's life. He never spares himself for a moment, and his spirits and interest in the people never flag."

PETERBORO WELCOMES I.O.O.F. PROVINCIAL ENCAMPMENT

Principles of Oddfellowship Permeate Whole Public, Reacting to the Reflected Spirit of Fraternity and Charity—A Brief Sketch of the Order

TO THE GENTLEMEN of the Grand Encampment of the Independent Order of Oddfellows of Ontario, the citizens of Peterborough extend a full-hearted welcome, with earnest wishes that their convention shall be highly profitable and pleasurable, and altogether successful.

The presence of so many visitors, prominent in the cities and towns and in the lodges of which they are representatives is a reminder of the physical and the moral strength and the constructive influence of the Order in this city; incidentally these guests gratify the people's pride in the Encampment's selection of Peterborough for their assembly and exercises.

Deeper perhaps than these impressions is the emphasis laid by the Encampment's legions upon the idea of fellowship, the dependence of men one upon another, the divine injunction of love not only among the members of organized societies, such as the I.O.O.F., but also among the vast, yearning brotherhood of mankind.

These hundreds of Oddfellows, exemplars of fraternity, quicken the social pulse of the whole community by the overflow of their goodwill and the accentuation of their ideals of love and charity. Their companionship and mutual understanding seems to be imperceptibly reaching out beyond their own ranks these two days, touching all men with that exquisite sweetness of life which lies deep and rich in gentle hearts, but is all too rarely evoked and set free.

On the spiritual side, therefore, Peterborough has special reason for greeting the Oddfellows with every mark of esteem and cordiality in that they tend to turn our minds aside for the moment to contemplate the beauties of fraternity and to conjure up visions of the possibilities of universal brotherhood. Wistful, evanescent visions! But the community is the better for them and for the broadened influence of Oddfellowship upon the intercourse of the public as a whole these few days.

Fortunately the significance of the name of this society has lost virtually all its appositeness and literalness. Men who desire to associate together for mutual help and benefit are no longer the exception as they were in the days of the beginning of the I.O.O.F., when people were so split up into sects and classes that those who desired unity and brotherhood were called odd fellows.

Society has obviously undergone a great amelioration since then. Divisions are fewer and less harsh. Fraternities and sororities, too, are comparatively numerous. Many influences have been at work during the long intervening years, bringing men closer together and into fuller understanding; and in that transformation who shall determine the helpful effect of the precepts and practice of Oddfellowship!

The origin of the Independent Order of Oddfellows is uncertain and obscure, but lodges of Oddfellows are known to have existed in England in 1736. They were autonomous bodies, self-sufficient and self-controlled. By the first quarter of the nineteenth century they had developed to a flourishing state in common union.

A little more than one hundred years ago the seed of Oddfellowship was planted on this continent. Thomas Wildey, who was born in London in 1782, come to America in 1817, settling in Baltimore, Md. He had been initiated into a lodge of Oddfellows in London, and in the new world he missed its congenial companionship and the fraternal goodwill that helped to soften the asperities of life. So keenly did he feel the lack of fellowship which he had shared and enjoyed in his lodge in London that he decided to ascertain whether there were others like himself in Baltimore sufficient to form the nucleus of a society.

To that end Thomas Wildey caused to be printed in The Baltimore American on 21st March, 1819, the following advertisement: "A few members of the Society of Oddfellows will be glad to meet their brethren for the purpose of forming a lodge on Friday evening, 2nd of April, at the Seven Stars (an hotel), Second Street, at the hour of 7 p.m."

Following the announcement, the records show that on the 2th of April, a memorable day in the annals of the Order, the Washington Lodge of Oddfellows was instituted by the attending members in accordance with ancient custom.

Under the inspiration of Thomas Wildey, these pioneers set out to fraternise the New World, to supply the social instinct and the craving of the souls of men for a domain of brotherhood. The Order waxed and flourished, but its connection with the old Mancheater Unity in England proved unsatiafactory, and Wildey applied for a charter to establish the Grand Lodge of America. This separate jurisdiction was willingly granted, and every assistance was afforded the American branch in its inception.

The fraternal seed of Thomas Wildey has multiplied to such an extent that the number of Oddfellows in America to-day considerably exceeds one million.

About 1821 the first Encampment degrees were mentioned. They were restricted to Past Grands as honorary degrees, but subsequently became so popular that separate lodges of the Encampment were organised with their own peculiar degrees. To-day they are open to all Oddfellows, and are designated as one of the higher degrees.

The Patriarchs Militant came into being in 1882. This is a military branch of the Encampment, and its lodges are called Cantons. At present, it is interesting to note, Dr. G. M. Hermiston, of Toronto, who was brought up in the vicinity of Warkworth, is the General Commanding the Patriarchs Militant of the American continent.

Peterborough had its own Canton years ago, but it lapsed and disappeared, although several of the old members are still living. Mr. D. H. Moore was the Grand Patriarch a number of years ago. The local lodges of the Encampment are Hiawatha and Mount Hebron, both of them large and energetic.

This city is regarded as one of the outstanding centres of Oddfellowship in Ontario. Numerically and financially the Order here is strong and progressive, and continues to perform quietly a great deal of good work in the name of faith, hope, and charity. Its annual remembrance of departed brothers has become a public event, a beautiful act of respect on Decoration Day to the memory of the dead.

These are some of the phases of the record of the Independent Order of Oddfellows. It is a secret society, non-sectarial, and exclusive in as much as it rejects those who for certain reasons are not considered worthy of the honour of membership. It is essentially democratic in its government. Even Presidents of the United States have been Oddfellows, and assumed the gavel just as other men from the humbler walks of life. It fulfills the law of charity especially in the comfort and help it renders to widows and orphans and to afflicted brothers.

By its works and by its example the I.O.O.F. promotes the welfare of society and of the State.

PICNIC PARTY FROM BUFFALO STAGED RIOT

Inebriated by Hootch Picnicers Start a Fistic Argument With Townspeople of Angola.

SIXTEEN HURT

BUFFALO, N. Y., August 6. — (Canadian Press).— Sixteen persons were injured and one man is believed dying as the result of a riot last night between Buffalo pic-nicers and Angola townspeople. The Buffalo party, all men, was said by witnesses to have become intoxicated. All of the injured were Angola residents.

Troopers Charged.

State troopers from Southworth and Dunlop responded to riot calls and broke up the fight by charging through the centre of the crowd.

The Buffalo agitators attempted to escape in automobiles but five of them were overtaken by the troopers and were arraigned this morning on assault charges.

NINE DEATHS AT GRADE CROSSING

Whole Family Almost Wiped Out When Train Struck a Truck.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 6. —(Canadian Press).—The death toll of Sunday's grade crossing tragedy here was increased to nine early today when Carmello Didmidge, aged 38, one of the two survivors of the picnic prty of ten passengers in the truck struck by a New York Central passenger train, died in the hospital from injuries received in the accident. Carmello Capriotto, father of five of the children killed, and husband of Mrs. Mary Capriotto, the woman victim of the tragedy, will recover, physicians said. The other two dead are Angelo Bartollo, aged 35, and Albert Mavestuto, an infant.

Coroner W. L. Draper to-day started an investigation of the accident, which occurred at an unguarded crossing where a single tack passes over Sugar Street.

Capriotto was driving the truck and failed to notice the approach of the train, which was running 35 miles an hour.

The engine struck the truck square and carried it over a hundred feet. The occupants were mangled and torn. Mrs. Capriotto, four of her children, the Malvestuto baby and Bartollo were killed outright. A four-year-old daughter of the Capriotto's died on the way to the hospital.

The bodies of Mrs. Capriotto and her five children occupied slabs side by side in a morgue here to-day. Besides the father, but one other member of the family survives. She is Mary, 18 years old, who did not accompany her parents on the outing.

THE WEATHER.

The dry weather still continues, and rain is sorely needed—at least on the higher lands and the sandy sections. Some farmers whose lands are low have no complaints to make and appear to be quite satisfied with present conditions. Little rain has fallen in this section since the very heavy downpours from June 3rd to 9th—two months ago. Here is a little extract I came across yesterday regarding the migration of birds which I pass on to the reader. "So wonderfully has Nature considered her winged creatures that when one feather drops from a wing the corresponding feather on the other wing drops also so that the two new feathers may grow simultaneously, and thus the balance of flight may not be disturbed"—W. P.

TREATY SIGNED.

ARMY OF ODDFELLOWS IN PETERBORO TODAY FOR BIG ENCAMPMENT

I.O.O.F. DELEGATE

ANG. KUDOBA, Grand Marshal, of Kitchener, who is attending the Grand Encampment meeting here.

Hundreds of Members of the Independent Order Arrive From Many Centres in Ontario for 54th Annual Event

EXCELLIN . PARADE

Peterboro is thronged to-day with the representatives and visitors to the 54th. Session Grand Encampment I. O. O. F. of Ontario, which opened this morning. Representative, had been on the way from their homes in London, Brantford, Toronto, Belleville and a dozen other points since Friday, the majority of the visitors travelling by road. During Sunday and Sunday night 110 cars arrived, bearing enthusiastic parties who to-day throng the streets and the halls. About half of the accredited representatives have arrived and two Cantons Militant from Toronto, numbers 7 and 10, are in the city. The club room at the G.W.V.A. Hall on Murray Street has been placed at the disposal of the visitors.

Among the leaders in the Order who arrived early in the day were Grand Secretary S. C. Parks, Toronto; Past Grand Patriarch Malcolm Sinclair; and the Grand Secretary of Connecticut, W. Hutchinson.

Registrations Brisk.

The first duty of Grand Representatives on arrival in the city is registration and the registration committee is kept busy. Every accredited representative has a certificate which he presents, upon which he is welcomed to the sessions of the Grand Encampment. Jollity and good spirits prevail at the G. W. V. A. Hall where registrations are being received.

The city is prettily decorated, some of the business places on George Street being almost hidden behind streamers and flags. Originality is seen in many of the stores which have adopted the signs and symbols of the Order in their window displays. The committee in charge of publicity expressed appreciation of the co-operation given in this way by the merchants of the city.

About six or eight Cantons entered for the sports in Riverside Park scheduled for 2.30 p.m. to-day. Splendid trophies and many prizes are offered in these competitions in Canton drill and in the sports events.

The delegates expressed satisfaction with the billeting arrangements made by the Committee in Peterborough, of which Hugh Robertson is chairman.

A Parade To-night.

Cyzicus Sanctorium will put on a degree at 12 mid-night to-night.

This will be preceded by a S T parade at 11.30, which will be public. While the Examiners informant would not divulge the nature of the big doing to which the members are looking forward, it was said that the S. T parade is something of which the censors have not yet become cognizant. In fact, it is selodm seen except in privacy of a man's home when he parades in the early hours of the morning to a rattling window, or more often to a fretful baby.

From conversations overheard in the I. O. O. F. Hall it is believed that the S T parade will be something new in Peterborough, and while public announcement is not being made by the Oddfellows, anyone who is in the vicinity of the Oddfellows' Hall at 11.30 to-night will be in a position to see it.

At the conclusion of the parade the brethern will retire to their Hall, where the degree will be put on at the mystic hour sacred to its performance.

Degree of Chivalry.

The Grand Degree of Chivalry, an honorary military degree, will be conferred at the G.W.V.A. hall to-night upon a number of prominent chevaliers of the Order. Assisting in this degree will be six ladies from the local Rebecca lodge.

Cantons Paraded.

The parade of the Cantons Militant attracted a big crowd of citizens this afternoon. Only two Cantons arrived in time to take part in the parade, but others, including Belleville, will arrive to-morrow. The members of this branch of the Order looked smart and business-like in their tight-fitting uniforms with gold trappings and the gayly bedecked hats with plumes of white, crimson and purple.

Scorning the ordinary straight quick step, the Cantons performed intricate evolutions along the route, displaying drill of a machine-like perfection. Canton No. 7, Toronto, was led by Captain E. Ball, and Queen City Canton No. 10 was

LAST CHANCE FOR MOTHERS

All Entries at Babies' Clinic for Baby Show Must be in Tomorrow

To-morrow afternoon will be the last chance for mothers to register their babies at the Well Babies' Clinic, for the Baby Contest which will be an outstanding feature of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this year.

During the last two weeks, attendance at the Clinic has passed all records, showing just how keen is the interest of Peterborough motherhood in the coming contest. A committee of very careful judges will be necessary to carry out the arduous task of judging the prize babies in the large number of entries already made in this contest. Last week, the total number of entries in the open class was 36, and there were 42 in the special section for under-developed infants, making a total up to date of 78 children to be judged upon during Fair week. To-morrow's entries will doubtless swell the number. It would be quite a record for Peterborough if it could show a hundred infants entered for competition in its Baby Show.

Prizes Worth While.

First, second and third prizes will be given for the best baby boys in one class and baby girls in another class, up to 18 months of age. Prizes will also be given for the best baby boys and girls in different classes from 18 months to three years of age. The special section of particular interest will be devoted to those baby boys or girls whose condition has improved most rapidly since their registration at the Well Babies' Clinic until Fair time. Registration in this section closes to-morrow afternoon, so that all mothers who would like to benefit themselves and children by taking advantage of expert advice given free at the Clinic, and also take a chance on competing with other babies, should make a point of going to the G. W. V. A. rooms to-morrow afternoon, any time after three o'clock.

There will be upwards of $150 given in prizes at the Baby Show, making the contest quite worth while in a financial way, as well as in the educational interest attached to such an event.

ALADDIN OUTDOOR IN ANY KITCHEN:

What Ben Franklin Would Find to Marvel at When Mrs. Modern Housekeeper Prepares Her Meal.

Little did old Benjamin Franklin realize the tremendous chain of causation he set up when he attached to his kite the key which unlocked the door which had led to the modern wonders of electricity. Some day perhaps Conan Doyle or Sir Oliver Lodge may succeed in having the old gentleman visit a modern kitchen when a meal is being prepared in an electric range. Should that ever occur this newspaper is one that will send its very best reporter to interview "Poor Richard."

Mrs. Housewife places the meat and vegetables for the evening meal in the oven. Then she sets the clock and adjusts a switch or two.

"Come to now," she says, "let's go to the Follies. The meal will be all ready for us to sit down to when we return."

"But my my How will the food be cooked?" queries Ben Franklin's Shade. "And more important still, who will watch to see that it does not burn? I expect to be hungry, you know, and I abominate slovenly cookery."

"Goodness me" she exclaims, "and you the man who flew that famous kite I thought surely you would know."

"Why, if this is a stove," he demands, "where's the fire? And where is the draft? And where's the chimney?"

"Well, the world does move, doesn't it, sir? Now look. I set it so. That's all I have to do. Now, about the time Will Rogers is making us laugh over his drolleries this clock will turn on the current—electricity, you know—you ought to know, anyway. And about the time I'm telling you to be sure and employ a return taxi with a cheap rate this clock will work again, turning off the current.

"And when we get home," she continues, "the meal will be done to a turn and ready for us to sit down to. And while I am putting it on the table you can compose another of your famous maxims, something about cooking electrically. And be sure and sign your name to it, won't you? I want to show it to my friends."

"Great is electricity," murmurs the old gentleman, looking around for his cane and shovel hat. "I'll have to think up an electrical slogan this very night."

RECIPES

If you don't keep a maid and live in a town where help is scarce and are hospitably inclined, the problem of serving house guest a good dinner and entertaining them "out" in the afternoon sometimes seems unsolvable. This is especially true in summer when a hot roast is not so desirable for the meat course.

This menu and these recipes may help suggest a way out:

Summer Dinner Menu.
Watermelon Cocktail
Creamed Potatoes Jellied Veal
New Peas
Stuffed Tomato Salad
Toasted Wafers
Maple Parfait Angel Food Cake
Coffee

It will take just one hour to set the table and get this meal on it. The peas should have been shelled and the potatoes cooked and diced. The first thing in the preparation of the meal is to put the peas on to cook. These will cook while the table and making the sauce for the potatoes. Old potatoes will be satisfactorily creamed if allowed to stand in cold water three or four hours before boiling. Put on to cook in cold water. When potatoes are done let cool before dicing. Dice as fine as possible.

The potatoes should be cooked and diced in the morning. The salad should be crisped and ready to put together and the dessert made. The coffee should percolate while dinner is being served. The salad dressing could be made the day before and the meat must be prepared the foregoing day. All other preparations are made in the morning.

Watermelon Cocktail.

Make balls of watermelon with a French vegetable cutter. Allow six or eight balls to a serving. If the melon is not sweet cover balls with sugar, about one-half a spoon of sugar for each ball, is a good rule. Squeeze the juice from oranges, allowing two tablespoons of juice for each cocktail. Put the mixture into a glass jar, cover and let stand on ice until needed. Serve in cocktail glasses with a sprig of mint in each glass.

Creamed Potatoes.

Four cups finely diced potatoes, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper 1 tablespoon minced parsely.

Melt butter and stir in flour. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. The milk should be added and the sauce allowed to thicken between each portion of milk. This makes a smooth, well cooked sauce. Add potatoes and let stand over hot water for fifteen minutes to reheat. As the potatoes are cold they will chill the sauce. Sprinkle with parsely to serve. Season with salt and pepper after all the milk is in the sauce.

Jellied Veal.

Knuckle and shank of veal, 3 pounds lean veal, 6 hard boiled eggs, 2 onions, 3 tablespoons minced parsley, 3 teaspoons salt, pepper.

Wipe meat with a damp cloth to remove any sliver of bone. The bone must be well cracked. Put in kettle with onions and cover with boiling water, Bring to the boiling point, skimming off the scum as it rises and let simmer last at boiling for three or four hours. Remove meat from bones and put through food chopper. Be careful to remove any skin or stringy fibre from the meat.

Put a layer of hard boiled eggs in a mold. Sprinkle with parsley and add a layer of meat. Season with salt and pepper. Continue adding layer for layer until all is used.

Let the stock boil while preparing the mold. Strain stock over meat in mold. Put a plate over top and press until the stock rises above the plate. Lift plate and let stock recede. This blends salt and pepper and thoroughly moistens meat. Do this several times.

Weight lightly and let stand till cool. When cool put on ice to seat. Unmold and cut in slices to serve. To remove from mold run a spatula under meat and put a large plate over top of mold. Turn upside down and the loaf will drop on the plate.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.

Eight medium-sized tomatoes, 2 packages neufchatel cheese, 4 tablespoons finely chopped English walnuts or hickory nuts, 4 tablespoons minced celery, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika.

Peel tomatoes and cut slice from stem end. Scoop out centre. Put centres in a strainer to drain off juice. Mash cheese with a fork, add remaining ingredients and mix well. Use tomato juice to make moist. Fill tomatoes with mixture. Arrange on lettuce and mask with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing.

Cooked Dressing.

Four tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon mustard, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¾ cup vinegar, ¾ cup water, 3 egg yolks, 1 cup whipping cream.

Melt butter, stir in sugar, flour, salt, pepper and mustard. Add vinegar and water and stir until smooth. Cook, stirring constantly until thick. Remove from fire and heat in yolks. Let cool and add whipped cream. This dressing will keep a week on ice.

Maple Parfait.

One and one-half cups maple syrup, 3 egg whites, 2 cups whipping cream.

Beat whites of eggs till stiff and dry with a wire whisk. Put syrup over the fire and bring to the boiling point. Add slowly to whites, beating thoroughly and cooking the syrup while beating. Do not cook the syrup enough for boiled frosting, but it should be boiling when added to the eggs. Whip cream and add egg mixture. Turn into mold, pack in ice and salt and let stand three or four hours or longer.

This dessert should be made the last thing in the morning. Use three cups ice to one cup salt in packing.

The cake may be any light cake or lady fingers or macaroons.

THE ALL-YEAR ROUND MERITS OF ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

It is human nature to keep on using a thing until something better comes along to take its place. Then the original object is dropped like a hot potato or discarded like an old shoe.

Ice, mostly man-manufactured, has long been looked upon as the best, because it has been practically the only means of refrigeration. Up until twenty years ago we knew no other way to keep foods chilled and fit for consumption other than by the use of an ice box, domestic or commercial. For attendant upon this possession. We have had no recourse when the iceman has failed to deliver ice at our door or when we have had to arise somewhere near cock-crow to let him obtain access to our refrigerator. If we are of the gentler species we have, with great effort, remained dumb while he tracked mud across an otherwise spotless kitchen floor, which had perhaps been mopped just five minutes before his entrance.

We have, as just said, borne all these things because we had no redress other than stopping the deliveries of the ice, which meant our own discomfort and inconvenience and that of other members of our family. We have emptied pans beneath said ice box until we have exhausted every expletive known to our vocabulary. And all, until now, to no avail. The ice box was a necessary evil and as such we accepted it, though we berated it meanwhile.

Now, at last, the shoe is, seemingly, upon the other foot. Many of us are in a position to ignore both the common or garden variety of ice and the common or insolent variety of iceman. From the comfort of our screened porch, with an electric fan tempering a hot July breeze, we can think pityingly of those of our neighbors who are not as fortunate as we. For we, be it known, have just become the proud possessors of an electrical refrigerator which removes the need for both ice and ice-man while chilling our foods to an even temperature (constantly sustained) and even supplying us with cubes of self-manufactured ice for table consumption.

We can set a more elaborate and less expensive table than our friends because we can buy perishable stuffs in larger quantities than they, absolutely secure in the knowledge that these foodstuffs will remain chilled for days on end without our lifting a finger.

We can even go visiting our relatives for the week-end without having to worry about replenishing ice in the ice box. Our electric refrigerator is always on the job, the motor that is "the power behind the chilling apparatus" starting voluntarily the moment the temperature begins to drop below a certain fixed point.

Our food wastage is next to nothing. Meats and vegetables keep their nutritive, sweet qualities practically indefinitely.

The initial cost? Oh, yes, we admit that the initial cost of purchasing and installation is somewhat in excess of what the regular ice box would be. But when bills are computed at the end of the year and when charges for ice, food wastage and doctors' bills through upset stomachs are weighed against the first cost of our refrigerator plus the monthly charge for current, the evidence—from the standpoint of convenience and health—are all in favor of the electric refrigerator.

Tariff Leading Issue In U.S. 1924 Campaign

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (By Canadian Press).—Senator Simmons, veteran democrat from North Carolina, former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said some time ago that the tariff would be a leading issue in the 1924 campaign and some recent developments tend to confirm his prediction.

It is evident that this view is taken by the democratic national committee, which is beginning its bombardment of grand struggle of next year. The democratic leaders are devoting much attention in their statements and literature to the tariff and its workings.

Encouragemen to do this has been given the democrats by the result of the recent campaign in Minnesota. There it was clearly demonstrated that the farmers had come to the conclusion the new tariff law was not helpful to them.

The democrats are also encouraged by reports which are coming to them from New England. These reports, which come from good authority, indicate the New England farmers are becoming more and more resentful of the fact they are selling their products at low prices and paying high prices for what they have to buy.

The discontent among the New England farmers, according to reports arriving here, is such that the progressive republicans are threatening to try to capture the senatorship in Vermont to succeed Senator Dillingham, who died recently.

Altogether there is little question the operations of the new tariff law are going to be much debated in Congress this winter and on the stump next year. The failure of the Harding administration to make any real use of the flexible tariff will be much criticised by the low tariff men and moderate tariff advocates. It looks much as if the country would see another tariff revision in 1925. If the Harding administration is re-elected, it is by no means improbable it will be forced by sentiment, especially in the agricultural states, to ask Congress to overhaul and moderate rates.

SWEPT OVER DAM 3 WOMEN DROWN

Two Others Saved From Angry Waters of Swollen Creek.

GRATERSFORD, Pa., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Three Philadelphia women were drowned late last night, when their row boat was swept over the crest of a dam on the Perkimen creek, near here, and smashed on the rocks below. Two other women in the boat were saved by boy scouts and others camping along the banks of the swollen stream. The scouts plunged into the running water and were swept several hundred yards down stream before they managed to struggle to shore with one of the women, who was unconscious. Rescuers and rescued then became lost in the dense woods that skirt the banks and wandered aimlessly for hours until they were found by a searching party.

The second woman was pulled from the creek almost a mile from the dam. She had managed to grasp some drift wood and was swept along by the racing waters until her cries were heard by persons along the banks.

LOOKS FOR SECOND COMING OF CHRIST

Campbellford Pastor Believes Saviour Will Visit Earth Again Shortly.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 6. — Rev. R. Bloye, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, believes that the secoud coming of Christ is near and he gave reasons for the faith that is in him in a vigorous discourse Sunday evening. All the signs of the times, he said, support his belief, as the events which the prophets predicted would precede that event have taken or are taking place.

The prophet Joel forecast was that Palestine was to be blest with the early and the latter rains and this was being fulfilled. The fertility of the soil of that country is being restored by the latter rains that were withheld for years and now the Jews are returning by thousands to their former country. These people will become a nation again and will flourish under the hand of God.

Other Signs.

In the epistle to Timothy, we are told that before Christ comes again doctrines of devils will be taught. Mr. Bloye says that to-day there are religious teachers so called who are misleading the people, among these being spiritualists and Christain Scientists.

Men are lovers of themselves to-day and they never were before in the history of the world. They are coveteous and given to boasting, in Campbellford as in other places, the world over. People are proud, strutting around as if they really amounted to something in the community. Blasphemy, predicted by the prophets, is rife in the world, not profane swearing alone but such blasphemy as often comes from behind the sacred desk where a preacher questions the divenity of the Savior.

Children are disobedient to and neglectful of their parents. Married men and women forget the solemn vows they took at the altar. The divorce courts of to-day are fulfillments of the prophecies of evenes that would happen before the second advent. The world is full of false accusers and the despisers of those that are good. Men hold no restrictions over their passions and the love of pleasure has passed beyond control. The dance halls are full while the attendance at churches is falling away. The picture shows are crowded but the weekly prayer meeting is neglected. Pleasure trips in autos on Sunday have become a curse. The world has at last reached the condition which the Bible tells us is to precede the second coming and the preacher warned his flock to prepare for that event for at such an hour as ye know not the Son of Man Cometh."

DEAF MUTE LUNATIC ESCAPED SATURDAY

Was Responsible For the Death of Priest at Dundalk

GUELPH, Aug. 6. Canadian Press —John Cosgrave, the deaf mute, who killed Rev. Father Clohecy, of Proton, near Dundalk, last August, eluded his guards on Saturday and is still at large.

In company with several others from the insance section of the Reformatory, who were being exercised in charge of guards, Cosgrave managed to secrete himself behind some bushes. When he was missed, some time later, the alarm was promptly given, and in a short time every available guard was sent out, and the whole countryside has been scoured, but without the slightest clue being obtained. No person saw him hide and not a single person in the whole institution has the least idea which direction he took.

The escaped lunatic is five feet 9½ inches in height, has brown straight hair, blue eyes and weighs 160 pounds. At the time he made his escape he was dressed in dark tweed trousers, a khaki shirt, and wore a blue cap. He is 35 years of age.

Ten Die As Result of Crossing Accident.

STORM RIPS OFF ROOFS OF HOUSES

Towns and Country Also Flooded By Torrents of Water.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Roofs of houses were ripped off, limbs of trees torn down, fences blown over and cellars flooded in West Philadelphia yesterday, by an electrical storm, accompanied by torrents of water which fell for several hours.

The water was so deep in places that people had to go about in row boats. Automobile parties stranded in the streets were rescued by men in bathing suits. Several houses were struck by lightning. Heavy damage was reported from South Jersey, crops were washed out in many sections and scores of telegraph and telephone poles were blown down. Lightning damaged several transformers at the power houses of the Public Service Corporation in Camden.

CONTROLLER MAY BE GEORGE H. ROSS

Successful Commissioner of Finance and Treasurer For Toronto Is Favored For Appointment.

TORONTO, August 6. Canadian Press. — George H. Ross, Commissioner of Finance and City Treasurer for Toronto, is Ontario's prospective finance controller. His salary will be $25,000 or $30,000 per annum and his appointment probably will be approved by Order in council early this week.

Premier Ferguson and his treasurer, Hon. W. H. Price, K.C., have given consideration to several names including another Toronto financial man and a prominent Montreal expert and it is understood that a gradual process of elimination has left but the names of Mr. Ross and one other, with the chances all in favor of Mr. Ross's selection.

At $25,000 per annum the salary of the new financial controller for Ontario would be more than double that of the prime minister and would be the largest on the civil service payroll. As commissioner of finance for Toronto Mr. Ross's salary is $15,00 per annum, having been raised to that figure from $10,000 early this year in fulfilment of a promise that if he made good his salary would be brought up to that paid his predecessor in office, Thomas Bradshaw.

President Harding Had a Substantial Estate.

MARION, Ohio., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press).—Close friends of the late President Harding have estimated that his estate probably was worth between $700,000 and $800,000. Before he assumed the presidency, Mr Harding was regarded as wealthy having amassed a fortune of some dimensions from the Marion Star, the newspaper which he owned since 1884, until it was sold recently. The controlling interest held by Mr Harding was said to have brought more than half a million dollars.

At one time or other, Mr. Harding had been a stock holder in practically every industrial enterprise in Marion At the time of his death he was director in the Marion County Bank, the leading financial institution in the city, and of the Home Building and Loan Co.

Former Mayor to Sit on Liquor Commission.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Aug. 6.—Canadian Press. — Richard D. Waugh, former Mayor of Winnipeg and at present British member of the Saar Commission, established by the League of Nations, has been appointed chairman of the Manitoba Liquor Commission which is to administer the Moderation League Act for the Government control of liquor in the province, it was announced late last night by Hon. W. M. Black, the Provincial Treasurer.

Bush Fires Breaking Out in North Country.

Bush fires broke out on Saturday at noon, three miles east of Bobcaygeon on Nogies Creek. A big party of men was engaged in fighting it, and it was reported yesterday that the Lakefield Fire Department had gone to the scene of the fire to assist. So far as is known the blaze was confined to the bush.

SEVENTH ATTEMPT TO SWIM CHANNEL

Henry Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass., Started Yesterday Under Very Favorable Conditions.

DOVER, Eng., ug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—Henry Sullivan, of Lowell, Massachusetts, yesterday started on his seventh attempt to swim the English channel from the beach close to Shakespeare's cliff. The swimmer took the water amidst hearty cheers from hundreds of holiday makers.

Sullivan got away in fine style, and within twenty minutes was a mile out from shore. There he had settled down to a steady breast stroke. His trainer, Conlon, and Captain Smith, pilot, are accompanying Sullivan in a motor lugger, which also has on board a party including four members of the Dover Swimming Club. These latter men are taking turns swimming with Sullivan.

The conditions at the start were favorable for the swimmer. The sea was calm and the temperature of the water 62 degrees fahrenheit.

By eight o'clock the boats accompanying Sullivan were just discernable as they were about 4 1-2 miles out.

FRENCH TAKE STRICT MEASURES IN RUHR

One Arrest Made in Connection With Bomb Throwing Outrage—French to Confiscate Property and Stocks of Coal and Coke.

DUESSELDORF, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The Germans are as outspoken as the French in condemning the throwing of a hand grenade Saturday at a military band, but the penalties imposed Saturday night by the French authorities will be continued until further notice, and additional restrictions are promised as soon as the investigation of the crime is completed.

Restaurants, cafes, theatres and moving picture houses must close at ten o'clock at night, and all circulation in the streets after eleven o'clock is prohibited.

A German student named Pabt, who was arrested near the scene of the crime immediately after the bombing, will be court-martialled, with the possible penalty of death by shooting. The French have also arrested the Duesseldorf chief of police, as responsible for any disorder and are holding several German witnesses. Pabt denied the bombing but the French say they have German eye-witnesses who declare they saw the student throw the grenade, and the French assert that they found Pabt's pocket a part of the grenade's mechanism.

Colonel Degoutte, according to the Rhenische Westfalische Zeitung, has issued an order authorizing the Franco-Belgian engineers to confiscate the stocks of coal and coke in the Ruhr and all property connected therewith, including the houses of workmen who refuse to work, for the French. The newspaper says this indicates an intention on the part of the French to operate the mines and coke ovens themselves, importing French workmen for this purpose, if necessary.

SOCIALIST MEETING WAS NEARLY A RIOT

A Resolution Condemning President Coolidge Was Cause of an Uproar in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)— A city convention of the Socialist party of New York broke up in a riot, yesterday, when a resolution denouncing President Calvin Coolidge as a "reactionary and a foe to labor" was read by William Karlem of the resolutions committee.

All over the convention hall delegates leaped to their feet with violent protest against the spirit of the resolution and the terms in which it was couched.

"Kill it, kill it," resounded from the auditorium of the Harlem Socialist Educational Center. So great was the uproar that order was restored with difficulty, but not until after the chairman had ordered the resolution back to committee for revision. It was not presented again.

When things quieted down certain delegates asked that the part of the Coolidge resolution which expressed sympathy for the widow of President Harding be re-submitted for a vote, but its sponsors refused to have it read.

WELSH MALE GLEE SINGERS COMING

World-Famed Organization Will Be Heard at Murray St. Church in October.

The world renowned Rhondda Welsh Male Glee Singers, of which Viscontess Rhondda is president, will appear at Murray Street Baptist Church on October, tenth next.

The Rhondda Welsh Male Glee Singers stands—and sings — before the world to-day as the unsurpassed organization of its kind, and, incidentally, as the standard bearer through all lands of the superiority of the Welsh nation as a nation of singers. It would be a difficult task, indeed, to analyze this fact, but can be realized in a most easy way— that is by going to listen to the choir when they visit here.

Foremost amougst these is inspiration of the music—an inspiration that wakens talents and pleasures which were hitherto dormans in the listener; and once awekened, these attributes will make an incessant demand upon the individual affected to cultivate his talent and to assuage his craving for the higher pleasures of life. The general musical education disseminated by this choir is also of such a kind that will permanently benefit the general public, musical and other To miss a concert given by the Rhondda Choir is just slipping a notch in the wheel of musical progress. One need not persuade the really musical man or woman to go and listen to the choir, but it is the duty of every musical Canadian to persuade the indifferent public to go and hear the Rhondda Choir whenever it comes their way. They owe that music to art and education, and to the men who sacrifice land for the love of art. Encourage your friends to here this most wonderful singing party at the Murray St. Church on Wednesday, October 10th.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL.

TURK RESTORATION WILL BE A FAILURE

Sir Edward Grigg Says the Lausanne Treaty Cannot Endure — Tragic Fate of Armenia.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—The experiment of restoring the Turk to Europe is doomed to failure, Sir Edworld opinion will not long tolerate "a form of nationalism which ward Grigg, former secretary to David Lloyd George, said in a lecture Saturday night before the Institute of Politics at Williams College. He characterized the Lausanne treaty as "that depressing, almost degrading document," declaring that "the only thing to be said in its favour is that it is a peace, but those statesmen must be optimistic indeed who have any belief that it will endure."

The speaker expressed the opinion that the most tragic part of the settlement undoubtedly is the lot of the Armenians and other Christians in Anatolia. The Turk should be told at once, Sir Edward added, that feeds on human sacrifice and makes a political instrument of massacre."

JAPANESE INVASION.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 6.—(Associated Press). — William M. Hughes, until recently premier of Australia, believes that some day the surplus population of Japan may come knocking at the doors of Australia, seeking relief from the starvation that has compelled them to flee from their overcrowded island empire And, if this does happen, Australia can hardly bid them be gone if she still lacks people.

Hence, Mr Hughes argues in an article in the Sydney Telegraph, it behoves Australita today to redouble her efforts to fill her vacant spaces with men and women of the white race.

NATIVES ARE DYING OUT.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, August 6.—Within a few decades full-blooded natives along the south-western coast of Alaska will be scarce, according to Charles Coach, who has spent much time in the lower Cook Inlet country.

The squaws refuse to marry full-blooded men because the white men are better providers and offer better opportunities for social advancement, Mr. Coach explained.

Only the educated native who has some regular mode of earning a living has a chance to win a young squaw.

AN ENCOURAGING TRIBUTE.

The reward of patient, pioneering effort is found in the many reports this summer of improved fishing throughout the Kawartha Lakes. Stories of bigger catches seem to be more numerous than for years, and some of them are verified by photographs that leave no chance for doubt.

The work and the propaganda of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association is apparently beginning to produce tangible results. For three years it has been maintained in spite of irksome discouragements, but evidence is accumulating to justify, even to its enemies and skeptics, and it has encountered both, the existence of the association and its appeal for public support.

The proprietor of one of the most popular resorts on Pigeon Lake has been delighted with the success of his guests in trolling and fishing. This is the sport that attracts most of them, and they are finding it this season in places that seldom yielded the expectant thrill of a strike in recent years.

Credit for this change of "luck" has been largely given to the Fish and Game Protective Association. Personally interested as sportsmen in the re-stocking of the lakes, they are, according to this acknowledgment, helping to create satisfied "customers" for the Kawarthas, and thereby exploit a natural resource that is becoming more and more an asset to this Province.

This voluntary tribute should be an incentive to the members of the association to continue their work, perhaps to broaden its scope by the establishment of hatcheries and to win the heartiest co-operation of those who have been indifferent or antagonistic.

THAT CHATHAM O.T.A. CASE.

When the bar was banished for the salvation of the boy there was not much concern for the girl. Nor was there much cause for concern.

To the public's knowledge girls were never seen in hotel bars. There were wandering girls, but anxious parents never imagined them as dallying in a saloon.

The old order has passed, and the new one is perplexing. At Chatham the other day a number of girls, socially prominent, according to the despatches, were involved in the infraction of the Ontario Temperance Act at a nearby resort, for which seven young men pleaded guilty.

No evidence was taken, and the truth of the rumours of the girls' participation in the illicit liquor seance was left to conjecture.

But it is not exactly a rare occurrence to hear of the production of a bottle in certain mixed company. Bottles, otherwise known as "crocks" in the jargon of reckless youth who find something smart in the supposed vernacular of bootleggers, appear in most unexpected places these days.

The Chatham case suggests the possibility of the danger of the bottle finding its way into the presence of those who would never in the old days have found their way into the presence of the bottle on the bar.

Reports of such delinquencies are, fortunately, uncommon, and generally those who circulate them are not worthy of belief. But there has been a relaxing of maidenly reserve among too many girls that stirs up feelings of doubt and uneasiness about such incidents as the recent Police Court case at Chatham.

WIFE AND HELPMATE.

Mrs. Harding will owe in no part or degree to the eminence of her husband's position the sympathy and admiration that will go out warmly and spontaneously to her in her bereavement not only from every part of her own country, but from all countries that share the American conception of married life at its best. And the tributes to her will not be the less sincere because what she did for the President in his last illness was only what has been done, and daily is done, by thousands and thousands of other good wives and good women.

In her case, circumstances made known widely instead of in a narrow circle her courage and devotion—the sufficient strength she found when the need for her to be strong had come, and the fine assumption of hope and cheerfulness she was able for her husband's sake to make, though she knew as well as any of the attending physicians, and perhaps better than any of them, that his condition was well-nigh desperate from the very beginning of his breakdown. Thus will be emphasized her attainment, quietly and modestly, but perfectly, of what is not so much our ideal as of humanity's ideal of wifely capacities and duties.

And this was no exceptional display. When Mrs. Harding married the man later to be Senator and President she quitted what for the time and place was a home of wealth and joined her fortunes with those of one who could offer nothing except himself. Their only material dependence then was the precarious one of a little country newspaper, poorly equipped and burdened with debt. Then, as all through the years till the end, the wife was a helpmate. She worked with her own hands in that little newspaper office as hard as her husband did, and it well may be that its ultimate success in its field was her achievement as much as his.

It is said of Mrs. Harding, and with more of plausibility than usually marks such stories, that his election filled her not with exultation but with apprehension. She feared the demands which the Presidency would make on a strength of which she knew the limits, and the glory of the high office did not balance, for her, its dangers.—New York Times.

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.

That Soviet Russia and Great Britain are quietly approaching something more than a mere speaking acquaintanceship is a fair deduction from a significant series of events.

It is worth recalling that when the recent dispute between the British Foreign Office and the Moscow Soviet was at its hitterest, however much popular groups execrated Lord Curzon, the Soviet officials eventually placated Great Britain to an extent to which the ultra-radical Litvinoff had asserted defiantly a few weeks earlier they never would go. Litvinoff and Weinstein both withdrew from their defiant position. Leonid Krassin, whose efforts in London had something to do with the happy issue to the dispute, was recalled to fill an important post in charge of domestic trade. His place in London is filled by the most important man at the disposal of the Soviet.

Rakovsky, who now goes to Great Britain, has been described as the brains of the Soviet Government. He is the Lenin of the Ukraine, for he headed the Ukrainian Soviet Government. During the early part of the war he was imprisoned in Rumania as a spy, and at one time headed the Soviet army in Bessarabia. He is now a member of the Central Executive Committee, which is the effective dictatorship of the Communist Party, and is by all odds the greatest man developed by the Bolshevik movement since Lenin.

This important figure was sent unobtrusively to Lausanne. At the last minute the world was told simultaneously with the news of peace that Soviet Russia would sign the Convention of the Straits, which embodies decisions the Soviet had declared itself ready to make war against, not so many months ago. But if the Soviet signed, that signing automatically implied a certain degree of recognition. Now the astute and powerful Rakovsky goes to London where none expects the British Foreign Office to reveal the purpose or effect of his coming until any plans in the making are completed.

Everything points to an important development of trade arrangements between the two powers. Moscow has announced itself in a mood to make suitable deals with foreign capital; it offers to provide some proofs of stability. It declares itself to be on a paying basis, which it suggests compares well with the promises of other people. From the beginning it has desired that investment of needed capital come from the United States or from Great Britain, the former with huge gold resources to invest, the latter with a venerable tradition favoring foreign investment.

As for Britain, her bogy in the Mediterranean has been not Turkey but Russia; but Russia linked by financial interest to British commerce, the road of British commercial adventure in Asia Minor would be less perilous and much of the fears for India and its neighboring states would be dissolved.

Remembering how potent in the recent negotiations with the Soviet was the threat of extinguishing the existing trade agreement, how much more important a weapon in British hands would be an arrangement for the effective employment of British capital for the development of Russian resources.—Detroit News.

DEVELOPING CANADA.

It is a matter of much financial encouragement to Canadians that our farmers are not only to reap an abundant harvest in the East and the West, but to receive more favorable prices for their produce, their cattle and wheat, than the American farmer. The expansion of immigration is also a matter for rejoicing. It has also become apparent that in building up the American tariff walls against this country and the rest of the world, Congress and the Republican administration have erred. The tariff legislation at Washington was blind. It took little or no account of the international financial equation.

Their blindness to the significance that the United States was an exporting nation in the matter of foodstuffs is producing a financial reaction on themselves. For in imposing virtually prohibitive duties on British goods, they have created a continuous depressing influence on British exchange. The rate that some time ago advanced in New York to around $4.70 to the pound sterling, has receded to a fraction over $4.59. They are forcing England to buy her foodstuffs where the exchange is more favorable.

In Canada, where British exchange is now more than thirteen cents to the pound sterling higher than in New York, the effect is felt in the prices of wheat. These are about nine cents a bushel higher in Winnipeg than in Chicago. The capture of the American wheat and cattle market in England is assuring the Western farmers a comparatively good outlet for their crops. Our business interests have as yet no reason to fear the repetition of losses to the American farmer in this country.

The resultant favorable reports of Canadian trade and financial recovery, in restoring the credit of this country, are calculated to benefit it in new ways. Their effects are cumulative. So we have the good news of the sudden spurt in British immigration. The assurance of a bountiful harvest with the deficiency of labor, in gathering the reapers from England, is thrusting upon this country an additional responsibility as well as a boon. It has transpired that although the Hebridean settlers are now happily placed, they were the victims of an Ottawa departmental blunder in the initial stages of their sojourn in this country. Care must be exercised that the error be not repeated in respect to the new flood of British settlers that gives abundant promise of materializing.

It must be constantly borne in mind that until these men are established in permanent homes, they are the combined guests and wards of this country. The fact that they are coming under the direct inducement of the railways does not diminish the responsibility of the Canadian Government. In the old days before the war heavy immigration had as its sequel a reaction. It was because the Dominion Government failed in its duty. Many of these men were allowed, through want of employment, to become stranded. The consequence was a hostility to immigration in this country. The public sympathy with the sufferers led to a groundless loss of faith in the possibilities of rapid settlement. The numbers who returned in despair to Britain were bad missionaries. The object of the Government should now be to avoid the repetition of this error and to make the newcomers well pleased, so that they will induce their friends to come.

All this can be properly seen to with the right organization of employment agencies and judicious business propaganda. With the soaring trade and improved position of the country, the task of caring for colonists should be comparatively easy.

It is needless to dwell on the necessity of colonists for Canada in order to improve her present golden opportunities on the world markets. This country should make permanent at all hazards her leadership in the export markets over the United States.—Border Cities Star.

To Hold Congress of Motorless Aviation.

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press)—The experimental congress of motorless aviation has opened a three-weeks competition at Vauville, near here, with fifty-six planes entered. Nineteen of these, however, have small motors and as yet only about one-fourth of the competitors have arrived.

The congress has offered 100,000 francs in various prizes for the contests, but the main object of the gathering will be for technical study, rather than spectacular performances, as on previous occasions.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, August 6 (Canadian Press). — Re-opening of business after the sudden halt which followed President Harding's death met with no unusual incident on Saturday on "change here." Dealings were of ordinary volume.

Wheat prices had a slight downward tendency owing chiefly to the favourable weather conditions in the Canadian North-West and to the decline in the New York stock market. The close was unsettled, 1-8c to 5-8c net lower, with September 96 3-4c to 96 7-8c and December $1.00 1-4 to $1.00 3-8.

Corn finished 1-8c to 1-2c off; oats unchanged to 1-8c up, and provisions at losses varying from 5 to 20 cents.

KAWARTHA FIELD DAY WAS GREAT OCCASION

Grand Events on Saturday Attracted Big Numbers of Enthusiastic Contestants — Competitions For Everyone.

REGATTA TO-DAY.

KAWARTHA PARK, Aug. 6.—Kawartha Field Day, usually the leading event in this district during the summer season, assumed greater proportions and more importance than ever this year when it was decided to hold the sports on two days instead of crowding them into one. Saturday saw the greatest and most enthusiastic crowd that has ever participated in this event joining in the land events. About fourteen events were run off, most of which had to be contested in heats owing to the great number of entries. The sports opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and wound up at 5.30, to be followed at 7 o'clock with a grand parade.

The weather was ideal, a cool breeze fanning the ground on Sandy Point where the sports were held, and not a discordant note marred the pleasure of the occasion. The only expression of disappointment was when a wail arose from the children, greatly provoked. All through the early part of the programme the eyes of the little ones had been taken by gaudy balloons displayed by the committee. Naturally, they thought "they are for us", and looked forward eagerly to the fun of having the flimsy rubber contraptions with the fun and frolic they bring. After waiting until almost the last item of the programme was reached, a joyous whisper ran around, "here they come", and youngsters crowded forward, eager to battle in any line of sport for the coveted prizes. The announcer took his place, looked at his sheet, and clearly announced "Balloon Race, for married ladies only." The youngsters were dumbfounded as they saw their staid mothers romp off with the bright trophies. So many ladies entered the race that it was run off in heats, Mrs. Alan Williamson winning first place in the finals and Mrs. George Zimmerman running second.

Officials in Charge.

"We are all children again" one participant was heard to remark, and the enthusiasm displayed by everyone who joined in the sports justified the statement. Previous years had not brought forward a fraction of the entries for every event that Saturday's meet produced. Mr. Ivor Brock was chairman of the committee in charge, and to him belongs a great deal of the credit for the outstanding success of the land events of the regatta. Mr. Heinders was the starter, and Dr. George Zimmerman acted efficiently as referee. The difficult task of judging was well handled by J. W. Williamson and E. L. Crawford.

Good fellowship and good sportsmanship were the keynotes of the gathering. One of the officials said, proud of his fellow colonists, "Everyone was in good humor, and there were no grouches."

Events and Winners.

In the flat races for girls 6 years and under, Alice Pierdon came in first with Beverely Rogers second. Douglas Zimmerman won the flat race for boys 6 years and under, and Paul Zimmerman ran second. Two other flat race were run, for girls and boys respectively under 10 years. Minnie Pierdon was first and Clara Mackenzie second in the girls' event, and Charles Glover took the honors in the boys' race with George Pennal second.

Girls of 14 and under who joined in the thread and needle race showed surprising dexterity. Phyllis Mackenzie was the winner and Doris Budreo took second place.

For the boys of 14 and under a potato race was run off in heats, Gordon Weatherspoon and Lee Glover winning first and second place respectively in the finals.

Girls up to 16 engaged in throwing the ball, in which Edith Killaly excelled. Mildred Morphet won second place.

Some Missed The Nails.

When a nail driving contest was called for married ladies only some wag remarked that "Mrs." meants "misses". When the contestants had displayed their skill, however, it was admitted that some are the handymen in their homes. There were twenty entries for this competition, the object of which was to drive a four inch nail into a block of wood with the fewest possible strokes of the hammer.

The hardest part of the contest from the point of view of the nail driver was when a particularly heavy blow was aimed at the nail and hit only the wood, and the judge inexorably counted "one stroke." Mrs. Swanson won by driving her nail in 13 blows. Mrs. Pennal was a close second with 14 blows, and the lowest in the list ran into the fifties. There were a great many contestants who took forty and more blows at the elusive nails.

The hilarity provoked by this competition awoke the echoes from the shores on the other side of the lake.

Mile-A-Minute Crochet.

A crochet contest open to married and unmarried ladies resulted in a victory for Mrs. Bodley, with 146 stitches in two minutes. Mrs. Price was second, with 142 stitches.

In the mixed relay race, for married men and married ladies, the finish was very close, there being no less than two inches between the winners at the post. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hill took first place, with Dr. and Mrs. George Zimmerman second.

A peanut race for girls, run off in heats, was won in the final by Helen Edmison. Frances Ackerman was second.

One of the last events, and one of the most thrilling of the meet, was a scramble by the tiny tots. This was probably the most hotly contested event of the day, and the victors carried off their spoils tightly clutched in chubby hands, forgetting their disappointments about the balloons in the excitement of the mad scramble.

Prizes Distributed.

Prizes for the races and contests were distributed by Dr. George Zimmerman, president of the Kawartha Park Association.

A baseball game between the men and boys concluded the programme while the ladies retired to their kitchens to prepare supper.

At seven o'clock a big parade was held of the launches, skiffs and canoes which will take part in the regatta on Monday.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Buggy Struck By An Automobile—Meeting of the Cheese Board — Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 6. — Charles Dunn, accompanied by his wife and young daughter, was returning to his home at Healey Falls after a marketing trip to Campbellford, about 10.30 on Saturday night. On th hill near Christ Church the buggy in which the family was riding was struck by an automobile driven by John Parcels, and the body wrecked.

Dunn, his wife and daughter were thrown into the ditch. Mrs. Dunn was badly shaken up, the husband had several ribs broken and one leg badly injured. The daughter, however, escaped unhurt.

Parcels at once reported the accident to Police Chief Duncalfe, and did what he could to assist the injured. He told the Chief, who went out to the scene to investigate, that as he was going up the hill he was met by another car and that he was so blinded by the glare of the headlights that he could not see the Dunn buggy ahead of him going in the same direction as himself. He ran into the vehicle, breaking the hind axle and the reach. The three occupants were thrown out, and the horse, dragging the wrecked buggy, ran to the top of the hill, where it was caught.

Chief Duncalfe had the injured man removed to the office of Dr. F. Free, who found him suffering from broken ribs and that the bone in one of his legs was cracked. He was removed to his home after his injuries had been attended to.

Cheese Brings 18 9-16c.

At the adjourned meeting of the Cheese Board on Saturday night, the output of the various factories was disposed of for 18 9-16 cents, 3-16 of a cent higher than the bid at the regular meeting on Thursday night, at which all the salesmen refused to sell.

The buyers present were Cook, Ivey, and Thompson. The number of boxes boarded was 510, as follows: Brae, 45; Crowe Bay, 50; Empire, 57; Kimberley, 44; Prince of Wales, 52; West Seymour 48; Woodlands, 70; Trent Valley, 29; T. and L., 29; New Model, 26; Stanwood, 50.

Cook took Brae, Empire, Kimberley and Prince of Wales; Thompson took Crow Bay, T. and L., New Model, Trent Valley, West Seymour and Woodlands; and Ivey selected the output of the Stanwood factory.

The price here on Saturday night was the same as that paid at the meeting of the Belleville Board earlier in the day.

The next meeting will be held at 3.30 p.m. on Saturday, 18th August.

The farmers report that owing to the prolonged drought the pastures are drying up and the supply of milk is shrinking.

Want Bell at Crossing.

Since the auto accident at the Centre Street crossing Wednesday night, when John Simmons was severely injured, a passing engine striking the car in which he was riding with two companions, a number of citizens has urged members of the Town Council to endeavor to have the National Railway officials put in at that point a bell that will ring automatically when trains are passing. This matter will likely be brought up at the regular meeting of the Council Tuesday night.

Ball Game Postponed.

The ball game with Orland, announced for Saturday afternoon at the Fair Grounds here, was postponed. The majority of the members of that team are farmers' sons, and as there were three threshing machines operating in their immediate neighborhood, it was impossible for them to get away. The game will be played later.

Civic Holiday To-Day.

To-day is civic holiday in Campbellford, and all business is suspended. The True Blues are holding an excursion to Harwood on the steamer Stoney Lake, which arrived here on Sunday. The League baseball team will auto to Harwood to play the nine there. The Oddfellows are holding a picnic at Percy Boom, and the town is practically deserted, the majority of the residents having motored to neighboring resorts to spend the holiday.

Attacked By Bull.

Sergt. George T. Salter has a lame ankle as the result of an encounter with a bull belonging to Robert Innis, who resides on the Hastings road, about two miles from town. The Sergeant, who is a confirmed fisherman, goes regularly to the creek in that vicinity to secure minnows for bait. Early Saturday morning he was returning with his trap and a pail containing about 40 minnows, and while passing through a field, noticed the bull approaching him with menacing attitude. The Sergeant threw several stones at the animal, and when one of these missiles found its mark the animal lowered his head, and with a roar, charged his assailant. The man who has stood without flinching the shock of attacking troops in the Philippines and in Europe, abandoned himself to flight, and it is only fair to the Sergeant to say that he can certainly run when he gives his mind to it. He headed for the fence, and, hurling his trap and pail of minnows over in advance, made a flying leap himself, not a moment too soon. The bull was right behind him, and one of the animal's horns struck the Sergeant on the ankle as he made his jump to safety.

The Sergeant's chief regret is not that he was hurt, but that when he threw his pail over the fence, all of the minnows but eight were lost.

Claude Hoard, lockmaster on the Trent Canal, lives in that neighborhood, and has two cows pasturing in Mr. Innis's field. While driving them from the pasture Saturday to his home to be milked, Mr. Hoard was put to flight by the same bull, and now the owner has decided to lock up the animal, which is only 16 months old, and which has suddenly turned vicious.

Decoration Services.

Local oddfellows will decorate the graves of their departed brethren next Sunday afternoon, marching in procession from their hall on Bridge street to Mount Pleasant cemetery. Visiting brethren will be present from Hollerville and other places. It is expected that the memorial address will be delivered by Rev. Wesley Elliott, the new pastor of the Methodist church.

Goes to Toronto.

Councillor H. W. Carter disposed of part of his household effects at auction Saturday afternoon. Mr. Carter's family will leave in about two weeks to make their home in Toronto, but he expects to remain here until the end of the year.

Farmer's Heavy Loss.

A frame house and log stable belonging to Thomas Stephens about a mile out the Stirling road, was totally destroyed by fire last evening, while the church services were being held in town. The barn, which was recently repaired, contained about 30 tons of last year's hay. The origin of the fire is a mystery, as no one lives on the farm, but it is suspected that it was accidentally started by persons camping in the vicinity.

The buildings burned fiercely and the destruction was witnessed by a large crowd from town, it being estimated that there were 200 autos at the scene.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Free, Miss Lila Ballantyne and Miss Sylvia Bull motored to Crow Lake, near Marmora, yesterday, and spent a pleasant afternoon. At the lake they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bates, of Frankford and by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bull of Wooler.

Appearances Count For Nothing, is Shiek's Advice

JOHANN BAUDER.

SYCAMORE, Ill., Aug. 4.—Johann Bauder, "the man who understood women," is in jail.

Jail, some might say, is the appropriate place for a mere man who has the temerity to admit such intelligence, but it has had no dampening effect upon his assurance.

Bauder is not a sheik, he assures his visitors. His mother, in Switzerland, was his sweetheart until her death two years ago, he says. But he confesses to wholesale acquaintances among women, extending around the world, during more than half of the 44 years of his life.

That acquaintanceship reached a climax in his membership in a "lonesome club," which issued a correspondence guide called Cupid's Bulletin, netting him, he says, 165 applications for matrimony in two months.

The caress—of voice, manner or touch—is the infallible recipe for attractiveness to women, says Bauder.

"I don't think I ever knew a woman who couldn't be approached and interested by the caressing manner, provided it is used with understanding," he says, tone and smile unconsciously demonstrating.

Appearances? Bah!

Appearances count for little, according to the man who understood women. To prove it he might point to his own slick pate and chubby proportions. In answering letters, however, he sent a photograph of himself taken 20 years ago, in romantic sombrero with raven locks curling from beneath the brim.

"I always explained it was just to give an idea of my locks when a young bachelor," Bauder says.

"Their admiration goes out to masculine qualities. They feel that the man should rule and that an effeminate one cannot protect them. But cave-man traits should be very, very refined. If a man will study women, he should have no trouble understanding them. Then all he has to do is to be kindly and cheerful and not to contradict.

"Women puzzle simply because they are more changeable than men."

Was Deported.

Bauder's berth in jail is connected only indirectly with his heart adventures. He was deported about 10 years ago—a woman in the case then—and came back. Now he is held here, while immigration authorities prepare to send him to New York for trial as an excluded alien.

His arrest came merely by chance, after a federal official overheard him speaking of the wealth of his fiancee. An investigation was begun and he was interrupted in the midst of his amorous correspondence. In his desk was a circular from the matrimonial bureau. The names of the wealthy were checked, the others unmarked, according to Assistant District Attorney William F. Waugh.

"I centred my interest upon character, not money," counters the man who understood women. "I judge character from handwriting. Often I found the handwriting of the letters contradicted the handwriting. I discovered my soulmate that way. The correspondence was quite interesting."

LONG SKIRTS ARE REJECTED

(By Hedda Hoyt.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 6.—(United Press.)—"Never kick a hem when it's down!" shout the designers in behalf of the long skirt.

"Raise it upwards!" smile the ladies.

Long skirts are "out." Women simply wouldn't have them. There was a short time last fall when women, tired of the long vogue for short skirts, decided that the long skirt was the thing. But the fondness for the short nem is again upon them.

Paris usually sets the length for skirts. At present they are wearing them quite high again and have been doing so for some time. If Parisian women can get away with short skirts, surely the slender-limbed Americans can. It is to be hoped, however, that the ridiculously short skirts which were worn by matron and flapper alike in America, will never be popular again. We went to extremes in skirt lengths. It was even said that an American girl in Paris could always be distinguished by her short skirts.

Skirts which are from eight to ten inches from the floor are sensible, pretty, comfortable and youthful. Of course, one's short length should depend upon the size of one's ankle and foot. A large, heavy ankle is better when least exposed. Large feet are less conspicuous when the skirt reaches just above the ankle, as both the short and the extremely long skirt seem to draw attention to them.

The Evening Frock.

The evening frock for Fall will continue using long skirt lengths as the formal evening gown really is at it's best when long. Velvet, metal cloth and luxurious materials seem to demand long skirts.

Dance frocks, on the other hand, are both long and short.

The girl who really dances for the love of it, prefers a dress that has fullness and that it is short enough to allow freedom of motion. Chiffons have been popular with the younger girls for this reason. Beaded gowns of more elaborate trend lend themselves better to length, however.

But whether our evening frock is long or short, our day gowns will be short. Those who welcome the return of the short skirt should bear in mind that the only thing that puts a style "down and out" is to overdo it.

Short skirts won't stay in style six months, if the flappers, debutantes and chorus girls make themselves ridiculous by parading in public in skirts that should be restricted to a bath house. A leg is never so attractive as when partially left to the imagination.

TERRIBLE REVENGE UNREQUITED LOVE

Opera Singer Tears Lip From Face of Beautiful Girl.

ROME, Aug. 6.—(United Press.)—Ferdinand Curzio, Italian baritone, Sunday took a terrible revenge for unrequitted love, upon Livia Monaria, his sweetheart, who sang with him in the same opera company here.

She had refused to marry him, but Curzio pleaded for a last meeting. There again she spurned is love, and seizing her, he said that he would kiss her a last good-bye. Fixing his teeth upon her lips in the kiss he tore her upper lip from her face, terribly disfiguring the beautiful girl.

Curzio then leaped from a window, attempting suicide. Both were brought to the same hospital, where Curzio is in a grave condition.

ENGLAND'S DEPENDENCE ON WORLD EMPHASIZED

LONDON, August 6 (United Press). — Britain's almost complete dependence on the outside world for her food supply was emphasised in a report issued by the Minister of Agriculture.

Britain relies upon other countries for three-fifths of her meat, four-fifths of her wheat, more than half her dairy produce, three-fifths of her eggs, and nine-tenths of her wool. Also cotton, oil, sugar, oranges, and other sub-tropical fruit, all of which are produced abundantly in the United States, and other articles, for which she must call upon the Dominions and other lands.

COMPLETING PLANS FOR FUNERAL OF PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.— (Canadian Press) —Plans, as yet incomplete, for the state funeral here Wednesday of the late President Harding are being made in accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Harding.

As arrangements proceed, President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes keep in touch by telegraph with the funeral train that will arrive in Washington to-morrow. Mrs. Harding already has suggested that the ceremonies closely follow those held 22 years ago for President McKinley and that the funeral party accompany the body to Washington be kept intact for the trip to Marion, where burial will be on Friday.

On is arrival here to-morrow afternoon, Mr. Harding's body will be taken to the east room of the White House. As yet no announcement has been made as to whether brief service will be held there before the casket is placed on a caisson for removal to the Capitol Rotunda, where the body will lie in state from 10.30 a.m. until 6 p.m., Wednesday, an hour before the funeral train will leave for Marion.

TRENTON BALL TEAM VICTORS OVER BRIGHTON

BRIGHTON, Aug. 6. — Scoring three runs in the seventh to tie the score and two in the ninth to win, Trenton pulled out a 7-5 victory over Brighton, after the home team had taken a good lead in the fifth. A large crowd saw the game, that produced some classy baseball, and yet was lost through errors, because when Shannon's support faltered in the seventh frame, opportunity came Trenton's way and they were not slow to seize it.

Shannon pitched good ball and deserved to win. In fact he yielded only nine hits, while Brighton got eleven off Anderson's delivery. But the Trenton twirler had some good fielding behind him, Heany and Curry starring particularly, while six of seven errors behind Shannon figured in the scoring. Shannon struck out four and awlked two and Anderson struck out two and walked one.

Phillips led the Trenton hitters with three singles, and for Brighton, Archer collected four hits, including a double, and Walt got two singles and a double.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: The late President Harding and President Coolidge both came from the farm. So did everybody originally. All came from the soil, and will return to it again, that's another thing.

Last Tuesday I was passing a house where a loud argument was in progress. As I got opposite the house the husband came to the door. He laughed, and said he supposed I had heard the row. You know, he said, I told my wife I thought she had better not go out to slows so much of evenings, but remain at home and read. She got mad, and said it was none of my business, and that she was a free woman, etc. I reminded her that she had voted to prohibit me, and I didn't see why I couldn't do the same for her. But she won't have it.

CANADIAN GOLF TITLE GOES TO AN AMERICAN

TORONTO, August 6 (Canadian Press). — For the fifth consecutive year the Canadian open golf championship was won by a player from an American club, when Clarence W. Hackney, of Atlantic City, turned in a total of 295 for the 72 holes, which were played at the Lakeview Golf Club on Friday and Saturday.

The new champion, who recently won the Philadelphia open at Pine Valley, was the first of the competitors to finish, and the nearest that any of those that followed could come to his mark was 300 made by Tom Kerrigan of Siwamoy, who was also the runner-up to Al. Watrous in 1922 at Montreal.

Kerrigan was closely pursued by Gene Sarazen of Briarcliff with 301, and Jock Hutchison, of Chicago, was but one stroke behind the former U. S. open champion with 302.

Johnny Farrell, another U. S. representative, was fifth with ten strokes behind the champion, while one Canadian, Andrew Kay, of Lambton, the Ontario open champion, was bunched with three of the invaders, Laurie Ayton of Chicago, Harry Hampton of Detroit, and Marshall Crichton of Jamestown, N.Y., in sixth place with 309.

Fred Canausa, of New York, completed the first ten with 312.

ARREST SUSPECT OF BANK ROBBERY

Believed Connected With Hold-up of Messengers in Toronto.

WINDSOR, Aug 6.— (Canadian Press).— Alleged by police to have had connection with the $83,000 Toronto Bank Robbery on July 24, Wm. S. Morton 35 years old, was arrested in Detroit on Saturday night in a Woodward Avenue Restaurant and turned over to Toronto authorities yesterday.

Morton declined to make any statement to the Windsor Police except deny any connection with the robbery and assert he was in New York City on the day of the robbery was committed.

No Evidence.

Willam S. Morton who was arrested in a Detroit restaurant, Saturday night by detective police and private detectives as a suspect in connection with the hold-up and robbery, of Toronto bank messengers two weeks ago, was brought back to Toronto late last night by Detective Frank Wickett of the Toronto Police headquarters. He had not yet been confronted with any of the wounded bank messenger, or idenified as being one of the bandits who took pare in the hold-up here.

Inspector of Detectives George Guthrie stated this morning that Morton was being held for investigation," but so far we have no evidence whatever that connects him with the men who held-up, shot and robbed the Toronto bank messengers. Stanley Hallam, foremr Provincial Liquor operator, accompanied the police Saturday night when they arrested Morton, and claimed that the latter was the man he had seen driving the maroon car the bandits used before the hold up.

They Say—

Interesting Thoughts of Interesting People

H. L. MENCKEN in the Baltimore Sun: "Prisons at their best, are inconceivably cruel and barbarous; at their worst, they are almost beyond the imagination. The fact that they still exist in Christendom, that no better device for correcting crime has been invented, is a disgrace to the human race. . . . But why try to dispose of the evil that is in them by making vain and hypocritical efforts to conceal their true object? . . . To argue, moreover, seriously, that they are maintained in order to reform and rehabilitate their inmates, that the unvarnished revenge of a more innocent day has been purged from their purpose—to argue thus is simply to argue palpable nonsense. Not one prisoner out a hundred ever gets into prison because anyone engaged in sending him there wants to rescue and improve him. He gets there because some person or persons desire hotly to make him suffer for something that he has done—because he has come into collision with an active yearning to inflict humiliation and agony upon him, absolutely regardless of any thought of his welfare, present or future."

* * *

BRUCE BARTON, in Farm and Fireside: "It is an evidence of old age, I take it, when one is willing to admit that the list of causes for which he would engage in controversy has been reduced to a very few fundamentals. But I am willing to confess that I have reached that period. I steer around all the bumps in the road that I can; and I have shock absorbers on the car, even though they do cost a little money."

* * *

WILLIAM GEORGE JORDON in The Forum: "Education fails with the average human being; it fails even more with the exceptional. The geniuses and the men of talent or signal ability, have a strength of mind, a fineness and an individuality that refuses to be pressed, like soft pulp, into an artificial mould. A whole book could be written on the great ones who were failures, dolts, dunces, or rebels at school."

* * *

H. G. WELLS, in an address in London: "Almost all the fundamental, vital work of the world is done by people who are not working for profit."

* * *

THORSTEN VEBLEN in The Freeman: "What has been done with the country's timber supply is a well-defined and characteristic case, whoing how absentee ownership functions in taking over the country's natural resources and using them up."

* * *

DR. EUGENE LYMAN FISK, director of Life Extension Institute: "The man or woman who weighs 20 to 30 per cent below the average has the best chance for long life at most of the ages after early adult life."

* * *

A. G. GARDINER, noted English journalist, in an editorial: "The worst thing you can do with a notion with which you do not agree is to try to suppress it by force. That only drives it underground and makes it dangerous. If a doctrine is sound it ought to be heard freely, so that it can be spread and approved. If it is unsound it ought to be heard so that it can be refuted and discredited."

* * *

DR. ALEXANDER LAMBERT, New York physician, in an address: "Except for influenza, preventive medicine has driven off all the plagues. We are a comparatively healthy world today."

* * *

CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL, publicist, in the Editor and Publisher: "In violation of a resolution of Congress, the armed forces of the United States have virtually annexed Cuba. In violation of traditional American policy, they have virtually annexed Haiti, Santo Domingo and Nicaragua. These are startling events. They are of the utmost importance to every American citizen. They also are of strange significance to the rest of the world. It appears that in a democracy can be developed a power that can defy all constituted authority and carry the government into the most perilous complication without the consent of the people."

* * *

WILLIAM GEORGE JORDON in The Forum: "Thomas E. Edison declares that 'most men never amount to much because they don't think.' Prof. William James said that the average man used only about one-tenth of his brain. Dr. Elmer Gates claims that under usual circumstance and education, children develop less than 10 per cent of the cells in their brain areas. This is a ghastly commentary on our educational system."

* * *

MRS. G. VERE TYLER, author, in an interview in the New York Evening Mail: "God created man nine-tenths flesh to work. He created woman nine-tenth spirit to rule the workman. The home based upon the old marriage vow of love, honor and obey was a lie. But it was the most beauteous lie and the best thing civilization has ever known."

* * *

H. J. HASKELL, in the Outlook: "No sweeping defense of the timidity of public officials can be made. There are great issues on which we have the right to expect even the most faltering congressman to vote his convictions at the cost of his political life. But on many of the less vital issues we have only ourselves to blame for the sheep-like tendencies of men in public life. So long as 'we, the people,' are so indifferent or prejudiced that we permit our representatives to be slaughtered for doing their duty we can hardly wonder if the duty is often evaded."

* * *

LEE DE FORREST, inventor and scientist, in the New York Times: "In my opinion the invention which the world needs most is a cheap and practical source of power, by means of which we will be able to draw practically unlimited energy from natural sources widely distributed over the face of the earth. Either a new type of vegetable fuel must be developed or means must be discovered for tapping the immense source of electrical energy in the upper atmosphere; or the discovery of a method for releasing atomic or intra-atomic energy, must be made."

VALUE OF GREEN FEED

The utilization of green feed in some form is rapidly becoming recognized as the most economical method of stock feeding. Not only can more live stock be kept per acre, but it can be fed at proportionately less cost. For example, on the Experimental Farm, at Nappan, fifty head of dairy cows were carried through the summer season on twenty-five acres of pasture (twenty of which was very rough, poor pasture), by the aid of green feed from four acres. There was no appreciable decrease in the milk flow, other than the natural falling-off toward the end of lactating period; further, the cows were in good healthy condition in the fall.

Oats, peas and vetch, when sown together, make an excellent mixture for green feed for dairy cows, because it is rich in protein and carbo-hydrates.

Green feed will do much to reduce the cost of rearing calves. Ten pounds of good oats, peas and vetch have approximately the equivalent in feeding value of three pounds of ground oats. In other words, if oats are worth $37.50 per ton for feed, green feed from oats, peas and vetch would have a feeding value of $12 per ton.

When green feed is in the form of clover, rape and oats, peas and vetch is provided for our brood sows we are able to reduce the meal ration from six pounds per head per day to three pounds, which is a saving in mill feeds of three pounds per day, or 5 cents per sow per day. The following method is adopted for supplying green feed, for pigs:—A small area near the piggery is sown with common red clover and alsike, with a cover crop of oats. As the oats reach the milk stage they are cut and fed to pigs in pens. The clover will come on early in the following spring and be fit to pasture off by the middle of June. Two more small paddocks are sown with rape as early in May as the soil is fit to work. This is usually ready for pasturing from the first to the middle of July. A third paddock is sown to oats, peas and vetch. This is cut and fed to pigs in pen, being ready about the last of July. In this way there is provided a continuous supply of green feed for the brood sows and growing pigs throughout the greater part of the season. Oats, peas and vetch are mixed as follows:—Banner oats, 1¼ bushels; Gold Vine peas, ¾ bushel; vetch, ¾ bushel; and sown at the rate of 3 bushels per acre. Rape is seeded at the rate of 8 pounds per acre, broadcast. Common red clover is seeded at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds and alsike at the rate of 2 to 3 pounds per acre. It is not a good plan to turn the pigs in on the oats, peas and vetch, as there is too much waste from tramping. In feeding the rape, allow the pigs two or three hours per day at first; later they may be allowed full range of paddock. If the practice of growing green feed for stock is once established, its value as an economical stock feed will soon become apparent.

STORAGE OF FRUIT

The storage of fruit and vegetables for home and market must receive greater attention than it has hitherto been accorded. The amount of waste annually is very great. As a first step towards eliminating this, every farmer or household with sufficient land to grow vegetables, and perhaps fruit trees, should understand more about storing the crop. Some crops keep best in an atmosphere that has a high moisture content, whereas others require a low percentage of humidity. So it will be seen that there cannot be a condition to suit all vegetables and fruits in the same cellar or storage building. Apples, pears, potatoes, carrots, cabbage, soon deteriorate in very dry storage; while on other hand, winter squash, pumpkins, marrows and other such crops like a dry atmosphere. Moulds and rots soon destroy them.

If you know your cellar is a very dry one and you wish to keep apples, etc., in it make provision for adding more moisture to the air by introducing wet sacks spread out or by sprinkling the floor, the idea being that a large surface must be wet and evaporation quick. The atmospheric humidity can be tested with a wet and dry bulb thermometer. Take the readings and check up on the chart which is supplied with it. A humidity ranging from 75 to 85 is satisfactory.

In case of squash and pumpkins, etc., any frost proof place which is dry is suitable—the top shelf of the pantry, for instance, or shelves in the passage. Quality is often lowered by poor ventilation. Where crops are stored in large quantities ventilators should be open as much as possible to carry off fases and heat coming from a large bulk of any crop. When severe weather occurs close up the ventilators. Do not store a large volume of any crop while it is warm from the field unless you know that you can reduce the heat by proper ventilation. More attention must be paid to this when commercial storage is being done in the fall and our growers must help when asked to do so.

FIRST WATER WAGON IS NOW IN MUSEUM

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 6, (United Press).—The original "water wagon" has been saved from dusty oblivion.

The ancient surrey, side lights, canopy top and all, in which Frances Willard used to ride about the middle west, leaving in her wake the first spotless, white badges of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, now rests in the museum of the Wisconsin Historical Society.

It was presented by members of the Beloit, Wis., W. C. T. U. There was no crash of frothing wine bottles on its dusty sides. Anna Gordon, president of the world W. C. T. U., and Miss Willard's ablest companion on the crusades in the old surrey, spoke briefly of the life of its owner, the first woman to make a stand for prohibition.

This is not the first buggy belonging to Frances Willard to be discovered. There have been many Charles A. Brown, curator of the museum, has placed the stamp of authority on this one, however. He has a photograph of Miss Willard driving on an Evanston street. The rakish tilt of the top is unmistakable, Brown says.

The carriage will rest beside another distinguished equippage in the halls of the museum. The coach in which Daniel Webster took his afternoon drive will be its companion-piece.

Airplane Delivery Routes Now

The Nina, of the Aeromarine Airways, left New York each day during the first five days of the month immediately after the New York Times went to press with its city edition and carried to Atlantic City copies for distribution among the delegates to the nineteenth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, so that everybody had the paper ro read with his early breakfast.

This sensational evolution in newspaper delivery is noticed simply in passing, and though it is as wonderful an event as the first successful trip of the Fulton steamship to Albany from Battery Place, it now days attracts almost no attention; but, as a matter of fact, the Fulton got a little space only by the accident that a reader of the Post saw its smoke and wrote in about it. The editor, Mr. William Cullen Bryant, hadn't been brought up to write news and the exploits of the Fulton were left to be recorded by historians.

Now, right under our noses, if we had the gumption, we could get up and witness the marvel of an airplane making regular trips to Atlantic City with the safety of an ox-drawn lumber wagon. The edge was taken off this enterprise by a non-stop flight from New York to San Diego, Calif., in which the Tmes also figured, but that was too big for comprehension and Doubting Thomases might well surmise that the achievement owed much to luck.

Yes, brother, the world do move.

The Actor

He was easily carried off by the fervor of his own acting, he was like a different person, like an enraptured somnambulist and a somnolent king in the world of make-believe. The power of his torrential flow of language held his audiences in its grip, his mellifluous voice enchanted them, his fervid gestures were like so much magic to them. In his manifold transformation of character he found the greatest pleasure of life. For his real existence on the less lustrous stage of life was curiously quiet and almost shadowy, and when he left the stage after the performance, the glowing enthusiasm of his acting had sapped his strength of soul and body.

But one day he discovered to his amazement that quite apart from the many figures of the world of illusion with which he had identified himself, his own soul, which he had long conceded to be lost, was still alive. Love had suddenly come upon him once more and exacted its toll from his heart. Joy was his. Jubilantly he surrendered to his own reawakening. He lived; lived grand and mighty, without mimicry. And what was it to him if at times his acting seemed absent-minded if his stage business appeared more artificial than usual, if occasionally he got lost in a long speech and finished it with improvisation. All this was but powder and paint. His was the real life!

Once he noticed his beloved whispering something to a friend. His own presence had not been perceived, for he was looking into a mirror. A suspicion arose in him against which he fought in vain. And when at last he dared to speak, he was answered by a smile in her eyes that was like a riddle. Was this smile aimed at his childish imagination? Or was deception its purpose? Was it intended to taunt him, torture him, punish him by its inscrutableness? The more he pondered the stronger waxed the flame and the suspicion. He resorted to veiled questions directed at his friend, who answered without assurance and evasively and seemed insulted. Where did reality end and illusion begin? Was life mocking at him, the actor? Was it trifling with his heart?

Restlessness racked him; doubts dug their fangs into him; jealousy scourged him. At last he decided to free himself. He craved for the truth at any price.

At a time when he suspected that she was at the friend's, he went thither disguised as a beggar. Twilight made the contours of his face indistinct. No one recognized him. He listened eagerly as the servant came to the door. He was sure that he had heard two voices within. Then silence. He received a few pennies and had to leave. His ears may have deceived him, for his heart beat violently and his blood coursed madly in his veins.

And still no assurance. So he decided to resort to extreme measures. He went to her disguised like his friend. It was evening. He was admitted and proceeded without hesitation to her room. She greeted him without surprise, without hesitation. He played the ardent lover, drawing her to his arms in fond embrace.

Suddenly she freed herself and turned on the lights. They faced each other in the bright, cold glitter of the incandescend lamps. She burst into a laugh which he interrupted shrilly: "It's good to be an actor at times. It helps one understand the comedy of life."

But her reply was cold: "Now you will never know whether I recognized the actor in you or not. Maybe you were a bad actor."

He left her in shame and despair. The terrible riddle remained unsolved. Had she outwitted him? Or was this only her last trump-card, the climax of all her deception? Had she been innocent and had his suspicion and jealousy hurt her pride and driven her to this cruel revenge?

He racked his brain, but could find no answer. Life seemed like a whirlpool to him, without rime or reason. His profession was his only solace, but he could no longer concentrate his thoughts upon it. His gestures became mechanical. Only at moments when his part called for intense emotion did he rise to the heights.

One evening as he was playing Hamlet, he suddenly deviated from the text of the play and in an eloquent speech said that he was living a second life and had forgotten his first. Many lives were his, he continued. When one candle is extinguished, another lights. But all this is as nothing compared to the question: Where those kisses meant for him or for his rival? Death alone could answer it.

Hamlet had become insane. The curtain was lowered. The play had to be discontinued.

For weeks people commented upon the incident of Hamlet gone mad.—Frederick G. Seeley.

A RARE BACILLUS

A germ so rare that it baffled Sir William Willcos, the famous Home Office medical expert, and caused him to make a wrong diagnosis, was mentioned at a Paddington, London, inquest.

Gwendoline Crowder, aged 36, a clerk, of Castellain Road, Maida Hill, developed severe internal pains, and Sir William diagnosed the illness as ptomaine poisoning. When she died it was discovered that death was due to a very rare bacillus called "pyoeyaneus."

It was stated that Miss Crowder had made herself susceptible to infection by lack of nourishment. As a rule she only had one meal a day. The day before she fell ill she had only a roll and butter for lunch and for tea.—Exchange.

A MODERN SUPER-STATION

The rapid growth of steel works and similar undertakings in one of the centres of the British iron and steel industry has necessitated the opening of a new electricity generating station designed for a plant capacity of 125,000 kilowatts. One of the generating sets in this station is capable of delivering 40,000 horsepower continuously. Just what this means may be realized when it is said that this generator alone could supply 600,000 fifty candlepower lamps continuously, assuming these to be of the ordinary metal filament type. If the lamps were all of the latest British gas-filled type, the generator could supply about 1¼ million of them. The turbine which drives this mammoth machine is extremely efficient, yet so great is the power to be developed that more than 150 tons of steam per hour, at a pressure of 220 lbs. per square inch, are consumed when the set is on full load. The total weight of the machine is 300 tons, of which the turbine accounts for 145 tons. Bearing in mind the huge dimensions of the reciprocating engines commonly used some twenty years ago for the development of one-tenth the power given out by this machine, it is remarkable that the turbine and generator together occupy less than 1,000 square feet (93 square metres) of floor space and stand only 12 feet (3.65 metres) above floor level. In accordance with usual British practice the generator is fitted with automatic protective gear to guard against every contingency, and the machine has been tested successfully under the most severe conditions which can arise.

PUBLIC BE HANGED POLICY NO LONGER GUIDES FIRMS

There was some gaiety at Atlantic City during the first week of June when the convention of the A. A. C. W. held the boardwalk and all other available space, and a goodly portion of it was brought to the famous resort by W. H. Boyce, general manager of the Beaver Tractor Company, New Brighton, Pa. He was one of the speakers for the Public Utility Advertising Association and told of wonders that newspaper advertising had done for his street cars. Not alone did it triple the business, but it allayed trouble and criticism and helped the traction company increase its fares three times without a comeback on the part of the people.

"The best way for a public utility to advertise," said Mr. Boyce, "is to start with a public safety campaign. That will get the public used to seeing the name of the company in print and will not excite the suspicion that would otherwise be aroused.

"After our safety campaign had gotten a foothold we coupled on with good-will and public relations copy, advising our patrons of the cost of the cars, cost of special work, and cause of delays. We told them some of our operating problems, and wherever we could foresee that there might be an opportunity for a newspaper editor to criticise us on account of shortage of power or uneven track conditions, or shabbily appearing cars, we took away a large part of the force out of the blow by criticising ourselves, at the same time giving an explanation of why such conditions existed.

"After that we followed with advertising in connection with change of fares, and it may be of interest to know that in the past six years our companies have had four changes in fare. I attribute largely to our publicity methods the fact that we were able to put all these increases into effect without having to face a complaint filed with the Public Service Commission.

"Publicity has helped us keep rates out of court. We have told our public in newspapers and all space that a claim against the companies is a business proposition, and should in most cases be settled by the two parties concerned, and if the claimant is just in his demands there need be no third party brought into the case.

"I cannot tell you in dollars and cents what newspaper advertising has meant to us. In addition to the things above referred to, the fare increases, etc., we have been relieved of some of our street paving burdens, at least temporarily. We have also increased our traffic by reason of advertising our parks, by selling joint tickets in connection with moving picture shows, by co-operating with the Chambers of Commerce and giving lower rates on their special sale days, and by carrying constantly in our cars, cards advertising the different moving picture houses in the community and their weekly runs. Without any appreciable increase in the population we have tripled our receipts during the past thirteen years.

"If the officers of the public utilities who are sitting back railing and raving at the newspaper men could only be made to realize that the editors of these newspapers are just as human and in a good many cases much more so than the hard-shell railway operator, and if these operators would form the acquaintance and make friends of the newspaper men in their district, a lot of their problems would as a result be solved.

"The great mistake made by a number of companies is that they do not start to advertise soon enough. They wait until a fight is on in regard to their franchise, and increase in fare, or some other important problem, at which time a large portion of their riders have formed unfavorable conclusions before the company had presented any part of its side of the case."

CALIFORNIA READY TO REVIVE RACING AFTER LONG LAPSE

Between 500 and 600 Horses Will Be on Hand for Opening of New Track.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—(Associated Press).—Between 500 and 600 horses will be on hand November 3 for the opening of Tanforan, the new race track near here, when horse racing in California will be revived after 17 years, John D. Stelling, manager of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club announced here. The horses are coming from every part of the United States, and several of them will be here from Hawaii.

Prominent owners who will have California stables, Mr. Sterling said, include: C. K. G. Billings, Thomas Fortune Ryan, Harry Payne Whitney, Sam Hildreth, and A. K. Macomber, all of New York; Frank J. Kelley of Chicago; J. A. Widener of Philaddelphia; C. A. Hartwell of Honolulu; A. B. Spreckels, Dudolph Spreckels, and Herbert Fleishhacker of San Francisco.

Frank J. Kelley will ship 60 horses from Kentucky to Warm Springs, Calif., this summer, Mr. Stelling announced. This will be a permanent stable for the horses owned by the Chicago sportsman, and the stable will include the famous Chatterton Paicing3.

Four of C. A. Hartwell's horses have arrived from Honolu'u for the Tanforan season and three more will arrive in July, according to word receivedi from Mr. Hartwell. The four horses are all by Harvester.

California is the home of many retired race horses, and the number is being increased each year, according to sporting authorities. Horses that have brought thousands of race fans to their feet by their final burst of speed on the home stretch, today trot the cool, green meadows of the Golden State.

Runnymere, sire of the famous Morvich, a California horse; Vorhies, full brother to Harvester, Dr. Leggo and Hand Grenade are four of the retired horses in the A. B. Spreckels stable here. Palo Alto and War Cry are on the retired list in the Rudolph Spreckels athle. A. K. Macomber's list includes: War Fame, Liberty Loan, Gun Sight, and The Falconer, while Svenson Christendon has the fleet War Shot. In Nevada, George Wingfield's stallions include: Atheling, 2nd, Star Master, and Honeywood.

THE BRIDGE

The trees were resplendent in their autumnal beauty. A gentle haze was gradually dissipating in the valley as the morning advanced. Dark evergreens stood sombre and motionless amidst the colorful scene.

Two figures were moving through the valley and ascended along the wooden hill, to look down once more from the heights before returning to the city and to their drab, workaday existence.

It was a silent, stern man and a laughing, jovial woman.

"You don't understand me," she said to him. "I am differently constituted than you. I simply can't discipline myself so sternly and rigidly as you."

"You think of everything in terms of yourself. You expect too much," he replied.

They continued on their way, scarcely heeding the sunbeams at play among the fallen leaves. The path narrowed abutting on a cliff. Far below in the ravine the waters of a brook gurgled in their course.

"The foliage is turning red before it dies," the woman murmured. "It has the ruddy hue of youth and life. It does not look tired and wane when it dies but—"

"But—" echoed he in a tone betraying ennui.

She merely shrugged her shoulders.

After a silence of some moments he said almost in a whisper:

"I am not tired."

"Why do we evade each other?" she cried in an irritated voice. "We have become strangers. We live together and yet are lonely. Once—do you remember?—it was different. My nature appealed to you. But now it seems as if we inhabited different worlds."

Again they proceeded in silence.

The path led to a projecting cliff. And beyond the cliff steep walls of rock intervened, for bidding and impassable.

A slender footbridge led across the chasm which had gradually become quite narrow. Beyond the bridge, on the farther side of the ravine, everything was shrouded in deep, cool shadows, while on this side of the precipice bathed in sunshine.

He crossed the bridge first. She stood waiting, holding forth her arms to the warm sun. Then she called to him:

"You have gone over into the shade too soon. Let's stay here in the sun a while longer."

He retraced his steps slowly, returning into the warm radiance.

His kind, amiable face looked worn with years. This impression suddenly flashed upon her and she advanced to meet him. Something within her that surged like a billow to her heart prompted her to meet him and extend her hand.

"Come," she breathed, and her voice was gentle as in days long ago.

He looked up to her with a warm and happy look.

"Yes, come," he said. "That is the word." He sat down in the sun and drew her upon his knee. Silently he caressed her hand, then spoke:

"Look, here are you and over there beyond the abyss, I. We cannot join hands because the ravine prevents us. And so we are all separated from one another. But a prudent builder has built a bridge for us. How the sun pours its light upon it. This bridge is called love. It bridges the gap and gives man access to his fellow men. It joins those in the sun with them who live in shadows. But the sun-children must speak the magic word: Come to their less fortunate fellows and must extend their nhands to them across the chasm."

She nodded and happiness beamed on her features.—Frank C. Shillock, Manchester.

SORROW AND DEATH

He who has never seen the world through a tear will always be a poor metaphysician, the French philosopher Guy an once remarked.

In the last few years we have seen the world not through one tear but through many.

We ask ourselves: Does this sorrow hold forth promise of future hope and improvement to mankind or is it merely an obstacle in the path of our progress? Will it lead us on to new heights or down to the depths?

Too often we are perplexed in the face of sorrow. We flee from it as long as we can and at last take it upon ourselves as something inevitable, as a yoke that will brook no escape.

Is it not rather our duty to make sorrow a harmonic part of our lives, to use it as a means of progress, not as a hindrance?

One thing is certain. Nothing shows a man's true character better than sorrow. It reveals his attitude toward grief, his patience and strength in confronting it; it shows his true worth. How many a person did we only begin to see in his true light; how many a man's real nature was only disclosed to us, when we saw him in an hour of trouble.

As it is with individuals, so it is with nations, too.

History teaches us that only such nations have advanced and asserted themselves in the great struggle of the peoples as have at some time heard the voice of God admonishing them and have needed this voice.

And what is trous of sorrow is true of death.

Death, too, perplexes us. Is it reality or illusion, we ask. The end or the beginning? Annihilation or transformation?

But if we would comprehend life, we must first understand the nature of death.

It is a curious fact that those who were happy on earth, die with much more resignation than those who were unhappy and ever uncontented. Perhaps the latter continue to the last vainly expecting the great, wonderful event of their lives and, when death comes, they cannot understand its relentlessness.

O THOUGHT.

FLOUNCES ARE THE VOGUE SAY DESIGNERS

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 6.—(United Press).—"All's well that ends well"—providing, of course, that it ends in a flounce," say the designers.

Whether the flounce dress will continue on until Fall is a matter of conjecture, but certain it is that the so-long-seamless frock must have a flounce of some sort, if it is to look entirely new.

There are flounces for flappers, ankle flounces for the dignified. The enormous variety at present seems to be the pleated flounce which begins just below the knee and extends in a straight line about the skirt. Ruffles set into the gown to simulate the flounce usually variate the straight-around idea and sweep up at the back or at one side. Again they may curve upwards at both sides and narrow at the front and back.

One of the prettiest ruffled frocks that I have seen has three circular ruffles of black picot-edge velvet terminating the skirt of a frock of black and white printed satin. Here the flounces slope slightly upwards at the sides. The frock is straight-lined and bobetted and is quite tightly fitted.

Flounce of Velvet

Another lovely flounce is carried out in an evening gown of black chiffon-velvet. A wide circular flounce of velvet begins at the knees and adds unusual grace to the severity of the sleeveless batteau-necked gown. Velvet is to be more popular than ever this coming season and a tall, slender woman is sure to look well in a gown of this sort. As a rule, flounces are more becoming to slender persons than to those of mature proportions.

Adding a flounce to an old frock is one of the simplest means of remodeling, as it is not even necessary to match the material of the gown exactly since many of the new flounce frocks have their flounces of an entirely different material than the frocks. Usually, however, the flounce is the exact shade of the upper portion of the gown.

With the circular flounce skirt, one selects sleeves which terminate at the elbow in a circular flounce. A circular bertha on a sleeveless gown offers another suggestion for the circular-flounce skirt.

Of course, one need not select a flounced skirt this season, as the designers always offer us an alternative. There are the three-tiered skirts which are so youthful. The tiers may extend completely about the skirt or just across the back. The apron effect is also among the newer models. The uneven-hemmed overskirt with points falling at the sides is also being used, so one has many types of skirts to select from.

JUSTICE.

Let us ask ourselves — Are we just? If not everything else in our life is awry, for justice is the foundation of all other good. "For what doth the Lord require of us, but to deal justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with our God." An unjust man is never merciful, nor humble; he refuses to see the right and so deals unjustly.

The text quoted is in the Old Testament, but the Author of the New Testament says in substance the same thing, when he said that to love God with all the heart and thy neighbor as thyself was the all important thing; he laid no stress on outward religious observances, but he always aimed straight at the heart—is that right toward God and man, then all is right.

Note the open smiles—the glistening teeth—whenever you look today.

A change has come. Millions of people use a new way of teeth cleaning.

This is to offer you a delightful test, to show what it means to you.

Combat the film

The way to pretty teeth is by combating film.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why few escape.

Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

Teeth not clean

Old brushing methods left much film intact. They left the teeth unclean, to often discolor and decay.

So dental science searched for film combatants, and found two. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Aids to nature

Nature gives alkalinity to the saliva, to neutralize mouth acids. It puts a starch digestant in saliva, to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those agents were generally too weak. So Pepsodent multiplies that alkalinity, multiplies that starch digestant. So it gives manifold power to these tooth-protecting agents in the mouth.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Terence Desmond (Terry), a beautiful imaginative child who believes in fairies and worships

Juliet Divine, the stage name of her half-sister. She rides in a gorgeous car and talks of a millionaire.

Terrence Desmond, their father, quick-tempered and unreliable, was formerly a caretaker of a Long Island estate. Forced to leave the estate through an escapade of Terry's he opens a roadhouse called The Blue Moon, with money advanced to him by Tom Perrin, a prosperous friend of Julia's.

Mary Desmond, Terry's mother and Julia's stepmother, fears disgrace in the latters' career.

Mrs. Peter Parmalee, owns the house, Silverwood, of which Desmond was formerly caretaker.

Betty Sheen, her spoiled young granddaughter, whose rudeness to Terry, at Silverwood, the latter will never forget, is engaged to

Miles Sheridan, a handsome, likable young chap. His car breaks down at the door of The Blue Moon, and he meets Terry. Delighted with the child's charm and anxious to atone for his fiancee's past rudeness, supplies the wherewithal to send Terry to a Convent for next seven years.

While at the Convent, Terry receives word that her Mother has died.

A Convent-Reared Cashier

CHAPTER VIII

The girl could hardly believe that her mother was gone, that she would never see her again. The Sisters tried to comfort her, but she could not be consoled. They told her to cry, and her grief would be softened, but no tears would come.

As a child she had never cried since Terrence had jeered at Mary in her hearing. "What's the use of squeezing all that juice out of your face? It doesn't cut any ice."

That was true. "Squeezing juice out of your face" was futile, though your heart was broken. Terry learned so well to control her tears that now she could not shed them when she would.

But the girl felt bitterly that she could never forgive her father for not telegraphing sooner. Even if there had not been time to see Mary alive, she might have kissed the dear face in its coffin.

The girl had never loved the moody, hair-tempered, sullen man who was her father, though she had childishly admired his bigness and good looks. Now she knew that she must, for her mother's sake try not to hate him.

Ten days later Terry went home, one of the nuns taking her as far as Oldport, where Terrence Desmond was at the station.

The girl had not seen her father since she was twelve. He had changed start lingly, though not through grief. She was sure if was not through grief.

His black eyes, which had been big and bold, were now curtailed by folds of skin, and beneath were purplish bags. He had developed a double chin. His once fresh, sunburnt skin was veined, and mottled. His nose appeared to be bigger, and was seamed with the same small, purple-red veins that patterned his cheeks. The thick hair which Terry remembered as bright auburn threaded with white, was now white threaded with auburn.

Even the man's figure was different. He stooped, and his body looked loose and slouching in the not inexpensive but untidy clothes he wore.

"Well, you've grown up," he said, staring, with a gaze that appraised the pale girl from head to foot. "You've changed like Jule. But only a copy of her, in water-color points. You'll never be the stunner she is."

Julia was his darling, the one creature for whom he cared. Perhaps Julia's mother, the wife of his youth, had been risen to him than the meek yet obstinate Mary. His namesake's likeness to the elder girl did not move him enough for a kiss.

There was hostility and something like disgust in Terry's eyes. He must have read the look. He had always spoken of her to Mary as "your daughter," never as "ours." But he meant to rule her now.

Terry had been brought home to work; or so she supposed. That was only fair, after seven happy years at the convent, and she resolved to take her mother's place in the house as well as she could.

Not many hours passed, however, before she realized that whatever she was wanted for, it was not to fill her mother's place.

Terrence had made quite another plan; and when the girl arrived at the Blue Moon it was to find a cook-housekeeper installed; a handsome dark German woman of middle age, naturalized American.

Mrs. Schultz was a widow, with an eye that languished at her employer. Terry detested her at sight, and was glad, at first, that she herself was to be a kind of secretary-cashier, writing her father's letters and keeping accounts.

This work would keep her out of Mrs. Shultz's way except at meals. But she shrank from the idea of the dark in the restaurant, where Desmond himself had sat in early days of the Inn.

"I'm sure Mother wouldn't like it for me," she objected. "Even when I was a little girl, she hated to have me come in there."

"Well, your Mother isn't here now to nag and pick faults," growled Terrence. "I'm the only boss. You've learned arithmetic, I know. Your mother boasted enough about a prize you got.

"You'll need a bit of coaching from me before you can check up the bills, and give the right change without turning a hair. But there's nothing in it, if you've got a head on your shoulders, and you ought to, after seven years' schooling."

"Couldn't I do the same work in your office?" Terry argued. "I've been in a quiet place so long, I don't feel as if I could keep my head in a noisy crowd."

"You've been damn well spoiled, that's the matter with you," said Terrence. "Sheridan was a nut to shell out all that oof for your fancy education. Just throwing good money to the dogs. But it's gone now, every cent, and you're old enough to earn your keep.

"Jule never had your advantages. She was out in the world for herself before she was sixteen; yet look at her. A rich woman, rolling round Buenos Aires this minute in her automobile, with an apartment in a New York palace to come home to.

"You've got to do as I say—see? I'll give you a few tips. Then you can take your place at that desk and prove you're fit to earn your salt. You won't have trouble with anyone. If you do, call me. But don't squeal unless you must. Make a note of that."

After this understanding had been reached, Terrence Desmond was free to stroll among his favorite customers, and a girl with gorgeous red hair and a plain black dress sat in his old place at the desk in the blue-roofed restaurant.

Domination of Marriages Over British Throne Wanes

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 6.—The Princess Christian, who died recently, lived long enough to regain some of the popularity she lost during the war because her husband was the German Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein and her son had once held a commission in the Kaiser's navy.

All the other members of the royal family who had German titles hastened to shed them when King George ordained that the family name should thenceforward be Windsor instead of the Saxe-Coburg Wettin, or Hanoverian Guelph. Helene Augusta Victoria, however, was Victoria's own daughter, and the maternal stubbornness would not abate a hair's breadth of her prerogatives. No "Lady Helena Windsor" would content her. She would still be Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein.

Prince Christian was over 80, a simple country gentleman, but it was remembered that he was one of the petty German princelings whom Victoria and Albert had a penchant for importing to marry English princesses and feed at the golden stream that flowed from the British treasury. He was hissed and hooted and forced into retirement where he found what solace he could in his farm and his prize pigs. He succumbed in October, 1917, and since then Princess Christian has rarely emerged from her seclusion. German ramifications of the British reigning family are peculiar and paradoxical. The English people have been historically jealous and suspicious of foreign influences. Nevertheless the sovereigns and their children are found intermarrying with princelings of the nation that is most antipathetic to the British, so that the German language came more readily to the tongue in the reigning household than English. The circumstances under which the first and second Georges were brought to the throne precluded their having knowledge of the language spoken by their subjects or inclination to learn it. George I. knew no English, George II. was just fluent enough to swear in the "barbarous dialect," while his grandson, Farmer George, who providentially forfeited the American colonies, remarked dyly of the greatest monument of English literature, "There's a great deal of nonsense in Shakespeare, but we mustn't say so."

Victoria was an English-born princess, yet her strong German accent was commonly remarked. That was not surprising in the child of a German mother, brought up by a German governess. Her marriage to Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha acclaimed the Teutonic language and accent for another generation in Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle or the Highland fastnesses of Balmoral. When it came time for the Prince of Wales to choose a wife, his father and mother were disappointed that he was blind to the opulent charms of several German princesses, and preferred the lovely Alexandra of Denmark. But there was abundant solace in contemplating the earlier marriage of the Princess Royal, their eldest daughter, to Crown Prince Frederick of Prussia, the German Empire being then but a Bismarckian dream.

Another triumph of racial partiality after the death of the Prince Consort was the marriage of unhappy Princess Alice, Queen Victoria's second daughter, to Grand Duke Louis IV., of Hesse. Her diaries were published about 40 years ago, telling of her ill-starred union. Still a third daughter was to be wedded and a husband was found for Princess Helene Victoria in Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, who had been aide-de-camp to Albert the Good. Christian became a general in the British Army and he was given a lucrative sinecure as High Steward of Windsor and Ranger of Windsor Park.

Only two of Victoria's progeny failed to gratify the maternal desire that they should mate with German highnesses, royal or serene. Her second son, the Duke of Edinburgh, married the Russian Grand Duchess Marie, and fell heir to the now defunct Dukedom of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. Their daughter was destined to become Queen Marie of Rumania. The Duke of Connaught married a Prussian Princess, but Princess Louise became Duchess of Argyll through her union with the Marquis of Lorne.

Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany, took a German wife, the daughter of the reigning Prince of Weldeck and Pyrmont. This amiable woman, domiciled in England, was in a most difficult position during the war. Her son had ascended the ancestral throne of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha by reason of the Duke of Connaught's renunciation in his favor on the death of the Duke of Edinburgh without leaving an heir. Consequently the younger Duke of Albany, his English title forfeited, was necessarily drawn into the war on the German side. It says much for his mother that she passed through this trying ordeal without forfeiting the esteem of the British people.

Finally Victoria's youngest daughter, Princess Beatrice, was married to the penniless Prince Henry of Battenberg, a name translated into the seemingly

TO RESTORE THE POMPEI THAT VESUVIUS BURIED

By CAMILLO CIANFARRA

NAPLES, Aug. 6.—(United Press).—Professor Vittorio Spinazzola, director of excavations at Pompei, told the United Press that, beginning with October next, the tourist who stops at Naples will be able to see for the first time a street of Pompei, almost as it appeared on the day before Vesuvius blotting off its top, awakened and buried the unhappy city under a mountain of ashes and lapilli.

"Excavations at Pompei," Prof. Spinazzola said, "have been going on for more than a century, but it was only a few years ago that I decided to reconstruct the city. My predecessors followed the antiquated customs of digging and clearing out houses and temples, removing everything they found, furniture, bronzes and monuments, to the nearest museums, where they could be exhibited and at the same time effectively preserved and guarded. The result was that the visitor of Pompei found himself in front of a number of more or less dilapidated private and public buildings, which told little or nothing of their history and revealed very little of the life of their ill-fated tenants.

"I introduced the new system. I selected one of the main thoroughfares of the city, and started to rebuild it, using the same material which the excavations yielded, leaving on the spot everything that one day had belonged to the house, and making casts of the people and the domestic animals that died within the premises the tragic night of 79 A. D.

Only Inhabitants Missing

"The result is very different and will be still more different a few years hence, when the visitor, instead of finding himself before a necropolis, will be confronted with a living metropolis characteristically Roman. The Abundance Street, which I selected, is today exactly as it was, except for the inhabitants. Furthermore the street tells a bewildering tale, warmly human and profoundly interesting.

"On entering the street, the American tourist will be greeted by something that will remind him of the wet days, a bar, where two young ladies, Asellina and Zenobidrone, whose likeness are frescoed on the outside walls, dispensed to the thirsty Pompeians wine and honey and a concoction of the pan, which must have been a kind of Roman cocktail. The linguarted and was busy hacking under the form of famous Greek verses.

"Judging by the inscriptions on the walls, customs have not changed greatly since the days of Rimor.

Bar to Old Electress

"The tourist, for instance, will also be reminded that the bar played a great role in Roman elections, exactly as so many centuries afterwards in New York and Chicago. The inscriptions which then served as posters informed the patrolly that they would be gladly welcome and could drink at the expense of Consule Iollius provided they agreed to vote for him. Barrels, bottles, decanters and glasses are all on their proper place.

"A little farther up the tourist will see a felt factory. The proprietor fled on time, but the tanks with their pipes and the amphorae are still there. A jeweller's shop has also been rebuilt, and a few yards away is a school.

Just Like Boys Today

"The Pompeian boys have left traces of their pranks and tricks on all the walls of the school. They were as dexterous with a style or a nail as the modern American urchin with the charcoal stick or the pencil. Only the subjects vary. Where the modern boy would draw a head or scribble a sentence the Pompeian cut elephants, monsters and Greek gods.

"No, the habit of keeping red fish in vases is not new. The Pompeian kept in their houses sea fishes in sea water. In one of the rebuilt houses a vase was found with fishes. The water evaporated, but the salt has preserved the small fishes for twenty centuries."

Victoria's heir-apparent was less well disposed toward German matrimonial alliances than his mother. When Prince George, now King, chose a consort, it was the English-born Princess Mary, though her father was the German Duke of Teck. One daughter, Louise, Princess Royal, married a Scottish nobleman who was created Duke of Fife, and the other, Maud, is now Queen of Norway, through her marriage with the Danish Prince who was elected to the vacant throne on the separation from Sweden.

King George V. is not embarrassed by matrimonial intrigues on behalf of German princelings, so his only daughter, Princess Mary, is the wife of an Englishman who has not yet fallen heir to a title, and her baby son has not even a courtesy title.

The Duke of York's bride is a Scottish Earl's daughter, and when the Prince of Wales at last makes a choice from among a thousand damsels who are quivering with hopeful expectancy—?

MUCH ADVERTISED RAIN TREE DOES NOT FUNCTION IN DESERT

NEW YORK, August 6—The periodical boom for the so-called rain tree which is described as shedding a copious supply of water from its leaves, even in the driest of weather, is again with us. It is suggested that this tree be introduced in arid regions, such as the Southwestern States, in order to make the desert blossom as the rose. In fact, some newspaper advertisements have claimed that a square mile grove of these trees would supply about 100,000 gallons of water daily.

Actually, says a writer in THE MENTOR for August, rain trees are only found in the humid tropical jungle where the trees draw up more water from the soil than can be evaporated from the surface of their leaves. Trees in high altitudes sometimes collect moisture from drifting clouds. This moisture drips to the ground and gives rise to the rain tree legend.

PLANTS THAT LIVE ON A MEAT DIET

NEW YORK, August 6.—In the marshes of New Jersey are found plants whose regular diet consists largely of insects. Because such localities are poor in nitrogen, these plants have formed the habit of catching their nitrogen in the form of living prey. The sundew is the name of the plant.

Its leaves are covered with tentacles When a fly happens to touch one or more of them, it is arrested by a sticky liquid and brings it in contact with other tentacles. These at once begin to curve inward uhtil the doomed fly is held helpless. The leaf remains curved and closed until the living food thus captured has been digested and its nutritious juices absorbed to feed the plant, says May Tevis in THE MENTOR for August.

COTTON CAME FROM VEGETABLE LAMB, CLAIMS OLD LEGEND

NEW YORK, August 6.—An interesting legend, believed to be true till late in the seventeenth century, maintained that cotton came from a vegetable lamb which grew on a tree and reached down from its elevated position to feed upon the grass which grew beneath it.

In THE MENTOR for August, Richard H. Tingley relates the story of Sir John Mandeville, a world traveler of the fourteenth century. Mandeville wrote interesting, if not true, stories of his travels. He avers that he saw the vegetable lambs growing on the trees and bore. He even claimed that he had eaten both of the "fruit and of the beast."

AMERICAN INDIANS USED JEWELED STONES FOR HOME BUILDING

NEW YORK, August 6.—In Arizona can still be seen remains of buildings erected by the early American Indians, built out of stone containing opal, agate and chalcedony. These stones were taken from the petrified forests in the neighborhood of Adamana, Arizona.

Prehistoric builders never used more beautiful stones for their habitations than the trunks of those trees which flourished ages before man appeared on the earth, says C. F. Talman in THE MENTOR for August.

SAFETY LESSONS

AUTOMOBILE LUBRICATION.

A great majority of all work in automobile and truck repair shops is made necessary by improper or insufficient lubrication.

Every make of motor vehicle has its own lubrication chart and drivers should be thoroughly familiar with charts that refer to their particular cars. There are certain lubricating rules that are general and important enough to be given special mention.

Kind of lubricant to apply:

(a) Cylinder oil in crank case and oil cups.

(b) Cup grease in grease cups.

(c) A good transmission oil or semi-fluid grease in transmission; in cold weather heavy transmission oil may be thinned with cylinder oil.)

(d) Transmision oil in rear axle case.

(e) Transmission oil or light cup grease in universal joints.

How often should different parts be lubricated?

(a) If there is an oil indicator for the crank case, look at the oil level at least twice each day; if there is no indicator examine the oil level at least once each day; oftener on long runs. Oil indicator, where used, should from time to time be examined carefully to see that it does not become clogged up or stuck.

Not les frequesntly than once each week oil spring bolts, clutch pedal, shaft, steering gear, radius rods, torque arm and other points as designated by the manufacturer.

Every 500 miles or at least once each month, oil the brake mechanism, grease the universal joints, and change the oil in the crank case, transmission and differential. It is especially important to change the oil in the crank case for a certain amount of gasoline is bound to work past the piston rings and dilute the lubricating oil. Examine the withdrawn oil carefully. Do not flush out the crank case with kerosene. It is not possible to remove all the kerosene after it is once poured in, and enough may remain to do harm. Kerosene cuts the oil and keeps it from lubricating the engine propertly. In cold weather when you are apt to use too much gasoline it may be advisable to change the oil in the crank case oftener than every 500 miles.

Once a month the wheels should be jacked up, bearing adjusted and greased with a gun.

Every 6000 miles or at least once a year, the wheels should be removed and bearings repacked with grease.

Investigate every squeak, and make the necessary adjustments or apply oil, or both.

When aproaching your car after it has stood for a time, make it a practice to look on the floor or road underneath the car. If there are spots or pools of water or oil, investigate at once. Continual dripping indicates leaks or worn bushings.

EARTH'S BIGGEST BEAST NAMED AFTER EMINENT NATURALIST

NEW YORK, August 6.—The fossil of the largest land animal the earth has ever borne— a colossal Baluchitherium was found in Mongolia by an expedition sent out by the American Museum of Natural History.

The discoverer of this monster skeleton, which is something like twenty-four feet long and twelve feet tall, was Walter Granger. The Baluchitherium grangeri has been named in his honor, says THE MENTOR for August.

Says Ugly Ducklings Turned Into Swans Not Always Happy.

By GEORGE BRITT

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. — Cheer up, Ugly Ducklings. The Swans have their worries, too.

For proof, listen to the history of the Man With the Rectangular Nose.

It was a sobered book of a man. But in spite of it the man won the heart of a girl in his village back in Europe. Then he came to America to make his fortune, while she waited at home. Wealth came. His first move was to "take" his nose to a plastic surgeon and have it pared down, and reshaped. Then he returned to claim his bride.

"No, no," she sobbed. "My man had a grand, big nose. You cannot be he. I will not marry you. I will not. Get out."

Nasal Art

"And the story is absolutely true; no fable about it," declares Dr. William E. Balsinger, master of plastic surgery, who tells the experience. He talks about his art from a practice of many years in reshaping not only the faces but the careers of hundreds of patients.

"They are no happier in many cases with smooth, symmetrical features than they were before. Of course, their appearance is improved. There are actors whose careers I have made possible by straightening impossibly crooked noses. I have prolonged the stardom of actresses by removing the wrinkles which told of age. I have helped girls win lovers and wives recover husbands simply by giving them the beauty they were missing. And I have restored soldiers who were disfigured in battle.

"But in many cases they begin immediately to discover new causes for worry.

"There was an elderly man who came to me and I made him look 15 years younger. He admitted it and was delighted. About six months later, though, he said he was disappointed.

"Oh, Daddy"

"'It's just one thing that's the matter,' he said. 'The young fellows at the office still call me Dad.'"

When a new patient comes to his office, Dr. Balsinger says, it is impossible to be certain from appearances what alterations are desired. The person may have a nose which constitutes a deformity or ears which protrude distressingly, and still be aware only of wrinkles on the forehead. Often people overlook a great defect in appearance while painfully conscious of a minor one.

"Now and then a woman patient wants good looks in order to win a man.

"It was a case of that sort which makes the inside story of one of the most widely published newspaper tragedies in years. A man of national prominence had forsaken his wife for the lure of a youthful beauty.

"The wife was past 40 and showed it. She came to me, and I fixed her up. She looked fine—no double chin, no drooping cheeks, no wrinkles. And her husband returned to her.

"Then the mockery came. The other woman refused to be forsaken, and she shot the husband."

An operation to correct facial defects is just like putting on a new suit of clothes, according to Dr. Balsinger. Improved appearance usually will give increased confidence and greater attractiveness. But the new suit must be properly fitted, and the wearer must not expect it to cover every defect of personality.

MAN OF TO-DAY IS FULL OF ROMANCE.

Appeal to His Imagination and Woman Dominates Mere Man.

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—When people tell you that the man of today is not romantic—just don't believe them, advises Josephine Lovett.

"And if you want to collect proposals instead of a career, don't direct your appeal entirely to a man's mentality, or his senses,or his practical nature "When you have touched that, you dominate him."

"Do you know," she asked earnestly, "what quality every director in the country is looking for in women today? It is the ability to inspire romance. That's the most desirable quality any woman can have."

Miss Lovett is the wife of John S. Robertson, the famous motion picture director. She writes all his scenarios, goes over all his plans with him and, according to his own statements, inspires much of his best work. She probably knows as much about what pictures need as any woman in the game.

Movie Men's Ideals

She recounted this little incident: "Recently I sat in a projection room with three directors, viewing a picture in which a new and unknown actress was appearing. They all agreed she was a winner.

"'Because she's the true madonna type,' said the first. 'Because of her eyes—they suggest hidden fire and smoldering emotions,' volunteered the second. 'Because she's so irresistably feminine,' put in the third.

"Now, as a woman, I had seen neither the slumbering fires, the madonna or the extreme feminity. I saw an ordinary pretty girl doing a very clever bit of acting. But I saw a future for any actress who could have three such distinct appeals for three men in the same business, looking for the same thing. And I promise you that girl will succeed.

"Types change. The imagination of the modern man may respond to different stimulae than that of his great grandfather, but it's romance that gets him, just the same.

"Composite Woman"

"So I believe that the woman who is popular on the screen will always be a composite of the most popular women of her day. Like a jewel, the more facets she can show the more valuable she is.

"It is true that girls most appealing on the screen are not so in real life, but it may be because externals blind us to the very qualities which the screen brings out."

Actual beauty or the ability to wear clothes is each secondary to the romantic appeal in women, Miss Lovett believes.

"But the woman who inspires romance usually has an instinct for clothes. She may not have a sense of fitness or of fashion, but she will have an unerring sense of type that will make her bring out her best. That's part of the romantic appeal," she concluded.

QUIET TALKS

THE BIG FIVE

Shelter of roof, warmth of fire, shoes for little feet and bigger, broad and tool,—these, and the like, take our strength. The circle of loved ones, where one's very life centers, this must be cared for, and well cared for.

Yet our thoughts go insistently toward the real things, the essentials. The spirit life is the real life, of course. I live in my body. I think through my mind. I myself, am a spirit. We long to understand clearly, and on be at rest inside. We can't all be experts. The day's too short. And cross-current run as strong. How shall the earnest man know?

Well, there are Five Simple Essentials for a strong pure true life. There is a Book of God. The outstanding thing in the morals of life is this, there is an outstanding Book. The outstanding Book of all books is this Book. Morals are the very life of life. This Book gives the true moral standard of life.

It states simply and clearly the moral principles that fit into every circumstance, and difficulty, and problem. Then there's more. It tells of the power that helps a man pull straight toward that standard. And it tells of the Friend that meets your sore need, answers your perplexing questions, and solves your knotty problems. This old Book of God is utterly dependable.

Then, there a Man. The outstanding thing about the Book is this: There is a Man. That Man lived the moral standard of life as no other has, actually lived it. He is our Brother-Man, our fellow, the one solitary God-Man. In him God came to us men, and comes to us.

He was as really God as though only God, and nothing else. He was as truly a man, a really human man, as though he was only a man, and nothing more. All there is of the human was and is in him.

And all there is of God was in him as he worked in that Nazareth carpenter-shop amid the odor of the pine shavings, and then taught, and healed, and loved, and fed, and mingled freely amongst men. The outstanding thing about this Book of God is this God-Man.

Then the Man—died. The biggest thing about his life is the way his life snuffed out. The knot on the end of that thread catched your eye at once, and holds it. There is a thread. What a thread What a life

Then the thread knots, a toughly knotted knot. That knot has caught the eye, aye, the heart of the race. It's been discussed and discussed. But the thing that stands out biggest is the fact of it. There is the knot. He did die, as no one else has, or could, or can.

And there's the Fourth thing that stands out, ugly and gaunt, dirty and odorous. But it's there. That's the fact of A Break, man's break away from the Father-God. The common word is sin. The root of the thing is simply that, a break, a bad break, away from the mother-hearted Father's desire and request.

And, "and"—the striking thing to mark just now is this, that Man tied up in an unravelable knot these two things, his Dying and that Break. He himself said the Break made the Death necessary. The more you think into it the less fully the explanations seem to explain. You feel there is always a something more. But the explanations are secondary. The fact is the thing. The Death is the outstanding fact.

And the Fifth Essential comes crowding quickly in. And it shows up at once what a princely brood and breed we men are of. Every man is a king in his right to choose. The man that knows about this Man must take sides. Choice of this Man who Died covers all moral choices. And choice makes character. It is an essential that a man makes personal choice.

The outstanding things in the morals of life is this: there is a Book. The outstanding of that Book is this: there is a Man. The thing that stands out about the man is this: he died.

And that Man said the outstanding thing about his death is this: it had to be. The thing called sin caused it. And the thing standing sheer out about the Man, and the Dying, and the Break of sin is this: every man that knows must choose. And every such man does choose.

And it is a striking fact, that looseness of thinking about the Book leads to looseness about the distinctive personality of the Man. Looseness there leads to loose ideas as to the distinctive meaning of his Death. That in turn breeds decidedly loose ideas about sin, the Break with God.

Then follows loose ideas about the need of choosing Him in whom centres all moral source. And when moral choice loosens the moral fibre of character begins unraveling, straight away, and not slowly. Look around you today.

A London astronomical expert superintending the erection of a huge telescope in Cairo, noted the noon gun fired daily at military headquarters, and found their time-piece was regulated by the watchmaker's chronometer in the city. Inquiring there he was astonished to find the chronometer regulated by the noon gun Does that sort of dog-chasing-his-tail standard get into the serious things, sometimes?

Petes Walloped Belleville Team--War Vets Tied With Brantford

WAR VET FOOTBALLERS TIED BRANTFORD SCORE IN LAST FEW SECONDS

Corner Kick Gave Peterboro Boys An Opportunity After the Game Seemed Lost.

PLAY HERE SATURDAY

(Staff Correspondence.)

Hopelessly outlucked, at times outplayed, with players incapacitated through injury and fatigue, but never for a moment outgamed, the local G.W.V.A. footballers battled through a Homeric struggle in Brantford Saturday, and in the dying seconds of the game, by a tremendous effort, headed through to tie the score, 1 to 1.

The game was the Vets' first of the season in the struggle for possession of the Ontario Cup, and they met opponents worthy of their metal in the Massey-Harris team of Brantford.

Fatigued by a long railway journey which had kept them on the go since 3 o'clock in the morning, the Peterborough boys found themselves greatly handicapped in the struggle against the fresh and eager men of Brantford. Every turn of the luck seemed against them, and even the small handful of Peterborough followers was almost ready to give up in despair when injuries to both his wrists forced Charlie Griffin to give up his goal in the second half. His place was taken by Harold Burrows, who proved himself a worthy substitute.

To J. Wade and Monks must go the honor of the goal which tied the score. The latter took a corner kick which he placed in the goal mouth with an accuracy which could not be denied, and Wade headed the ball into the net just before the whistle blew for time.

The Brantford team had apparently won the game, and the tying score, coming as it did in the last seconds of play, was a sad blow, which they took in a spirit of sportsmanship that is to be commended. The deciding game will be played in Peterborough on Saturday and will be played to a finish.

The treatment given the Peterborough team left nothing to be desired. The boys were met at the station by a representative of the Brantford eleven and conducted to the Y. M. C. A., where every facility was provided for their comfort and well being. An excellent lunch was served, shower baths and swimming pool provided, as well as motor transportation to the playing grounds. After the game a dinner and entertainment was tendered to those of the visiting team who could remain for it. Unfortunately, train connections were very close and only a few were able to wait over and avail themselves of the hospitality.

The Play.

Brantford kicked off and immediately forced the play into Peterborough territory, but met a firm defence in Crowe and Bishop. Blowers also helped to relieve the pressure, and after a few minutes the ball was carried to the Brantford area, where the Vets forced a fruitless corner.

The play ranged from end to end, with Brantford playing a great combination game but lacking accuracy in their final shots, most of which went wide. Almost twenty minutes went before Charlie Griffin was called upon to exert himself to make a save, though Brantford had several opportunities. The Petes went through in several raids, but seemed to lack the necessary pep for the final effort. J. Wade had two good opportunities for the Petes, but on the first occasion he missed the top corner by a hair, and on the second hit the upright. Brantford got possession of the ball and carried it into the Vets' territory, again giving Griffin two nice shots to handle. A scramble in front of the Peterborough goal resulted in some anxious moments for the Petes. Brantford got a shot which hit the post, and the shot from the re-bound went over the bar.

Both goals were visited in turn without result. Twice Burrows broke up a threatening play on the part of Brantford, and on other occasions offsides relieved the pressure. On one occasion Griffin took a nose dive for the full width of the goal to hand out a fast grounder, and in doing so injured one wrist, but stuck to his post. A change of wind was a big help to the Vets, who took the ball down, and Brantford made three lucky saves in rapid succession. On the third occasion Dyer headed the ball in from a scramble in front of the goal. Though it was admitted by some of the Brantford players that the ball was inside the goal, the referee did not see it so and no score was allowed.

Play went back and forth for the remainder of the period with but little to choose between the teams. Near half time Brantford was in a scoring position when, having drawn Griffin out of the nets, there was nothing to stop them. The final shot, however, missed the nets by six feet, though it was shot from close in. The last ten minutes of the first half were played in a sprinkle of rain.

The Petes started off strong in the second period, and in the first five minutes forced the Brantford goalie to make four hard stops. For about fifteen minutes they worried the Brantford boys considerably, but the fatigue of their long and hard journey began to tell on them, and after that Brantford had most of the play. Griffin was called upon twice in rapid succession to make hard stops, on one occasion fisting the ball over the bar from a terrific drive from close in. Brantford forced two corners without result, chiefly owing to good work on the part of Griffin.

Good combination work put Harrison of Brantford in a good position, and he sent in a terrific drive from close in for the first score. With but ten minutes to play the Vets re-doubled their efforts, but could make no headway. They were hemmed in around their own goal, and shot after shot was rained in on Griffin, who made some wonderful saves. In a mad scramble in the goal mouth, the Peterborough goalie injured his other wrist and was forced to give up his position. He exchanged places with Burrows, who handled some difficult shots and gave a good exhibition of goal-keeping for the remainder of the game.

With but two minutes to play, Brantford again missed an open goal. The Vets took possession of the ball, carried it down, and also missed after having drawn the goal-keeper out. With less than a minute to play, they forced a corner, which Monks took. His kick placed the ball squarely in the goal mouth for J. Wade to head it into the net, tying up the score. The whistle blew for time before the ball could be centred again.

The players were:

Peterborough — Griffin, goal; Burrows and Blowers, halves, Sharman, Peel, J. Wade, Dyer and Monks, forwards.

Massey - Harris — Stone, goal; Brown and E. Gilbert, backs; Proctor, Harbour and G. Gilbert, halves; Baker, Porter, Taylor, Moss and Harrison, forwards.

Referee—Evans of Guelph.

SCOTS TRIMMED THE WOOLLENS

Won a Fast Game at the Oval Saturday By a Score of 7 to 3.

There was plenty of thrills and plenty of scoring in the Thistles—Woollens game Saturday which ended in a victory for the Scots by a score of 7 to 3. The game was fast and clean all through with the Thistles holding a slight edge at all times.

The opening exchanges were very even and it was not long until Richmond put the Scots ahead but their success did not continue long for Gaskill equalized a few minutes later. The Scots came back again to put pressure on Woollen's defense. Cridland and Chambers responded well and held the Scots forwards from the danger zone. After 20 minutes play Richmond beat Monkman on a tackle in mid-field and from 15 yards out beat the Woollen's goalkeeper with a fast drive. A solo run down the wing by Mitchell left the Scots defense in a bad predicament that gave the Woollens a successful corker-kick taken by the outside-right and placed to Downes who lifted the ball into the far corner of the goal out of Richard's reach. This made the teams even again, just three minutes before half-time with two goals each.

On resuming, Shewan now at outside left landed the ball into the corner of far upright, then from centre Williams went through the defence to make it number four. Encouraged by their success, the Scots forwards went down in a line to evade the Woollens defence and Richmond again scoring, all within five minutes. At this period, the Woollens re-arranged their team which made a great improvement. Time and again Monkman would try and force the play but his forwards could not get away with the ball in front of goal. A nice piece of combination between Hutton and McKay resulted in Richmond receiving a well-placed ball to increase the score. Not discouraged, the Woollens took a new lease of play and from a foul given against McMillan for handing, Monkman beat Richard's who made a great attempt to stop a hard drive. Although goals were being added one after the other, play was fast and clean, in fact, the forwards were missing splendid openings in front of goal. A foul against McMillan outside the penalty area caused the Scots a lot of worry. Chamber drove hard for goal but Anderson saved the situation and for the next ten minutes Richards was kept busy clearing his goal. Slack play at the other end, with only two minutes to the final, Shewan outwitted Reid, to send a oblique shot inside the upright. Both goalkeepers played a good game beween the posts and all the goals were of an unsaveable character. Thistle 7, Woollens 3.

Goal-scorers—Richmond 4, Shewan 2 and Williams.

Woollens:—Monkman 2 and Gaskill.

Thistle:— Rickards, foal; Anderson and Rae, full-backs; Jackson, McMillan and McKay, half-backs; Shewan, Hutton, Richmond, Williams and Burgess, forwards.

Woollens:—Griffin, goal; Cridland and Chambers, full-backs; Reid, Monkman and Roberts, half-backs; Mitchell, Lauchlin, Gaskill, Crow and Downes, forwards

PETES BUNCHED HITS ON BELLEVILLE CREW AND TOOK TOP PLACE

Drove Williams to Cover and Took First Place in the Big Four Race For Second Half.

SCORE WAS 5 TO 4.

The Petes practically cinched first place in the second section of the Big Four race by defeating Belleville at Riverside Park in an exciting game on Saturday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4. By winning their two games with Cobourg, both of which will be played on the home lot, Manager Solomon's crew can not be beaten out for the honors of the second half and the play-off with Belleville for the Big Four title.

To win their third straight game from the Trunks the Petes had to come from behind for they spotted them three runs and with Williams working smoothly, Belleville's chances looked bright but the Verona Indians weakened in the fourth and was driven from the mound, the Petes scoring four runs. The fun started with Ansaldo's triple and when Shaughnessy, batting for Collins walked with the bases filled, sending Heckman in with the tieing run, Oulette was injected into the game and after Swanston had scored on Legon's bunt the pitcher retired the side without further scoring. But the Petes fell on the speed king in the fifth and punched their hits with telling effect for four more runs, putting the game on ice and taking the pep out of the railroaders who were not dangerous thereafter.

Heckman pitched steadily and apart from the fourth when Belleville bunched three hits for two runs, was never in danger. From the fourth until the ninth not a man reached first and he retired the side on strikes in the seventh. He fanned eight altogether and did not issue a base on balls. Belleville threatened in the ninth when after Brownscombe had tripled and scored on Hagerman's sacrifice fly, Peeney Mills, hitting for Oulette, and Ross singled but Heckman ended the rally by catching Ross off first.

There were no sensational fielding features provided although Brownscombe turned in a nice game at short for Belleville handling six chances without a sign of a slip, and Collins made a difficult catch of Williams' fly in the second inning. Brownscombe's hitting also was a feature the ex-Lindsay shortstop showing the way with two three-base hits.

Umpire Butler's decision on Swanston at the plate almost caused a near riot in the fourth. With the bases filled, Legon bunted to Oulette, who had replaced Williams at this stage, and Swanston was declared safe when Hagerman failed to touch the plate or the runner who slid under him. In the argument that followed Hagerman and Manager Soloman exchanged blows but were separated by their fellow players before any damage was done. Following is the play in detail:

First Inning.

Belleville—Ross flied to Nelson, Meagher's rap to short went for a hit the ball taking a bad hop away from Ansaldo. Weir flied to Ansaldo and Mills fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Petes—Brownscombe threw out Legon and Johnston, and Ansaldo lined to Meagher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning.

Belleville—J. K. Williams flied to Collins who made a shoe-string catch after a delayed start. Casey fanned. Brownscombe tripled to right centre and scored on Hagerman's single to centre. J. H. Williams flew out to Wolfe. One run, two hits, no errors.

Petes — Comolli grounded to Brownscombe. Heckman walked. Nelson also walked. Swanston forced Heckman at third, Brownscombe to Meagher. Wolfe fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning.

Belleville—Wolfe dropped Ross's fly after a long run, Ross making second. Meagher flied to Ansaldo. Weir hit to Ansaldo who threw over Comolli's head, Weir taking second and Ross third. Mills hit to Ansaldo and Ross was thrown out at the plate, Ansaldo to Swanston. Weir went to third on the play but J. K. Williams flied to Legon for the third out. No runs, no hits, two errors.

Petes—Collins out, Brownscombe to Mills. Legon flied to Ross and Johnston fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning.

Belleville—Casey singled to center, Brownscombe sacrified Heckman to Comolli. Hagerman fanned. J. H. Williams singled to right scoring Casey. Ross tripled to center, scoring Williams. Meagher grounded to Johnston. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Petes—Ansaldo hit over Weir's head for three bases and scored on a passed ball. Comolli singled to right and went to second when Casey let the hit get away from him. Heckman single off Meagher, Comolli going to third. Heckman stole second. Nelson out Williams to Mills. Swanston bunted to Williams and the pitcher missed the ball, Comolli scoring and Heckman making third. Wolfe bunted safely filling the bases. Shaughnessy batting for Collins walked, forcing Heckman in with the tieing run. This was enough for Williams, who was replaced by Oulette at this stage. Legon bunted to Oulette and Swanston was safe at the plate when Hagerman failed to touch the base, the decision causing much excitement for a few moments. With the bases still loaded, Johnston fanned and Ansaldo up for the second time ended the agony by grounding to J. K. Williams. Four runs, four hits, two errors.

Fifth Inning.

Belleville—Weir fanned. Mills flied to Wolfe, Ansaldo threw out Williams. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Petes—Comolli hit to J. K. Williams and was safe when the third baseman's throw pulled Mills off the bag. Heckman was hit by pitched ball. Nelson doubled to right scoring Comolli, Heckman stopping at third. Swanston doubled to left scoring Heckman and Nelson. Wolfe out Williams to Mills, Swanston going to third. Shaughnessy flew out to Weir. Legon singled to center scoring Swanston. Legon stole second but Johnston flied out to Mills. Four runs, three hits, one error.

Sixth Inning.

Belleville—Johnston threw out Casey. Brownscombe out, Heckman to Comolli. Hagerman flied to Johnston. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Petes—Ansaldo popped to Hagerman, Comolli fanned, Heckman out Oulette to Mills, a nice stop by the pitcher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning.

Belleville—Heckman fanned Oulette, Ross and Meagher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Petes—Nelson singled to left, Swanston singled to left, Wolfe singled to right filling the bases, but Oulette got out of a bad hole by fanning Shaughnessy and Legon and Johnston grounded to Meagher. No runs, three hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning.

Belleville—Weir fanned, Mills flew out to Wolfe and Nelson threw out Williams. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Petes—Ansaldo flied to Mills, Comolli fanned and Heckman flied to Brownscombe. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning.

Belleville — Turner replaced Shaughnessy in right field. Casey out, Comolli to Heckman who covered first. Brownscombe tripled to center, his second for the day. Brownscombe scored on Hagerman's fly to Wolfe. Peeney Mills batting for Oulette singled through the box. Ross singled to right, Mills taking third, but Heckman ended the belated rally by catching Ross off first. No runs, no hits no errors.

Both teams were blanked in the first after getting men on. In the second Rice hit for three bases and scored on a sacrifice fly by Mills. ## PETES MUST WIN TOMORROW'S GAME

Two Victories Over Cobourg Are Needed to Hold on to First Place.

Though Saturday's victory gave the Petes a good lead in the race for second half honours the local boys must beat Cobourg twice before they can be sure of getting into the play-off. One defeat for the Petes and two wins for Belleville in the remaining games to be played would put these teams on even terms again. Cobourg is scheduled to play the first of the two game series here to-morrow afternoon and with so much depending on the game the local boys are out to make their hold on the top position as sure as possible. Cobourg has had but one victory against the Petes this season, but is nevertheless a team to be reckoned with when the Petes need every game.

The local team has just been hitting its stride as the last three games with Belleville has shown. In three successive games the locals have defeated thir strongest opponents for the Central League title and it looks as if they should continue to go strong for the remainder of the season. The boys have been turning in some pretty good batting averages, and the checks in the error column have been cut down to a very few, which gives Manager Solomon every encouragement to pull out with a victory to-morrow.

The game is scheduled to start at 5 o'clock sharp.

PORT HOPE TENNIS CLUB TOO STRONG FOR LOCALS

The Port Hope Tennis Club were too strong for the local racquet wielders on Saturday afternoon, when a strong contingent from the southern town played at the Monaghan Avenue Courts.

With ideal weather conditions, play was exceptionally good, particularly in the ladies' events, which were very strongly contested.

In the match between Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Cranfield, and the Misses Petry and Ward, the Peterboro ladies ran away with the first set and looked like easy winners, but Miss Petry settled into her stride, and outstroked the local pair, with enough assistance from Miss Ward, who placed well, to carry off the honors.

Mrs. Cruthers and Miss Giroux fought hard but their opponents were too steady for them, and won most of the critical rallies.

The Peterboro men were weakened by the absence of Walter Jackson and Bowness was out of his stride with a strange partner. But Briden and Tuer were a strong combination and had the reserve strength to put over the winning points when most needed.

The nearest Peterboro came to winning a match was when Scott and Cranfield took on Ryan and Briden in an added fixture. But darkness stopped the play when the local men were set up and 3 all. It would have been an interesting match.

The ladies of the club served tea in such style as to rank as an achievement.

The summary of the matches is as follows.

Morse and Miss Grant, Port Hope beat Foster and Mrs. Otterwell, 6-3; 6-3.

Ryan and Bradley, Port Hope, beat Metherall and Maybee, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Petry and Miss M. Ward, Port Hope, beat Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Cranfield, 2-6, 6-2; 6-4.

Miss Tuer and Miss Grant, Port Hope, beat Mrs. Cruthers and Miss Giroux, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

Briden and Tuer, Port Hope, beat Bowness and Cranfield, -4, 7-5.

Briden and Miss Bennett, Port Hope, beat Ross and Mrs. Ross, 6-4, 6-4.

Ryan and Mis L. Ward, Port Hope, beat Scott and Miss McNamara, 6-3, 7-5.

BOWLING

Four rinks from Peterborough will journey to Belleville to-morrow determined to carry away with them the honors in the bowling tournament. The rinks are skipped by Walter Oke, George Cairns, B. B. Morden and Dr. . H. Allen. They believe they will show the Belleville crews something new in bowling tactics.

Interesting Ceremony in Mount Royal Cemetery in Montreal.

MONTREAL, August 6 (Canadian Press). — The formal opening of the forty-first International Supreme Conference of the Knights of Columbus will take place to-morrow morning. Already a vast concourse of chevaliers have reached Montreal, coming from every state of the Union, and it is expected that at least 15,000 members and their friends will have arrived in this city before the conclave begins.

A graceful tribute was paid by the Knights yesterday when, following the desire of the Supreme Knight, James Flaherty of Philadelphia, the delegates joined in the ceremony which took place in Mount Royal Cemeteries, Protestant and Catholic, in honour of the memory of the Canadian soldiers and sailors buried there. Mr. Flaherty deposited a wreath on the Cross of Sacrifice, which stands between the two sections, while another wreath was placed there by the American Consul-General Cochran, on behalf of the American Legion. This token was reciprocated by Dr. W. A. Atherton, who laid anchors of flowers on the graves of several American citizens who had served in the Canadian Army during the war.

MARKETS WILL CLOSE FOR HARDING FUNERAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press).—The New York stock, cotton and other financial and commodity exchanges in this city announced to-day that they would be closed next Friday, the day of President Harding's funeral.

SOUTH IS REPLACING NEGROS With WHITES

New Era For South Forecase by Movement Now Under Way in South Carolina — Planter, Politician And Banker Explains Plans

(By FRANK A. CLARVOE)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4 (United Press).—"Young Rastus is following the lead of old Uncle Joe and lay in down de stubbul an' do hoe."

"Rastus is leaving the southern cotton fields with their carefree life and low pay for the steel mills and manufactories of the north, for higher pay and other conditions which he thinks he wants."

"For the first time in its history, South Carolina's white population outnumbers the black, and for the second time in its history the old south faces a great problem of readjustment because of the 'emancipation' of the negro."

Such is the declaration of Richard Ir Manning, prominent banker and planter, of South Carolina and state's "war governor." Former Governor Manning was here recently with a party of South Carolinians to study colonization practices in the west, to the end that some similar plan may be perfected and put into practice in his state. They are continuing their trip throughr Oregon, Washington and the great northwest.

Hordes of negroes are departing monthly from the southern cotton belt to industrial centers in the north and west. Facing a serious labor shortage, with its output of cotton reduced nearly 70 per cent since 1921, and thousands of its farms abandoned, South Carolina is turning its attention to solving its own state and sectional problem by the only means seemingly possible, according to Manning—establishment of the state of colonies of hardy people able, agriculturally, to support themselves.

Money Provided

The last South Carolina legislature approved the colonization plan and provided the money for preliminary investigation, Manning said.

Southern hospitality is to acquire a new—an economic—significance.

Manning declared that the boll weevil, that costly scourge of the cotton fields, has precipitated a crisis in the south, a crisis augmented by the exodus of the negro and the flocking of white laborers to the southern mills.

"Since 1892, when the weevil swarmed from Mexico into Texas, until 1920, when South Carolina was smitten, the result was inevitable," Manning declared. "In 1922 catastrophe was upon us. In one year our crop was reduced from 1,600,000 bales to 500,000 bales and a total of more than $100,000,000 yearly return in cash lost to the state.

"Pinched by conditions at home and attracted by high wages in other sections, the negro then hastened his migration. More than 50,000 have left the state since last December. Most of tyese were field laborers. Others rented small farms, which now are abandoned. There is nobody to work them. Small, white land-holders followed by deserting their farms. Seven thousand farms, an untold acreage, now lie idle. Many of their workers are in the cotton mills, which are springing up all over the state until South Carolina is second only to Massachusetts in value of cotton manufactures."

Good for the State

"While South Carolina does not view with enthusiasm the withdrawal of its small land-owner from agricultural pursuits for work in the mills and does not feel that cotton manufactories can replace agriculture as the basis for state wealth, the departure of the negro is actually a good thing," Manning continued. "People of the south must now use their heads rather than their own and others hands. The exodus removes from the shoulders of the south the last of the incubic weight which has throttled southern enterprise.

"We now face a condition similar to that following the war between the states. Then the negro ceased to be a slave and became a paid worker, but still content for the most part to remain with the soil. That change in his economic status caused the white population to readjust itself. Now the negro is steadily forsaking the soil for the industrial plant, and another economic adjustment is necessary.

"These abandoned farms must be manned, labor must be supplied, new land must be reclaimed, and while cotton must still be king, greater diversification of farming must be instituted.

Solution of the Struggle

"To make a success of cotton here must be, as in everything else, a fair margin of profit. It is hand-labor. The solution of the fight for cotton lies in the forming of colonies of hardy agriculturalists, with ambition to take advantage of state aid to own their own farms and work out their own salvation with cotton and other crops, with their hands.

"We need new blood to aid in this extension of agricultural activity, in the fight for southern cotton. The legislature's plan is to hand-pick prospective immigrants from the northern countries of Europe and settle them in colonies where they can have unit state supervision and the benefits of the farm loan banking system. They will not be laborers in the sense that we are importing 'hands' to replace the vanishing negro. The immigrants will not be scattered. The colonies are planned as units and must be self supporting, for we, as a state, believe that as the small home owner is the backbone of the nation, the small land owner is the backbone of an industrial section. The farms that have been rented by large land owners and formerly rented to the negro are particularly considered as the seats of activity for the people who we hope to bring into the state."

"This plan of ours will be called a startling departure for the south," Manning admitted. "Undoubtedly it is. A new era of progressivism is dawning, and while this plan, as it is carried out and extended, will mean readjustments, social, economic, political, South Carolina, and the south with her, wittingly considers these possibilities, and beyond the fog of this present serious situation sees promise of a brilliant economic future."

The George Street team will meet the Cogs in an East Peterborough fixture at Riverside Park on Wednesday, 8th August, at 6 o'clock sharp.

REGISTERING A MINOR COMPLAINT.

An old negro with an appetite so voracious as to give him more than purely a local reputation, visited the commissary store on the Mississippi plantation where he lived and intimated politely, but earnestly, that he was hungry. The clerk was by way of being a practical joker.

"All right, Uncle Zach," he said. "I guess I can do something for you. The boss wouldn't like for any of his hands to be suffering for lack of food. Here's a tin of crackers and here's a new kind of soft cheese that we've just gotten in."

So saying, he handed the darky a 15-cent can of axle grease.

"Just sit down yonder in the doorway," he added, "and spread that cheese on your crackers and go to it."

The old man thanked him and obeyed. He munched away steadily until the meal was finished. The axle grease tin had been wiped out clean when he rose to his feet and salvaged a few crumbs which had lodged on his shirt-front.

"Well, Uncle Henry," asked the joker, "how did you enjoy your little snack?"

"Well, suh," said Uncle Henry, "dem crackers sho' wuz fine, but dat cheese she acted to me lak she was jest a little bit ransom."

PRIVATE PROPOSALS FOR MAKING A NEW ST. LAWRENCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (By Canadian Press.—Concrete private proposals for making a "New St. Lawrence" by reconstructing the existing river to obtain the maximum efficiency both for navigation and power have been made by Colonel Hugh C. Cooper, New York engineer, who has developed more than 1,500,000 hydraulic horsepower in various parts of the world. Deta'ls of these proposals were given in a recent article published by the Wall Street Journal.

At present the 120 mile stretch between Ogdensburg and Montreal, with a drop of 220 feet, transports 4,500,000 tons of freight a year and develops 200,000 horsepower. The International Joint Commissin report to the governments of Canada and the United States based on recommendations of government engineers, proposed three dams nine locks, thirty-one miles of canals, and the installation of 4,545,000 h.p. capacity, at a total cost of $506,000,000, without interest during construction.

Colonel Cooper's report filed with the commission calls for five dams, six locks, six miles of canals and 5,400,000 h.p. capacity, at a total cost, including all charges of from $1,250,000 t $1 400,000. Of this development 4,200,000 h.p. would go to Canada by treaty right but the U. S. interests favoring this plan hope that part of this power could be used in the United States until Canadian markets require it. An annual movement of over 100,000,000 tons of freight is forecast should the project be completed.

As the first step in this program, Colonel Cooper proposes installation of a 1,200,000 h.p. unit at Car Island, about midway between Morrisburg and Cornwall. On behalf of the Frontier Corporation of the State of New York, more than $250,000 has been spent for engineering research, and another $500,000 is available to complete investigations as soon as governmental permission to proceed with construction is obtained.

The interests owning the Frontier Corporation are: Du Pont Co., General Electric Co. and Aluminum Co. of America. The last named concern spent several millions in acquiring lands along the Long Sault stretch of the river, but passed control to the Frontier Corporation, which now owns in fee Cat Island and about 4,200 lineal feet of New York shore line to and above the island.

These interests are prepared to furnish all the finds for the construction at that point of a control dam 2,750 feet long, and two power houses each 3,100 feet long, with their hydraulic and electrical contents, up to and including the low tension bus bars, at an estimated cost of $200,000,000. At the same time, Colonel Cooper points out that the cost of this first unit will be so great that the concerns behind the Frontier Corporation can never be more than leaders and minority holders of the necessary securities.

All navigation facilities would be paid for, owned, operated and maintained by the two governments. The interests behind Colonel Cooper would act as construction agents for a fixed fee equal to 6 per cent of the adopted cost estimate. The cost of a 30-foot channel at the site is estimated at $30,000,000. All structures connecting the upstream ends of the power houses with navigation facilities and the shores would be paid for, owned and maintained by the two governments, who in addition would make good damages due to adopted pool levels.

The difficulties of design are slight, but construction, owing to the depth, width and rate of flow of the river, together with the fact that ice shoves up to 675,000 tons an hour would have to be faced for several days each spring during the construction period, offers many difficulties. Colonel Cooper is confident these can be overcome if private enterprise is given free reign within the limits of suitable government control, and in addition he plans to operate such a plant continuously at capacity despite ice conditions.

STATISICS SHOW SLIM MEN SHOULD BE LONG LIVED.

Thirty Is the Magical Age In Health Development Of Ordinary Persons Life.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4 (Associated Press).—Thirty is the magical age in the health development of the ordinary person's life. At thirty he is supposed more nearly to approach the normal. Under thirty he may well weigh a number of pounds above the average called for in the standard height, weight and age tables, but after thirty the longest life span prevails among those whose weights are uniformly below the average, according to figures compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, of this city, and given out by the American Child Health Association.

The association asks everyone to keep track of his or her weight, and to remedy any excess by diet and right living.

In a statement accompanying the figures Dr. Louis T. Dublin, of the insurance company, who compiled them, says:

"After thirty, people who weigh less than the average have a better chance for long life, the records of the insurance companies show. After this age it is a decided advantage to be slight and a serious handicap to gain materially in weight; provided, of course, that the light weight is not the result of a sudden loss of weight which may be the result of organic disease."

"But the weight tables posted on public scales," he continues, "should not be taken too literally. Young persons may well weigh a number of pounds above the average called for by the tables. An excess of ten pounds is associated with the most favorable conditions among people between twenty and twenty-five years old.

"The public should realize these facts and accommodate their habits of diet and exercise to them. In America we eat too much and too well. The oriental coolie and the European peasant do an enormous amount of physical work on a meagre diet. No one advocates a return to primitive conditions or to lower standards of living, but it would be well for us to keep in mind the exact requirements of the adult body. We should recognize that when we have grown up we no longer need food for growth, and that for the replacement of burned up tissues we need only about 2,500 calories a day. This is equivalent to two very light meals and one hearty meal a day. Let me illustrate with a menu for an entire day for an active adult which will contain the required 2,500 calories. For breakfast he may have a small average serving of cooked fruit or an apple or an orange, a serving of cereal, a slice of bread or one muffin or roll with butter, a cup of coffee with sugar and cream. This will contain about 600 calories. The luncheon may consist of a salad, bread and butter, a choice of coffee, tea, or cocoa, with sugar and cream and a dessert. This will account for 650 calories. The important meal of the day, or dinner, may consist of a soup, an average serving of meat, potato, two green vegetables, bread and butter and a dessert. If average portions are served, a total of about 1,200 calories will be included. This would make the total for the day approximately 2,500 calories.

"If more people checked their diet to the reasonable limits of their body requirements, there would be a great improvement in the general health of the nation."

THE TREE SWALLOW.

I know of no bird more graceful in flight than the swallow. Other birds may fly more rapidly, sing more sweetly, or be more beautiful, but the swallow surpasses them all in beauty of motion, in skilfulness of performance of aerial evolutions. Now he poises in air, now he races by at train speed, now he rises abruptly, now he soars with some wanton wind. Wind and calm are all alike to him. Life seems to be a continuous round of joy.

The tree swallows in front of my cottage are types of these delightful birds. Eight feet up in a hickory stump they have a nest. Now, swallows are not equipped for excavating in old wood, but woodpeckers are, so what could be more convenient for a swallow's home than an erstwhile woodpecker's excavation? An ideal nest sitel and so easily accessible—for me—a nest out of reach of ordinary dangers, and very inconspicuous. Deep down in the hole are the young ones, but not too far down to be easily reached from the opening at feeding time.

I know of no more pleasing sight than that of the parents clinging at the nest hole, their pretty evolutions in making the landing, the shining dark-blue irridescent backs, the immaculate white breasts. Soon they are speeding away just above the surface of the water or high in air and always they are uttering their sociable, musical chatter.

"CAPPY RICKS" AT CHAUTAUQUA HERE

Comedy Drama in Three Acts Drew a Fair Sized Audience.

"Cappy Ricks," a comedy drama in three acts, was the attraction at the Chautauqua tent on Saturday evening. There was a fair-sized audience of between three and four hundred people for this entertainment, which was the third successful entertainment in what has proved to be a specially good series of Chautauqua offerings this year.

The play is a light comedy, based on a mix-up in names, with "Cappy" holding the stage throughout, dynamic, quarrelsome, dominant, altogether delightful in his quick transitions from good humour to bellowing autocracy. Contrary to the usual version of Alden R. Ricks, usually pictured as a whimsical old gentleman, the Chautauqua hero is a tall, well-built man with handsome features and grey hair.

A highly entertained audience watched the undoing of the domineering "Cappy" by his daughter and Captain Matt Peasley. The daughter decides to go into the shipping business herself, and enlists as an ally young Matt Peasley, whose various encounters with the shouting "Cappy" add zest to the entire performance. Matt has been discharged as first mate on one of the Ricks boats, but refuses to recognize the massage, licks the Swedish Peterson sent to replace him, and sails the "Retriever" home in triumph. Florence, the Captain's daughter, decides to keep her affairs a secret from her father, and gives Matt an assumed name, which involves her with the real owner of its her father's stevedoring. The complications which ensue, and the manner in which the two juniors beat the old gentleman at his own game, formed three peppy, interesting acts, replete with humour and funny situations.

The cast of the little play, which derived much of its comedy from Cecil Pericles Bernard, a young English gentleman with a monocle who finds himself constrained to labour on the "Sweet Clover," one of the Ricks' fertilizer boats, and from Skinner, "Cappy's" general business manager and buffer, who is a wizened little old man, shivering under his employer's wrath and reviving under his returning geniality, is composed of the following players: Cappy Ricks, Thaddeus Gray; Florence Ricks (his daughter), Pearl Gray; Matt Peasley, Earle Mayne; John Skinner (general manager), Arthur Boyer; Cecil Pericles Bernard, John T. Veitch; Ellen Murray (his stenographer), Mae Dolores.

This evening, Lileurance's Brass Choir will give a concert prelude to the lecture, "The Basis of Liberty," by Frank Preston Johnson.

In connection with the children's morning entertainment, the amusement tax is charged extra, with a charge of one cent for the children and two cents for adults attending. The Chautauqua performances, as scheduled for afternoon and evening, are complete in themselves, the children's entertainments being thrown in extra. Therefore it is necessary to charge amusement tax on these occasions.

Rotary Camp

The sinews of any camp are its commissariats. The splendid facilities of equipment and supply which are at the disposal of the Rotarian campers are a remarkable testimony to interest in this phase of boys' work which Rotary of Peterborough is showing.

The local merchants are to be commended for their interest in this work by donating food and material.

Visitors from other parts can fly with all candour that they have never seen a camp unit with more complete detail of equipments.

The latest additions to the plant are the bunk house ice house, and fire place. The first contains seven bunk rooms with sleeping accommodation for eight boys. With the exception of the doors every opening to the outer air is screened as a protection against flies, and whatever lonely bands of mosquitoes may penetrate this portion of the coast of Clear Lake. By the way, the camp th's year has been happily free of the last named pest. Mattresses stuffed with straw, and blankets laid out neatly in the bunks to complete the sleeping equipment and the observant caller will note that ventilation is well taken care of. A convenient healthful, skillfully planned building for it, purpose is the bunk house.

In addition to the superintendents cottage and ice-ouse, there are the dining-hall and cook-house. The former is the spacious building which housed the bunks and dining-room last year. In the dining section there is combined a recreation room, fitted up with fir, place and library. This library has been stocked by the Rotarians with the most interesting and instructive of boys books Funds were raised during the past year by the Rotarians for the magnificent stone fire place which now adorns the eastern end of this geat room. The cook house in addition to housekeepers bed-room and store-room contains a kitchen with stove, sink and taps which on being turned, produce (to the visitors amasement!), both hot and cold water. A camp kitchen is the breeding place of either health or disease. Cleanliness and health are watchwords in the Rotarian Camp Cook-house.

Visualize this group of camp buildings on an ideal camp site, sloping sharply to the lakeside, with a view across Clear Lake to Kawartha Park and Sandy Point and you have a clearing on a wooded shore, a little piece of Canada which is Camp Rotary.

Immediately after luncheon, the visitors were taken on a trip over the Hydraulic Lift Lock. The Government boat "Bessie Buler" was charterd for the occasion by Patriarch G. N. Gordon, M. ### DO YOU KNOW THAT?

In Lysefjord, Norway, there is a high perpendicular cliff which at times emits a gas that ignites upon contact with the air, causing a glowing white stream of light, like a gigantic rocket fifty yards in length, to shoot up and explode with a tremendous crash. There is a similar phenomenon at Troldjol on the Jorenjord and in the Olaf Valley, also in Norway. It has never been satisfactorily explained.

Through continued practice and use of the left hand we can stimulate the left section of our brain-cells to such an ent as to become ambidextrous and able to write and figure with both hands at the same time.

DE LAVAL OUTING A GREAT SUCCESS

Very Pleasant Afternoon's Trip on the Otonabee —Music and Sports.

(By Frank Russell.)

The DeLaval excursion on Saturday last, August 4th, proved a delightful outing. Everything seemed to be have been well thought out and planned ahead of time, so as a natural result there were no hitches, no awkward contretemps. All went as easily as the proverbial marriage bell.

The Outward Start.

As near to 1.30 p.m. "as makes no difference," the staunch little S.S., "Stoney Lake," cast off her mooring ropes at the George street wharf. There were then about two hundred souls on board, including a dance orchestra of three, and the Melody Band to the number of a dozen. The dance music was supplied by a Mr. and Mrs. Russell, at the piano and violin respectively, with Mr. Breadman acting as cornetiste. These artistes were located on the main deck, where dancing was at once commenced, while the Melodie Concert Band, with trombone and saxaphone performed mostly on the upper deck, although at times they provided the dance music below.

A run across the bay brought us to the East City wharf, where a few were taken on; another contingent was picked up at the Peterborough Lock, and yet more at the Street Railway wharf until probably somewhere around two hundred and seventy souls were aboard.

Trip Down the River.

And then we started off in real earnest. The weather was, well, decidedly hot, as the "probs" put it, while many thunder storms in many places were to be anticipated towards night. Shortly after the start was effected there were ominous clouds to be seen, and equally ominous puffs of wind were to be felt. But as a matter of fact these were but empty threats; the clouds blew away, while sunshine and heat prevailed all day. We steamed down the river, receiving hearty cheers from campers on both sides of the waterway, until at three p.m. we reached Wallace's Point, where the boat was tied up.

The Sports.

Here it had been arranged that a game of baseball and various sporting events should be brought off. The baseball game was quickly begun—DeLaval vs. the Colonial Weaving won by the latter team.

Then came races of every kind, sort and description, jumping, tug of war and soft ball game, and the following results will give the reader some idea of the size of

The Programme.

Boys under 10 years (50 yards)—1 T. Todd, 2 M. Reuter. Prizes $1 and 50c.

Girls, under 10 years (50 yards)—1 Margaret Todd, 2 M. Kent. Prizes Box of candies and bathing cap.

Boys, 10 to 13 years (50 yards)—Prizes bathing suit, and belt. — 1 James Shaw, 2 J. Todd.

Girls, 14 to 16 (50 yards.) — 1 H. Evans, 2 M. Todd. Prizes handbag, bathing cap.

Girls, 16 years and over (50 yards) —1 M. Todd, 2 Mrs. Lea. Prizes, brooch, bathing cap.

Boys, 16 years and over (100 yds) —1 J. Bulley, 2 J. Cooper. Prizes, baseball, belt.

Married men's race (100 yards.)—1 J. Ward, 2 Murray. Prizes, lemon squeezer, belt.

Married women's race — 1 Mrs. Lea, 2 Mrs. Pickles. Prize hand bag.

Wheelbarrow race — Ward and Evans. Prizes, safety razors.

Broad jump — 1 J. Ward, 2 Delorme. Prizes belt, belt. Some very good work was shown in this event.

Standing jump — 1 B. Pitchford. Prize, belt.

Lady baseball players' race — 1 Miss Todd, 2 Mrs. Lea. Prizes $2 and $1.

Three legged race — 1 Mulley and Cooper, 2 Sharpe and Murray. Prizes $1.25 and 75c.

Tug of war—4 teams, A, B, C, and D, won by A team.

Prizes a large box of cigars to the winners and a large box of cigarettes to the losers.

There was some very good team work shown over this latter event which excited a great deal of interest. It was real hard work, more especially taking into consideration the fact that the sun's rays were pouring down with no shade available, the shade temperature at that time being probably around 88 degrees.

Soft Ball Game

Between Colonial Weaving Girls and the DeLaval Girls, won by the DeLaval team; 1st prize, a ball, 2 a bat (donated to the losers.

Further Proceedings.

At 6 p.m., nearly all met again on the boat, when suppers became largely the order of the day, after which we went for a sail down the river to Rice Lake, returning to Wallace's Point for a few minutes after 8 for those couples who preferred meandering around the lanes to the excitement or exertion of dancing on board. We ran on the upboard trip into a perfect cloud of flies, which bothered us more or less for some little time, necessitating the extinguishment of nearly all the lights. Eventually we reached the street railway wharf, where a large number of our fellow trippers went on terra-firma, leaving quite comparatively a few to get off at the George street wharf, which was was reached shortly after half past nine and we were

Home Again.

Great credit is due to those who had the management of a very successful and happy affair. The whole affair went off most harmoniously, and every one seemed thoroughly happy and enjoying themselves. The committee in charge may well consider the affair a big success.

Messrs G. F. Clark and Wm. Ford were the gentlemen in charge of the musical part of the day's enjoyment.

The Soorts' Committee comprised Messrs W. Cook and E. G. Abrahams as starting judges, while Messrs. E. J. Ruth and T. Marchin were the finishing judges. Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Cook and other ladies also took an active part in the proceedings.

Mr. Ted Markham and Mr. Chas. Cole afforded much amusement as comic singers. The intervals between dances were filled up by chorus singing, largely of the comic order, affording a very agreeable change in the programme of the day's events.

RETURN TO GOD TO SAVE WORLD

Rev. J. D. Richardson Made Earnest Plea for Communion With the Divine.

Rev. J. D. Richardson had an unique experience yesterday, when, as newly arrived minister of St. James' Methodist Church, he preached his first sermon in the city at the Union Services in Park Street Baptist Church. He informed the congregation that this is the second occasion on which this experience has befallen him. The first sermon he preached after his ordination was in a Presbyterian Church.

The morning service yesterday drew a splendid congregation and the pastor held the interest of all in the church with a masterly appeal for a return to God. The spirit of the time of Malachi was a departure from God, and it appeared to the people of that day that the vain man was progressing whil, the religious man was suffering in the world, the speaker said. This was symptomatic of the departure of God. In our own day the conditions are somewhat the same What is needed is religious faith and trust in God. Bonar Law, referring to the need of the world, said "What the world needs is tranquility.' What was true from a political standpoint is true from a religious standpoint.

"We are constantly in the midst of hurrying crowds," the speaker said. "There is not time for communion of the soul with God. We place too high a value to talk, and lose the art of meditation. Moments of meditation would seem like hours in these hurrying days in which we live.

The Voice of God.

Emphasizing the necessity for a right spirit in attending church, the reverend speaker said, it is the House of God and the very Gate of Heaven. "We need to wait upon God, to hear His voice, (be still and know that I am God." We need to return to God with a truer appreciation of the value of prayer. Prayer enables us to fill life with the power of the spirit of God; it transforms human weakness into strength, and unrest into peace of mind and heart. But there are too many who would rather hear the honk of an automobile horn than listen to the chimes of the church bells calling them to the House of God. Return to God with a passion for His House and a love for His Sanctuary.

"The Church stands for all that is best in our life to-day, it is the greatest bulwark against Bolshevism and anarchy, and the decline of the church would mean the impoverishment of the world. If the torch of the spirit life of humanity was kindled by Jesus Christ, it is the Church that through the centuries has kept the torch burning."

In conclusion, the speaker urged his hearers to approach the sanctuary with a spirit of reverence He said that reverent intercessory prayer would help in the worlds unrest and would perhaps bring peace. "A great body of men and women in earnest intercessory prayer would do more than anything else to bring the world to a spirit of the brotherhood of man."

WEDDING BELLS

HARRISON—SARGENT.

Trinity Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, 4th August, when Florence May, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. E. Sargent, 488 Sherbrooke Street, became the bride of Stanley Smith Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rich. Harrison Otonabee — Rev. A. J. Langford officiating.

The bride who entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Mr George H. King, was attired in a becoming gown of sand canton crepe, with hat to match, and stone-marten fur, and carrying a bouquet of sunburst roses and lily of the valley.

During the signing of the register Mrs. George H. King sang "Because." Miss Myrtle Sargent and Mr. Melville Harrison acted as the witnesses.

The bride and groom were recipients of many beautiful presents, among which were gifts from the operating staff of the Bell Telephone Co., the Trinity Choir, Whatsoever Class of Trinity Sunday School, and the Stock Bread Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left for a motor and boat trip, the bride travelling in a navy blue wrap and grey hat. On their return they will reside at 569 Bolivar Street.

DEWART—BALLARD.

A quiet wedding was held on Thursday, 2nd August at St. John's Church, Madoc, when Emily, youngest daughter of the late William and Mrs. Ballard of Madoc, was married to John Alexander Dewart, of Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. H. Hall, in the presence of immediate relatives. The happy couple left after for a motor trip, and on their return will reside at 494 Charlotte Street, Peterborough. —Toronto Globe, 6th August.

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(Special.)—In the early dealings on the stock exchange stocks did the rally in progress at Saturday's close, reflecting the confidence entertained regarding the ability of President Coolidge to exert a strong hand in national and international affairs. Another constructive factor which developed over the week end was Poincare's message to London that he was waiting to continue friendly negotiations with England on reparations. Prices among the active stocks were generally higher throughout the railroad and industrial groups.

Baldwin moved up a full point to 112 1-8, and sizable fractions were gained by Steel, Studebaker, American Locomotive, Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and South Pacific.

Stocks gathered momentum on the recovery until a sharp rally was in progress toward 11 o'clock. Steel snapped back to 89 5-8, against Saturday's low of 86, American Can to 88 1-2, compared with 85 1-4, and American Locomotive to 78 3-8, against 69 1-4.

The strength in the latter stock was due to the approach of the dividend meeting scheduled for Thursday when an increase to a $6 basis is expected.

Growing uneasiness was manifested by the short interest as prices continued to improve in the late morning. Emphasis was placed upon the improvement outlook in the foreign situation as the reason of France's step toward opening negotiations discussions after the door in this direction had been considered practically closed. Logically the marks suffered a further collapse to new low records on the theory that the settlement of the Anglo French dispute would have to be based on a replacement of the present German currency with some new form. Marks sank to 1,886,800 to the dollar.

Opening prices included, Sinclair 21 1-2; N.Y.C., 98 1-2; Cons. Gas, 60 1-2; Anaconda 40, up 3-8; Studebaker, 101 3-4, up 1-2; Penna, 42 5-8, up 1-8; United States Rubber 37 3-4; American Locomotive 71 1-2, up 1; Baltimore and Ohio 47, up 5-8; Bethlehem Steel 46 7-8, up 3-8; General Motors 13 5-8, off 1-8; Southern Pacific 85, up 1-2; U. S. Steel 86 7-8, up 5-8; Northern Pacific 56, up 1-4; Baldwin 112 1-8, up 1; Union Pacific 125 3-4, up 3-4.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS:

It is at this season that water is most needed in the garden, as a rule. Water is of the greatest benefit in improving the size and quality of both vegetables and flowers. More or less water is wasted, however, if it is given in the middle of the day because of rapid evaporation. The best time to water the garden is in the late afternoon or evening. Little is accomplished when the ordinary sprinkler is used. If the water comes through a hose, let it run freely over the ground. If it must be carried in the watering pot, let it run from the open nozzle. In that way enough will be applied to soak into the ground and reach the roots, instead of merely moistening the surface.

Your Habits

How many of your actions are "thought out" in advance? How many are mechanical, without thought—the result of habit?

Did it ever occur to you, why you always sit at the same place during meals instead of moving to a chair at another side of the table? Habit.

Do you realize that you are in the habit of travelling certain established routes through the streets to get to your bank, grocery store, place of business and so on, although there might be a short-cut route if you paused to figure it out?

The older we get, the more we become creatures of habit, like mechanical dolls.

Unconsciously we attempt, day after day, to get the same seat in the street car. We don't always get it, but on the average there's one certain seat where we're most apt to be found.

Men, in putting on your trousers in the morning, which leg goes first—right or left? Why not the other? How about shoes?

Here's an interesting experiment you can perform. Take a door that is used often. Reverse this door so that the hinges will be where the knob formerly was. Then watch. You'll find people coming up and, though looking straight at the familiar door, they'll reach for the side where the knob used to be.

Habit, again! Each of us has his own particular way of opening mail. One person tears off a corner of the envelope and inserts a finger. Another tears off the whole end. Still another slits the flap with a pencil, or bends the scissors. All done mechanically, including the habit of holding envelopes to the light before opening. This comes from a subconscious hope that there's money inside.

There's no way of figuring it out exactly, but at least half of our actions must be mechanically performed, without thinking, the result of habit. Life is largely routine, and routine develops habit.

Are you a slave to habit? It is the worst form of slavery, for by it a man enslaves himself, especially his thought and potential powers of originality. And the habit of automatism—unthinking, involuntary action—can be as injurious to our careers as the vicious habits such as drugs and liquor.

"Getting in a rut" is usually due to becoming the victim of habit. Here's where system and efficiency short-circuit themselves. For habit destroys initiative.

One Million Marks Could Be Purchased For 28 cts. Today

NEW YORK, August 7. (Special.) — One million German paper marks could be purchased in the local foreign exchange market today for 28 cents, or only 7 cents more than the price of a single mark before the war. To-day's quotation represented an overnight depreciation of 46 per cent., the rate last night being 39 cents a million. Saturday's rate was 90 cents.

Commercially, Germany's paper currency has been regarded as worthless for a long time. All business with that country has been done in currency of the United States, Great Britain, or neutral countries.

Berlin reports the cost of living in Germany is 72,000 times higher than it was in 1914, according to the July statistics just issued.

On Monday the mark slumped, under pressure of speculators, to two million to the dollar, while the Government presses turned out marks at the rate of eight trillion a day.

Many lines, including the automobile, doubled wages over the week-end.

DR. T. JOHNSTON THE INSPECTOR

Local Veterinary Surgeon Appointed to Important Office Connected With Live Stock Shipping.

Dr. Thos. Johnston, veterinary surgeon, has been made the recipient of a rather important appointment by recent advice from Ottawa that he has been named as inspector for the Midland division of live stock imported into the United States from Canada.

Under new regulations governing cattle, hogs and sheep sent from Canada to the United States, which have been the subject of discussion between the two countries for some time, coming into effect finally on the first of May of this year, inspection of such animals is required before they are shipped out of the Dominion.

A clean bill of health is required by American purchasers of Canadian live stock.

Dr. Johnston will inspect the animals at the point of departure, in the three specified classes: (1) Dairy and breeding cattle; (2) sheep for breeding, grazing and feeding; (3) ruminants, other than cattle or sheep.

The certificates provided for the inspector guarantee that the animals inspected are free from any evidence of contagious disease, and that premises in which they have been kept, or adjoining premises, have been free of all contagious disease for sixty days prior to the date of examination.

Certificates for sheep intended for slaughter are no longer needed.

The appointment for this class of inspection, known as field work, is made by the Veterinary Director-General, from the Health of Animals Branch, Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Johnston, who has had thirty-three years' diverse experience with animals of all sorts, should be well qualified for the position.

ITALY'S STAND ON SITUATION IN THE RUHR

Government Desires to Contribute to Success of Britain's Action on Reparations Question.

OPPOSES OCCUPATION

ROME, Aug. 7.—(United Press). —The Italian Government has issued an official communique, outlining Italy's recent note to London on the question of reparations.

According to the communique, the note reveals Italy's position as follows:

1. The question of inter-allied debts is intimately connected with the amount of reparations that Germany must pay.

2. Italy believes that the maintenance of unity among the Allies is necessary for the settlement of inter-allied debts.

3. The note confirms the Italian Government's desire to contribute to the success of Britain's action in the reparations question.

4. It condemns both passive resistance and the continued occupation of the Ruhr.

The note favors the English proposal of a commission to fix Germany's capacity to pay and the mode of payment.

Left Peterborough Forty-Five Years Ago and Has Returned Three Times for a Visit—Sees Many Changes in the City

Fifty years ago last one month William H. Pendry came to Peterboro, and after three years' residence here moved to Brooklyn, New York, where he opened a law office, and in later years formed a partnership with his son Bryer H. Pendry. The firm is still doing business in Brooklyn under the firm name of Pendry and Pendry, but Mr. Pendry senior has relinquished some of his activities At present William Pendry is the guest in Peterboro of his brother-in-law, Edward Courtney, Armour Road, and in the 45 years he has been away from Peterboro, he has visited the scene of his earlier activities three times. It is seven years since his last visit here, and in that time he says many changes. "Peterboro is progressing wonderfully," said Mr. Pendry today. "I can see many changes in the last seven years."

Since he moved to Brooklyn, Mr. Pendry has twice been elected a member of the New York State Legislature, and twice a member of the New York City Council. In six elections Mr. Pendry was elected four times. His son Bryer H. Pendry was born in Peterboro a half a century ago, and is the active head of his father's law firm. He is also Lieut.-Colonel of the 13th Regiment of New York City, and served overseas during the war.

BIG ROUND-UP STORY MAY BE REAL FLIVVER

Stanley Hallam's Identification of Supposed Bandit Has Not Been Proven Yet.

MAY PROVE ALIBI

TORONTO, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Police circles are reticent regarding the rumors that a big round up in connection with the recent sensational robbery of bank messengers here is expected to-day. Stories of sundry developments, including the arrest of a woman, continue to reach this city from outside points, but there is nothing here to confirm any of the recent rumors of wholesale arrests.

William S. Morton, the man who was arrested at Detroit on Saturday on the alleged identification by Stanley K. Hallam, formerly of Windsor, Ont., as having been at the wheel of the bandit automobile previous to the raid, is still in custody here. Police to-day are giving out nothing in regard to their investigations as to Morton's alleged identification. Morton declares he can prove an alibi. His friends say he was in New York on the day of the robbery.

It was stated this afternoon that several of the bank messengers who were attacked on the day of the big hold-up were unable this morning to identify Morton, from among number of others as having been seen by them at the time of the robbery. G. E. Morton of Windsor, Ont., brother of W. S. Morton is here, accompanied by W. H. Furlong his solicitor.

"We will prove," said Mr. Furlong, "That W. S. Morton was not in Toronto on the day of the robbery, but in the United States."

"The whole matter is absurb,' said G. E. Morton,' My brother was in New York on the day of the robbery and the day before that. He has been in Woodward Av. frontage in Detroit and farms in Michigan. He has not been in Toronto for 2 or 3 year.'

Morton is being "detained" by the police, itis said, in one of the city's outlying police stations with "all the comforts of home."

A MAUSOLEUM FOR LATE PRESIDENT

Body to Lie in Vault Till Structure Ready to Receive It.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—President Harding will not be buried beside his mother and sister in the Marion Cemetery. His body after the funeral services here Friday afternoon will be placed in the receiving vault at the cemetery and held there pending the erection of a mausoleum to receive it. This was part of the funeral arrangements agreed to by Mrs. Harding, widow of the late President, as communicated to Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., the President's brother.

The funeral plans approved of by Mrs. Harding call for the utmost simplicity. Rev. G. M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, the late President's place of worship when in Marion, will conduct the funeral service. Mrs. Harding has requested that no military display be made at the funeral services conducted by the late President's home folks. In order that Mr. Harding's home folks and friends of his native State may have the privilege of a last look at their departed friend, Mrs. Harding's plans call for the body to lie in state at the home of his father from noon after its arrival Thursday morning till nine or ten o'clock that night, and again for a few hours on Friday morning. She would not approve of tentative plans for the body to lie in state at the Marion County Court-House.

JACKS CARRIED CROWDED STAND EARLY IN JUNE

Ald. Turner's Concise Report of Repairs to Stands and Fences at Riverside Park.

NEW FOUNDATIONS

"If we didn't have that lumber from the bridge there would have been no alternative but to have closed up the park," said Ald. Turner, in concluding his review of the work which the Property Committee had carried out in repairing the stands and erecting a new fence at Riverside Park.

As requested by the Finance Committee, he presented an itemized account from T. C. Ephgrave of the cost of the improvements which amounted to $2,220. It set out the names of the workmen, their rates of pay and their time, together with the material that had been used.

It was a rather lengthy statement, and Alderman Turner particularly emphasized the causes which had compelled the committee to enlarge their first plan of repairs.

"On the first Saturday in June there was a quiver in the stand," said Ald. Turner. "The Mayor and Ald. Phelan asked City Engineer Parsons that something be done at once to put the stand in sound condition. Two weeks passed and nothing was done. I saw a crack four feet long in one of the beams, and in places the support was being taken, not by the beams, but by light boards. I saw Parsons the next day myself. He said he hadn't time to look after it, and would be glad if we took it over."

Ald. Turner explained at considerable length the dangerous condition of both stands during the early part of the season, and remarked that the Council should be grateful that some serious accident had not happened. Beams had decayed to such an extent that the wood could be crumbled by one's hand. Other beams were disjointed from their bases, and apparently only a kind fortune had prevented a collapse of at least one of the stands.

These were the conditions that had to be corrected, and before Ald. Turner had completed his recital of the work and its cost the Council seemed to regret that the itemized statement had been called for.

"I thought it was my duty to know how the money was spent," Ald. Crowe explained. "I think you (Ald. Turner) have done your duty, but I had been told that the money was being wasted over there."

Ald. Crowe left the impression that Ald. Stocker had made the criticism to him.

"A man ought to be sure of what he says, and if he has anything to say let him say it here," was Ald. Crowe's comment.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Maher, that Mr. Ephgrave's account be paid, the resolution being unanimously adopted.

Ald. Maher corroborated Ald. Turner's description of the shakiness of the stands, saying that only those who had seen them could realize the necessity of the repairs.

"It was a matter of condemning the north stand or renewing it," said Ald. Maher. "The work was such that you couldn't get a price on it. I felt that Mr. Ephgrave was an honorable man, and the only thing to do was to depend on his honor for a fair price and to give us good value, and I think he has done so. I think it is a first-class job."

"I know that both stands are now in A1 condition," Ald. Phelan added, "and will easily hold 1,200 or 1,500 people."

The total cost of the renairs at the park was $2,220, of which $497 was spent on moving back the east fence and constructing practically a new one. Lumber from the Hunter Street Bridge was used on this job.

"Mr. Ephgrave made no charge for overhead," Ald. Turner added. "That included such things as tools, a gasoline cement mixer, jacks and other things needed on the job. Ald. Phelan probably does not know that on one Saturday the north stand was supported on seven jacks while the crowd was watching a ball game."

THE WEATHER.

Last evening's outlook for the much-needed rain was big with promise, but the actual results were small. Only 1-100ths of an inch fell. Each day lately the thermometer has ranged from 85 to 90 degrees, but to-day at noon it had risen over the latter figure. A gentleman from the Niagara district told me last night that that section was beautifully green and fresh, while some from the north have said there was even more evidence of drought there than here. When one month go a more than its share of moisture, it is almost certain there will be a deficiency in the next one. The total for the year has an uncanny habit of approximating the same figure.—W. P.

Henry Hope Property Being Taxed in Full

In reply to Ald. Marrison's query last night, City Clerk Armstrong gave the information that the Henry Hope property was being assessed at its full amount this year, and was paying taxes on that valuation because the conditions under which the city had granted a concession were not being complied with.

BILLIARD FEE REMAINS SAME

And Council Declined to Act on Board of Health's Request for Office Assistant for Sanitary Inspector.

Striking out the clause in the Finance Committee's report that left the license fee for billiard tables at $35 each for the first ten and reducing the fee to $20 each for any number over ten, the Council last night decided on Ald. Crowe's motion seconded by Ald. Holloway to take no action whatever.

Mr. Louis Yeates had requested the Committee last week for some relief from the high fees he had to pay the city and the province because of the comparatively large number of tables in his billiard rooms. Last night, Bruce Patterson and Dave King speaking for a deputation of the proprietors of the smaller billiard rooms in the city.

"The license fee is too high," said Mr. Patterson, "and we would like to have a reduction. However we feel as though we should object if some are reduced and others left as they are. The man with a small number of tables is having a harder row to ho, than the big fellows, and if it was turned around to $20 each for the first ten tables and $35 for the next ten it might be more reasonable."

"We revised the fee only a short time ago," remarked Ald Crowe, and his motion was adopted without further discussion.

Paving Price Accepted.

City Engineer Parsons reported that Mr. John Carroll, the paving contractor, was willing to pave additional sections of streets, at the prices in his original contract.

The extra work comprises 250 feet on Rogers street, south of Hunter street, and 76 feet on Hunter street, opposite Westclox factory.

Mr. Carroll's terms were accepted embodied in a by-law authorizing the construction of the pavement on these streets.

Were Renominated.

Mr. F H. Dobbin and Mrs. Joseph Knox were re-nominated by the Council as members of the local Mothers' Allowance Board. The recommendation is sent to the Provincial Board who are empowered to make the appointments.

Use Central Park.

Georg. McCulloch, 310 Margaret Avenue, asked for the use of Central Park by the Royal Black Preceptory on August 13, for the purpose of organizing their procession to the Exhibition for the Holiday Celebration of the Relief of Derry. The request was granted on Ald. Phelan's motion seconded by Ald. Holloway.

Firemen's Overcoats.

Ald. Crowe made a verbal report on the inspection of the firemen's winter overcoats. He said that Ald. Maher had examined them thoroughly and advised that four new ones be purchased and sixteen of the old ones be altered and repaired.

Ald. Crowe was authorized to purchase four new ones and have the sixteen old ones repaired.

Request Was Tabled.

A communication from the Board of Health asking the Council to furnish the Sanitary Inspector with office help and transportation, was received without action as recommended by the Property Committee.

Building Record.

City Engineer Parsons' report as building inspector recited a total of 27 permits in July for a valuation of $50,095 of this sum $9,000 was for dwellings and $39,420 for miscellanies and repairs. In the details was $5,000 for alterations at St. Peter's Cathedral $31,200for a new electric substation. Mr. Parsons made 62 inspections during the month.

Tax Collector's Report.

The following statement was received from W. J. Green, tax collector, for the period ending July 31.

| | |
|---|---|
| Total of Roll ..... | $691,867.56 |
| Deposited .. .. ..... | $345,317.13 |
| Balance ..... .. .. | $346,550.43 |

Fire Chief's Report.

Chief Gimblett's statement for July showed a fire loss of $12,375. There were 17 calls, 3 by box and 9 by telephone. The department made 197 inspections during the month.

The chief pointed out that the new truck improvised from a Studebaker chassis was now in service, replacing a horse-drawn wagon.

WHOLE NATION SUFFERS FROM EFFECTS JAZZ

We Have Turned the Sabbath of Our Fathers Into a Roman Holiday Says Speaker.

FARMING PROBLEMS

"The community spirit has always been the real basis of Anglo-Saxon liberty, that liberty that had its beginning at Runnymede, and that has come down through the ages since, changing the serf into the man. And you must not forget that it was on the borders of your Dominion that western democracy had its birth, when Wolfe defeated Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham."

"In my country, the spirit of service and sacrifice that moved us during the war has disappeared. We have taken the medals from our breasts and their imprint from our hearts. The boys have returned, and the hero has become the zero. The statesman has become the party politician. The drums of death have been replaced by the fiddles of jazz. We are saying: let George do it. There is a bread line in one street and a movie line in the other. People complain about the high cost of meat and turn up their noses at the soup bone. Women are scrimping on the necessities of life to pay installments on summer furs. Women who once were satisfied with a good provider as a husband are now looking for an Arab shiek. We spend one and a half million dollars to see a slacker in a prize fight and deny adequate compensation to the boys who offered their lives that civilization might endure. There are too many flunkies and waiters in our lives. The whole nation has gone on a great international joy ride, on high, failing to observe the bad road ahead, until we are in the ditch with flat tires. We have to have limousines and pink lemonade and jazz music. We have turned the Sabbath of our fathers into a Roman holiday."

Current Problems.

Frank Preston Johnson, of Iowa, newspaperman and sociologist, was the speaker at the Chautauqua tent last evening, before an audience of some four or five hundred people, who listened to his rapid-fire, constructive lecture on current problems with attentive interest. "The Basis of Liberty" was the announced title of Mr. Johnson's lecture, a broad subject which the speaker covered in a broad and interessing fashion. His main theme, reiterated again and again, was the need of co-operation, with special emphasis laid on the problems of the farmer, and the present-day necessity of better relations between the urban and rural population. Mr. Johnson, a tall man with a heavy voice, had a platform mannerism which was especially noticeable, a habit of dropping his voice at every interval, thus giving his commas the effect of periods, and heightening the impression with an accompanying lowering of his head at every inflection.

Mr. Johnson referred to the experience of Iowa farmers a few years ago, when they squandered 250 millions in blue sky stocks, and embarked on a career of speculation in their own farm lands that sent the price per acre, in some instances, up to one thousand dollars. Farms changed hands 10 or 12 times in a summer. And then came the day of reckoning and the consequent paralysis of the farming and transportation industries. It was a fallacy, declared the speaker, to expect Parliament to remedy such conditions. "Parliament is made up of individuals, just as a community is. A League of Neighbors must first be established before the League of Nations can function successfully."

Farming Problems.

"Community problems just now are largely farming problems, because farming is the great basic industry upon which all other industries depend. Our cities are but the branches on the tree of national life, the roots of which are in the soil. We have come to look on those mighty buildings which flank our city pavements as the indications of national prosperity. But if you extended Wall street from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific Ocean, and widened it from the Georgian Bay to the Gulf of Mexico, and then the farmer decided to desert the farm, that great place would be a deserted territory. Somewhere beyond the

ELK ISLAND NATIONAL PARK.

Q—Where is Elk Island National Park?

A—Elk Island Park, a large game reserve 26 miles east of Edmonton, was greatly enlarged last year and will now be completely fenced. This is one of the Canadian Government's national parks and will serve as a public playground as well as a game reserve. It embraces several small lakes.

A LAKE OF EPSOM SALTS.

Q—Where in Canada is there a Lake of Epsom salts?

A—A Lake of Epsom salts exists at Basque, British Columbia. It is at least 41 feet deep and perhaps more. The miners who discovered it drilled to that depth and were then obliged to cease for lack of drilling facilities. The lake is said to cover an area of seven acres and to have hard crystal surface. When the snow melts from the mountains the surface is covered with six inches of water, which quickly becomes brine. Then the sun evaporates it, and all that is then necessary is to scrape and lift off the thick crust that has formed.

ADVOCATES PROTECTION WESTERN CANADA COAL

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Charles A. Dunning, of Saskatchewan, is advocating the protection of the Western Canada coal industry against competition from the United States in the same way as the manufacturing industries of Canada are protected. This sentiment was voiced by him when appearing before the Royal Grain Enquiry Commission here yesterday when the question of protection was discussed. Premier Dunning said he did not want to see Canadian farmers subsidized in the matter of reduced freight rates, as he thought it bad business, but he thought the matter of reducing the coal rates from Alberta to Ontario amounted to the same thing.

More harvesters than ever will be needed this year in Western Canada on account of the bumper crop. Special trains will be run by the Canadian Pacific Railway, which is advertising the usual low rate of $15 to Winnipeg, plus a half-cent per mile beyond to destination in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Returning the fare will be $20 from Winnipeg, plus a half-cent per mile from starting point. Going dates are August 13, 15, 22 and 24, according to the territory in Ontario. On the lunch cars food and refreshments may be obtained at reasonable prices. Special cars will be provided for ladies, children (full fare) and their escorts. First special train will leave Toronto on each date at 10.00 a.m., and last special at 10.30 p.m. on each date.

Full information may be secured from any Canadian Pacific ticket office.

BRITISH POLICY IS APPROVED BY ITALIAN PEOPLE

Italy Believes Settlement of Reparations Problems Must Include Settlement of Debts.

RUHR TROUBLE.

ROME, Aug. 7. — (Canadain Press.)—The Italian reply to the recent British note on reparations, as published in Rome, shows that Italy generally approves of the British proposals. It sets forth, however, that the Italian policy is still inspired by the Italian views expressed at the London conference in December, 1922, where Premier Mussolini gave importance to two important questions — the Inter-Allied Debts and Productive Guarantees.

The Italian Government, while foreseeing the difficulties of an investigation by a commission of experts into Germany's capacity to pay, as Great Britain proposes, does not exclude such a measure from the preliminary steps, but reserves its right in an agreement with the other Allies to determine the composition, character and limits of such a commission and the fundamental principals on which the commission's activities should be based.

The reply, the substance of which is given in a semi-official note explaining the Italian policy, says that the Government would have preferred to discuss the subject with the Allies on a basis of the Inter-Allied Debts and productive guarantees in conjunction with the general reparations problem.

"Italy believes that a general and final settlement of reparations must include the settlement of the question of debts,' says the reply. "Italy further upholds her proposals with regard to pledges and guarantees which she believes might conform with those recently advanced by the Belgian Government."

Concerning the question of the cessation of passive resistance, as well as that of the occupation of the Ruhr, the Italian Government, continues the note, "adheres to the opinion on this subject which it expressed publicly on many occasions, namely that it is opposed to passive resistance, that it is opposed to all ulterior military occupation of the Ruhr, and that it favors a gradual reduction of the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, when a general understanding shall have been reached and guaranteed."

BUSH BURNING NEAR APSLEY

Fire Ranger McIlmoyl's Homestead Menaced at One Time—Flames Now Under Control.

APSLEY, Aug. 7.— A bush fire about four miles south of Apsley has been causing some anxiety the last day or two, the homestead of Bert McIlmoyl, fire ranger, and Denis Handley being menaced by the flames. Every available man from Apsley and the district have been fighting it all Saturday and Sunday, and it is thought to be now under control, and the danger averted. Two other fires broke out Monday on the plains in the vicinity of Stinking Creek and Lake Koshamabog and the fire rangers have their work cut out to conquer them.

Crops Threatened.

The total rain fall for the month of July, according to the meteorological report for the Apsley station, amount to only .63 of an inch, .45 of which fell on July 14th. Unless rain comes soon the grain crop will be a total failure. Corn is wilting and roots making no headway. The hottest day of the year was Saturday, Aug. 4th, the government thermometer registering 94 deg. in the shade. Prayers for rain were offered up in the Anglican churches on Sunday.

FLAMES DESTROYED BARN AND CONTENTS

Frank Brady of South Ops Also Loses Two Horses and Cattle in Fire.

LINDSAY, Aug. 7. — Saturday night, between nine and ten o'clock, the fine barn, belonging to Mr. Frank Brady, of South Ops, with contents, including the season's crop of hay and alsike, two horses, a cow and three calves, was totally destroyed by fire, believed to have been caused by combustion.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady were in Lindsay at the time, as were also the neighbors. The barn burst suddenly into flame and the reflection could be seen for miles around. A call was sent in to the Lindsay fire brigade, but the fire truck only went a short distance into the township.

Mr. Brady had insurance on the barn, but nothing on the contents. His loss will total $2,000 or $3,000.

CHEVALIERS RECEIVE DEGREE OF CHIVALRY AT BIG PUBLIC SESSION

Beautiful Ceremony Last Night Before Big Audience — Delegates Welcomed to Peterborough.

GRAND ENCAMPMENT.

In opening the meeting in the G. W. V. A. Hall last night at which the delegates, Patriarchs Militant, and the general public were present, Patriarch Joseph Wearing, Chairman, said he was a member of the Order because he believes it is the most democratic Order in existence. His father was an Oddfellow, and he was proud to follow in his father's foot-steps.

Mayor W. H. Taylor on behalf of the Council and Citizens of the city, welcomed the visitors. "We were very much gratified,' he said, "when we learned that you had decided to hold your Grand Encampment in Peterboro this year, and we wish to give you a hearty welcome The knowledge of the benefits of Oddfellowship are not confined to its members, for all know that your work includes caring for the sick, burying the dead among your members, and the great good you have accomplished in the many years the Order has been in existence cannot be estimated. The exercise of the virtues inculcated by Oddfellowship is not and cannot be confined to its membership, for the spirit of benevolence and charity, when developed as it is by your order, radiates wide of membership and operates upon all with whom you come in contact."

His Worship told the visitors the city is theirs during the session of the Grand Encampment.' "Our citizens are patriotically proud of the City and its institutions,' he said, "and the local members will be anxious to show you everything of interest."

In conclusion, the Mayor expressed the hope that the deliberations of the Encampment would result in advantage to that elevated branch of the Order of Oddfellows.

G. N. Gordon's Welcome.

Patriarch G. N. Gordon, K. C., M. P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, welcomed the visiting brethren on behalf of the Peterboro Oddfellows. In his introduction, in which he mentioned specially the distinguished visitors from across the border, the speaker described some of the features of Peterboro. "It is a splendid city,' he said.

He complimented the Patriarchs Militant, who had created a sensation on their parade, referring to their splendid figures and trim uniforms which were the envy of many.

"The strength of Oddfellowship," Patriarch Gordon said, "is the democracy of the institution in which all men are received, and all grades of society, men and women, who have that test of morality and good citizenship that Oddfellowship implies are welcomed. We are delighted that you are here, and we trust that your conferences in the city may be profitable, and that you will carry away with you the friendships you have made, knowing that the hand of welcome is open to you, not only of Oddfellows, but of all the citizens."

Obligation To Serve.

Remarking that fraternity arose first out of a man's duty to his family, then to the men with whom he is associated in the lodge, the speaker said that to these has been added a greater obligation, that of service to all mankind. It is a hideous thing to turn one's back on those who are less favoured and who need help.

Grand Patriarch H. Dakin, of Galt, replying to the address of welcome, said he was conscious not only of the friendship of the Oddfellows but of all the citizens of the city. He expressed appreciation of the splendid work of all the committees, and said that everything possible had been done to make the visitors feel at home.

Describing the requirements for Oddfellowship, the speaker said a man must be faithful to his country, grateful to his Creator, and fraternal to his fellow men. "There is no man but will be a better father, a better brother, a better husband, and a better man because of being an Oddfellow."

United States Visitors.

The chairman in introducing three distinguished visitors from the United States expressed sympathy with them in the death of President Harding.

Grand Patriarch Walker, of New York said that after the way he had been entertained and carried through the city he believed he was better acquainted with the city than are many who live in it. He conveyed the greetings of New York State, representing 25,000 good Patriarchs. "Oddfellowship," he said, "can be summed up in a few words. It teaches us to love our God, to love and care for our families, and to love our country. It teaches us to practice the friendship that existed between David and Jonathan. It teaches charity to all suffering humanity. It teaches us to love the laws

Cattle Exports Will Be Smaller

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press.)— (Canadian Press.)—"From what I have seen during a five weeks' trip through Ontario and western Canada, the impression is forced upon me that the shipments of store cattle to Great Britain will not be nearly as large as was thought earlier in the season. There were many guesses then, which in England ran up to 200,000 head, and in Canada as far as 100,000. As things look now I doubt if there will be more than 50,000 or possibly 60,000 head shipped from Canada during the present season, and most of these will come from September on to the close of navigation, when the western Canada cattle ripen sufficiently for shipment in good condition."

This was the opinion expressed yesterday by Duncan Campbell on his return from a five weeks' trip through Ontario and the western provinces to look into the money-making possibilities of the export trade in store cattle.

PREDICTS A UTOPIA WHEN ATOMS WORK

Dr. Foote Says Energy Released in Transmutation May Some Day Serve Whole World.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. — The alchemist's problem of transmutation of elements has been solved by modern science, according to Dr. Paul D. Foote, a "modern alchemist" from the United States Bureau of Standards, who lectured here to the Department of Physics of the Summer School at Columbia University on "The Alchemist." Referring to the energy released by the transmutation of hydrogen, Dr. Foote said:

"The scientist has demonstrated that this power is present. It is a problem for the inventor to devise a method for its release. Indeed, so sure are we of the fundamental truth of the alchemical transmutation of hydrogen into helium that the chief scientific interest no longer lies in consideration of its possibility. The real problem, from the scientific standpoint, is the explanation of why all hydrogen has not already been transmuted into helium."

Alchemy ceased to be a superstition and became a science with the discovery of radio-active substances in 1896. There are about forty such substances known to-day, the lecturer said. They are transmuted by nature from the rare metals into gases, and lead remains after a complex series of changes. Dr. Foote continued:

"The older alchemists desired to create gold; the modern alchemist would destroy it. For the energy from the destruction of gold is immensely valuable. One gram of gold destroyed by transformation into electric energy would be worth $2,600,000 at the present price of electricity."

The economic consequences of a commercial application of the scientific principles of alchemy would be tremendous, according to Dr. Foote. Gold could be produced in such floods that the Governments of the world could save themselves only by demonitizing the metal and making a new standard. This, according to Dr. Foote, would "involve the replacement of the gold dollar by the 'goods' or 'market basket' dollar. The scientist, he added, saw no permanent harm in such a financial revolution—in fact, he rather hoped that it would come. If alchemy could rationalize our monetary system it would not by any means be the least of its triumphs.

Dr. Foote says a realization of Utopia instead of bankruptcy of the nations by destruction of the gold standard, because he would have at his control energy enough to do all the work of the world. According to the principle of Einstein, mass is transformed into energy according to a definite formula, the lecturer said, adding:

"That is, if the hydrogen in two teaspoonfuls of water be converted into helium, 200,000 kilowatt hours of energy are set free, representing $20,000 worth of electrical current, or $10,000 to the teaspoonful.

"When the scientist is able to utilize an electric field of 10,000,000 volts there is small doubt but that every element may be produced by transmutation. To do this on a large scale of production, to make it a commercial enterprise, is an entirely different proposition. I doubt if many here will live to see its realization. But when that time comes this world will be a true haven of rest for all its inhabitants. There will be no poverty, no suffering and no labor; atomic energy will do the work for all mankind. Humanity will be emancipated by the scientist."

DISARMAMENT CAUSE TROUBLE TO THE LEAGUE

Smaller Nations Disinclined to Join Pact Calling For Blockade Tactics — Large Nations Must Protect Themselves.

UNDER DISCUSSION.

PARIS, Aug. 7.— (Canadian Press.) — How to make guarantee treaties between two or three nations harmonize with the proposed general pact for mutual assistance, which will be suggested to members of the League of Nations in an effort to bring about a reduction of armaments, is giving some trouble to the temporary committee of the League of Nations sitting here.

Disinclination of the smaller members to join in the general pact which might bind them to take part in a blockade, is the principal obstacle of it. The larger nations, which are most exposed to danger from the exterior, say they cannot leave themselves in a position where abandonment of them by the smaller powers might compromise action otherwise likely to protect them from aggression.

Hence, the insistance of France from partial guarantee pacts. The representatives of the smaller powers have been joined by Italy, however, in their demand that parties to such partial pacts shall take action in case of threatened war only after the council has decided whether there is cause for action.

On the other hand, France and Great Britain are agreed that parties to the regional or partial treaties cannot wait in case of dire menace for the council to act. The discussion is expected to require another day or two at least.

MASONIC TEMPLE TO COST $600,000

Ornate Edifice to Be Erected Will Be Ten Stories High.

MONTREAL, August 7. — A monumental tribute to the craft in Montreal in the shape of an ornate temple, ten storeys high, will be erected by the city Masons somewhere in the heart of the city in 1925 at a cost of approximately $600,000, it was officially announced yesterday by J. J. York, chairman of the committee which has had the plans under advisement since last November.

It is proposed to raise $500,000 between 4th and 14th November this year when members of the craft will be asked to subscribe a minimum of $125, payable in 25 monthly instalments in return for which a certificate of loan will be issued. This scrip will be payable to the lender's estate, without interest, on his death. On the reverse side, there will be a blank in which, if the lender desires, he may cancel the loan thus making it a gift towards the fund.

Already, without any organisation, at least $50,000 has been promised, and an announcement will be made shortly that one of Montreal's leading banks has promised to act as treasurer of the fund.

The services of F. B. Hogland, of New Jersey, an expert in the raising of money for this work, have been arranged for and, according to his credentials, far from failing in any undertaking, he has exceeded the amount which he has set out to raise in every case.

Sell Present Temple.

The money obtained in the campaign, together with the proceeds of the sale of the present temple on Dorchester Street, which is expected to realise about $250,000 when it is put up for sale, will be more than sufficient to cover the cost of the new edifice.

As the payment of the loans is spread over an extended period, the land will not be bought until 50 per cent. of the money is paid in—about November, 1924—after which the land will be broken in the spring of 1925 and the building completed that year. It will have a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 130 feet.

It is proposed to engage the active assistance of all lodges and Masonic organisations—of which there are 42—in the city in the campaign. J. W. C. Taylor, chairman of the teams' committee, will call together the masters of lodges in conference and captains and lieutenants will be named in all lodges. In turn, these officers will enroll eight or ten Masons and each man will be asked to interview not more than ten brother Masons.

Norman Stark will be chairman of the special names committee; W. R. Allen, chairman of the speakers' committee; while C. Russell also will be in charge of one committee.

STRIKERS RETURNING.

MADRID, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Some of the older employes of the banks, who were called out on strike last week, began to return to work yesterday but the general situation remains unchanged. The Syndicate called a meeting to consider the situation yesterday.

The police report there are no disorders.

PORT CHARGES IN AUSTRALIA MUST BE CUT

Dominions Cannot Have Cheaper Transportation Unless Port and Terminal Charges Are Reduced.

AT WAR RATES.

LONDON, August 7. Canadian Press Cable. — The chamber of shipping of the United Kingdom has issued a statement emphasizing that while the Dominions want cheaper transport it will be vain to expect this until they substantially reduce their own port and other terminal charges which at present according to the chamber, absolutely bar any cheap marketing of Dominion produce.

The statement especially deals with Australasian conditions regarding which the chamber has passed a series of resolutions protesting against its "excessive port charges." The statement points out that Australian wheat and fruit has to compete with wheat from Canada, the United States and Argentine, and with fruit from Canada and South Africa. Producers in all these countries can get only the same market and prices as Australia producers but they have to bear a very different scale of costs. The Australian exporter has to contend not only with the differential involved in the greater distance but the greater operating costs and high terminal charges which still remain at wartime level in Australia.

Taking as an illustraiton a eleven thousand ton cargo ship staying five days in port, The Chamber of Shipping says the increase over the pre-war port charges averages 58 per cent. in the United Kingdom and South Africa, and 148 per cent. in Australia. The increase was 150 per cent in the United Kingdom 18 months ago but the authorities recognized the wisdom of making reductions.

The statement concludes that notwithstanding the present unremunerative nature of shipping, Australia in common with the other Dominions, taxes incoming ships on an assumed profit based on ten per cent. of the gross earnings. This is a very serious obstacle to trade and very unjust, says the statement, and especially a vicious principle. The statement adds:

"Double taxation on shipping profits must be eliminated from the Empire if we are to develop our mutual trade resources.

The hope is expressed that opportunity will be taken at the economic conference to put this right.

U.S. POSTOFFICES TO CLOSE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Postmaster General New yesterday ordered the closing of all postoffices Friday between three and four p.m. Central Standard Time, in tribute to the late President Harding.

HENRY SULLIVAN THIRD MAN TO SWIM ACROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

Swam Nearly 60 Miles and Took Almost 27 Hours to Accomplish the Feat.

SEVENTH ATTEMPT.

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., has succeeded in swimming the English Channel, according to a Paris despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. He reached Calais at 8.05 last night, after swimming distance of 90 kilometers, or nearly 60 miles.

DOVER, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).— Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., who finished his swim across the English Channel last night, landed in front of the Calais Casino. His time was 26 hours, 50 minutes.

Henry Sullivan is the third man to accomplish the hazardous feat or swimming the English Channel. The first man to make the passage across the narrow but always extremely choppy course with its tides and eddies, as Captain Matthew Webb and the second T. W. Burgess. Both Englishmen.

Webb made the swim on August 24-25, 1875, covering the 22½ miles between Dover and Calais in 21 hours, 45 minutes. Webb was drowned July 24, 1883, while attempting to swim the rapids at Niagara Falls.

T. W. Burgess accomplished the feat in September 6, 1911, swimming from South Foreland, England, to Le Chatelet France. His time was 22 hours, 35 minutes.

The present was Sullivan's seventh attempt to make the swim. In all his efforts he had made notable marks, in 1921 coming within five miles of the French shore after having been in the water 19 hours and five minutes. When Sullivan took the water off Dover on Sunday he got away in fine style under what were declared to be favorable conditions. The sea was calm and the temperature of the water was 62 degrees Fahrenheit.

Sullivan went across to England last year to make his seventh attempt, but owing to unpropitious weather conditions during the swimming season he failed to make a try. He declared at the time that he had not abandoned his hope of eventually swimming the Channel and that he would try this year.

Among the numerous persons who have tried to duplicate the feats of Captain Webb and Burgess, have been several women. They, however, have never been able to set any notable marks.

There has been standing for a long time an offer of a London publication a prize of $5,000 for a crossing of the Channel by any man or woman.

STRANGE SETTING.

Two Million Marks Sold For a Dollar

BERLIN, August 7. Canadian Press. — Trafficking in foreign currency, which the government again is permitting, yesterday sent the dollar to the two million rate in the course of post-Bourse trading, although officially the rate was fixed at 1,500,000. There was a brisk demand, but the offerings of dollars and sterling was limited, as the Bourse apparently was anticipating further decline in the mark in the course of the current week.

The currency shortage continues to keep pace with the depreciation and the Reichbank's newest offerings consist of 10, 20, 50 and 100 million mark notes, lesser denominations being considered as "small change."

The government also is modifying the restrictions upon private issues of currency by municipalities and industrial and commercial companies, who are unable to send sufficient national currency to meet their payrolls.

Vorwaerts yesterday demanded the retirement of Rudolph Havenstein from the presidency of the Reichsbank. It asks: "How high must the dollar rise before Havenstein falls." The trend of the mark moves editors to remark that whatever measures the government undertakes to halt the catastrophe, wherever preventive or otherwise, appear to be futile.

Death of Benjamin Sult Loss to Literary World.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—The literary world today mourns the loss of Benjamin Sulte, aged 82 years, foremost French-Canadian poet, linguist, historian and journalist, who died early yesterday after a lengthy illness. After a lifetime devoted to literary work besides his duties in the civil service, Mr. Sulte's health broke down in June, 1922. Although practically deaf, he retained his interest in literary work until recently when he took a relapse.

Funeral preparations have not been completed, but interment will likely take place at Three Rivers, Que., his home town. It is understood that residents of Three Rivers have undertaken to perpetuate Sulte's name in a suitable manner.

Mr. Sulte is survived by one sister, Miss Emmelie Sulte of Ottawa.

VICTORIA, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—A verdict of murder against some person of persons unknown was yesterday returned by the coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Jane Dick, 50, whose body with the head crushed was found in her home last week.

WELCOME RAINS AID TO CROPS IN WHEAT SECTION

Crops Are Rapidly Maturing and Cooler Weather Has Greatly Retarded Rust Development.

SLIGHT FROSTS.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Rains were general over the Prairie Provinces last week and the cooler weather which followed has retarded rust development and is helping to fill the grain, states the weekly crop report issued here yesterday by the Agricultural Department, Canadian Pacific Railway. Low temperatures have been recorded with slight frosts in Saskatchewan and Alberta. All crops are rapidly maturing and farmers already are engaging help to hold until harvest begins.

Barley and oat cutting is in full swing at many points in the Red River Valley of Manitoba, and wheat is also being harvested on a few farms. It is said that the cutting of late wheat will start, generally, about August 15. There is little change in the rust situation, and weather during the past week was decidedly unfavorable for its development.

Very few districts will commence wheat harvesting in Saskatchewan before the middle of August, and cutting should be general by August 20 to 25. Rust is general in the southeastern section of the Province, but it is impossible to say what damage may ensue. The southwestern and western districts are not likely to be injured by rust. Apart from the rust areas, crop conditions continue good. Frost was reported from some of the northern sections, but no damage resulted.

Harvesting, it is expected, will commence about August 12 in the wheat fields of Alberta and should be general between 15th and 20th of the month. Oats are heading out and barley and rye cutting is fairly general. Indications point to a heavy yield of all grains.

There was no rust or hail damage reported from the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway district during the past week. The weather was cool and favorable to the maturing crops, which promise heavy yields. Fruits and grain crops are coming on rapidly in British Columbia and are showing every indication of an excellent yield. Apples are sizing up well, but considerable infection from scab, caused by wet weather early in July is reported from some sections.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite a happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many people lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying a little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

PREVIOUS AND DISCORDANT

The paralysis of one President and the sudden death of his successor will not discourage other politicians from offering themselves as sacrifices on the altar of State.

In the death of President Harding the Republican party in the United States has suffered a grievous loss, and while Vice-President Coolidge, has automatically succeeded him, there are others eager to seize the opportunity that beckons to them to lay aside the senatorial toga for the mantle of the chief magistracy of the American nation.

This thumping of the party barrel, however it might be depreciated by the leaders thus designated, carries an unseemly note of wordliness into the hushed chamber of the dead Harding.

There's an unpleasant note that sounds like selfishness and unrespect in the speculations upon the chances of Senator Johnston of California, Borah of Idaho, La Follette of Wisconsin, Hoover, Watson and other possibilities. The intruding gossip might be interpreted as a lack of consideration for the memcry of him, who from all accounts habitually considered others before himself.

The discussions in the United States press and despatches bearing upon the probable changes in the Republican party would have lost little in timeliness if they had been withheld until after the obsequies in Warren Harding's home town of Marion, Ohio, on Friday next.

AN INELASTIC CONCESSION.

Peterborough's street railway system is confronted with the intensified opposition of thronging automobiles, a traffic loss which every employee should be striving to check, and restore.

And yet some of the conductors by their strict observance of the rules tend to irritate if not alienate their remaining customers whose patronage helps to maintain their employment.

For example, the rush hour tickets are supposed to be a concession to the workers. It is a mighty small concession, but even so the public appreciates and makes use of it. According to the regulations, the yellow tickets are acceptable only from whistle to whistle, from twelve o'clock until one.

Some of the conductors enforce this restriction with a scrupulousness that commends their obedience and vigilance, but does little credit to the common business sense they are presumed to possess.

Many of the uptown workers are in positions which prevent them from going to and from work within the prescribed hours of the special tickets. Some of them leave before noon, and others return after one. In the aggregate their lunch time extends from eleven until two or later, and while it might be too much to expect that some provision be made for them in respect to cheaper street car tickets, it should not be too much to propose that some little indulgence be allowed beyond the fixed time.

Under the changed conditions, the automobile has created the street railway should be putting itself out to cultivate traffic, and especially to satisfy and hold what it now has.

Determining the noon hour's terminals on the split second method is surely not conducive to an amiable public feeling toward the street railway system.

A PERIL OF FANATICISM.

What is the greatest imaginable calamity which could happen to the world today? It would certainly not be a natural calamity like the Messina disaster, the San Francisco earthquake and fire, or even an outbreak of disease like the Black Death of the Middle Ages, because that was a consequence of man's folly and not a natural calamity in any strict sense. The greatest calamity conceivable would be a war between the English-speaking peoples. The Great War itself would almost pale to insignificance beside it. Nothing in history, counting all the dreadful after price paid for war in the past, would begin to compare with the consequences of such a fratricidal conflict. And yet there are people who would play with the combustibles calculated to kindle such a conflagration. The curious thing is that these people are pacifists and were acutely so during the Great War. The counsel of the Anti-Saloon League was always one of the stars of the late Mohonk Peace Conference. But he would be entirely willing to go to war with Great Britain over the twelve-mile liquor limit if he thought the Eighteenth Amendment could not be enforced in any other way.

Mankind's moral improvement has not kept pace with its material advance, as the Great War itself showed us. But one of the most destructive causes of war has disappeared. The proposition that all war could be abolished is again becoming popular, exactly as it was popular before the Great War. Wars of religion have been abolished, and history tells us how destructive they were. The Hundred Years War left Central Europe a desert and its consequences in famine and pestilence wiped out incalculable millions, for there were no population figures in those days.

But fanaticism would bring back wars of religion, which themselves originated from that distorted sense of proportion so patently observable in fanaticism today. If you consider drunkenness seriously, you realize that it is a great evil. If you consider it without relation to other influences in social conditions, you believe it is the greatest evil. If you consider it to the exclusion of everything else, you regard it as the only evil, just as you can blot out the scenery by bringing the cork of a whiskey bottle too close to your eye. This is the danger of government by faddists and voluntary bodies. Their single hobby looms so large that they are reckless of the consequences its promotion to the exclusion of everything else can easily involve, in a world none too wisely governed anywhere.—Barron's Weekly.

THE CHALLENGE OF THE UNEXPECTED.

In the parable of the foolish man or of the "rich fool," as it is generally called, there is a phrase of terrible import, suggesting how the fates hover unexpectedly over frenzied folly. The ground of a certain rich man bore fertile crops. And he began to argue to himself, "What am I to do? I have no room to store my fruits?" And he said I will do this. I will pull down my granaries and build larger ones; so shall I store all my produce and my goods. Then I will say to my soul, "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take a rest, eat, drink and be merry." Then comes the unexpected and terrific climax, "Senseless man! This very night they require thy soul." It is as if the old Greek sisters, the daughters of night, were represented putting the thread of life round the spindle, now tightening the wool, now slackening, and at last cutting it off—Atropos, the elder, with her abhorred shears, eagerly terminating the dreams of a fool.

There is no sin or folly in a man being rich, not even in his being richer than his neighbor. Socialists assure us to the contrary, but their analysis of the situation is at fault. If man had not been continually tearing down his granaries and building greater, hoarding and accumulating, he would never have gone beyond the state of the Digger Indians. No race on earth can be emancipated from the necessity of industry, prudence, continence and temperance, if they are to pass their lives prosperously. To believe the contrary we must suppose that some men can come to exist who shall know nothing of old age, disease and death. The parable carries no suggestion of blame for the man's diligence or his wealth. It does convey a warning against the materialistic and avaricious spirit that makes wealth the greatest object of ambition.

To regard the parable as addressed only to the rich is to mistake its meaning. If there is one class that thinks more of money than the rich, it is the poor. This typical individual—and we fear he is typical of all classes—took for granted that his goal was finite, and that selfishness is the ultimate truth. He donned the motley and adopted the cap and bells of the king's jester. If the terminator of his delights had not suddenly cut the thread, there were other unexpected guests around the corner waiting with a stuffed club. Age with its creeping steps and decrepitude would quickly temper his joy in acquiring and modify his delight in corn. They would leave him in his bald dryness, like a vine standing in winter on a bleak hillside, trembling in the wind and covered with snow, while the sweet juices that once ran from it warmed the hearts of others. The past contained for him no true enrichment, from it he harvested no benediction, and his exit is like that of the weed, falling before the diligent gardener. So is he that layeth up treasure for himself and is not rich toward God.

The distasteful fact is that the individual, interesting as his existence may be to himself, is of little value to the world. The men of all history who have proven that the world did really need them and could ill have spared them, are not more than a score or two. Historians would differ if asked to state who these men were, and the list could be modified by national and individual prejudices, but they would agree that the men were few.—Montreal Star.

MARKETING WESTERN WHEAT.

The news despatches of last week carried the announcement that the farmers of Alberta are to form a pool for the marketing of this year's crop of wheat, and that the movement is likely to extend to Manitoba and Saskatchewan. This is a matter in which not the West alone but the entire Dominion is vitally interested, and it promises a solution of a problem with which the wheat farmer on the prairies has been confronted for years.

At the complimentary picnic that was tendered Hon. J. R. Cooke by the people of North Hastings in honor of his appointment to a Cabinet position by Premier Ferguson and to a place on the Hydro Commission, one of the speakers was Hon. Charles McCrae of Sudbury, and the new Minister of Mines for Ontario spoke as a broad-minded statesman. He showed how it is impossible for one section of the Province to prosper without this prosperity being shared by the whole of Ontario. If, for example, the mining industry of New Ontario is encouraged and developed, the millions of dollars spent for wages will filter back to the older section of the Province to pay for food and supplies for the army of workers.

What Mr. McCrae says of Ontario applies with equal force to the entire Dominion. Anything in the nature of sectional favoritism will act as a drag on the wheels of progress. If the West prospers, if the wheat producer receives a fair price for his grain, the manufacturer and other business men in Ontario and the country over will be the gainers.

The farmers on the prairie know their own needs better than do the outsiders who volunteer to prescribe for them. They are in a peculiar position. Only one kind of grain is raised by the vast majority, so that the farmer has an income from one source alone. All these years he has been pestered with advice to go into mixed farming by outsiders who know nothing about the conditions on the prairies. It is safe to assume that if mixed farming could be made to pay in the West the farmers there are sufficiently enterprising to have undertaken it long ago.

The farmer must have money when his wheat is harvested, to pay for his labor, for the machinery which he has purchased on time and for the threshing of his crop. The grain is rushed to market as soon as it leaves the threshing machine, and this cannot fail to effect a drop in the price.

What the Western farmer desires is storing facilities for his grain and the right to borrow money upon it pending a stabilization of the price. In the pooling system which is to be operated he appears to be on the eve of realizing what he has striven for so long. There is no danger that the plan will result in a rise in price by the formation of a corner in wheat. The only difference under the new plan will be that any increase in the market price of the world will come to the farmer instead of dropping into the pockets of the middle men.

This will mean that the farmers out West will have more money in the future with which to do business with Ontario. The wheat crop of Canada, far above the average as it is, will avail the growers nothing if they are forced to dispose of it for less than the cost of production. And that is what the prevailing price today really means.

But Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N.Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound', so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. SUMMER COMPLAINT CRAMPS and DIARRHOEA

There is no other kind of disease that comes on so quickly and with so little warning as an attack of

One may retire at night, in the best of health, and before morning be awakened by terrific cramps and pains in the stomach followed by diarrhoea, dysentery, summer complaint or bowel trouble in one form or another.

At this season of the year, when bowel troubles are so prevalent, we would advise the precaution of always having on hand a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry so that you will be ready for any and all emergencies. You will find that a few doses of this valuable remedy, taken promptly, will be the means of preventing a great deal of unnecessary suffering, and many, a time save life.

Mrs. W H. Judd, 174 Catherine St., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"Last summer I had a very bad attack of summer complaint, cramps and diarrhoea. I tried many different remedies, but they did not seem to help me. I heard of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, so decided I would try it. I only took a few doses, and in a short time I was better."

Price 50c. a bottle; put up by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Death of Little Son Inspired Great Work.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 7.—The death of Dr. Rutherford, an international authority on tuberculosis in animals, has brought to the attention of Canadian mothers the debt they owe him for his unceasing work to prevent infection by bovine tuberculosis. His interest in this particular form of community help came through a sorrowful experience of his own.

The little son of whom his hopes were centered, contracted the disease from a cow which had been bought by the doctor with the special design of giving the child the benefit of one cow's milk. This was long before the days of tested cows and the beautiful animal that was supposed to bring life and strength to the little child brought death instead. Out of his own sorrow and loss came Dr. Rutherford's resolve that other children should be protected and in years when many people were not only careless, but regarded the danger of infection as more or less of a fad, he worked and spoke unceasingly of the need of protecting both children and adults from this great danger.

Doings of Cabinet Must Be Signed By Byng.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—No indication of what happened at yesterday afternoon's session of the federal cabinet was given out when meeting ended last night. It was explained by Premier King that appointments and other administrative acts could not be made public until they had received the sanction of the Governor-General. At present Lord Byng is in the Maritime provinces and it is necessary to send orders in council to him by special messenger. When signed by the governor-general they will be brought back to the capital and given out for publication.

CHEVALIERS

of our country; to be brave in defending right and to keep our honor unstained.

It seems, as to us we live that when we reach that river on the golden shore our hands may be filled with deeds of charity."

Grand Patriarch Benedict, of Connecticut, explained that this is his first trip to Canada, and admitted he was eager to see what Canadians looked like. He had been royally treated in Peterboro, and was pleased with his visit. "The only qualification you require to be an Oddfellow is the desire to measure up to the standard which God set when He made man in His image" he said.

Grand Scribe W. Hutchison of Connecticut expressed his pleasure in the cordial relations existing between the United States and Canada. "I believe that this Great North American continent has been reserved by the Father of us all for a purpose. I believe the great Anglo-Saxon race that has been privileged to come here and make it their home has been brought here for a purpose Are we of the United States and you of Canada working in co-operation as we should with the Divine will?"

The speaker said he counted it the greatest experience of his life when he had the pleasure of going over the Lift Lock yesterday. The world of science has developed according to the needs of the people, and similar development has taken place in other fields. "I believe the great Institution of Oddfellowship was created out of the need of mankind and it has a great opportunity for service in the world to-day."

A Nation's Bereavement.

The country to the south is mourning a great leader, the speaker said. The late President Harding had a true desire to be of service to his fellow men. "President Harding was beginning to see the light that it was not possible for our great nation to live solitary and alone. I am hoping for the time when you in Canada and we of the United States will live up to the opportunities that are given us for service. I believe that we are destined to settle the troubles of the world. As soon as we can get in harmony with the Divine this will be accomplished."

Referring to his visit in Peterboro the speaker said he had never seen a city where there were so many homes where each one of them seemed to be the residence of a happy and contented people.

The Degree of Chivalry.

The exemplification of the Degree of Chivalry was a picturesque and impressive ceremony. The impression left with the spectator was that there was something more than a mere form in the rite, and observances, and the charge to the candidates sounded the highest note in its demands for faith in God, loyalty to the constitution, and honor in character.

Five candidates received the high appointment last night, Chevalier White of number 3 Canton, Brantford; Captain Scott of number 4, Hamilton; Ensign Clayton, Chevalier Mackrell, and Chevalier Henderson, all of number 7 Canton, Toronto.

The Patriarchs Militant were drawn up with swords at the present as the officers, with the colors, marched to their posts. Three colors were carried, the King's color, surmounted by a lion; the Canadian ensign and the Oddfellow's banner, each standard surmounted by a beaver. The candidates approached the door and were challenged by the sentinel, and passed by him to the guard, where credential were examined.

The Patriarchs Militant had meantime formed in two ranks facing inward and as the candidates approached to pass between the rows their swords met with a steely clash, forming an arch. The candidates were bidden to wash their hands as indicating a desire to cleanse their bodies of sin.

Conferring The Honor.

Six ladies of the Rebekah Lodge assisted in the ceremony, attired in symbolic garments. They were, Miss Ruby Cranfield, Past Noble Grand; Mrs. F. Merritt, Past Noble Grand; Mrs. Fred Read, Past Noble Grand; and Mrs. R. N. Jones, Past District D. P. Miss May Caird, Noble Grand, was sword bearer. Little Lillian Barry, daughter of W. H. Barry, acted as maid of honor.

Among the obligations assumed by the candidates they promised to defend maidens, widows and orphans to permit no extortion so far as lay in their power to prevent, and to administer justice in the suppression of vice. Miss Cranfield presented the candidates with a golden spur, symbol of coercion, signifying that no opportunity should be lost to carry out the laws of the order. Mrs. Merritt presented a sword, with the warning to unsheath it only in the right.

Mrs. Read presented a leather gauntlet, a sign of friendship, and Mrs. Jones gave a white glove with the injunction to administer justice with love and kindness, and to resort to arms only when necessary.

The candidates were next exhorted to "Be bold! Be just! and fear not! Know that so long as you are true to the principles you have so openly assumed you will receive the honorable regard of all men and the conscious respect of your own self."

Knights of the Order.

Lillian Barry pinned the jewels on the breasts of the candidates, the leader saying, "I now by the hands of innocence and purity thus invest you with the degree of Chivalry" and bidding them follow "Whatsoever things are pure."

Following the Chaplain's blessing, the candidates were dubbed Knights of the Decoration of Chivalry. Grand Lodge Officers, Patriarch Militant Officers and Rebekahs greeted the honored five, and a grand march terminated the beautiful ceremony.

Presentation of Prizes.

The trophies won in the Canton drill competitions were presented by Brig. Gen. M. Sinclair, P. G. P., General Shaw, Department General for Ontario and Grand Scribe S. C. Parks.

A special prize of $100 presented by Peterboro to the Canton coming the longest distance was divided between the two Toronto Cantons. It had been hoped that Brantford would win this prize, but the Canton found at the last minut, that it was impossible to attend the sessions here.

A cheque for $200 accompanies the General Hermiston trophy, and a cheque for $150 is given with the class B award.

Musical Programme.

Interspersed with the speeches were musical items, led by W. H. Barry at the piano and Alex. Dick with the baton.

John Smith and Bob Hendry, in Highland Costume, entertained the audience with rollicking Scotch choruses. John Smith was heard to good advantage in "Nancy Lee,' with "The Admiral's Broom" as an encore; and Bob Hendry gave his inimitable rendition of "I think I'll get wed in the summer time,' being called back to sing "Back to where the heather grows. The Scotchmen joined in an entertainment consisting of songs and dialogue which kept the audience in roars of laughter throughout. "The wee hoose 'mang the heather; The waggle o' the Kilt' and 'It's a fine thing to sing' were some of their selections.

At the conclusion of the program the Orientals retired to their sanctum to prepare for the degree which they put on at mid-night, while those who remained in the hall turned to dancing.

Orientals Parade.

Singing "Hail Hail the gang's all here,' the Orientals streamed out on George Street at 11.30. They were dressed in red shirts, and some wore the regulation fez while others had the less uniform "Coca- Cola' cap. Scimitars, brooms, feather dusters, chains, hand-cuffs and a single but mighty mallet formed their armament and their mascot was a white dog bedecked in the regalia of the order. With Alex. Dick in his now familiar role of policeman as leader, they paraded to the C. W. V. A. hall and back, arriving at their headquarter, in time to commence the trek across the desert at the midnight hour.

The Committees in Charge.

Praise of the arrangements made for their comfort emanated from all the visitors who made any call on the facilities provided by the Peterboro committees. W. H. Barry, P.G.P., Secretary of the Grand Encampment Session and on the Special Committee for the entertainment of visitors was a busy man throughout the day. E. H. Bartlett, P.G.P., Chairman of advertising committee and specially appointed to the Grand Encampment Committee on the State of the Order ran Patriarch Barry a close second. George Lachcur Deputy Grand Patriarch, was chairman of the general committee in charge of arrangements. Alex. Dick was chairman of the entertainment committee. Hugh Robertson was chairman of the billeting committee. Fred Read was chairman of the transportation committee.

PEACE LEAGUE PREVENTS WAR

Hon. P. C. Larkin Returns to Canada For a Visit—The Cattle Market.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7. Canadian Press—Enthusiastic support of the League of Nations and high appreciation of the work which it has thus far done, was voiced by Hon. P. C. Larkin, the Canadian High Commissioner in London in an interview given to newspaper men last even. "The League has done wonders," declared Mr. Larkin; "I think it probably averted two wars in Europe, one in Silesia and the other in Albania. The eventual result of the movement will be that nations will submit all their differences to the League."

Mr. Larkin, who according to his own statement, has returned from London to "talk things over" with the government, touched on a variety of subjects in the course of an hour. He stated that he had been made a member of the Privy Council in order that he could come back and report once a year, and that he had not returned last year because a number of matters requiring his attention were not adjusted in time for him to make his annual visit.

"Thousands of cattle are going in, and I think that the shippers are doing very well," he said, answering a question regarding the progress made since the embargo on Canadian cattle was lifted by the British government. "It will be a fine thing economically for Canada." Mr. Larkin discounted rumors that Canadian cattle were being charged tolls insisting that the treatment given in the old country was perfectly square. He explained that 85 per cent. of the cattle which went to Great Britain came from the northwest, so it was impossible to say as yet just what the shipments in a year would approximate. He emphasized the point that it was most desirable to have fat cattle placed on the list of those admitted to Great Britain and expressed the belief that they would be.

Mr. Larkin said that Canada could hardly expect to obtain a large immigration of agriculturists from British Isles. Farmers were small in numbers in Great Britain as compared with artisans and other city dwellers, and in the past immigration of the latter had been discouraged. Canada was now making a strong effort to obtain immigrants of the artisan class, and was meeting with success.

The High Commissioner referred to the arrangements which have been made with the governments of Greece and Rumania for the payment of loans which Canada made to these two countries. The Rumanian loan which originally amounted to twenty million dollars, had grown by the accumulation of unpaid interest to twenty four millions at the time that he took office. He had succeeded in persuading the Rumanian minister at London to have an export tax put on grain, the proceeds from which to be used for paying foreign debts. In this he had been successful and the result was that some time after he received the first payment of $480,000. The loan would be paid off, he said, in twenty years. The Greek government had agreed to pay interest every six months and would pay the principle—amounting to eight million dollars—after the flotation of its first loan.

Mr. Larkin saw little to be gained through making the high commissionership a cabinet post. He was enthusiastic in his statements regarding "Canada House," the new building which will be occupied by him and his staff when certain alterations and adjustments have been made. "It has the finest situation in the British Empire," he said. He explained that there are now 200 employees of the High Commissioner's office in London, and that they were scattered all over the city. Under present conditions it was impossible to supervise them all properly. Therefore it was good business to get them all under one roof.

"I can't say anything about the Imperial Conference," Mr. Larkin said in answer to a question. "I do not think anyone really knows what subjects will receive the most attention." Regarding the British Empire Exhibition, he expressed absolute certainty that the Canadian building would be completed in time for the opening and that with the support of the British government the exhibition would go ahead. He expressed the greatest appreciation of the attitude of the British people toward himself.

"The consideration, kindness and hospitality extended to the representative of Canada by the British people is unbounded," he said. "You can well understand that with such a great friend of Canada as the Duke of Devonshire occupying the office of Secretary of State for the Colonies, the High Commissioner's part is made easy. Anyone that one could suggest as being in the interest of the Canadian people is sure to receive the greatest attention and consideration by the head of the Colonial office."

KEEP YOUR YOUTH

At a recent commencement program, one of the speakers mentioned De Soto as seeking the fountain of youth. Some of you may know that it should have been our other old friend of history, Ponce de Leon. It was just a slight mistake and cost nothing except a laugh at the expense of the speaker, by those who knew the difference in the historical activities of the two gentlemen mentioned.

But think of the mistakes so many people are making every day, in not keeping themselves physically fit for the battle of life. The fountain of youth should be the ceaseless quest from which one should never for a moment diverge. In fact it should be your end and aim to bask in the sunshine of youth, so to speak, until "you walk the plank."

Health Fixes Age.

Of course you will understand that when I say youth that it is a matter of bodily condition and health to which reference is made and not a mere matter of years. One may be old at 40 and another youthful and full of pep at 65. "Old age ne'er cooled the Douglas blood."

The war examinations found the available human material in the United States to be in rather a deplorable condition. Thirty-eight per cent of those examined by physicians for the second draft were rejected. The majority for physical conditions and diseases which were easily preventable under hygienic principles of right living.

Exercise Is Best.

Scientific test made at many different times and in many cities and towns, show that heat has much to do with the physical activities of the average person. In summer when the temperature reaches 77 degrees the average loss in mental energy is about one-fourth or 25 per cent. At 93 degrees the loss is 25 per cent of the physical energy and one becomes lazy and low spirited. At any increase in temperature above the points given the loss in both physical and mental energy is rapid and marked.

There is a daily battle going on with the forces and habits that menace your health and strength. You can only win by keeping the health battle-front intact and your reserves always ready to be called into action. If temperature has such an influence on one's mental and physical activities, think what the drain and pull must by disease and lack of physical condition. Probably 7 out of 10 pay little attention to their proper physical well-being throughout life.

One-third of your life is scheduled for sleep. Don't be a night owl. Sleep knits up the raveled sleeve of care. Walk and exercise in the open air keep the arteries from hardening and the ankles from becoming stiff. Walking gives a healthy heart action and the lungs become real blood purifiers. It starts a perspiration and keeps away skin troubles. Walking is better than all the blood purifiers and tonics you can swallow.

COMMUNIST ARRESTED.

ROME, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Police last night arrested Giuseppe Mingrino, the Communist deputy from Pisa, when they found him walking the streets carrying a sword stick. # The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Teresa Desmond (Terry), a beautiful imaginative child who believes in fairies and worships

Juliet Divine, the stage name of her half-sister. She rides in a gorgeous car and talks of a millionaire.

Terrence Desmond, their father, quick-tempered and unreliable, was formerly a caretaker of a Long Island estate. Forced to leave the estate through an escapade of Terry's he opens a roadhouse called The Blue Moon, with money advanced to him by Tom Perrin, a prosperous friend of Julia's.

Mary Desmond, Terry's mother and Julia's stepmother, fears disgrace in the latters' career.

Mrs. Peter Parmalee, owns the house, Silverwood, of which Desmond was formerly caretaker.

Betty. Sheen, her spoiled young granddaughter, whose rudeness to Terry, at Silverwood, the latter will never forget, is engaged to

Miles Sheridan, a handsome, likable young chap. His car breaks down at the door of The Blue Moon, and he meets Terry. Delighted with the child's charm and anxious to atone for his fiancee's past rudeness, supplies the wherewithal to send Terry to a Convent for next seven years.

While at the Convent, Terry receives word that her Mother has died

Returning to the Blue Moon, Terry is installed as a cashier, which position she loathes.

CHAPTER IX

Not a Million Dollar Doll

Terry did not know what to make of her life at the Blue Moon.

After the peace of the Convent it was pandemonium: noise, noise, from twelve, midday, till long after twelve midnight.

Terrence Desmond grumbled that "pussyfoot" had ruined him, but lack of liquor—if there was a lack—did not seem to interfere with business at the Road House.

There were crowds for luncheon—crowds of white-faced, pink-cheeked girls, like big dolls, and their escorts, often old men, or very young ones with foolish faces.

In the afternoon more motorists would drive up, demanding lemonade or tea, and they would sit smoking while the band played, as it never failed to play at all hours of the day or night. Crowds again for the celebrated fish dinner; and greater crowds for the supper dance.

The jazz music startled Terry when she first heard it, and irritated her nerves. She thought it like some tragedy among pots and kettles in the kitchen.

Even when she was permitted to go to bed she could never sleep till the small hours, and hers was not the placid temperament which can make up for lack of rest, with a late morning nap. Her health suffered and the little sleep she got was broken with hateful dreams; dreams of men's faces, especially their eyes.

There were eyes that stared in the restaurant, eyes that she avoided by bending over her work, but could feel through the top of her head, sharp as gimlets: they came through the wall of her room in dreams, and the horror was that they drew nearer and nearer to her own face until she struggled awake with a gasp.

In the dreams she felt that, if they touched her, she would die. But when she lay awake in the morning thinking of those dreams, they seemed stupid. She could not understand or define her dislike of the look in some men's eyes, more than in others.

It was only a silly, dead-fish sort of look, she told herself: but the odd thing was that in the dreams, the girl seemed to know something bad, even dangerous about it, which seemed nonsense when she was awake.

Most of the people who ate and danced at the Blue Moon appeared to be rather common and unintelligent according to a convent-learned standards, judged from the conversations she overheard, and the skylarking that went on among the livelier clients.

But one evening the girl looked up (she seemed somehow compelled to look up) and met a pair of eyes from a different world. A queer little stab shot through her nerves. She did not like the eyes. But they were not common. It occurred to her that they were magnetic as the eyes of a black cat. And they were much the same color; a greyish greenish yellow.

Though she looked down as quickly as she had looked up, the girl saw the eyes between her and her paper, as one sees bright spots after gazing at the sun. The table at which the man had sat down to dine was so close to her desk that the nearness of the eyes was an unpleasant reminder of the dream, and she kept an impression of their color with startling clearness.

There was, however, one consolation in knowing them so near—they had not that foolish, dying fish look. These eyes were alert, and bright with intelligence of a sort.

The man sat facing the girl at her desk, and she resolved not to look at him again, but the attraction or repulsion (whichever it was) overcame her, and once more she met the eyes. This time hers photographed the face more distinctly than ever; a repellent face, perhaps, yet one that she would have been drawn to study if she could have studied unseen.

It was Terry found, wonderfully intellectual for a Blue Moon client. The forehead was high, if narrow, framed in thick black hair streaked with grey. The brilliant eyes were deep set, under heavy brows. The nose was strong and big the cheek bones prominent; one would have said, a writer or speaker on strong subjects strongly felt, though the lower part of the face destroyed that impression, it was difficult to say why. The heavy jowl and protruding jaw were covered with a greying black beard, but the lips showed thick and red.

Down dropped Terry's long lashes, and she tried to forget the man. But she could not put him out of her mind. Why should an intelligent person amuse himself by staring her out of countenance, as the silly people did?

By and by, without raising her eyes, the girl became conscious that her vis a vis had risen and walked away. Then, a few minutes later, her father spoke.

"Meet my daughter—my little namesake, Teresa—Mr. Nazlo," he said; and added, "Mr. Nazlo has paid our place some nice compliments. This is the first time he's been here. He dropped in by accident, but he says he means to come back. I hope he will. He's a big man, as fine an American as a Greek, and we're proud to welcome him."

Nazlo laughed. It was early, and few of the tables were occupied. He could stand and talk to the cashier at her desk without being remarked.

"I hope you'll welcome me, too, Miss Desmond. And I hope I didn't annoy you, seeming to stare. I didn't mean to be rude. But—I suppose other people have remarked how like you are to—a well-known young lady, Juliet Divine? I wonder if you ever saw her?"

Terry met a warning gleam in her father's eyes. He answered, to give her a cue. Miss Divine has been here once or twice, but that was before my daughter finished school. Teresa's been working to help her old dad, only three months. Somebody told me that Miss Divine's in Europe—or South America, maybe—so Teresa won't get a chance yet to judge the resemblance."

"Miss Divine must have come back. I saw her walking down Fifth Avenue a couple of days ago," said Nazlo. "I don't know her personally," he went on, perhaps to Desmond's relief, "but we all admire her. She's mighty pretty.

"But—if you'll let me say so—" (he bowed to Terry) "you could give her points. You're years younger, too."

"My daughter's seventeen," said Terrence. "Just seventeen, and just out of a Convent!"

Terry felt unpleasantly that her father was showing her off. Nazlo's eyes sent out a flash.

"A convent maiden!" he echoed. "Why, we oughtn't to speak of her in the same breath with the Million Dollar Doll, ought we, Mr. Desmond?"

SINGLE HUMAN HAIR IDENTIFIES SLAYER

Stock Broker of Berlin Cruelly Murdered—Assassin Confesses.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—(United Press).—A single human hair, gripped in the hand of a murdered stock-broker, Hans Friedmann, here, led to the conviction of his assassin.

When the body of the murdered man was found, the police discovered between his clenched fingers this one hair, the color of which did not match his own. Suspected persons were arrested, but there was no evidence against them. Finally one, Bernhart Schultz, was taken by the police.

Chemical analysis of the hair proved it to be his.

Under examination Schultz broke down and confessed.

HARWOOD DEFEATED BY CAMPBELLFORD

Victors add Another Win to Their Growing String of Triumphs—Score 16-5

HARWOOD, August 7. — The Campbellford baseball team added another to their growing string of victories, when on Monday afternoon they defeated the Harwood nine by a score of 16 to 5. At the end of the game the Harwoods, with practically the same line-up as that which went against Campbellford, trimmed the veterans from Warkworth to the tune of 9 to 6.

Campbellford, Brighton and Warkworth are now tied for second place in the League and much depends on the outcome of the games in Warkworth on Wednesday, when Brighton goes up against the Veterans and Campbellford and Roseneath have it on for the second time this season.

Campbellford has still three games to play before the season is finished with Orland, Roseneath, and Hastings, and at their present pace should find no trouble in winning all of them. It looks now as if Campbellford and Brighton will have to play off for second place.

West in the Box.

West did the pitching for the visiting team and added another wreath or two to his reputation as an all-round ball player a man who can make good in any position on the team. Brady was allowed a holiday to enable him to rest up for the crucial struggle n Wednesday. In the sixth Shillinglaw was laid out, when one of Dunnett's cranes caught him on the side of the head and laid him out. He was obliged to retire, and Brady was called from the bench to take his place. It was at first feared that Shillinglaw was seriously injured, but Dr. Diamond, of Coldsprings, who was one of the spectators, rendered him first-aid and soon had him on his feet again.

West pitched a steady game never being in danger at any stage, and received excellent support from his team-mates.

The Harwoods were able to score in only two innings, and the seven hits which they made were well scattered.

The Campbellford players were lenient with their opponents. In the visitors' half of the sixth inning Harwood claimed that the side was retired, when all the scorers on the ground agreed that only two were point, and the game went on in peace. When the Harwoods went to bat in the fifth, Bowman failed to take his place as first man up, but Hogg, who batted out of his turn, was not called up when the error was discovered.

In this inning Harwood tallied three times on singles by Hogg and Williams, a hunt by Bates, who is a specialist in that style of hits, and a sacrifice by C. Down.

The other two runs for Harwood were made in their last time at bat. Hogg hit to left, Williams waited out West, and each was advanced on a sacrifice by C. Down. Bates sent a long fly to Brady in centre, and Curtis fanned.

Campbellford at Bat.

The visitors had the game under lock and key when they piled up six runs in their half of the first. Cowell singled to centre, Eagleson and Hume walked. Then Holmes, who at bat and in the field played the game of his career, cracked out a double to right centre and the three runners ahead of him crossed the plate. Holmes stole third and scored when Weston singled. Shillinglaw was hit by the pitcher, not the blow that laid him out; stole second and scored on Nesbitt's safety.

In the fifth, West got to first and second on Hogg's bad throw. Nesbitt sent a roller to Dunnett, who caught West at third, Nesbitt being given a fielder's choice to first. Nesbitt stole second and scored when Cowell singled to left. Blakely fanned and Eagleson sent Cowell home with a safety. Hume was out on a long fly to centre.

In the sixth, Holmes, the first man up, waited for his base, and wild throws, coupled with good sprinting, brought him in with another tally. Weston singled and stole second and third. Shillinglaw was laid out by the pitcher, but Brady, who took his place on first, made the circuit when West and Nesbitt singled.

Three more runs were scored by Campbellford in the seventh, when Eagleson got a base on balls. Hume and Holmes singled and Weston doubled to right. Weston was caught trying to steal third. Brady flied to right field and West was out on a roller which the Harwood pitcher got to first ahead of him.

COBOURG MAN HORNS IN WITH A NEW NAME.

Was Forced to Retire After a Wordy Argument.

HARWOOD, August 7. — A new meteor flashed across the baseball firmament here on Monday. A young man who admitted that his home is in Cobourg, and answered to the name of Minifie, substituted in the game between Campbellford and Harwood, holding down third base for three innings. The only time he was at bat he fanned, and as an infielder did nothing to distinguish himself.

When the game between Harwood and Warkworth was about to start, the young man loomed up again. Cobourg was still his home but now his name was Baker, and he was down to do the pitching. Warkworth protested that he was not a resident under the rules and after a wordy contest the man from Cobourg was forced to retire.

The Harwoods seemed improved in form and pep after the brush with Campbellford, and held the lead all the way. Dunnett pitched an excellent game, and Warkworth lost out by a score of 9-. The fine-up:

Harwood—Bates ss, Curtis rf, Halstead cf, W. Downs c, Dunnett p, Hogg 3b, Bowman lf, Lean 2b, C. Downs, 1b.

Warkworth—Dawson lf, K. Zufelt 1b, Poole 2b, Mulhall ss and p, A. Zufelt ss and p, Beatty rf, McGregor cf; Wilson c, Dick 3b.

FIVE KILLED AND FOUR INJURED

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press.) — Five persons were killed and four injured, two of whom may die, when a freight train on the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad crashed into an automobile at Griffith, at ten thirty this morning. The auto tried to cross ahead of the train.

CAMPBELLFORD BOY FELL FROM TRUCK

Willie Blue Sustains Severe Injuries to Head and Shoulders.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 7.—Several boys from town rode out yesterday on a Peterborough Cereal Company truck that carried a load of feed to Havelock. The little fellows were standing up on the truck on the way home when, at a sharp turn in the road, Willie Blue lost his balance and fell to the ground, striking on his head and shoulder. He was removed to his home here and Dr. E. J. Free was called to attend him. He found that the boy, who is about fifteen years old, was rather seriously injured, but hopes are entertained for his recovery.

The injured youth is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Blue. Miss Grace Blue, the well known hockey star, is a sister.

EXPECT ARREST BANK ROBBERS

Exceedingly Confident Air About Police Headquarters — Thought Officers on the Right Track.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Special despatches received here last night from Detroit and elsewhere were indicative of important and early developments in connection with the audacious holdup of bank messengers at Jordan and Melinda Streets on the morning of July 24.

One despatch from Detroit said the police of Toronto had in custody as a suspect a Windsor man with a long record of Chinese smuggling and counterfeiting. Another despatch told of an arrest in Buffalo, and still another spoke of possible arrests in Montreal. While the city police refuse to give any information about what they are doing, there is a confident air about headquarters that gives the impression that the officers are on the right track. Arrests are hourly expected which will clear up the two weeks' mystery.

FAVORABLY IMPRESSED HASTINGS CONGREGATION

Peterborough Probationer Preached in Methodist Church—Personals.

HASTINGS August 7. — Monday was generally observed as Civic Holiday here, and in consequence all business was suspended, and the citizens spent the day in various forms of amusement.

Quarterly Sacramental services were held in the Methodist Church on Sunday morning. Rev. M. L. Hinton officiated. In the evening the congregation was addressed by Mr. Barrie, of Peterborough, a promising young probationer, who took for his text, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature." He held the attention of his hearers throughout the entire sermon.

Mr. Barrie is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Stenson.

The Quarterly Board will meet this (Tuesday) evening.

Laid To Rest.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. M. Stevenson in the loss of her husband who died in Peterborough hospital following an operation. The funeral was held from the family residence on Sunday afternoon, and was largely attended. Interment took place in Trent Valley Cemetery.

Deceased was a nephew of Mr. James Stevenson, Sr., of town, and and has been for some time a member of the Quarterly Board of the Methodist Church. Being of a quiet, unassuming disposition, he made many friends, who will regret his demise.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Fleming, of Colborne, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Moore and family spent Sunday with Norwood friends.

Miss Ona Doxsee is visiting friends in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watson, of Norwood, spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Hess.

Misses Muriel and Ruby Cruikshanks are visiting friends in Millbrook.

Miss Wilma Burgess, of Norwood, spent Monday in town.

AIR AMBULANCE FEAT.

PERTH, W. Australia, Aug. 7. — The value of the air service to isolated settlers was demonstrated recently when a plane with an urgent surgical case met with a westerly gale which blew it 30 miles out of its course. Despite this he landed his patients in a hospital at Carnarvon within seven hours.

CLUES TO SLAYER FATHER CLOHECY

Believed Insane Deaf Mute Lies in Almost Impenetrable Bush.

GUELPH, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Within the confines of a 16-mile square territory, mostly swamp and almost impenetrable bush, officials here believe lies John Cosgrave, insane deaf mute, who killed Father Clohecy, of Proton, and who escaped from the Guelph Reformatory.

The guards of the Reformatory have established one of their cordons which has almost invariably before served as an impassable barrier to those making a dash for freedom. Along lonely concession roads, at railway crossings and high trestles, at cross roads and at the entrance of pathways across acres of underbrush and swamp land are stationed the men who are seeking Cosgrave. A heavy fog has settled, following a heavy shower, and a breeze is rising and whistling across the marshes. But up and down on their beat pace the guards, unarmed, facing the prospect of an encounter with Cosgrave ten miles from the nearest habitation.

Not until late last night did clues begin to arrive at the office of the Reformatory. Since Saturday Cosgrave had disappeared from the sight or hearing of men. Not one farmer had reported even a glimpse of the missing man. At a late hour last night, however, the local police department learned that James Lennox, a farm hand, was accosted on Sunday morning by a man who answered to the descriptions sent out by the Reformatory authorities. The strange man could not talk, but made signs, which seemed to indicate that he desired something to eat. Lennox was some distance from his house, and refused the request. At the time he was unaware that a search was being conducted for Cosgrave, and not until last night did he learn his information was likely to prove valuable.

Save Fuel in Cooking

The illustration shows an interesting test you should try in your own kitchen. It proves the superiority of good enameled ware for cooking purposes. Take an SMP Enameled Ware Sauce Pan, and a sauce pan of equal size made of aluminum, tin or other metal. Into each pour a quart of cold water. Set both sauce pans over the fire. The water in the SMP Enameled Ware Sauce Pan will be boiling merrily in about five minutes, while the water in the all-metal sauce pan will come to the boil in about eight minutes—three minutes longer. Save fuel in cooking. Use

CANTONS HELD DRILL EVENTS

Number 7 of Toronto Won Trophy For General Manoeuvres, While Number 10 Won the Alignment Trophy.

The competitions in Canton drill and the sports at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon in connection with the 54th Session of the Grand Encampment, I.O.O.F. of Ontario, attracted a crowd of about 600 spectators. Although only two of the eight cantons expected were present, the drill was extremely interesting, calling forth many bursts of applause from the audience.

The results, announced last night, gave the General G. M. Hermiston Cup to Canton No. 7. This cup is given for general excellence in drill, and was won by the Canton ten years ago. Since then lost it, and have now won it for the third time. Canton 7 is in class A. The class B trophy went to Canton 10, which also won the Col. H. Taylor trophy for alignment marching.

The chevaliers of the Order presented a splendid appearance on parade in thier black uniforms with red facings and gold trimmings. Belts were of bronze and purple and red, and the officers swords were decorated in gold. The gaily colored plumes worn in the hats lent a picturesque touch to the uniform.

The judges were Colonel A. E. Somerville and W. F. Darch, of London, and Lt.-Col. H. Lindstrom, of Belleville, and the judging was very close, both Cantons showing a splendid degree of efficiency. Alignment marching was especially well done, and the difficult eschelon marching gained loud applause. The sword drill was splendid, the chevaliers going through the movements in a way that left nothing to be desired.

Old Peterborough Canton.

Peterborough at one time had a Canton Militant, Number 10, and when it surrendered its charter this was taken over by the present Canton 10 of Toronto. Many Peterborough Oddfellows were heard yesterday expressing their desire for a Canton in the city, and it was thought that probably a movement would be launched in that direction. The old Peterborough number to banner still reposes in the I.O.O.F. hall, and is the most beautiful banner in the keeping of the Oddfellows here.

Sword Contest.

An elimination contest provided great interest, and called into play all the skill of the contestants. Eagle-eyed judges watched every move the men made in response to the orders and when a man was detected in a mistake, however small, he was dismissed. The last three men were W. C. Thornton, of Canton 10; George Newman, Canton 7; and A. E. Sloan, Canton 7, and Thornton was the survivor of the three. So close was the competition that Sloan was declared out on a slight movement of his hands in response to an order wrongly given. While at the "rest" the order "present arms" was given, and Sloan made a movement to carry out the order. The only order that can be taken from the "rest" is attention."

Several novelty races were run off with the genial Alex Dick as starter judge and director of ceremonies. An obstacle race was won by Jim Ellis, with A. Burgess second. The centipede race resulted in a win for the team composed of Hardie, Hodson, Merritt, Price, Low and Frost. In the tug of war between Otonabee and Peterborough, the honors were given to Peterborough, while the Encampment committee walked away with the outsiders. A pick-a-back race resulted in a victory for George Low and Jim Ellis, with N. Hardie and J. Price second. The prizes consisted of gold cuff links engraved with the emblem of the Order.

PRESIDENT'S BODY IN OHIO TODAY

Formal Funeral Services For Late W. G. Harding in Capital Wednesday.

WILLARD, Ohio, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—The body of Warren G. Harding came home to Ohio early to-day, but not to rest.

Strong as is the claim of the State of Ohio upon the man who was its most distinguished son, the nation has a greater right, and it is this right that will be exercised tomorrow in the formal funeral services in the Capital.

The funeral train, running far behind the schedule outlined for it when it left San Francisco last Friday evening on the three thousand-mile trans-continental trip, entered the State of Ohio just before reaching Sherwood, after having traversed the State of Indiana in time that almost constituted a record for that portion of the route. Desperate efforts were made during the night by railroad officials in charge of the train to regain at least a portion of the time lost yesterday in the States of Iowa and Illinois and in the city of Chicago. It was practically certain early to-day that the funeral train would not reach Washington at the scheduled hour of 1.30 p.m.

CONVENTION NOTES

General G. M. Hermiston, commanding all the Patriarchs Militant on the American Continent, is a Canadian who was brought up in Peterborough district. He is now on official visit in the United States, and so was unable to attend yesterday.

S. C. Parks, the Grand Scribe of the order, is also a former Peterborough man. He is on General Hermiston's staff, ranking highest among the officers present in the city. His brother officers describe him as very capable and efficient.

Ebner Fraser of Hamilton is the grandold man of the Oriental degree. The degree was originated by John A. MacDonald, and Brother Fraser was the first registerilissimo.

Peterborough was efficiently represented by the Rangers' Band, which accompanied the Cantons to Riverside park and rendered several selections there.

Toronto Catnon 7 will enter the world's competition in manoeuvres in Cincinnati next month during the session there of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

It would take 5,000 bees to weigh a pound.

Funeral of the Late Mrs. Frank E. Pethick.

Mrs. Frank E. Pethick, who passed away in Rochester, N.Y., on Saturday, 28th July, was widely known in Peterborough also in Lakefield, where she was born, being the youngest daughter of the late Samuel and Mrs. Nelson. The funeral was held on the following Monday at half-past three, and was attended by a large circle of friends. Rev. Mr. McGhee, pastor of Emmanuel Presbyterian Church, and of which deceased was a member, conducted the service at the house and at the grave. The Ladies' Aid, of which she had been president for some time, attended in a body to pay their last respects. Her musical talent will be greatly missed in all church affairs. The beautiful bank of flowers showed the high esteem in which she was held. The following are the floral tributes: Husband, F. E. Pethick, pillow; son, Francis, pillow; Mr. and Mrs. Marks and Miss Dorothy, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. J. Scrymgeour, wreath; brother and sisters, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. Guiles, wreath; Ladies' Aid of Emmanuel Presbyterian Church, wreath; Dr. and Mrs. Remington basket; Mr. and Mrs. Wagner, basket; Mrs. Morphy and daughter, basket; Algenia and Greta Trude, spray; Mr. F. "REDS" DISAGREE.

MOSCOW, Aug. 7. — Relations with the Bulgarian communist party have been severed by the Third Internationale, it is reported here. The break came, it is said, because the Bulgarians were not active enough to suit their Russian brethren in the recent overthrow of the Stambulisky government.

BLACK AND BROWN.

One of the smartest color combinations for daytime is black and brown. It has much more pep than you would believe.

MORRISON SCORES EX-PREMIER DRURY

And Declares U. F. O. Not Motive Power for New Political Party.

EUGENIA FALLS, August 7. — Canadian Press. — If ex-Premier Drury wishes to form a new political party in Ontario he is quite at liberty to do so and to call it any name he desires, but he has no right to use the U.F.O. as the motive power in such effort, declared Secretary J. J. Morrison in an address to a large audience of farmer-picnickers here yesterday.

Respecting the ex-premier's condemnation in his Wasago speech of "interlocking board" of the U.F.O. and the U.F. Cooperative Companies Secretary Morrison responded that Mr. Drury must have forgotten that he, more than any other individual was responsible for such a condition "It seems hard to realize," Mr. Morrison stated, that this charge against the evils of an inter-locking board comes from one who more than anyone else was guilty.

"For five years (1914-19) Mr. Drury said on both boards of the U.F.O. and the U.F. Cooperative Company. The next most guilty individual to himself served only three years. There is no interlocking between the U.F.O. and the U.F. Cooperative Co and only two men from the U.F.O. and one from the U.F. Cooperative Company, serve upon the Board of the publishing company. The secretary of the U.F.O. serves as a director only upon the publishing board.

"Why," Mr. Morrison asked, "is interlocking more offensive now than heretofore. And if it is wisdom for big interests to interlock their directorates in the interests of big business, why should not the farmers interlock their directorates in the interests, not of the directors, because their interests are infinitely small but in the interests of the rural people who form the movement."

In reference to "broadening out," Mr. Morrison said that it was a catchy term, yet to be defined.

Walkerville Woman Gets a Big Surprise

"Tanlac gave me health and happiness a year ago, after it looked like I never would be well again, and I haven't stopped praising it since," declared Mrs. Maude Whitehead, 20 Victoria Road, Walkerville, Ont.

"My appetite was so poor I often went all day without food and was so weak and run-down a few steps over to the store would exhaust me and get me out of breath until I thought I would drop in my tracks. I feared a nervous breakdown, too, for I would tremble all over even if the doorbell rang and at night little noises like a curtain rustling would keep me wide awake.

"I felt an improvement with my very first dose of Tanlac and now I am always hungry, eat like a farm hand, am never nervous, sleep all night long and am so strong I could walk the mile and a half to Windsor and hardly notice it. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

STONEY LAKE AND DISTRICT

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 7.—An extremely busy week is ahead for the denizens of Stoney Lake, and, granting good weather, it will be the gala week it has been planned.

On Saturday, August 4, the second annual field day at Kawartha Park was the event of the afternoon and was a credit to the committee.

On Saturday night the cottagers of Kawartha Park had an illuminated parade of boats. The cottagers at Crowe's Landing were also having an illuminated boat parade among the islands. This is an innovation of this season and bids fair to be very popular. A special dance at Juniper is another feature of the night. On Monday, August 6, the annual regatta at Kawartha Park took place. To-day two young people, both well-known on the lake, were married—Miss Marjorie Eakins and K. G. Lech, and a good many of the cottagers attended the wedding. The interest was strong in this event, as both of the contracting parties have been devotees of Stoney Lake since childhood. They have the best wishes of the summer colony.

On Wednesday, August 8, the annual masquerade will be held at Crowe's Landing, and at Juniper there will be a special dance.

On Thursday, August 9, being the day of the Chemong regatta, the steamer Empress has been chartered to take an excursion over.

On Friday, August 10, an illuminated flotilla will be held at Juniper Island.

On Saturday, Aug. 11, the children's regatta will be held at Juniper, and at night the annual masquerade.

On Monday, August 13, the Juniper regatta will be held. This is the fortieth annual regatta.

WHOLE NATION

end of Main street are the people who produce the necessities of life. The problems of these people who are making what we eat are the paramount community problem of our world to-day, for the food problem is going to be the great economic problem in the years to come. I say it is a mighty good thing that Brittania has ruled the waves through the years. I know it is irritating when you have some loud-mouthed blatherskite come over here and tell you people all about the late war. I know that the American emblem is supposed to be the one dollar bill, and that we are supposed to be a nation of money-grabbers, without ideals, but you must remember that we have every race under the sun down there to mix in with us, and you must let this leaven of Anglo-Saxonism get in its work, when you will see that we will stand by you in the great problems of the day. We realize that the Royal Navy has ever been one of our great protections, and if the time ever comes (God grant that it never will) when Brittania ceases to rule the waves, we know that we must shoulder the burden of a great navy."

"But, in the meantime, we are cutting down our forests to make homes for people driven from the farms, we are building city boulevards and speedways and great white ways, while the farmer is begging for money to fight the boll weevil. Chicago built the beautiful Wrigley tower from the profits of chewing chum, but its financiers had no mercy on the farmers who were forced into liquidation by the hundreds through crop failures. Because New England goes far afield for her food, and is Galley 2—Take 1—Whole Nation compelled to cry out for a high tariff to protect her industries, she sees those industries forsaking her. The factories are going into the Mississippi basin, looking for food supplies, and the cotton mills are going to the south. Communities always pay for their neglect of the soil. The eyes of the whole world are turned to the East to-day, to the tomb of King Tutankamen, wondering what new revelations will come forth from it, but we know well what lesson the East can teach us. There was a time when the great Nile valley was the food-producing centre of the earth. But they took the workers from the land and set them to building their pyramids and put them into their armies. They taxed agriculture to death, and they have paid the price. Kings may reign, and generals may command, but the farmer's plow marks the furrows of advancing civilization. Well might the plow say, if it could speak, 'Every nation that forgets me, in that hour her doom is sealed, by a judgment sent from heaven that can never be reevaled.'

Cities Growing.

"The city population is increasing seven and one-half times as rapidly as the country population. In New York state alone, 26,000 valuable farm homes lie idle. In Georgia, 13 p.c. of the farmers have left the farms during the last two years. The people are leaving the soil, and the regrettable fact is that it is the young farmer who is leaving. The average American farmer is 47 years of age. Eighty per cent. of them are fifty years of age. Gradually we are becoming a nation of absentee landlords. It is a serious condition, and the wave of radicalism that is finding its way into the country is largely due to the fact that these men are largely tenant farmers. The red flag of anarchy never waves above the doorway of a man who owns his own home."

Mr. Johnson spoke of the advantages of mixed farming. "When the farmer turns his attention to the raising of live stock and poultry and small fruits, then we will realize a stability of national life that we have not now.' 'He referred to the methods advocated by the co-operative marketing expert, Aaron Sapiro, as the only sane method for orderly marketing of farm produce, "in the east as well as in the west. This is not a movement to hold up the price, but only to permit the wheat manufacturer, the farmer, to substitute a business method of marketing for the old system of dumping his entire season's crop on the market at once. "In the last ten years, including the profitable war years, the average yearly income of the cotton farmer was only $400. Farmers should know something of business rudiments. Plasterers to-day in Chicago are getting as high as $20 a day, and some of them are now demanding $27 a day. A farmer who wanted to have a house built discovered that he would have to pay the bricklayer every day the equivalent of the sale price of 23 chickens, averaging three pounds apiece; the carpenter would get the price of a 175 pound hog, fed and kept for eight months, and the painter would receive the value of 44 pounds of dairy butter, the daily product of 14 dairy cows."

Ridicule Farmers.

"We have built walls between ourselves and the farmer. We have called him a rube and a hick and a hayseed. The movies have featured him as an ignorant individual, the stage has burlesqued him, the newspapers have lampooned and cartooned him. We have paid $20 for the education of the country child to the $55 expended in the teaching of his city cousin. And we have called him a rube so often that we did try to improve his condition with consolidated schools and better roads, it has been the farmer that has fought the hardest against these things. He is not willing to co-operate with us because we have never attempted to co-operate with him. We must get the other fellow's point of view. We must do things better than our grandfathers did. The farmer thinks the little red schoolhouse which gave his granddaddy a start is good enough for his children. Good schools cost money, but not half as much money as bad schools. Scrub schools may be good enough for farmers who are contented with scrub live stock or scrub opportunities for their children. We have been wasting plenty of sympathy for years on the poor city child, but away from pure air and sunshine, but a recent survey by Columbia University proved taht a greater percentage of farm than city children have diseased tonsils and other indications of poor health, and there are thousands of boys and girls on the farms who never get a drink of pure milk."

"I would like to be a czar with autocratic power to make a law that within five years of my proclamation any farmer should be hanged who was not able to produce on his own land his own supplies of beef, bacon, flour, butter and milk. I will wager that within ten years' trial of this system, I would be proclaimed a public benefactor. The slogan of some of the Southern States who have abandoned their cotton and tobacco fields for the output of "a cow, a hog, a hen, with a little cotton now and then," was going to lift them out of the mire by their own boot-straps. Better hogs and better cattle make better men. You won't find consolidated schools and federated churches in a razor-back community."

The speaker concluded a stirring address with an appeal for a better community spirit, and for a realization that the philosophy of the Master, and the application of the Golden Rule were just as efficacious in business life as in religion.

The first Chautauqua speaker this year, Judge Alden, had to contend with a crying baby during his speech. Last night, two foreigners, who had evidently come to the tent for a friendly chat with each other, annoyed the listeners in the rear of the enclosure.

Musical Features.

Lieurances Brass Choir was the musical attraction yesterday afternoon and for the prelude to the lecture last evening. A sextette of capable and well-trained musicians, they gave a well- received afternoon of bright music, including popular and operatic selections, and entertained a pleased audience last evening before the speaker's appearance. Three corneta and two slide trombones, with a pianist, formed the personnel of the bright, youthful band, composed of the Misses Jean and Gertrude Erickson, and Messrs. Fred Colby, M. Gage, George Zeels and Norman Goodbrod.

Their programme included the march, "The Nations, Awakening" Gounod's 'Praise ye the Father,' and "Unfold, Ye Portals," a medley of standard oratorio choruses, and of soldier melodies; a number of operatic selections in one selection; the quartette from "I Pagliacci"; and a college song group.

Messrs. Zeels and Colby with cornet and trombone, gave "Calm as the Night"; there was a trio, "Praise Ye,' from Attila; and a number of solo numbers, including piano-forte selections by Mr. Goodbrod, cornet and trombone solos by Messrs. Colby and Gage, the former playing a novelty, 'Sliding Trombone's.'

The children's entertainment yesterday morning was supplied by Duval, the Magician, whose programme was original and clever. His presentation of 'Rag Pictures,' was especially well received.

Last evening, tickets were passed, promising attendance for next year. There was a fairly good response. Mr. G. A. Gillespie, who is chief guarantor of the attraction this year, and consequently chief loser if the gate receipts fail to measure up to the required amount, is evidently not down--hearted over a somewhat small attendance this year. His promised quota of tickets for another year's programme was not at all small.

A Tribute

Tribute to Cornelius Hickey, from his Boyhood Friend, Martin E. Buckley:

Near the old home across the way
Where mother gave me birth,
Now sleeps until the Judgment Day,
Robed in the folds of earth,
A boyhood friend lamented lies,
Whose soul from earth has fled
To floral fields beyond the skies,
Where none but angels tread.

No more we see that beaming smile which honor only knew;
He was the son of honest toil,
Unselfish, kind and true;
Whose mission here was one of love
And justice to mankind,
So worthy of those joys above
Which here no one can find.

Why vainly pour the silent tear,
Or heave emotion's sigh?
A God of Love we all endear
Decrees the day we die,
And when my time has come, dear Con.,
And I am called above.
Oh, grant our spirits blend as one,
In friendship and in love!

MARRIED 50 YEARS WITHOUT SEEING EACH OTHER

MRS. T. J. McCULLAN (LEFT) AND HER HUSBAND

LORAIN, O., Aug. 7.—There always are some who'll tell you that love is blind.

Better not let T. J. McCullan or his wife hear them say it.

For the McCullans have lived together happily for more than half a century now, and neither ever has seen the other.

Both are blind. But love with them is not. It is their eyes.

Comes a footfall on the stairway; Mrs. McCullan stops her dusting.

"Tom," she calls, "you'll find me in the parlor."

He does.

Let Mrs. McCullan explain:

Happened While Child

"You see in compensation for the loss of my sight, God has sharpened my other senses. The touch of a finger warns me when the bread is ready to be taken from the oven."

Mrs. McCullan, now 67, was deprived of her sight in childhood. Her husband, who is 73, was born blind.

They met for the first time while attending school at Botavia, O. Cupid had brought them together. Into the darkness of their lives crept a new and beautiful light. And the passing years have not dimmed it.

Well educated and talented musicians, too, they formerly supported themselves by concert and chautauqua tours.

In 1885 they came to Lorain from Cleveland. They own their own home and an adjoining residence.

McCullan used to be organist at St. Mary's church here. One of his wrists was broken in a fall 10 years ago. Since then he hasn't been able to play, any instrument save the violin.

The McCullans have had four children. Just one daughter is living now.

Mrs. McCullan does her own housework. Neighbors marvel at the tidiness of her kitchen. You couldn't find a neater one.

Like Radio

Both "Tom" and his wife are interested in radio. They're counting on a bigger and better set some day.

If there's a more contented couple anywhere at all, Lorain folks would like to meet them.

"We still are sweethearts," Mrs. McCullan tells us. "In spite of everything, we've been mighty happy. I would not trade places with many people who have their sight."

And "Tom" agrees with her.

Who then will say love is blind?

The Newsmonger

A commonly-used expression by casual contributors to newspaper columns is the phrase "here is something to help fill up." There are variations of the jingle, like the one where the lady wrote in and said she had been requested by a number of Peterboro friends to make known her recent marriage, and though she had better comply with their request, but the old stand-by is most frequently heard.

Sensation Or Scandal.

News is the main suit and be-all of every newspaper, of course, but the popular theory evidently held by the majority of outsiders that a newspaper editor is an anxious being who sits waiting with an eager look for anything in the way of copy is all wrong. This idea is on a par with the type of effusive young thing who, at a social gathering, will confide some bit of gossip of scandal to a reporter, and then with frightened look, beg the listener not to "put that in the paper." It may be something that no sensible reporter would even think for a moment of putting into print, if he or she valued his or her self respect, but the teller is just another one of those who imagines that a newspaper is always looking for sensation or scandal.

There is another type; the sort that considers every move a matter of import to the community, like the country correspondent who writes in about the visit of a country swain to his sweetheart's home on Sunday evening, or tells us that "the grass in this vicinity is very green this year," or the individual who composes a long poem with a sting in the tail for a neighbor, and then wonders why the papers won't print it. There are also those people who strive to clothe a nice little advertisement of their business or wares in the guise of a news item, and writhe in pained surprise over a hint that payment might be expected.

Would-Be Fillers Up.

However, they are usually animated one and all, with the desire to "help fill up." The ordinary newspaper waste paper basket, with its ever-flowing contents of unused material, which is day after day dumped out of editorial offices; the exercise of careful attention which is required to compress into the daily sheet the best portion of the daily fare offered for newspaper consumption; the wisdom exercised in cutting down and deleting what is unnecessary or unwanted in the mass of material, would be a revelation to some readers.

News of any sort, as long as it is news and has a vital interest to the community served, is always eagerly sought after in the newspaper office, and they are welcome visitors who co-operate with the paper in giving themselves and their neighbors the best of the days' reports, but there is seldom lack of material to "fill up" the columns of the printed sheet.

STRUCK BY GOLF BALL A NEGRO CADDY DIES

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Attempting to drive out of the rough on the Hermitage Club golf links late yesterday, R. L. Henley stiled the ball slightly and it struck his caddy, a small negro boy, in the neck, inflicting an injury from which the lad died fifteen minutes later. A verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner.

DRESS MODESTLY TO SEE THE POPE

Lavishly Costumed Women Will Not Be Permitted an Audience.

ROME, August 7 (United Press).—Following the act of Pope Pius XI. in banning immodestly dressed women from the Vatican, the Papal Major Domo on Monday issued a lengthy list of "dress regulations" for women desiring an audience with the Pope.

These include:

1—Dresses must be ankle length, of a thick and not transparent material. They must not actuate the figure.

2—Arms must be covered to the wrist and the neck must be covered to the chin.

3—No cosmetics will be tolerated. The use of hair dye is permitted, if it is not of a conspicuous peroxide hue. Women desiring audience must hereafter undergo three examinations before being admitted to the Pope's presence.

The first examination will be by the Swiss Guard, at the gates.

The second will be in the St. Thomas courtyard. If they are acceptable there, they will receive a blue cross on their invitation cards.

The third examination will be held in the Papal ante-chamber, where successful candidates will receive a red cross on their cards, and then await admittance.

ILLS AND THEIR CURES

One of the most noticeable billboards in the city of Toronto is the one met at almost every turn, a certain example which features exclusively a wide-eyed gentleman who is advertised as being in the service station business and also on the lookout for used cars. It isn't a handsome visage by any means. The young man has a flaring light pompadour and a glittering eye. But it is a striking ad, and we haven't any doubt that thousands of people who encounter this board every day in Toronto would be most likely to seek out this man if they wanted any special automobile service. His name glitters just as brilliantly as his eye, and when you think of automobiles in Toronto, you think of this man at once. He looks efficient and business like.

Another example of the power of suggestion through advertising is the Dr. Chase advertisement. Would the Chase remedies be held in as high regard if they had not been associated for half a century or more with the venerable, high-browed, wise gentleman who adorns the Chase almanacs and appears on Chase medicine warppers? He looks as if he knew everything about human ills and their cures, and that adds much to the value of his products.

Moral—Put your own personality into your advertisements.

NEWSBOYS TO MOURN.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—More than 2,500 newsboys here will wear mourning bands bearing the words "In Memory of President Harding" on Friday. The bands have been supplied by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts and are being distributed by the Roosevelt Newsboys' Association.

Jelly Making

Be sure that the sugar you use for canning, preserving and jelly making is pure cane sugar. Beet sugar will not make good jelly.

Clear sparkling jelly is the result of quick work in boiling the fruit juice and great care in extracting the juice. The first juice which comes through the jelly bag will make the clearest jelly.

It is better not to try to make too much jelly at one time. The wider the kettle the better because quick evaporation means a light colored jelly. Heat the sugar before adding it to the juice. This does not cool the juice or retard boiling as much as if cold sugar were used. The sugar is heated in the oven after measuring.

Apple Jelly

Astrakan apples can be used for jelly if practically ripe. The jelly will not be as light colored. Other varieties are used for July when quite green.

Wash and quarter apples. Remove any bad spots and defective cores. Put in preserving kettle with just enough water to prevent burning. Cook rapidly to a pulp. Put into jelly bag and let drain over night.

Measure juice. Put juice in clean preserving kettle and boil rapidly. Skim as much as possible and add warmed sugar slowly. Do not let boiling stop while adding sugar. Boil rapidly until a teaspoonful of juice tried on a cold plate forms jelly.

Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin when cold. Astrakan apples will "jell" if three-fourths cup of sugar is used for every cup of juice. Most other varieties, containing less pectin, require measure for measure of sugar and juice.

Old-time jelly makers put a rose geranium leaf in the bottom of part of the jelly glasses. The boiling syrup extracted enough of the real fragrance to delicately flavor the jelly. Mint was ofte used in the same fashion except that the sprig was removed from the glass before the jelly hardened.

Grape Jelly

Grape jelly should be made before the grapes ripen.

Strip grapes from stems and wash. Put in preserving kettle with a very little water, just enough to prevent burning. Bring to the boiling point and boil rapidly until the skins burst open. Put in jelly bag and let drain over night. If grapes are cooked early in the morning five or six hours will extract the juice, and jelly can be made the same day.

Do not squeeze the jelly bag as this makes the juice cloudy and the jelly will not be clear. Measure juice and return to the fire. Bring quickly to the boiling point and boil ten minutes. Add as many cups of sugar as there were cups of juice. Boil rapidly until juice "jells" when tried on a cold plate.

Woman Jumped From Elevated Station.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—Depression caused by the loss of $2,000, the major portion of her life's savings, a Wall street bucketeer, was given yestedray as the reason Miss Eugenia Renaud Reinarrd, fifty years old, 146 West 68th street, ended her life last night by jumping from the Elevated station at 110th Street and Manhattan Avenue to the pavement, a hundred feet below. Scores of persons witnessed the tragedy.

Miss Reinarrd drew about $600 from the bank after her loss in stocks, and this money and a diamond ring were found in her bag.

The value of farm crops and live stock in Great Britain last year was $2,000,000,000.

GERMANY SENTENCED TO DEATH BY ALLIES

Says Victors in World War Perpetrated Moral Infamy on the Vanquished Who Had Trusted Wilson.

(By E. D. MORE, M. P.)

LONDON, Aug. 7 (United Press).—What we have allowed to be done to Germany has been morally infamous. The closing stages of the war found the German nation with a vision clarified by enormous suffering and by heroic endurance against colossal odds.

You may call it well-deserved suffering if you like, although, for my part, I have never been able to understand the mentality which finds satisfaction in the spectacle of collective suffering.

But even from that point of view, to suffer is to atone—else suffering is meaningless. Bitter experience had revealed to it the flaws in its own governing mechanism, the faults, the weaknesses, the intemperancies, the lack of perspective and judgment in its own rulers. Misery in every shape and form had burned into its soul a detestation of war and imperialism.

Bowed down under an immense weight of affliction, but not broken; beaten and chastened, but still preserving its self-respect, the German people were at that moment capable of as passionate a response to the conception of a constructive internationalism, as eager to participate in a new world-order of national relationships, as they had shown themselves capable of fusing a world in arms.

Even before the last cannon had ceased to fire, they had expelled their rulers, denounced their imperialism and by a prodigious "tour de force" turned their old constitution inside out and evolved as real political democracy as any in existence.

Trusted Their Conquerors

They accepted the Wilsonian programme as a curative and constructive peace. Under the guidance of a statesman of lofty and noble mind—Prince Max of Baden—they trusted in the pledged word of their conquerors. What was the result?

The treatment of the German people by the governments of France and Britain since the armistice is without parallel in history. The process began with the elaboration of the document still spoken of as a "Treaty," but which was in reality a sentence of political and economic death upon the German State—Not of immediate, but of lingering death.

To a vast number of individual Germans it has meant, and means, physical death. We, the British people, have been watching for four years the execution of this lingering death sentence upon the German State with an insensibility, or with a non-comprehension of his human effects, due, in main, to the systematic concealment of the facts, very terrible to Englishmen who had enough imagination and knowledge to understand the tragedy, enough love for their country to suffer because of its participation in producing that tragedy, and enough appreciation of the international situation to realize that, sooner or later, the two governments responsible for the tragedy would assuredly quarrel between themselves with disastrous results for their peoples.

Clemenceau and George

The stage has now been reached when all the warnings written in these columns materialize in stern realities. The sentence upon Germany was drawn up by a Frenchman (Clemenceau) who realized quite clearly what he was doing, and by a Welshman (Lloyd George) who either foresaw nothing of what his action involved; or who, if he did foresee, put his own immediate political future first and the interests of his country and the world second.

In either case he ought to be drummed out of public life. For the school to which the Frenchman belonged taught that the interest of France would be served by the political destruction and economic strangulation of Germany, and by the establishment of a French diplomatic, economic, and military hegemony over the Continent of Europe.

He believed this, he worked for this, and he and his successors began, concurrently with the inauguration of the policy, extensive preparations to enforce it against any power that might eventually challenge it. Hence the fact that today France is incomparably stronger in aircraft than all the rest of the powers put together, i.e., stronger in the chief destructive agency of modern war; that she has a vast army under arms, and that she is arming all her satellites in Europe.

Hence the fact that the people of this country are at last to be told to open their hands into their pockets to guard against it.

But every British school taught the Welshman that British interest would not be served by the destruction of Germany and would be jeopardized by a French hegemony in Europe. Every British history book told him that this country had fought for 400 years against the creation of such a hegemony.

Thus, while the Frenchman served his country in the fatal way peculiar to the particular school he followed, the Welshman did the most grievous disservice both to his country and to the world.

The horrible feature of the last four years has been on the one hand the steady march of the British and French nations towards rupture amid hypocritical pretences of everlasting friendship from their governments, whose spokesman spoke with their tongues in their cheeks, coupled with the ignorant anti-Germanism of the tory "diehards" and their fatuous money-making press; and, on the other hand, the silence of any public expression of sympathy or generosity with the German people, any moral protest whatsoever by leading politicians, or by the churches, for the treatment meted out to them. And now we are up against the operation of the natural law of retribution.

THEATRES

Capitol Entertainment

"Racing Hearts," the big feature starring Agnes Ayres, has arrived at the Capitol Theatre and will be shown to-night. Last evening a substitution was required, as the feature picture had not arrived, and a film arriving on the 8.10 train was shown in its place, with Harry Carey featured in "Good Men and True," a western photodrama which pleased the audience very much. The popular hero was at his best in this picture of western life and hard riding and swift shooting. The comedy, "Ocean Swells," with Neal Burns, is a good one, showing the difficulties of a family escaping from too-familiar relatives to the comparative safety of a house-boat.

To-night, the feature picture, "Racing Hearts," will be ready for Capitol patrons.

Bush pitched well after the early innings, only two singles being hit off him after the third. Score:

NUMBER SEVEN IS A JINX FOR LUQUE

Twice Has Had Seven Victories in a Row But Failed on the Eighth.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 7.—Seven seems to be a jinx number for Adolfo Luque, star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds. He just can't get past that number of victories without suffering a defeat.

Luque, who has been the pitching ace of the Reds this year, has turned in some great pitching for Manager Pat Moran. Aside from winning 16 of his first 19 starts, he also, when the club was hard pressed for pitchers, worked a doubleheader and won both games.

In his 16 victories Luque has twice staged winning streaks of seven games. Both attempts to make it eight in a row resulted in failures. On one occasion Chicago nosed him out, while in the other start, Brooklyn abruptly ended his winning streak.

Cincinnati's chances to win the National League pennant largely depend on the ability of Luque to continue his great work. Luque is 32, far from a youngster, and some of the experts doubt his ability to go the route at such a fast clip.

Rochester Too Much For the Newark Bears

NEWARK, August 7 (Canadian Press). — Jack Wisner's pitching baffled the Bears here yesterday, and Rochester won, 6 to 1. Wisner allowed but five hits. Pitcher Sherman's wild throw in the eighth scored three runs. Score:

Rochester ..... 10001003l—6 10 0
Newark ..... 000000001—1 5 1

Wisner and Lake; Sherman and Devine.

Syracuse 2, Jersey City 0.

JERSEY CITY August 7 (Canadian Press). — Syracuse took the first of its four-game series from Jersey City here yesterday, 2 to 0. Zellars held the visitors to two hits, but a wild pitch by Wagner in the third inning, following Sutka's two-base hit, allowed Silva and Frankhouse to score. Frankhouse allowed but four hits, and was given errorless support. Score:

Syracuse ..... 002000000—2 2 0
Jersey City ..... 000000000—0 4 2

Frankhouse and Niebergall; Zellars and McCrea, Freitag.

DUNDEE-LEONARD BOUT.

NEW YORK, August 7 (Canadian Press). — Johnny Dundee, who recently won the world's featherweight title from Eugene Criqui of France, will meet Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, in a fifteen-round decision bout at Yankee Stadium, on Wednesday evening, 5th September, James J. Johnston, promoter, yesterday announced.

Dundee will train at West Orange.

DE LAVAL JUNIORS WON FROM C.G.E.

Winners Did All Their Scoring in the Second Period After C.G.E. Had Scored in the First.

An excellent junior league game was played last evening between the C.G.E. and De Laval teams, the latter winning by 3 goals to 1. Both teams played excellent football.

The C.G.E. took an aggressive attitude early in the game but could only force a fruitless corner and the play ran back and forth for several minutes. The C.G.E. scored first, Vinette at center outwitted the whole De Laval defence and passed to Cross who rattled the cross bar and Cordory took the rebound to score, just one minute before half time.

On resuming play the De Laval peppered Jenkins in the C.G.E. goal who made some remarkable saves. M. Strudley accepted a pass from Elliott to score the first one for the De Laval. Smith added two more shortly after but for the remainder of the game the two teams battled on fairly even terms.

The players were:

C.G.E.—Jenkins, goal; G. Williams and E. Williams, full backs; Nash, Braley and Monks, half-backs; Vinnette, Cordory, Vinette, Connors and Cross, forwards.

De Laval—Evans, goal; Grant and Ward, backs; Ashmore, Cooper, H. Strudley, half-backs; Bells, M. Strudley, Smith, Pullay and Elliott, forwards.

Referee—Sam Callandine.

ANNUAL REGATTA ROYAL YACHT CLUB

Cowes Week Opened Yesterday With the Largest Crowd Since 1913.

COWES, Island of Wight, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—Cowes week opened yesterday with the annual regatta of the Royal London Yacht Club. The largest crowd of visitors was present since the regatta of 1913.

The entries comprised a good lot of vessels, and with the fine sailing breeze the racing was keen and interesting. King George, the Duke of Connaught and other members of the Royal Family sailed on board the King's yacht Britannia. There was scarcely enough weight in the wind to suit the royal cutter, which, although it finished first, was placed among the competitors on the handicap basis.

The winner of the race was C. P. Johnson's cutter Moonbeam, which won the King's Cup three years ago. Mrs. Workman's Myria was second and the Britannia third. B. H. Lee's Terpsichore, the fourth starter, split her mainsail, and gave up the contest.

Two former 15-meter boats were placed first and second under the handicap for the class under 75 tons. The winner of this event was Mr. Preston's Paula III. The yacht, which was German-owned before the war, seized and sold as a war prize in 1914.

The 12-meter race resulted in an easy victory for Mr. Payne's Vanity, a new Fife boat, Frederick Last's Noreen was second.

Owing to the postponement of the heats for the British-American Cup until Saturday, there was a big muster in the match for the international 6-meter class. This race was won by Colonel E. T. Peel's Suzette, with Frederick J. Stephens' Coila III. from the Cylde, second, and George Haldinstein's Betty, a new Fife boat, third.

All Events Were Closely Contested and Were Run Off Smoothly and in Good Time.

THOSE IN CHARGE.

The annual regatta of the Kawartha Cottagers Association was held yesterday afternoon and was a decided success in every way. With the exception of a very slight wind which hindered the paddlers a little, weather conditions were excellent and as a result the events were run off smoothly and in good time. There were numerous entries for each event and every race was closely contested. ## Bently Going Good After Very Bad Start.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Jack Bentley, who cost the New York Giants $65,000, and who was hailed in the spring as an exploded phenom, a high-priced lemon, is living down the odium of a bad start.

Because of salary differences Bentley was late in reporting to the Giants. He was many pounds over weight when he joined McGraw's club and needed more than the few weeks given him to get into shape. As a result of poor condition Bentley's first three or four starts in the National League were sad affairs. It really seemed as if McGraw had been bunked. Critics were ready to place Bentley in the also ran class.

Just when a majority of the experts were weakening on him, Bentley began to show the form that made him the town hero in Baltimore. His pitching record shows that in the first 14 games worked he turned in nine victories.

Bentley has not confined his activities to pitching, he has been a whale at the bat. Used as a pinch hitter when not pitching he is slugging the ball well over the .400 mark.

It's beginning to look as if McGraw didnt get stung after all.

Rival Second Basemen Lead in Stolen Bases

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—It is rather interesting fact that the two leading base stealers in the major leagues should be second basemen and both members of Chicago clubs.

Eddie Collins, the veteran second sacker of the White Sox, is showing the way in the American League in the matter of thefts, while Grantham, a recruit, playing his first season as a regular, leads the National League in base running.

Incidentally it might be mentioned that the two players to press Collins and Grantham for the base-stealing honors are outfielders Johnny Mostil of the Sox is hot on the trail of Collins, while Max Carey of Pittsburg is close on the heels of Grantham.

For years Carey has been the premier base runner of the National League and he hopes to eventually overtake Grantham.

OLD-TIME FIGHTER PASSES.

PHILADELPHIA, August 7 (Canadian Press). — Jim McVey, sparring partner of James J. Corbett when the latter was heavyweight champion, died here on Saturday night, it was learned yesterday.

McVey was well known as a heavyweight boxer during the days of Corbett, Fitzsmmons, and the other old-time fighters.

During the last six years he made his home in Philadelphia.

TWO FAST GAMES HELPED THE GIANTS

Defeated Cincinnati Twice and Greatly Increased Lead in National League

CINCINNATI, August 7 (Canadian Press). — The New York Giants took a long step forward toward their third successive championship yesterday when they won both games of a double-header from Cincinnati by scores of 4 to 2 and 5 to 4. In the first game, errors by Bohne and Pinelli gave the visitors their first two runs and bunched hits off Benton won it out for them in the seventh and eighth innings.

In the second game the Reds hit Scott freely and looked like winners until the Giants bunched five safeties off Donahue in the eighth for three runs and assumed the lead. The Reds tied it up off Ggarin, a southpaw recruit from Milwaukee, in the eighth, but the champions won in the ninth on Young's triple and a single by Bentley. The Giants played errorless and very fast ball throughout the eighteen rounds. Scores:

First game—

New York ..... 001100110—4 12 0
Cincinnati ..... 100000100—2 7 2

Barnes, Jonnard and Gowdy; Benton, Keck and Wingo.

Second game—

New York ..... 000100031—5 14 0
Cincinnati ..... 000102010—4 12 1

Scott, Gearin, Jonnard and Snider; Donahue and Hargrave.

CHICAGO, August 7 (Canadian Press). — Brooklyn batted Chicago to six hits yesterday while Brooklyn hit Dumovich timely and defeated the Cubs, 5 to 1. Fournier cracked out his fifteenth home run off Keen in the eighth inning. Ray Grimes, the Chicago first baseman, who has been out of the game for about two months because of a lame back, appeared as a pinch-hitter. Score:

Brooklyn ..... 021010010—5 10 0
Chicago ..... 010000000—1 6 2

Ruether and Duberry; Dumovich, Keen and O'Farrell.

Philadelphia 6, Pittsburgh 4.

PITTSBURGH, August 7 (Canadian Press). — Philadelphia made it two out of three from Pittsburgh by taking yesterday's game, 6 to 4. Errors by Pittsburgh figured largely in the Phillies' victory. In the first inning, Philadelphia would have been retired scoreless but for errors by Carey and Maranville, which, followed by four hits, accounted for four runs. Score:

Philadelphia ..... 420000000—6 11 1
Pittsburgh ..... 201001000—4 7 4

Mitchell and Wilson; Cooper and Gooch.

DEMPSEY PICKED TO WALLOP FIRPO

Farrell Believes the Champ Can Handle Both Firpo and Wills When the Time Comes.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(United Press.)—Many ring titles have exchanged owners so far this year and perhaps some more champions will be displaced before the January blasts arrive but two division leaders, Jack Dempsey and Benny Leonard, look secure on their thrones at this writing.

Dempsey has two fights in the making, with Luis Firpo and Harry Wills and, although he may have a hard fight in each bout, he ought to come out of them with his title.

The heavyweight champion's fight with Tom Gibbons in Shelby can be almost ignored in figuring Dempsey's chance in his next fights if too much time does not elapse. There is no doubt that the champion looked bad and very bad against Gibbons, but there are two ways to explain it

Dempsey purposely carried Gibbons fifteen rounds, or

Dempsey was off form, due to his long absence from the ring.

Once before the Shelby fight, Dempsey was in the position of being forced practically into retirement because so much sentiment existed that he was too good for any of the contenders for the title and that it would be a runaway for him to defend his title.

Then came the fight with Bill Brennan in Madison Square Garden. Dempsey looked terrible for six rounds and then he stepped out and won by a knockout in the twelfth round.

The reaction from that fight was that if the slow, trial horse Brennan could go twelve rounds with the champion that the clever, spectacular Carpentier, with a one-punch knockout in his right hand, would have a good chance to win.

Dempsey-Carpentier fight was the result and it established a record for receipts that may never be equalled.

After his victory over the Frenchman, Dempsey went back into the "too good" class and he could find no work. New York was the only logical place to stage a heavyweight championship fight and the commission in New York stopped every attempt to stage a title bout.

Then came the fight with Gibbons and Dempsey looked bad again. Sentiment switched over and it was figured that if a light heavyweight could stand up for fifteen rounds against the manler, that Dempsey was not the super-man.

This reference is not based upon any facts. It is merely a theory and is worth only that.

It is just as logical and reasonable to figure that an absence of two years from the ring threw Dempsey off his timing and his judgment of distance and that he was just rusty from lack of usage.

It would stand to reason that Dempsey will be much better and more like the Dempsey of Toledo and Jersey City in his next fight. If he did work under wraps in Shelby, he is bound to be better when he throws off his pull. If he suffered from the absence from the ring, the Gibbons fight would be the very thing to get him back in form.

While Dempsey seems secure against his two big challengers, Leonard is even more safe on his throne because he has no dangerous challenger since Lew Tendler was eliminated from the list by a very humiliating victory.

Regarding Dempsey's "holding up" at Shelby, Jack McAuliffe, the only retired undefeated champion has some interesting views.

While I did not see the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, I do not believe that Dempsey would pull his punches and hold Gibbons up for fifteen rounds. I was a champion once and I was proud of the title. It means much to a champion to be esteemed as the greatest man at his weight and it is hard to voluntarily accept humiliation to hold up an opponent that you know you could finish anytime you wanted to. There is a whole lot in being looked upon as a superman.

"I admit, though, that in my days there was no temptation to hold up a man for another $300,000 fight and even pride might be sidetracked by such a pile of doubt," McAuliffe said.

Dempsey is such an energetic fighter in the ring and has so much fighting instinct and temperment and many argue he could not pull his punches without making it apparent to the ringsiders that he was not doing his best.

"Bunk," says McAuliffe in answer. "Dempsey is almost as much of an actor as he is a fighter. He has been pulling punches against sparring partners in vaudeville ever since he won the title and could do it in a real fight so naturally and so cleverly that no one could detect it."

Hornsby Explains Slump in His Homerun Hitting.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—Last season Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals led the major leagues in home runs with 42 to his credit. This feat came as a surprise to baseball fans since Hornsby while a great batsman was never regarded in the light of a slugger.

This year Hornsby is batting as well if not better than last season, his mark hovering around the .400 mark, yet he is not manufacturing nearly as many home runs.

While injuries have kept Hornsby out of a goodly number of games, his home run total for 67 games is only 11.

What's the reason? Even Hornsby hasn't the slightest idea.

"I didn't change my style last year when I made 42 home runs, simply took my usual healthy cut at the ball. I am doing the same this year.

"The only reason I can offer for my falling off in the matter of hitting home runs, is simply because I am not hitting the ball as far. This perhaps is due to the fact that I am not connecting with the ball as solidly. Making a home run is like landing a knockout punch, you must hit the right spot."

COBOURG GAME THIS EVENING

With the Petes leading the Big Four League and needing a win over Cobourg today to clinch their pennant, the battle at Riverside Park this evening should be a good one. The game is scheduled to start promptly at 5.15 o'clock, and will have to get under way sharp on time in order to get the full nine innings in.

LOCK WORKS OUT OF LEAGUE RACE

Maple Leafs Play Hillcrests at the Oval Tomorrow Evening.

Lock Works failed to muster a team for their scheduled game with Sacred Heart Juveniles last evening, and the Southerners scored an easy win. It will be just as soft for Hillcrests and Maple Leafs, as the Lockmakers notified the City League moguls that they are through for the season.

With Lock Works out of it, Maple Leafs must register a win against Hillcrests at Nicholls Oval to-morrow evening to stay in the running for a tie with Sacred Heart for the second half. To tie it up, the Leafs have to win against Hillcrests and Sacred Heart, as the latter team defeated the Leafs when the teams met for the first contest in the second half, and won all other League fixtures. Hillcrests could do a lot of damage by defeating the Leafs and Sacred Heart.

Maple Leafs won the first half and the second half standing, including the defaulted games, follow:

| | W. | L. | T. P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sacred Heart .. .. | 4 | 0 | 2 |
| Maple Leafs .. .. | 3 | 1 | 2 |
| Hillcrests .. .. .. | 2 | 2 | 2 |

H. SULLIVAN WINNER IN CHANNEL SWIM

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)— Mrs. Clemington Carson the United States long distance swimmer is reported to have abandoned her attempt to swim the English Channel when at a point of six miles off Cape Grisnez on the French coast She is said to have become very exhausted during the last half hour she was in the water.

The Daily Sketch, announced today, that it had decided to award to Henry Sullivan, the 1,000 prize offered some time ago for the channel swim. The newspaper says that although Sullivan entered the contest he did not fulfill the conditions in as much as there was no representative of the paper in the accompanying boat, but that in view of his pluck and the fact that there is no doubt of having accomplished the feat the prize will be awarded.

Golfers Can Learn Much From Caddie.

Thirteen-year-old Alex Danko is the star caddie of the Cleveland Municipal Golf Links at Highland Park, Warrensville, O., if not the star of the combined links of the country.

For under the most trying conditions—darkness and deeper rough—he has lost but two golf balls so far this season.

All this may sound unreasonable for Alex, considering the green players he has to deal with and on a public links, where the average golfer plays the rough from tee to green.

But Alex is a regular hawk for the white strawberries.

"Caddying is one thing and golfing is another," says Alex, "to my way of thinking. And the two together will make the game. All you need is a sense of observation, good eyesight and common judgment.

"The ordinary golfer, after he makes a bad tee shot, will lose self-control and all his poise, and fail to watch the ball.

"Watch the ball until it stops rolling. Sometimes it may seem to stop but will take a roll and a wild hop.

"Mark the ball with a big, stationary object on the direct line of flight, then mark it as to depth in the rough.

"Don't zigzag to the ball.

"Drop the bag within the radius of the ball and don't wander off somewhere else.

"Above all—FIND THE BALL.

"The whole thing is very simple. If you keep your mind on the ball and not on the snakes or butterflies, or your opponent's ball, you won't have any trouble finding it."

Little Alex is no bigger than the bag itself and can play a better game with the leather than most players can with the sticks.

31 STRIKEOUTS IN BANTAM CONTEST

Freeman, Koster and Sowden contributed the fielding features.

Score, by innings:

Rotary .. .. .. .. .. .. 1013010—6
Curlers .. .. .. .. .. .. 1010000—2

Batteries — Guiry and Carroll; Doughty and McGee.

SULLIVAN SAYS HE'LL REST ON HIS LAURELS

Man Who Swam English Channel Not Planning Any Further Achievement.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press) — Henry Sullivan, who conquered the English Channel yesterday is content to rest on this big achievement at least for the present. "I am satisfied with what I have done, and I am not planning any further swim. All I want is sleep," he told a correspondent this afternoon upon returning to Dover in a motor boat which had accompanied him across the Channel.

Sullivan's eyes were slightly bloodshot and his ruddy face was bristling with a two day growth of beard, but he was smiling almost from ear to ear, and declared he felt fine. The first thing Sullivan asked for when his pulloff of more than 27 hours through the choppy channel waters had ended was just ice cream.

From start to finish Sullivan plugged away with a straight breast stroke. He says he had found from experience that to alter his stroke or flop on his back for a rest caused the muscles to contract and boded badly for the achievement of an ambition such as his.

Sullivan ate but once, during his long swim. That was when he had swam but a short distance from Dover. Not long after he had eaten this light meal he got into a choppy sea where he swallowed considerable water. This turned is stomach, and he felt that to eat again would prejudice his chances.

TORONTO MAN CAUGHT A GOOD SIZED FISH

E. J. Cookson, of Toronto, who has been visiting relatives at 508 Aylmer Street, was fortunate in landing a big fish a little below Burleigh, yesterday morning. The length of the catch, a maskinonge, was 53¼ inches, a 24-inch girth, and an estimated weight by Indian guides of about forty pounds. Mr. Cookson is quite elated over his luck and is having his fish mounted by a local taxidermist.

SHORT JACKET.

The short jacket of kasha cloth, tapestry or embroidered silk or velvet is much more popular at the present moment than the sweater jacket.

LONG BEADS.

The newest beads come in extremely long strings, some of them reaching to the knees. Sometimes a choker of larger beads is also worn.

THREE-QUARTER COATS.

Three-quarter length coats are being exploited in Paris as a relief from the tube like coats, fastening on the side and usually covered with embroidery or braiding.

WILL DISCUSS THE PAVING QUESTION

Peterborough's Policy for Number of Years to Be Considered at Once.

An early meeting of the Board of Works, perhaps on Wednesday night, will be called by Ald. Stocker, to discuss City Engineer Parsons' progressive programe of street paving and especially to decide what other roads will be rebuilt this season.

Ald. Stocker said that the reconstruction of the macadam road on Park street was nearing completion, and the City Engineer was considering which street would be treated next. Water street and George street north had been mentioned but if they were macadamized now was there any likelihood that they would be paved next year with a loss of the cost of the macadam work?

In order that the Board of Works Department should have some definite plan to guide them Ald. Stocker proposed that the whole question of a paving programme be taken up at once instead of being deferred until the Fall.

FIRST SERIOUS LEGAL CONTEST

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—What promises to be the first serious legal contest arising out of the Quebec Liquor Act is now being staged in the local courts, coming before the Practise Court here yesterday.

The Liquor Commission has decided that a number of preparations sold at patent medicines under the Federal Proprietary or Patent Medicines Act do not comply with the restrictions of the Quebec Liquor Act, Articles 47 and 48, the grounds being that the said so-called patent medicines contain more than a proper proportion of alcohol. The commission has accordingly passed a resolution declaring that such preparations are not medicines within the meaning of the above articles, but are alcoholic liquors, and has given notice of its decision to publish the same in the Quebec official Gazette. To offset this, companies affected secured an interim injunction last Thursday prohibiting the King's printer from publishing such resolution in the official Gazette or from distributing the paper with such a resolution.

When counsel appeared for the companies in the Practise Court here yesterday it was stated that notwithstanding the interim injunction the resolution had been printed and the paper distributed.

The hearing was adjourned until next Thursday to give the lawyers an opportunity to decide what steps they will take.

GOV. DONAHEY RETURNS HOME WITH CONVICTS

Controversy Over Admittance of Trusties Into Canada Ends.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 7. —(Canadian Press).—The controversy over the admittance into Canada of two convict servants in the vacation party of Governor Donahey ended last night with the return to Columbus of the Governor and five of his six sons, and Warden P. E. Thomas, of Ohio penitentiary, and the two convicts.

The Donahey party left last week for Coboconk, Ontario. Shortly after they started rumors were started that the Canadian Government would refuse to permit convicts to cross the border. The entrance of the men, it was asserted, would be in violation of the Canadian immigration laws.

Donahey last night characterized the entire affair as unfounded. He said the Canadian Government did not communicate with him in any way regarding the two men and that they remained at the camp unmoved.

Governor Donahey returned to attend the funeral of the late President Harding.

NATIONS ARE NOT YET READY FOR DISARMING

League of Nations Fails to Make Expected Progress — Attitude of United States a Bar, Says Geneva Correspondent.

(By HENRY WOOD)

GENEVA (By mail to United Press) —When the fourth annual assembly of the League of Nations convenes on September 3, it will be called upon to face the somewhat painful realization that the world as a whole is not as ready for disarmament as had been hoped.

This realization will be thrust home not only by the slow progress which the League's various disarmament commissions have made during the past year, but by frank declarations from a large number of league members that they do not consider the moment has arrived when any general reduction in armaments can take place.

These replies have been sent into the secretariat during the past few months by the various governments that are members of the league as the result of a round robin sent to all leaguers asking them just how far they are disposed to go in the matter of a mutual guarantee treaty as a basis of disarmament.

The fact that the assembly will be obliged to recognize that the world as a whole is not yet ready for disarmament will have all the more weight from the fact that it comes only after the league has put in three years of hard work, study and constructive effort towards disarmament.

Despite the discouraging nature of many of the replies that have been received and which will be repeated before the assembly itself, the league's disarmament leaders are still confident that they will be able at least to perfect and launch during the course of the assembly a draft treaty of mutual guarantee that would serve as a basis for a reduction in armaments.

This treaty has now been prepared after a year's study and examination by technical experts by the league's mixed temporary commission on disarmament. The treaty in its present form was based on two projects, one drawn up by Lord Robert Cecil, and a second one prepared by Colonel Requin of the French General staff and the French expert on the league's permanent military advisory commission.

Serious Opposition

However, it is certain from the replies that have been received to the league's round robin that the project will meet with the most serious opposition in the assembly ay those states who feel that the moment has not yet arrived for a reduction in armaments.

The Scandinavian countries, headed by Sweden, will oppose the project. Situated as they are in a state of isolation and virtually free from any danger of attack, these countries maintain very little armed forces. Were they to enter into a mutual guarantee pact, it is possible that they might be called on to maintain as their quota of the international forces for the maintenance of peace, even larger forces than they maintain at the present time.

Holland has also developed a marked hostility to the project. Her contention is that the moment for disarmament will not have arrived, until the League of Nations is universal. The Dutch are inclined to think, however, that once everyone is in the league and everyone has accepted the league's pledge of mutual guarantee and non-attack, that the necessity for an additional mutual guarantee pact as a basis of disarmament will disappear automatically.

France is Willing

Strange as it may seem, France, which was generally credited with being the strongest opponent to disarmament is the one nation that has shown the most receptivity to the league's round robin and has sent in the most constructive reply. France accepts fully the principle of mutual guarantee as a basis of disarmament.

She insists only that the guarantee offered under the pact be adequate and be technically prepared in advance so that it will offer a real and actual guarantee against invasion. She insists that each state must be its own judge of the degree of reduction in armaments that it can make in exchange for such a pact.

Despite the opposition that has thus developed to the project, its backers, headed by Lord Robert Cecil, hope, nevertheless, to secure the assembly's approval of a perfected form of treaty.

Virtually all of the League of Nation's efforts for peace have been blocked purely and simply because the governments of the world do not feel that the moment has come to take serious steps towards disarmament. The refusal of question of government control of the private manufacture of war material and of the international traffic therein has completely blocked all progress on this point.

The control of the international traffic in war material was fully regulated in the St. Germain treaty, of which the United States was one of the signatories. The refusal of the American senate, however, to ratify this treaty resulted in all of the other great powers refusing to ratify it for the simple reason that for them to abolish all traffic in arms, leaving the United States free to do as she pleases, would merely give American manufacturers a world monopoly over every other nation.

The same situation holds true as regards abolishing the private manufacture and sale of war material, which is conceded to be one of the most prolific causes of war. Other governments insist they cannot ask their industrials to stop this production and sale as long as the manufacturers of the United States are unrestricted.

As a consequence, during the course of the year the league proposed to summon a new international conference for the purpose of regulating the two subjects. The United States was formally asked whether or not she would join in such a conference, but her failure to reply has ended all progress on this question for the year. The assembly will have to decide what step to take next.

The decision of the last assembly to ask all nations to limit their armament budgets to what they were in 1913 has also failed of results. The commission appointed to study and carry out this project found so many technical objections that it was obliged merely to prepare a report asking the coming assembly to reconsider this proposition, either during the past year on the question of limiting or abolishing the poison gas and chemical warfare. Another subject on which a little progress has been made is that of the exchange of military and naval information which is required under the covenant of all leaguers.

NOT AT MEETING

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Replying to inquiries instituted by Premier King in regard to a newspaper despatch that W. G. Ormsby-Gore, Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, had presided at a meeting of Grand Trunk shareholders in London on July 17, at which the Canadian Government was criticized for its treatment of the shareholders of the road, the Duke of Devonshire, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has cabled that the Under Secretary was not at the meeting at all. The text of the Duke of Devonshire's cable is as follows:

"Press messages in connection with W. G. Ormsby-Gore, Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, as reported at meeting of shareholders, are based on complete misunderstanding. It appears that meeting was presided over by S. F. Ormsby-Gore a relation, with whom the Under Secretary of State for the Colonies has had no communication whatever. Under Secretary was not even aware that the meeting had been held. I trust story may be categorically and publicly contradicted as it would be regrettable if impression were formed that such action on the part of the Colonial Office were even conceivable."

BIG GAME HUNTER WAS VISITOR HERE

Cruised Trent Waterway in Company of Cambridge Graduate.

From big-game hunting in African wilds to a cruise on the Trent Waterway is a big jump, but it was taken by Irving K. Taylor who passed through the city yesterday as the guest of Dr. C. Van Bergen in the cruiser Clair.

Dr. Van Bergen is a graduate of Cambrideg University, and described himself as "just a sportsman." He expressed pleasure in the trip to Peterborough, and said if the cruise north of Peterborough was any better than between Trenton and Peterborough he would stay for six weeks. His cruiser is a 55 foot boat with a gross weight of 39 tons. He is a member of the New York Yacht Club and was attracted to the Trent Waterway by the display at the New York Motor Boat Show.

Dr. Van Bergen, who has travelled in every part of the world, said he knew twelve years ago that there were three tombs in the valley of Kings in Egypt. Lord Carnarvon went systematically through the valley and succeeded in finding one tomb.

Dr. Van Bergen is building a 90 foot cruiser with the intention of visiting the Trent Waterway again next year.

Shot White Rhinocerous.

Mr. Taylor who just returned from Africa, numbers among his achievements in the big game field the shooting of the first white rhinoceros known in Africa. He has added many specimen to the New York Zoo. He caught a 107 pound perch in the river Nile. But, he said, I have never succeeded in landing a maskinonge and hope to succeed during this trip.

Mr. Taylor is a director of the New York aquarium, and said if the Government here desired to place an aquarium at the New York Motor Show it would be gladly received. All facilities would be given for advertising the district from which the exhibited fish came.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE BRANTFORD TODAY

Was Preceded by Explosion Which Rocked the Centre of City.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 7. Canadian Press. — Preceded by an explosion which shook the centre of the city, a fire this morning broke out in the carriage and auto repair works of A. Spence and Son, Colborne street, just a block from the market square and spread fire in all directions, resulting in the total destruction of the plant of A. Spence and Son, and of the Mickle, Dyment & Son Co's lumber plant. The latter was practically dismantled, the company having decided to close the local plant and move the machinery for the most part to Toronto.

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — and — New York Stock Exchange and Cash Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—(Special.)—With Wall Street confident regarding President Coolidge's ability to handle the domestic situation with a firm hand, attention of the financial community was turned at the opening of the stock exchange to-day toward developments abroad. Nothing happened over night to cause a change in the view that further steps would quickly be taken with regard to a settlement of the Anglo-French differences over reparations questions.

Stocks showed a strong tone in the early dealings and a number of leaders scored further progress on the recovery.

American Locomotive started in this morning at 73 1-8, reporting of value of 147 for the old stock, a record high. Standard Rails also registered fractional gains.

German marks started the day at 4,000,000 to the dollar, a decline of 1,000,000 from yesterday's low and then sank to 3,333,333.

After a period of hesitancy in the first half hour in which American Locomotive receded a full point and other industrial leaders fell back fractionally, the general list developed renewed strength toward 11 o'clock.

Steel Common reported its best price on the movement at 88 3-8, while New York Central led the rails in a further recovery which was featured by the better action among the north-western issues.

Baldwin also moved ahead again after reacting in the early dealings.

Price movements in the late morning gave additional testimony that the line of least resistance was no longer on the declining side.

Although stocks had again dropped to the lows of the year on the news of President Harding's death, these with which they rebounded.

Baldwin 113 1-7; Union Pacific 126 1-8, up 1-8; Chesapeake and Ohio 59 3-8, up 3-8; Northern Pacific 56, up 1-8; Sinclair 22; American Locomotive 73 1-2, up 1-8; American Telephone and Telegraph 122 3-8, off 1-8; Pan American Petroleum B 58, up 1-2; General Motors 13 7-8, up 1-8; United States Steel 87 1-4 off 3-8; Westinghouse 56, 1-8, up 1-8; Pan American Petroleum 60, up 3-8; Bethlehem Steel 57 1-4; Studebaker 103 1-4, off 1-8; Norfolk and Western 10 3-8, up 1-8.

BELGIUM SEES A SOLUTION OF RUHR PROBLEM

Suggests That Germany Pay France and Belgium Only for Damages in War Time.

STUDIES DEADLOCK

BRUSSELS, Aug. 8.— (Special). —An important session of the Belgian cabinet Tuesday was devoted to the study of the reparations deadlock. It is understood that Belgium may suggest the following solution.

1. Germany to pay France and Belgium only for material damages committed in war time.

2. England to renounce debts due her by the Allies.

3. Germany to pay England the equivalent of England's debt to America.

4. Belgium to take the initiative in calling an inter-Allied conference for settlement on these lines.

Inter-Allied Debts.

The plan follows in part that suggested by Premier Mussolini of Italy who declares that the question of Inter-Allied debts is inextricably interwoven with that of reparations.

Every endeavor is being made to avoid an Anglo-French split. Lord Robert Cecil now in Paris will meet Premier Poincare, Wednesday, to discuss the situation. Ex-Premier Branting of Norway will also discuss the problem with Poincare.

THE WEATHER.

The sun-scorched earth received a gentle shower last night. While not as heavy or as lengthened as we would like to have seen, still it was indeed welcome. It amounted to .18 of an inch. This is a little less than one-fifth of an inch. What is required is an all-night rain to revive parched vegetation. Some people exhibit a great curiosity as to how the rainfall is measured. It is simple. A funnel shaped cup catches the rain as it falls, and conducts it into a copper cylinder below. This cup which catches the rain has exactly ten square inches exposed to the sky. The rain water that is caught is then poured into a long glass graduate exactly one inch across. This graduate is marked in inches, tenths and hundredths. Thus, should one inch of rain fall in the funnel shaped cup (with its ten square inches of exposure) when poured into the smaller glass graduate (one inch across) it would be multiplied ten times. Therefore it is easy to get the actual figures to hundredths of an inch. If this is not clear and you are still curious, pay me a visit and I will give you a practical demonstration.—W.P.

NATION HONORS ITS GREAT DEAD

Thousands of Americans Pay Silent Tribute to Memory of Late President Harding.

WASHINGTON, August 8. Canadian Press. — Swelling tides of honors bore Warren Harding's body today back over the road by which he came triumphant to the Presidency two years ago. For him the urge of ambition was ended, the compelling call of duty stilled in death. And the tense throngs of thousands of his silent countrymen grouped along the way, he passed in such state as only the great dead of the nation may experience.

Down the wide avenue he was carried with marching legions tramping ahead to lay him under the dome of the Capitol before he goes back to his native state to stay for ever.

That high resolve of duty had brought him death, and with it the peace and the quiet he loved, but which he could set aside at the nations call.

With General Pershing riding ahead, the marching thousands of the escorts led the way the steel of their bayonets glittering above them Soldiers, sailors, marines and citizen soldiers, all were there, and behind them came the new President, still bowed in grief, that his high office came at such a price. Here came also men who before him had held that office, one to be stricken like himself and so crippled in illness that he might not give himself as he would to the sorrowful duty of the day.

Behind these in endless array, marched the great body of citizens, and the men who keep the wheels of the government moving.

RESPECT IN TORONTO

TORONTO, August 8. — Out of respect for the memory of the late President, Warren G. Harding, all American residents of Canada have been requested to suspend business during the time of the funeral services, on Friday afternoon, the request being made by Mr. Chester W. Martin, Consul of the United States, in Toronto.

It was a few minutes past ten when the great procession swung out from White House gates and up historic Pennsylvania Avenue. The President had been carried for the last time from the portals of the White House and placed again on the artillnight from the funeral train to the the steps an army band began playeast room.

As the casket was carried down the sttps an army band began playing Chopin's funeral march.

At the same time a bugler came to the portico and sounded shrilly the single note of the soldiers' call to attention. The cavalry opposite on the avenue came to a sharp salute. Then there was a flourish of the drums just as the guns of Fort Meyer across the silent Potomac, awoke the echoes with a salute. Mrs. Harding came down the steps a moment later heavily veiled. On one side her walked Secretary Christian and on the other was Brigadier Gen. Charles T. Sawyer, her life long friend in Marion and the President's physician.

The military escort which had been placed in the line of march ahead of the funeral caisson, moved off at the word of command and an army band ahead, with its crepe-muffled drums playing "Onward Christian Soldier" almost before the four black horses that drew the black wheeled caisson had been given their word of command at the White House, the head of the escort had reached the capitol

Mrs. Harding's car passed along Pennsylvania Avenue with the curtains closely drawn between her and the casket representatives of the judiciary and senators

Next behind her followed Calvin Coolidge suddenly called to take up the mantle which had slipped from his chief's shoulders.

There followed William Howard Taft, a former President Then came Woodrow Wilson

SWIFT CURRENT OF RADICALISM SEEN IN CANADA

And of a "Red" Character, Too, Declares Peter Collins of Boston, in Montreal,

A MENACING FORCE

MONTREAL, August 8 (Canadian Press). — There is much "red Radicalism" under the surface throughout the entire United States at the present time, stated Peter Collins, of Boston, Mass., the official lecturer for the Knights of Columbus, and one of the best known authorities on social questions, in an interview here to-day.

Mr. Collins, who has just recently returned from a tour of the United States, has made a special study of Red Radicalism, and states that it is one of the worst forces that could possibly make its appearance in a civilised country.

Socialistic Conditions.

On being asked about Socialistic conditions in Canada, Mr. Collins stated: "At the conclusion of a lecture tour of Canada, two years ago, I stated to an Ottawa audience that I had found more 'Red Radicalism' in Canada to the square inch than there was in Russia at that time to the square foot, and located more than there was in the United States. I am still of the opinion that there is a strong current of 'Red Radicalism' throughout the Dominion."

150 English Titles Are Now Held By Women From U.S.

LONDON, Aug. 8. — (United Press)—Acquiring standard European title by the cash-and-carry plan continues to be a favorite occupation of American debutantes and widows—grass and otherwise.

One hundred and fifty English title of much distinction and frequently more poverty have been gobled up in this manner.

Heading the list of Englishmen possessed of American wives and American fortunes is the Duke of Marlborough. His Grace, the Duke, married Consuelo Vanderbilt and an equitable portion of the Vanderbilt millions in 1895. A divorce has since separated the couple, but the Duke speedily got himself another American wife.

The Marquess Curzon of Kedleston is another English aristocrat possesssd of the bluest of blood and an American wife. Lord Curzon would appear to agree with the Duke that American wives are worth having, for the present Marchioness is the second American girl to bear the title.

French titles, which are much cheaper than the English variety, have attracted 72 American searchers for social distinction.

The fortunes of 23 Italian nobles presumably have been increased by the gold of American wives.

Eight American women have become members of the Belgian nobility.

Though the Australian, Russian, German and Balkan women of title who once got along as a mere hometown "misses" have not been counted, the number is large.

RARE CASE IN HISTORY OF SURGERY AT NEWARK

NEWARK, August 8. Canadian Press. — What is believed to be a rare case in medical history occurred here to-day when triplets were born to Mrs. Margaret Isherwood, after a Caesarian operation had been performed.

The attending physicians, Dr. Carrie D. Epstein and Dr. Sarah M. Edwards, declared it was the first time within their knowledge that triplets had been delivered by this means.

The triplets (all boys) were reported in excellent health, as also was their mother.

Italy Not Tied To Diplomatic Policies England or France

ROME, Aug. 8.— (United Press.)—Italy is tied neither to the diplomatic policies of England nor of France, according to the "Giornal D'Italia," which sees in the Italian note to England the desire to follow an autonomous middle course in the Anglo-French reparation differences.

"Italy is eager only to end the European conflict," the newspaper declares.

CROWDS FOUGHT FOR NEWSPAPER

Berlin Residents Lose Heads Over Fake Report That Cuno Had Been Overthrown.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—(Special.) — (Special.)—A sensational attempt to discredit the Cuno government was made Tuesday when a newspaper appeared on the streets in the heart of Berlin announcing that the Cuno government had been overthrown. Copies were thrown from automobiles and sold by hawkers. While excited crowds fought for them the news flashed through the city spreading confusion. The Government hurriedly denied the report, announcing that it would punish those responsible.

The act is laid to political enemies of Chancellor Cuno..

Cannot Negotiate.

It is impossible to negotiate with France under the present circumstances," Chancellor Cuno declared in the Reichstag to-day. "Passive resistance in the Ruhr will continue until we know France's terms."

Chancellor Cuno made his promised speech in the Reichstag on the reparations situation. Dealing particularly with the proposals for settlement recently advanced by Great Britain, the Chancellor said the principles on which Great Britain had based her proposals were unpleasant to Germany. The German Government, Chancellor Cuno declared, could not acquiesce in the French demand that the Government should suggest to the people of the Ruhr that they abandon passive resistance.

HOLIDAY EVENT AT BRAUNDPORT

Aquatic Sports in Afternoon, Concert in the Evening.

"The greatest day since Indians held a pow-wow on the spot," is an arresting phrase in Mr. R. C. Braund's hand-written advertisement of the Civic Holiday celebration at Braundport. With characteristic initiative and thoroughness, Mr. Braund has organised the details of this event, the first of its kind on the lower river. In the afternoon there will be canoe and punt races and swimming races for boys and girls. At 8.30 p.m. there will be a big bonfire, with a community concert at 8.45 p.m. Everything will be free to the public, who are invited to attend and bring their own lunches. Hot water will be supplied on the grounds.

A jitney service will be provided in the afternoon and evening from the Henry Hope building to Braundport between 1 and 3 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. The fare will be 10 cents, and with street car connection at the terminus of the C.G.E. line, the public will have transportation from all points of the city to the entrance of the Braundport property.

"We have room for 10,000 people on the grounds," said Mr. Braund. "It is bigger than the Exhibition Park, and we have lots of room on the river front. Everybody will be welcome, and we will try to make it pleasant."

A CHINESE FATHER'S RIGHT TO CHASTISE

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Associated Press) —A Chinese father's right to chastise disobedient and unjust sons is illustrated by a case in the Civil Court of Wei-hai-wei, and mentioned in the annual report of that colony.

Two sons had attempted to deprive their aged parent of property reserved for his personal use after the remainder of his belongings had been divided. Asked in court why he had not punished the offenders for their greed, the father replied that he was not strong enough.

But as the unfilial sons, who are both over forty years of age, now appeared submissive before the magistrate, the parent gladly seized the opportunity to administer the overdue correction with a strap supplied to him in court. The sons took the medicine for their moral health without a murmur, while the old man was delighted.

NO TRACE YET OF J. COSGRAVE THE DEAF MUTE

Disappointment Clings to All Efforts of Those in Search of Insane Slayer.

GUARD RESPONSIBLE

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 8.— Disappointment still clings to the efforts of those engaged in the search for he insane deaf mute slayer John Cosgrave, who escaped from the Ontario Reformatory here last Saturday. The spreading of a drag net in the swamp area to the rear of the institution and for many miles in the district has failed to garner any trace of the fugitive, or disclose a clue as to his hiding place. The only real development in the escape of Cosgrave is the assumption of responsibility by the guard who was in charge of the recreation gang at the time. This man who is one of the oldest employees of the insitution, frankly admits that he was to blame in a report made yesterday to Superintendent Newlands who conducted an investigation.

According to his story he failed to check the number of inmates when they returned from the exercise yard with the result that Cosgrave made his get away by hiding in narrow area ways and then walking out of the grounds.

STILL BIDDING FOR FIRST CITY MANAGER

LAWRENCE, Kans., Aug. 8.— (Associated Press)—When Charles Edward Ashburner, city manager of Norfolk, Va., assumes his new job as city manager of Stockton, Cal., September 1, at a salary of $20,000 a year, he will continue to be the highest paid city manager in the United States, according to John G. Stutz of this city, executive secretary of the National City Managers' Association. His salary at Norfolk is $16,000 a year.

"An interesting thing about Ashburner is that he not only is the highest paid city manager in the United States, but he was the pioneer in the profession—he was the first city manager," said Secretary Stutz. "When he accepted a job of manager of the city of Staunton, Va., in 1908 he received only a nominal salary. It was largely throught the successful demonstration he gave there that other cities accepted the idea. When Ashburner was asked by the city of Stockton to fix his salary, he put the figure so high he did not imagine a city of but 50,000 population would accept. Although Norfolk, a city of 150,000, later met the rise in the effort to hold Ashburner, of course he could not annul Stockton's acceptance of his offer."

Ashburner went from Staunton to Springfield, O., as city manager in 1914, and four years later to Norfolk.

More than 300 cities in the United States are operated under the city manager plan, according to Mr. Stutz.

GAVE BEAR A RIDE.

OLEAN, N. Y., August 8.—Ward Casper, of Hulls, gave a big black bear a ride while motoring in the hills near Coudersport a few nights ago, according to a report just reaching here.

He was driving just above Wharton when bruin climbed on the automobile. Casper was frightened, according to the story. He kept the auto going and for some distance the big black bear was a passenger. The driver was unable to do anything but stick to the wheel. The bear dropped off after it lost its grip on the machine. The hood and fender were marked by the animal's claws. It is believed that the car passed between the bear and her cubs and mother instinct drove her to protect her offspring.

Reported Germany Will Return Again to Gold Currency

LONDON, Aug. 8. — (United Press.) — The Morning Post today publishes an unconfirmed report from London sources that German Finance Minister Hermes will announce in the Reichstag today that the German Government intends to repudiate the mark and restore the gold currency in Germany.

The Morning Post is owned by Lady Bathurst, is the leading Conservative organ in England and has wide continental news sources. Conservative to a degree, the newspaper's publication of the rumour indicates belief that it has foundation.

The German mark was quoted at twenty-eight million (28,000,000) to the pound sterling on the London Exchange this afternoon, or more than 600,000 to the dollar.

MAYOR DOESN'T CAMPAIGN AND NEVER MADE SPEECH.

Unique Record of Man Who Restored a City's Credit —Mayor Has Been Elected Three Times

MAYOR CRABTREE.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Aug. 8.— Pay day doesn't mean a thing to Mayor Edward Crabtree.

Or to Jacksonville's city commissioners either.

For the Mayor and members of his cabinet aren't even dollar-a-year men. They serve without salaries.

Crabtree has been elected three times without giving away so much as a single five-cent cigar. He never has contributed a dollar toward a party campaign fund nor made a solitary speech for himself. And he hasn't even asked anybody to vote for him.

Returning here after two years in Liberty Loan sales work, he was urged to enter the mayoralty race. His friends wanted him to reorganize the city administration and place Jacksonville on a sound financial basis.

Since he has been in office he's restored the city's credit until it is on a par with the best in the state. And he's solved the water problem—formerly serious — and given Jacksonville an abundant supply.

Jacksonville was the first city in Illinois to abolish saloons. It has been dry for 30 years now. It also was one of the first to adopt the commission form of government.

Administration supporters say Crabtree can retain his job as long as he wishes. All the people, they declare, are back of him.

NEW MIDWAY FOR EXHIBITION

Exhibition Directors Map Out the Grounds on New Lines For This Year's Show.

The directors of the Peterboro Exhibition are beginning to visualize the approaching show in the sharper and clear light that August sheds on it. The only uncertainty, and this factor may hang in the balance right up to the last day of the Exhibition, will be the weather.

Monday evening the directors met on the grounds and fixed the location of the midway which will be immediately south of the Manufacturers' building extending in horse shoe form toward the merchants' building. The midway will be largely augmented by a carnival show that is now in Sault Ste. Marie. It consists entirely of rides and attractions, an omission that may deprive the police from parading into the limelight for a synchronized raid.

Children's Day.

The Board definitely designated Wednesday as Children's Day. That afternoon all children from the city and country will be admitted free. Athletic contests for which valuable prizes will be given will be put on specially for them together with the grandstand performance. The arrangements for that afternoon will follow along the lines of Wednesday of last year.

New Performance Stand.

A new performance stand will be constructed in front of the grandstand and close to the opposite rail of the race track. Its dimensions will be 40 feet by 60 feet, and it will be built in sections which can be easily taken down and removed in the event of the baseball being played in that part of the park.

A show ring will also be laid out around the grandstand, and other alterations will be made in the next few weeks.

DIED AT SASKATCHEWAN.

Mrs. C. W. Morton, 213 Stewart Street, has received word, that Mr. George Redpath had passed away in Lourborn, Sask., after an illness of some duration. Deceased was formerly a resident of Cambourn, Ont.

ASKS FRIENDLY SYMPATHY FOR INDIA'S PEOPLE

Bhaskar Hivale, of Bombay, India, Held Undivided Interest of Audience at the Chautauqua

EXCELLING MUSIC

A friendly visitor from far-away India was the speaker at the Chautauqua tent yesterday afternoon. Dark-eyed, dark-haired, with swarthy skin and sparkling white teeth, his foreign accent giving his well-chosen words a piquant attraction, Bhaskar Hivale, of Bombay, India, a one-time student of American education at Harvard University, and a world-wide traveller, voiced what might be termed a mild indictment of English people and ways, from a foreigner who yet felt himself akin to his white audience, through his adherence to a common flag and King.

The speaker, whose friendly sincerity brought him interested attention and a crowd of people eager to shake hands with him after his lecture, made a stirring plea for a more kind and sympathetic attitude, with less indifference, of the Canadian people towards their Indian brothers in the Empire. He said: "Do not be unsympathetic or indifferent or un-Christian towards India, because you are as much responsible for affairs in India as anyone else."

Mr. Hivale's address on "The New India," was concerned mainly with the effect of British control, and occupation, on the native character. He referred briefly to the ancient glories of India, to her war work, when five hundred millions of money were given as a free gift to the Empire, along with more than a million and a quarter of fighting men. "India is a land of contrasts," he averred, speaking of the extremes met on every hand, the well educated and the absolutely unlettered, the wealthy and the poverty-stricken. He mentioned the Taj Mahal, the most beautiful building in the world erected at Agra, "a dream in marble," as a monument to a man's love for a woman. Against the ancient atmosphere of much of that land was the modern spirit of many of the cities, like Bombay, with its "two thousand lizzies," as well as many other makes of automobiles

Didn't like Hot Dogs.

Two things impressed Mr. Hivale in our civilization. In his opinion, they were the most beautiful, and the most ugly; the snow, which reminded him of fairy dreams of childhood, and "those fellows which the children call the hot dogs."

To the children of India three things, non-essentials to us, but remarkable to them, had appeared in the strongest light after British occupation of India became general. One was the habit of British men and women of taking walks together in the evenings; the second was the equally incomprehensible fashion of eating "our holy cows and our unholy pigs," as well as the hind legs of the frog, and the third was smoking and the drinking of wine.

But after Indian peoples had become acquainted with British literature, and had come to realize that "there were other currents in your civilization," they realized that the English were not always occupied with eating and drinking and walking out with strange women in the evening. Two opposing schools of thought had been engendered in India, the one declaring that all things British were good, the other declaring that India must turn farm al lthe habits and ways of the western world. Led by Ghandi, these men declared that India must be saved by herself alone. The third party, led by Sir Rabindra Nath Tagore, said that "the dream of the new India was the union of the two cultures."

The old Oriental system of teaching, by which the youth was placed for the whole twenty-four hours of the day under the sole guardianship of his teacher, and the western meth od, by which classes were taught in hour-long periods by many different masters, whom they never met outside of school bounds, had been unified by an experiment conducted by Tagore at Poonah, where 150 teachers overlooked the work of 300 students, gathered together under the mango trees in the grounds for outdoor instruction, varied by a swim in the near-by lake.

Causes of Poverty.

India's poverty, which the speaker declared his mother, the wife of a native Congregationalist minister, had told him was the result of India's sins in the past, a reason, by the way, which he said had been abandoned by him as feasible after visiting cities of the western world, whose wickedness had not apparently been punished in this fashion, was explained as being directly due to the famines.

These famines were caused by the terrible drought seasons India's only

VICTIM'S FATHER SEEKS REVENGE

"Death of My Daughter Nothing But Cold Blooded Mu der," Says William Johnson.

HAMILTON, August 8 (Canadian Press). — "I am going to meet King as soon as he comes back to Hamilton. It was nothing but cold-blooded murder. He killed my daughter, and I am going to have my revenge, if it takes me twenty years."

So spoke William Johnson, father of Erie Johnson, the seventeen-year-old girl who was slain by George King, her lover, last night, as the grief-stricken parents to-day discussed the tragedy which has darkened their home, the dead silence of the little living-room where they sat was broken only by the sobs which convulsed the grey-haired mother, and by expressions of determination from a family-loving father to have "punishment" dealt out for the slaying of his child.

"I never want to see that man again," declared Mrs. Johnson, as the tears welled in her eyes. "Never, never, unless to see him hanged."

Attempts Suicide.

When George King was taken to the Toronto Police Courtroom this morning he attempted suicide by throwing himself over the railing to the cells in the floor below.

The constable on duty dragged the prisoner back from his evident purpose.

Sorry It Happened.

When George King was brought back to Hamilton to-day, he was met at the Police Station by Johnson, the father of the dead girl.

The father seized King's hand and said he was very sorry that it had happened.

Fate's Dice

Man, I once knew a doctor, name of Peck;
He fell in a well and broke his neck.
Served him right, oughtns minded his own,
Tended to the sick and left the well alone.

—Snowbird Bloss.

Maybe you can explain this: Rodger Dolan rented a summer cottage. A stone's throw from the back door a former tenant had drilled a well. Not striking water when the hole was 26 feet deep, the tenant—instead of filling the excavation—had placed boards over the top.

Time had made the boards rotten, and fear that some one would fall through caused Rodger considerable worry. He had a great many weekend visitors and he was forever cautioning them not to step on the boards. He warned them on arrival, and at least twice a day while they visited.

The abandoned well became sort of an obsession with Dolan. His warnings began to get on his visitor's nerves.

The other evening the latest batch of visitors, while lounging on the front porch, were startled by a loud yell. They rushed to investigate.

Rodger Dolan, going to the spring for a pail of water in the blackness of night, had fallen into the well. Injured, not seriously.

There's a lesson in psychology back of this incident. Dolan had become so intent on cautioning others to avoid the danger that it never occurred to him that he might be the victim.

He was so engrossed on protecting others that he forgot to protect himself. Overconfidence in his own ability to escape a fall into the abandoned well had made him careless.

All of us become negligent in the presence of constant danger, for familiarity with the hazard lulls us into a feeling of false security, a belief that the situation or pitfall is dangerous to others more than to ourselves. Caught off our guard, we're easy victims.

There is such a thing as putting in so much time minding other people's business that our own affairs suffer. Probably this is why we are so ready to send missionaries to save others when we need saving ourselves.

Few of us ever consider that existing danger is a peril to ourselves. We picture the danger as existing for others. Every auto speeder knows that speeding is apt to cause accidents—but usually he speeds on, convinced that the danger doesn't apply to himself.

Fate, too, has a lot to do with it. We know a man who is so fearful of fire that, every night for years, before retiring he has carefully explored every room of his house to make sure that no blaze has started. Fear of fire makes him reluctant to go to bed. It frequently keeps him awake for hours.

Despite this caution, he has had three fires in his house.

On the other hand, all of us know careless individuals who never have a fire, though they repeatedly do such things as putting a glowing cigaret on a shelf and forgetting it.

Often we seem to create what we fear. We become the victims of catastrophe because we expect (fear) to become victims.

LOS ANGELES, August 8 (Canadian Press).—Because she saved him from drowning when he was a boy of twelve in 1896, Theodore Tibbits, wealthy leather manufacturer of Lynn, Mass., who died recently, left Mrs. Clara May Miller, nee Clara Beckwith, the sum of $250,000.

DRYING AND CLEANING STEAM

One of the scientific half-truths which have gained common credence is that when water is boiled all the substances in solution are left behind by the escaping steam. It is true that pure distilled water is obtained by condensing steam but it does not follow that all steam is pure. Every engineer knows only too well that when his boilers are working at or near full load, with the water in furious circulation and steam leaving it at the rate of tons per hour, the steam carries off quite a considerable proportion of water and also some of the solid matter precipitated in the boiler. Steam which is wet and more or less dirty leads to many undesirable consequences. It has a powerful scouring action on the parts of engines and turbines, and thus causes wear and reduced efficiency. The hot water in the steam is useless for power purposes and therefore represents a loss of heat or, if the wet steam be passed through a superheater, the latter has first to dry the steam before it can commence its legitimate function. An even more serious consideration is the risk of steam pipes being broken by the hammering action of water collecting in them from the steam. Many devices have been tried with a view to averting these troubles, and a British firm has introduced a steam dryer which is now in successful operation on many hundreds of boilers. In this device, which operates on the principle of the centrifugal separator, the steam is deflected radially through guide vans cast on a plate inside the separator chamber. A vortex motion is thus imparted to the steam and all moisture and solid matter is thrown outwards and expelled through a tangential outlet. The steam, now dry and clean, passes out of the chamber in the direction of its original motion able for use in the steam pipe within the boiler, or in an external steam pipe. The higher the rate of steam flow, the more powerful the centrifugal action, and the efficacy of this device has been demonstrated under all conditions of working.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY GRAND ENCAMPMENT AT THE FINAL SESSION

Biggest and Best Meeting of Order Closed Yesterday—T. W. N. Clements Grand Patriarch.

Pleased With Peterboro.

The principal business transacted at the Grand Encampment Session yesterday was the election of officers. The following officers will hold office for the ensuing twelve months:

T. W. N. Clements, Windsor, Grand Patriarch.

R. S. Elliott, Ottawa, Grand Senior Warden.

A. Switzer, Toronto, Grand High Priest.

S. C. Parks, Toronto, Grand Scribe.

E. O. Garbutt, Picton, Grand Treasurer.

Rev. J. W. Hibbert, Essex, Grand Junior Warden.

James Sawyer, Sault St. Marie, Grand Marshal.

Fred Read, Peterboro, Grand Inside Sentinel.

J. K. Henderson, Niagara Falls, Grand Outside Sentine.

J. L. Leary, Toronto, Grand Auditor.

W. Powley, Toronto, Junior Grand Representative.

W. Cross, Hamilton, Senior Grand Representative.

The place of meeting of the Grand Encampment next year will be Belleville.

Thanks to Merchants.

The Grand Encampment in Session yesterday moved a very enthusiastic vote of thanks to the merchants and citizens of the city of Peterboro for their very excellent welcome. The decorations and window displays were specially stressed, being described officially as the best that have ever greeted the Grand Encampment.

Many of the officers told the Examiner that among the memories of Peterboro that would stay with them longest were the trip over the Lift Lock and the splendid appearance of the city, bedecked as it was in their honor.

The Memorial Service.

At the memorial service which was held in memory of all Oddfellows who have died since the last Grand Encampment, but specially in memory of President Harding, an oration was delivered by Rev. J. W. Hibbert. The visiting brethren from United States were deeply touched by this mark of the esteem in which their late leader was held in Canada.

Registration Record.

It was officially announced that the registration for the Session just ended was the biggest in the history of the Order. The official photographs, too, contains the biggest number of members of any photographs taken of this Order.

As a final wind up the Belleville Canton exemplified the Patriarch Militant Degree in the Oddfellows' Hall last night.

The Orientals' Trek.

On Monday night the Orientals had disappeared behind the doors of the Lodge room they proceeded with the mystic rites pertaining to their Order. Members from all over the Province came to Peterboro specially for this event. The festival was continued until four a.m. yesterday without abatement except when an adjournment was made to partake of a buffet luncheon. It in believed that the regulation bread and salt were forgotten in the midst of the trek when the call to a more appetizing luncheon was sounded. The members of the Order say they had a great time in Peterboro, and right so. It is believed that Peterboro saw the birth of this branch of the Order, and that it took its name from the Oriental hotel in which the first ceremonies were held.

General Satisfaction.

Grand Scribe S. C. Parks, a veteran in Grand Encampment Sessions and an old Peterboro man, expressed entire satisfaction with the convention here. It was a splendid success from first to last; everything possible was done to entertain the visitors, the committees here handled their tasks cheerfully and well, and Peterboro is to be congratulated on having the best session the Grand Encampment has had.

A vote of appreciation which was spoken to enthusiastically for five minutes was tendered the Examiner for the publicity given the work of the Grand Encampment. The reports were far ahead of the service given in other cities, much larger, wheer the Grand Encampment had met. "The reports are the best the Grand Encampment has ever had" W .H. Barry, secretary of the Grand Encampment Sessions said.

SENATOR ASSASSINATED.

CORIZIA, Italy, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Senator Giergio Bombich was killed yesterday by two revolver shots through the head fired by Vittorio Colecchio, a native of Fiume. As soon as Colecchio started firing, Bombich attempted to take cover behind a trolley car, but slipped and fell. His assailant was upon him instantly and shot him twice through the head before the terrified onlookers could interfere. Colecchio is believed to be insane.

Body of Murdered Woman Was Found.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 8. —(Canadian Press.)— The body of Mrs. B. H. Stewart, 58 years old, was found by a posse of searchers late yesterday, ten miles south-east of this city, bringing to three the number of persons whose deaths are blamed on John H. Wells, 70, retired merchant and reputed to be wealthy.

Wells, early yesterday, shot and killed his wife, Ella, 68, and himself. He left word with a nephew that he had also killed Mrs. Stewart and placed her body in a clump of bushes some distance from this city.

Jealousy is the theory advanced by police as the cause of the triple killing.

PLANS MADE FOR HARDING'S FUNERAL

The Body Will Arrive in Marion To-Morrow Morning and Will Be Buried on Friday.

MARION, O., August 8 (Canadian Press). — Following is the detailed plan for President Harding's funeral here as announced yesterday by officials in charge of arrangements, the plans having had the personal approval of Mrs. Harding:

"The body will arrive in Marion on Thursday morning about 10 o'clock, and will be taken to the home of Dr. G. T. Harding, the President's father.

"The body will be accompanied by the President's Naval and Army aides.

"The honorary pall-bearers include the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Cabinet and the President pro tempore of the Senate.

"The body will lie in state at the residence from about 2 p.m. until about 10 p.m. on Thursday, during which time an opportunity will be given for all friends who so desire to pay their final respects.

"Also on Friday, 10th August, the body will lie in state from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

"At 2 o'clock on Friday, the funeral cortege will be formed at the residence of Dr. G. T. Harding, to escort the remains to the Marion Cemetery, where services will be held upon arrival.

"The services at the cemetery will be held at the vault, and will be conducted by the Rev. George Landis, of Trinity Baptist Church, the President's home church, assisted by the Rev. Jesse Swank, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Marion, Ohio, a close personal friend of the President.

"It is expected that President Cooldige and his immediate party will make their headquarters on their train and leave for Washington after the services.

"Mrs. Harding will return to Washington on Friday evening about six o'clock."

Suspense Too Much For Belgian Cabinet.

BRUSSELS, August 8 (Canadian Press). — The Belgian Cabinet yesterday discussed at great length how best to speed up the Inter-Allied negotiations dealing with reparations, so as to put an end to the present period of suspense, but, according to the Independence Belge, no decision was reached.

Foreign Minister Jaspar read reports to his colleagues tending to show that resistance in the Ruhr was rapidly weakening, and that the Franco-Belgian authorities were being approached with semi-official proposals having in view the abandonment of resistance — proposals which apparently have come indirectly from Berlin.

The Cabinet was also concerned with the rise in exchange, and decided in principle to subject the purchase of foreign currencies to state control.

Germany's Situation Is Almost Hopeless.

BERLIN, August 8 (Canadian Press). — Chancellor Cuno's address in the Reichstag on Wednesday will deal chiefly with the Government's new programme for financial and tax reforms, although, it was ascertained yesterday, the Chancellor will also refer to the present condition of Germany's foreign relations, particularly in connection with the situation in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

Parliamentary circles do not anticipate a broadside attack on the Government. Herr Cuno apparently having succeeded in appeasing the Socialists by promising immediate enactment of measures designed to furnish relief in the highly critical internal situation.

There is no denying the fact that the leaders, including President Ebert, view the present economic situation with deep apprehension, its apparent hopelessness having engendered a feeling of apathy or resignation which is shared equally by the populace.

CANADA IN NEED OF FOREST RESERVES

Planted Forests Will Not Be Able to Supply Future Timber Requirements — Forest Fires Are Serious.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—That Canada's future timber supply can never be obtained from planted forests was the opinion expressed in a paper upon silviculture read by Dr. C. D. Howe, Dean of the Forestry Faculty of the University of Toronto, at yesterday afternoon's session of the British Empire Forestry Conference.

Dr. Howe referred to the exploitation of Canada's timber wealth which had taken place in the past and while this had made tree planting necessary in certain of the older settled parts of the country he did not think Canada could look to that source for its future timber supply.

In his paper, Dr. Howe dealt comprehensively with the timber situation confronting the Dominion. He indicated policies which would be best calculated to conserve the supply of timber and stressed the necessity for the creation of forest reserves while there is yet time.

R. L. Robinson of the British Forestry Commission in commenting upon Dr. Howe's paper, felt that the outstanding point to stress was the lack of forest reserves in Eastern Canada. Forests of Eastern Canada, he pointed out, had been depleted and fires had been universal. He thought that the two foremost aims of Canadian forestry proponents should be rehabilitation of degraded areas and prevention of degredation in areas still untouched.

E. J. Zavitz, Chief Forester for Ontario stated that the problem of protecting forests in this province from fires was so pressing that it would overshadow other forestry activities for years to come.

Thousands in Capital For Harding's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Day came to this City filled with the stir of troops moving to their place before the White House to take part in the services for the late President Warren Harding. Long before the troops marched to their places the people of Washington and nearby cities had gathered inside the steel, strands that kept Pennsylvania Avenue clear from end to end. They came by tens of thousands.

Last night, under dimmed lamps and with troopers riding ahead through the silent street, the casket containing body of the late President was carried to the White House from the funeral train.

Exhibition Train Is Good Advertising.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.— Canadian Press). — Never has Canada had a greater piece of advertising than she is now getting in France by means of the Canadian Exhibition train now touring that country. This is the impression gained by Senator Dandurand who has just returned from a visit to France. The train in question is composed of 30 motor trucks and has the advantage of the French cities being toured. The Senator states that tens of thousands of people are thronging to visit the train, pamphlets are being distributed, the natural resources of the Dominion being explained, and everything possible being done to give the French people an idea of what can be secured in Canada. At Lille, a Belgian delegation visited the train. It was headed by a minister and the suggestion was made that the train extend its tour to include Belgium.

Rubbing Alcohol Was Used as a Beverage.

SARNIA, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press). — William James McMillan, 53, said to be of Toronto died in the Sarnia Hospital from alcoholic poisoning after he consumed an eight ounce bottle of rubbing alcohol probably diluted with beer or some other mixture.

McMillan was a member of the Gypsy camp which has been located on the River road, just south of the city for several weeks, with the Watson Brothers of Toronto.

Apparently McMillan had been in the habit of consuming diluted rubbing alcohol.

Dr. Logie, who was called to the camp about 3.30 yesterady morning found McMillan in a serious condition, though conscious, and had him removed to the hospital where he lived for two hours more.

The rubbing alcohol had been obtained at a local drug store on the pretext that it was required for rubbing horses at the camp.

FOUR INJURED.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neil and their son and daughter, all of Toronto, were painfully injured yesterday afternoon when their car in which they were driving home after a visit here, collided head-on with another car near Nilestown. They were brought to this city in an ambulance and are convalessing at the home of A. F. Sharp, Piccadilly Street. Both cars were badly damaged.

UTTER CONFUSION IN GERMANY AS RESULT OF MONEY SITUATION

Food Situation Is Growing More Serious—Shopkeepers Now Base Prices on Gold Quotations.

SHOPS CLOSING.

BERLIN, Aug. 8 — (Canadian Press). — Utter confusion prevailed in the retail situation in all lines in Greater Berlin today, due to the continued plunging of the mark and the consequent fantastic rise of the dollar.

While the food situation continues to show a chronic shortage in ordinary staples, hourly rises of prices caused by the fluctuation of the mark are projecting a new and serious element into the situation as the retailers are withdrawing their wares from sale whenever the customers refuses to pay prices based on the gold mark, or the dollar units.

As the latter procedure results in prices ranges which are prohibited under the usuary ordinances, the shopkeepers' union has proclaimed a general strike for Thursday and all retail establishments except food shops will close down for a day as a protest against conditions under which they are expected to operate.

Their chief objection is being directed against the prohibition of price quotations based on the gold unit. The retailers assert that they are unable to replenish their stocks under existing conditions, and, isasmuch as they are being obliged to pay wholesalers and jobbers on the basis of the so-called "stablized mark," they are now demanding similar accomodations in their dealings with the public.

Many shops throughout the city already have shut down, barricading their doors and emptying the shop windows of all displays.

In the meanwhile the Government is making hectic efforts to prevent the situationn from lapsing into a state of unredeemable chaos and is hastening its program of tax and financial measures, the underlying principle of which is the adoption of a national system of financing whereby all federal revepues and expenditures will be computed on a gold basis and paper marks eliminated.

Once the Government succeeds in putting its reform measures into practical operation, private trade and commerce are expected to adapt themselves to the new order, thus completing the job of permanently jettisoning the paper mark.

The Government virually has abandoned all further attempts to "peg" the mark or save it from the abyssmal plunge. The Government proposes to make the recently floated internal loan the crux of the new national currency.

The dollar rate fluctuated between three and four million marks to the dollar throughout the day. The official figure was 3,300,000 for the dollar, and is 15,000,000 for the Pound Sterling.

MANUFACTURERS URGE HIGH TARIFF

Canadian Manufacturers' Association Wants High Tariff on Finished Products — Greater Export Trade.

MONTREAL, August 8 (Canadian Press). — Active steps are being taken by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to impress upon their members throughout the Dominion and upon Canadians generally the necessity for a well-bal... and stable protectionist fiscal ... for Canada.

The tariff views of the Association as embodied at the annual convention held at Toronto last June have been set forth in poster form. The views amount to a conviction that "the Canadian customs tariff should be immediately and substantially increased on finished products, and that when higher rates of duty have been put into effect, Canada should endeavour to increase her export trade by making preferential tariff arrangements based on the principle of bargaining, with other countries, particularly countries of the British Empire."

Copies of the resolution passed at the convention printed in placard form have been mailed to each of the 5,000 members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association throughout Canada to be hung up prepared for the Province of Quebec.

Excellent Results From Fish Hatchery.

OTTAWA, August 8 (Canadian Press). — Commenting upon satisfactory returns obtained in the Dominion Government hatchery at Thurlow, near Belleville, Ont., the officials of the Department of Fisheries stated that over 95 per cent. of the white fish eggs placed in the incubators in the fall of 1922 were hatched and distributed this spring in the Bay of Quinte and adjacent waters as free swimming fry with the food-sac absorbed.

Departmental heads claim that the beneficial results from the hatchery operations in Lake Ontario are evident in the present condition of the white fish fishery, which has increased over twenty-fold in the last twenty-five years.

Five year contract plan wou be satisfactory to me, I believe."

The Gillespie Co. has some fifty elevators in Northern and Central Alberta with an approximate storage capacity of there million bushels.

MANITOBA WHEAT LOSSES ARE HEAVY

Good Yields Promised Three Weeks Ago Are Cut in Half — Alberta and Saskatchewan Crops Are Good.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—In Manitoba the loss caused by rust, heat and saw-fly, has been very heavy, practically every district being more or less affected, and in the central and southern areas reports received from correspondents would indicate that the good yields promised three weeks ago have been fully cut in half.

Wheat cutting will not be general in Manitoba for another week or ten days. The damage from black rust in the province has been undoubtedly serious, the loss being estimated from slight to sixty per cent. The great majority of Mantioba correspondents report that the heads are not filling to the top. The saw fly also has taken its toll, and apparently worse in the western part of the province. Labor is scarce in some districts with wages from $3.50 to $4.00 per day.

In Saskatchewan wheat cutting will be general about August 20. The crop varies greatly, but the majority of the crop correspondents were "fairly optimistic." Cool weather had assisted in holding rust in check and allowing the heads to fill, but warmth is now required. Saw-fly damage is not serious. A few points report slight frost. Labor is scarce, wages running from $3.50 to $5.00 per day.

"In Alberta the outlook is very encouraging," states the report. The province is practically free from rust and the heads are on the whole being well filled. There has been very little damage from grasshoppers and hail. Cutting should be general by August 20 or 25. Most districts report a labor shortage, wages bieng from $4.00 to $4.50 per day.

SCHOOLS DISORGANIZED.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press.) — The whole school system of Russia has been disorganized under Bolshevist rule, Sir Paul Vinogradoff said in a conference on Russian affairs at the Institute of Politics yesterday. In general, he said, Russia has been set back two centuries in the democratic reconstruction which was under way before the world war started.

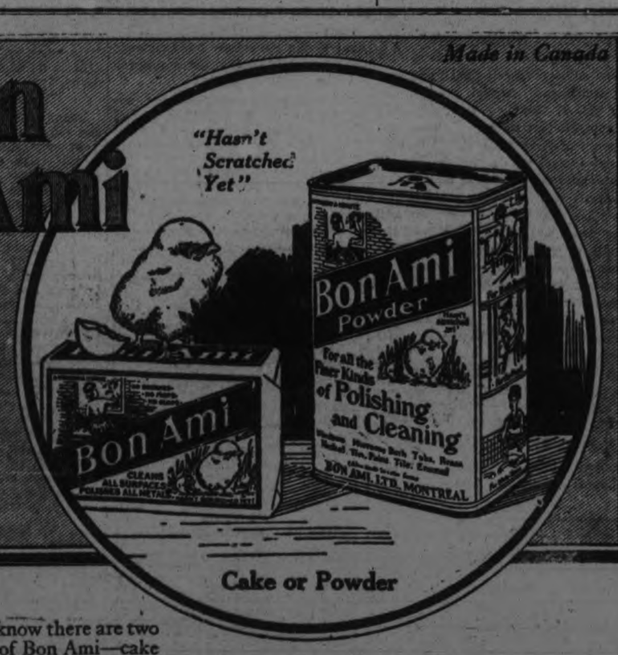
Bon Ami



Cake or Powder

Do you know there are two kinds of Bon Ami—cake and powder? Both are made from the same ingredients—both are equally good.

It's a matter of taste which you use. Many women prefer the powder in its handy sprinkler-top tin—it's so easy to shake the powder on a damp cloth.

Others prefer the solid cake—that's rubbed on the cloth like ordinary soap.

Many women keep both kinds on hand—they prefer the cake for some uses, the powder for others. It's a splendid idea to keep both—why not try it?

Are you familiar with the principal uses of Bon Ami—they're listed at the right?

DESIRABLE PUBLICITY.

As a medium of valuable publicity the Trent Waterways Development Association is laying up an increasing moral debt against Peterborough through the activities of its enterprising Secretary, Mr. Leonard Frazer.

The potential, and also the actual value of his special work as a lecturer and propagandist for the Trent and Kawartha water route, has been recognized by the Ontario Government, whose assistance has enabled him to fulfil six engagements this year.

Mr. Frazer has addressed comparatively large audiences of influential men in New York, Rochester and Detroit, in an endeavour to sell to them, using a business phrase, the scenic beauties of the Trent system. His appeal was directed to their sporting hobbies and proclivities as yachtsmen, and was illustrated by views of the streams and lakes and towns from Trenton to Lake Simcoe.

In fact, his service has been in the introduction he has given the district of Central Ontario to prominent men in the three cities mentioned above, as also in different parts of this Province. Direct results were traceable in this season's tourist traffic to Mr. Frazer's persuasiveness, and it may be that this publicity will bear other and more permanent fruit in the future.

Not to Peterborough alone, but to all the communities on the Trent, has this phase of the association's efforts been already more or less helpful, for Mr. Frazer's lectures and illustrations have embraced the entire course of the canal.

And such publicity these days is beyond price.

MIGHT HAVE BUILT NEW STAND.

Lack of funds perhaps restrained the Council from dismantling the main grandstand at Riverside Park and replacing it with a new and larger one.

Doubts about the future use of the grounds for the Central Ontario Baseball League games may also have influenced them in confining the alterations to permanent repairs to the foundation and substructure; and in making both stands safe for the public the Council will undoubtedly receive the approval of the taxpayers.

To make the job entirely complete the flooring of the north stand should be repaired in places, and when this expense is added eventually, together with the cost of re-painting, the total would probably cover a considerable part of the outlay for a new building.

The public understands and appreciates by this time the circumstances that demanded the expenditure that has been incurred as the alternative to condemning both stands and causing inconvenience and discomfort to the baseball crowds, with a serious loss of revenue; but there will also be a slight feeling of regret that when they were about it the Council was unable to undertake the renovation on the broadest basis and replace the main stand altogether.

Incidentally, there will be general satisfaction that a serious mishap was averted by the timely inspection of the property, probably saving the city thereby a heavy bill for damages and protecting some persons from injury.

After-thought proposes the larger scheme in spite of the handicap of funds, but an imperative condition was the immediate use of the stands, forcing the Council to limit the work to extensive repairs.

OUR LOSS IN IMMIGRATION.

The division of the stream of British immigration to this continent, with the larger branch flowing through the port of New York, perturbs the Montreal Star, which is disposed to blame the Dominion Department of Immigration for this diversion and loss of thousands of British citizens, who, it is asserted, might have and should have been persuaded and induced to come to Canada.

Hasn't this country broad acres awaiting settlement on easy terms, the Star argues, as if these immigrants, mostly from the cities and towns of England and Scotland, were endowed with some natural aptitude for farm and work that would make them persevering and successful settlers.

And, while the advantage of becoming a rural settler in this young country is not laid before the British immigrant "clearly continuously and effectively," he is drawn to the United States by "one irresistible magnet, the promise of gold."

In that respect the present newcomers from the Old Land are not much different from those who preceded them to Canada, one, ten or twenty years, and who in thousands have lately worn paths across the border below Montreal, and at Niagara, Windsor and Winnipeg, to mention only a few of the main highways pointing south.

If more attention were paid to these backdoor leaks the net increase in our population would probably take care of itself.

Here is a problem that should receive this country's best thought, for these emigrants of ours represent a heavy loss in Canada's investment in its own youth, the dispersion of families, and altogether an economic and social wastage that is deplorable.

The Montreal Star is particularly concerned about bringing people into the country, and for the purpose of estimating the extent of the probable loss through diversion, assigns a reporter to Ellis Island, the Atlantic entrance to the United States, instead of sending him along the border to count the departing Canadians.

Everyone regrets the disjunction of the stream which for so long poured almost entirely through the ports of Halifax and Montreal, but Provincial and Federal immigration policies have aimed for some years at British farmers rather than British artisans and shop-helpers.

Recent winter bread-lines in the larger Canadian manufacturing cities, including Peterborough, imposed too high a penalty for indiscriminate immigration.

A Glasgow despatch of August 2nd emphasized the fact that, contrary to the Montreal Star's complaint, Canada's opportunities have been widely published in the press, on billboards, but clerical workers and artisans have not been encouraged of late to come here as settlers.

Today the Scottish emigrant is more likely to be a worker from the Clyde shipyards or engineering shops than a farmer, and if he has been lured from Canada's unbroken acres it is only natural that he should prefer the work in which he is most proficient. When the ranks of young Canadian farmers are depleted by desertions to United States factory centres is it not somewhat ridiculous to shout about bringing in men from British towns and cities to settle on farms which our own young people pass by.

If our advantages are superior to those of the United States why not turn the spotlight on them so strongly that there shall be no doubt about our young Canadians seeing and appreciating them. When even the young people of Quebec join the exodus southward, causing their Bishops to issue formal appeals to their instinctive love of the land of their fathers, and setting out the joys of contentment and prosperity at home, it should be apparent to the Montreal Star that some investigation of domestic conditions should be as helpful as counting the British immigrants arriving at New York.

THE REFRESHMENT OF NIGHT.

Only the fine checks and balances of nature have saved the late spring-sewn crops over a wide area in Eastern Ontario.

Abnormal conditions by day have been partly offset by abnormal conditions by night.

The weeks of unbroken dry weather have diminished and lightened the harvest that should now be falling before the mowers in splendid abundance if the promises of June had been nurtured and borne along to fruition by a normal July.

But July was unpropitious, unusual. However, divergence in one direction has been partly corrected by divergence in another, for the shriveling heat by day has been appreciably mitigated by the cool winds by night, winds that precipitated dew and refreshment against the returning sun.

This small measure of moisture meant the difference between moderate crops and almost a complete failure.

THE BRITISH AND FRENCH POLICIES.

An analysis of the British Government's draft reply to Germany's reparations proposals and of the latest statement by Premier Poincare does not foster the view that an unbridgeable gulf has opened between Paris and London.

France no longer argues that Germany's economic troubles are mere pretence. She agrees that the present situation is "ruining Germany and threatening to ruin Europe." It is on that premise that Britain is acting. Britain believes that a complete collapse is impending in Germany and that the world cannot afford to look on unconcerned.

The French do not stop there in their agreement with the British. France frankly admits that "Germany ought to re-establish its credit, balance its budget and encourage production," which is what Britain urges that the Allies should enable her to do.

France virtually admits that the occupation of the Ruhr is destroying Germany. She justifies the occupation by saying that Germany would not pay reparations until she was driven to pay by her sufferings. She says Germany's stubborn refusal to pay would cease at once if Britain disapproved of her resistance.

The present situation came about by reason of Germany's proposal to the Allies that impartial experts be appointed to estimate her ability to pay reparations. To this the draft British reply agrees on condition that the experts co-operate with the Reparations Commission and that nothing be done inconsistent with the Treaty of Versailles. The British draft advises Germany, if she wants relief, to withdraw immediately the decrees fomenting passive resistance and to disavow sabotage. If that were done the reply suggests there might be "reconsideration by the occupying powers of the conditions of their occupation and the gradual return to the normal features of industrial life in the Ruhr."

The chief feature of French policy is its failure to reject the British proposals. The French sidestep them. They hope that by stalling for time Germany may be brought to complete submission to France's Ruhr policy. They say that "Belgium and France will not evacuate the Ruhr except progressively as Germany pays." That is a matter that could be adjusted. The French also want to force Britain to adjust France's debt to Britain as part of the Ruhr settlement. Britain has not encouraged the linking up of the two questions, but might not be intransigent on that subject. France testily asks why an estiamte of Germany's ability to pay, made now, would be more exact than a similar estimate in 1921, and innocently answers her own question by saying, "A nation's capacity to pay is very variable."

Simply stated, the position taken by Britain and France today may be put thus: Britain believes the Allies should act quickly to prevent an impending German economic collapse which might involve Europe in irretrievable ruin; France believes the Allies should delay intervention so that her throttle-hold on Germany may bring that country to an early acceptance of France's whole program of reparation payments. The British plan is the wiser because it is surer, is based on reason rather than force, does not relieve Germany of any obligation to pay, and tends to moderate ill-feeling between the nations.—Toronto Star.

NAVIGATION DELAYED.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Navigation on the Welland canal was delayed for several hours yesterday by an accident to the temporary building near Merriton used by the contractors for the ship canal close by.

A construction train was approaching the bridge, which had been swung and before it was in position the engine struck the sleepers of the bridge and badly wrecked it. Although the engine did not go into the canal, the train crew jumped to safety, when it was found impossible to stop the train.

BRITISH ENCOURAGED BY OIL DRILLING SUCCESSES

LONDON, Aug. 8.—(Associated Press)—The success of recent oil-drilling operations in the northern counties of England and in Scotland have led to new drilling operations on a larger scale. The oil found, while not abundant, is claimed to be of the finest heavy grade and has lead many geogolists to believe that asphalt deposits lie in this section.

Oil has been found in Derbyshire, Staffordshire and Midlothian. At Hardstoft, Derbyshire, a well drilled about a year ago has produced a thousand tons of heavy oil and the wells in this section have shown traces of oil but have not yet been pumped.

Indications of oil have been found in the Staffordshire coal mines, but the prospects are not believed encouraging for the operator.

Most of the test wells have been drilled by the government in order to prove the theory that oil exists in many sections of the British Isles. English operators believe that while the result of the drilling so far is not what was looked for, it is possible to produce oil in commercial quantities.

WARSAW VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

Canoe Stolen, Alleged Thief Caught—Country Suffering For Want of Rain—Bush Fires.

WARSAW, Aug. 8.—Rain is very, very badly needed here. Many springs and wells are quite dry, pastures, especially on rough lots, are brown, and in many places there is no grass for the cattle. Garden stuff is at a stand-still, and even where well cultivated, there is little growth. Oats and barley are ripening too fast, especially those of late sowing, but the early oats are fairly well filled. Early potatoes are small and late varieties need rain, or they, too, will be a poor crop.

Caterpillar pests are simply stripping David Drain's beautiful walnut trees of foliage, and he is resorting to the sprayer in hopes of stopping their work of destruction.

In the Churches.

There was service in the Anglican Church Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Atkinson filled the Warsaw and Cotessloe Presbyterian pulpits. Mr. Atkinson's time here is limited, but he is giving all his energies for the general good of the community.

In the Baptist Church Mr. Walter Kidd preached. Mr. Chorley is away for holidays during this month.

The regular monthly missionary program was given after the Methodist Sunday School service, Mrs. Greystock leading. In the evening Rev. F. G. Weir selected as his subject, "The Institution of the Lord's Supper." At the close of the regular service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed.

The regular Quarterly Board meeting is indefinitely postponed.

Bush Fires.

Bush fires have been raging since Friday afternoon between the 8th and 9th lines.

Canoe Stolen.

Wednesday evening last Melville Miller's boat house was broken into, his canoe stolen and a punt left in its place. A search by Miller and Henry Clements located the missing canoe in the possession of a man and a boy named Davis. The boy, caught by Clements on Thursday, told all he knew of the incident. On Friday Clements and Miller made chase after the alleged adult thief, whom they overtook near Brighton and handed him over to the authorities. It is asserted that the man has several aliases, but his correct name is Stevens. Police allege that he has given trouble before. The Davis boy is held as a witness when Stevens appears in court to explain his possession of the canoe.

News Paragraphs.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter John Kidd were in the village last week to attend the wedding of their daughter, Barbara, on Thursday.

Get Sunburned all you wish

Rub Campana's Italian Balm on your face and arms each day. It won't prevent you getting sunburned; in fact, it assists the sun in giving the skin a clear, healthy, bronzed texture, instead of a coarse redness, but it will prevent the roughness and soreness and irritation that comes from sunburn, or excessive perspiration.

Be sure to take a good supply of Campana's Italian Balm away with you on your vacation—because you can't buy it conveniently at many summer resorts.

Lobster Season May Be Changed in N.S.

OTTAWA, August 8. Canadian Press. — J. J. Cowie of the Federal Fisheries Department will be sent to Yarmouth and Shelburne counties, Nova Scotia, to conduct a further enquiry in regard to the advisability of changing the lobster fishing season, it was announced to-night by officials of the Marine and Fisheries Department.

The question of whether the lobster fishing season in western Nova Scotia should be changed so as to permit fishing in the fall or winter has been constantly raised in recent years, especially in parts of Yarmouth and Shelburne counties. The season is at present fixed for the district runs from March 1 to March 31. The area affected covers the coast line from Cole Harbor in Halifax County to Brier Ireland in Digby county.

An enquiry was held into the matter last November. It was necessarily hurried and incomplete, the officials of the Fisheries Department say. As a result the season was not changed.

Beginning next week informal meetings will be held at central points in the district affected. Due publicity of the time and place of the meetings will be given by the fishery overseers, departmental officials state, so that all fishermen and canners interested may have an opportunity to express their views.

Finds Rich Relics of Cliff Dwellers.

DURANGO, Colo., Aug. 8.—(United Press).—The only life-size idol of the ancient cliff-dwellers of America ever known to have been discovered, was recently found by Lauren Crandall on his ranch, near the Aztec ruins.

Along with the perfectly preserved pottery, household implements and farming tools, lying just as they had been left when the cliff-dwellers disappeared from the earth thousands of years ago.

Crandall is said to have refused large sums of money for the baked clay idol and pottery. Bowls unearthed retain the original coloring, delicately traced in numerous fantastic shapes. One piece has a perfectly formed swastika (emblem of good luck) painted in red and black, covering the bottom of the inside of the vessel.

A number of skulls and bones of human beings show that Crandall had penetrated an ancient cliff-dwellers' graveyard. The custom of idol-worshipping races burying their choicest works with the craftsmen may account for his unusually valuable discoveries.

Hon. Frank Oliver May Fill Railway Vacancy.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8. — Canadian Press).— While nothing was given out for publication, following yesterday afternoon's session of the cabinet, the rumour that Hon. Frank Oliver of Edmonton will be appointed to fill the vacancy on the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners caused by the death of the late Dr. Rutherford becomes more insistent.

Despite the reticence of Premier King and other members of the cabinet there is an impression that none of the impending appointments have been made though they have probably been discussed in some instances decisions reached, at Monday's and yesterday's cabinet sessions.

MASQUERADE WAS DECIDED SUCCESS

Many Interesting and Entertaining Costumes at Annual Dance at Mount Julian.

LAKEFIELD, August 8. — Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Isaacs were host and hostess last evening at the annual masquerade held at the Vimeds Hotel, Mount Julian. The dance this year was held in the dining room which was very prettily decorated for the occasion and an excellent orchestra was in attendance. Threatening rain kept many of the guests from the far parts of the lake away but there was a large attendance of cottagers from near by as well as guests at the hotel.

Prizes awarded for the best costumes were won by the following:

During the evening a recitation "Vocal Contrasts," was given by Mrs Vincent Scott of Toronto, the piece being one which was written specially for her. Solos were given by Mrs. Walter Brown and Marvin Burr.

OMEMEE VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

Two Cars in Mix-Up With a Wire Fence—Truck Broke Through Bridge.

OMEMEE, Aug. 8.— A very serious accident was narrowly averted on Sunday morning. While Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sandy and two daughters, Misses Doris and Genevieve, were motoring home from church, their car and a Sedan from Midland, containing four occupants, came together at the corner at the top of Dancy's hill, one and a half miles west of Omemee.

Those who are familiar with the road know the view is badly obstructed by the dwelling on the corner and when the Sedan came in sight, Mr. Sandy, whose home is only a few rods west on the straight road, drove ahead until he saw the driver of the Sedan making a long turn. Both drivers, seeing an accident seemed unavoidable, turned their cars to the wire fence, coming in contact as they did so, and breaking three fence posts off and landing across the wire. Mrs. Sandy received slight injuries to both limbs, and the whole party were badly shaken up. The Sedan suffered a broken running board and some broken glass, but both cars were able to operate and proceed under their own power after being released from their entanglements.

Broke Through Bridge.

On Friday afternoon last, a truck from Lindsay, containing a load of steam coal, was proceeding to Best's hill, when, on travelling over the old mill bridge in Omemee, the hind wheels broke through, as the vehicle had almost reached the end of the bridge. Fortunately no damage was done to the car. After the coal had been unloaded the truck was extricated and, although somewhat delayer on its trip, the owner, who was aided by many citizens, was soon able to proceed on his journey.

Lack of Interest.

Omemee baseball fans have been rather deprived of the opportunity of attending a ball game on the diamond here owing to the lack of enthusiasm displayed by the home team. However, on Monday evening they gathered up courage and played a friendly game with a team from Millbrook, only to be beaten by the score of 3-2. Mr. Clarence Laidler, of Peterborough referred the game, and on account of short notice there were few fans out.

Long Trail Home.

The California visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graham and their young son Kenneth, have left on the long trail home by motor, a distance of 4,500 miles. When coming east the trip was made in eighteen days, with a one-day stop in Oregon and one day in Detroit. It is of interest to motorists to know that the amount of gasoline used on the trip east was 303 gallons. On the return trip a different route will be taken in the journey through the States, with a one day stop in Detroit and one day in Columbus, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Graham have thoroughly enjoyed their one month visit and have been on the go ever since their arrival here. The journey was made to Omemee without a puncture or car trouble of any kind, the first puncture being about two weeks ago, when returning from Niagara Falls. Many good wishes follow the party on their return trip, and Mr. Graham looks forward to make another trip home in four years.

W. M. S. Met.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Methodist church was held on the church lawn here. The first vice-president, Mrs. J. Bushnell, presided and conducted the devotional exercises. Mrs. (Rev.) E. Rolland was then elected president of the society to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Mrs. Stillman. A request was received from the Sunday school to take charge of the service on Sunday morning, Aug. 12, which was decided on. Many responded to the watch tower, thus making a very interesting item on the programme. A leaflet entitled, "Woman's part in the fight against alcohol," was read by Mrs. Wm. Earle. The roll call was responded to by a verse of Scripture.

After the closing exercises, many a well filled basket was unpacked and a good old-fashioned picnic enjoyed.

Unexpected Progress in Campaign For Coke.

OTTAWA, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press). —Unexpected progress is being made in the campaign for the use of coke as a substitute fuel. This was intimated last night by Charles Camsell, Deputy Minister of Mines, after a meeting of the Dominion Fuel Board. The Board has been endeavouring to prevail upon larger cities, such as Quebec, Montreal, and Toronto, to establish plants for the manufacture of coke from soft coal and for the utilization of the by-products, and reports upon the progress of this work were received at the committee yesterday. The progress indicated by these reports said Mr. Camsell, was greater than had been expected.

ASKS FRIENDLY SYMPATHY

hope in this regard bein ga system of nation-wide irrigation.

Then scientific methods of farming were necessary in India, with western machinery in the factories. In Bombay last year, twenty millions had been lost through a process which involved the selling of the cotton and the buying of it back in manufactured cloth, instead of the mills having their own processes perfected. The opponents of such an introduction of western methods declared that "your system produces goods wholesale, and no happiness. They point to Japan as a horrible example of an Oriental country that has swallowed whole the western industrial system, and is now suffering from national indigestion. Specialization gives no joy in work and no joy in creation. Some say, 'let us not go wild and mad after western luxuries. Let us have our own home industries, with the human love and sympathy bound up in them.'"

The third evil and cause of poverty was the caste system, which the speaker declared was gradually being broken down. A striking example was cited of a case which took place some years ago, when Hindus, who merely accepted light refreshments from a foreign hostess, laying the cup aside without partaking of it, were at once declared outcast and compelled to go through a humiliating ceremony before reinstatement took place.

Change Towards England.

From 1916 to 1920, Indian sentiment towards Great Britain had suffered a change. The Indians loyally supported the Allies in the late war, but they had supposed that the representations made to them at that time that war would be ended with that struggle, were true. They gave blood and money in a conflict which they thought would end wars forever. The Mohammedans, three hundred millions of whom are in India, remained loyal to Great Britain through the war, opposing the wishes of their fellow-religionists, the young Turks, who declared a jehad, or holy war, but they became angry when the English divided the Turkish Empire, and they were raising money for Turkish refugees in India at the same time that money was being raised in other centres for Greek victims of the Greco-Turkish conflict.

The racial problem, the trouble engendered by the arrogant attitude of many British people in India towards the native inhabitants, was a prolific source of trouble also. The English, in many instances, did not hesitate to show their feeling of superiority, with consequences that were far-reaching and lasting.

The idealism of the late war was having its re-action also. The Allies, who were brothers then, "do not seem to be very particular friends now."

For the Indians, the speaker asked a different and less critical attitude from Canadians, detrimental stories of whom had been circulated in India. The speaker pledged himself to tell his people that "the Canadians are O.K." and urged a more kindly and Christian spirit towards the dark-skinned brothers of the Empire.

Mr. Hivale also conducted the children's hour at the Chautauqua tent yesterday afternoon, interesting them with strange tales of Indian life.

Musical Programme.

The Montague Light Opera Singers, a quartette of gay singers, whose bright offerings were received with much appreciation, entertained the afternoon audiences for a short time, and furnished the entire evening's programme, which was heard by a very good-sized audience.

Miss Montague, with a contralto of rich pure tones, Miss Gettas, the possessor of a light, high soprano, used in an attractive manner, Messrs. Decker and Eisenberger, baritone and tenor respectively, were the members of the quartette of charming singers. A quartette from "Maytime"; a lovely contralto and tenor duet arrangement of Beethoven's "Minuet"; a splendidly-sung baritone number, "Down From Somerset," with its catchy soldier soliloquy encore, "Left," composed the afternoon programme, which concluded with the "churning scene," in costume, from "Robin Hood."

In the evening, a grand concert, featuring "Gretchen of Holland," a musical production with special hangings, was given. This is a brief bit of Dutch romance, with Gretchen, a contralto whose dark locks were transformed into long golden braids, as the central figure. The baritone, as the old Burgomaster, in clumpy wooden shoes and red and green Holland suit, pursues the lovely heroine, who sings as she winds the flax at a real spinning wheel. The soprano is Heinie, the young brother who yearns for a piece of good wedding cake, and the tenor enacts the part of Deidrich, the absentee sweetheart, who returns in the guise of a travelling organ-grinder. In his Italian make-up, with his organ and his "monk," this singer achieved a real triumph with a characteristic Italian song, coming back again and again after renewed applause. The other singers had bright and catchy solos, including a pretty "Angelus" song by Gretchen, and a rollicking ballad by the ancient Burgomaster.

The prelude to the musical comedy production was a short concert. The quartette sang the Melba waltz by Arditi, and an old English roundelay; there was a trio, in costume, from "The Pirates of Penzance," well done and much enjoyed, and solo numbers which included a tenor offering, "The Songs My Mother Used to Sing," a couple of Japanese novelty songs in costume, a lullaby and "The Cruel Mother-in-Law," by Miss Montague; a soprano solo, "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," daintily sung by Miss Gettas and several readings, dainty and charming, by Miss Montague.

To-night, the last performance of the Chautauqua for this year, will feature an entertainment recital, by Everett Kemp, and a concert by the Capps' Male Quartette.

PETERBORO POLICE ON A FALSE ALARM

Chased After the Occupants of a Maroon Colored Car From Toronto

TORONTO, August 8. Canadian Press. — A well known city hall employee, who lives in North Toronto, knows just how it feels to be surrounded by detectives and viewed by them as one of a gang of bank robbers.

He recently went up to Bobcaygeon for a holiday and when there a few days accepted an invitation to take a trip to Peterboro in company with five other holidayers, at that point.

They had a big maroon colored car and when about half way to Peterboro suffered their second blow out and it was decided that three of the party would stay with the car while the other two got a lift from a passing motorist, and took the two tires into Peterboro.

The crippled car was standing just off the roadway with two of the occupants sitting by the roadside, and the Toronto man was lying across the back seat asleep.

Motorists were passing every few minutes and some of them spotted the suspicious looking auto, which was duly reported to the Peterboro police, and presently the "gang" were surrounded and asked to give an acount of themselves. They were finally able to prove an alibi, and the man hunt was called off, but not before several more scouting parties had arrived.

PRICE OF WHEAT.

WASHINGTON, August 8 (By Canadian Press).—Wheat at the elevators in Kansas is bringing from 70 to 75 cents a bushel and in Oklahoma even less, according to the distance from market. By marketing wheat through hogs the farmers have an opportunity of realizing in the neighborhood of $1 a bushel. That this is feasible and practical there is no doubt.

The Kansas State College of Agriculture has been making experiments and has just begun advising farmers along this line. The swine specialist of this state college, C. G. Elling, says that at present prices wheat will produce pork $3.26 a hundred pounds cheaper than corn.

FOUR-WHEEL BRAKE NOT A NECESSITY.

The Two-Brake System Needs to Be Improved Upon.

Although four-wheel brakes are gaining in favor among the automobile manufacturers, it is a question whether they are really necessary or really worth while.

This doubt as to the practicability of four-wheel brakes is expressed by several automotive engineers who have been among those studying their use. Yet, it is believed generally that four-wheel brakes will come into wider use, even on middle-priced cars.

That this belief is well founded is proved by Buick's adoption of such system.

But that doesn't mean that the four-wheel brake system is fully improved and ready for general adoption. There is much to be done toward making it practicable for use on the medium-priced car. The cost must come down, and yet all four brakes react as evenly and perfectly as those now being installed on the Duesenbergs and other high-priced motor cars.

* * *

Until this is brought about, engineers say more attention should be paid toward perfection of the two-wheel brakes now in use. They need further improvement, the opinion is, and the transmission brakes need development.

The reason why four-wheel brakes impress motorists, engineers say, is chiefly because the two-wheel brakes they have been using have not given real satisfactory service. The two-wheel system could just as well be made to perform better; and, in fact, well enough for present automotive needs. If this could be accomplished, therefore, there would be no need of adding two more brakes to the car.

* * *

Inefficiency of the two-brake system, however, has caused quite a stir among the safety exponents and legislators of the country. Several states have been compelled to pass laws calling for regular brake inspection. In smaller localities, also, police authorities see that the brakes on automobiles work properly.

Brakes are considered now the most important part of the automobile, due to the potential danger lying behind their faultiness. For this reason, the National Safety Council is pressing a nation-wide campaign to educate the driver into having his brakes inspected regularly and seeing that they work properly before he goes out on any trip.

This organization has been sending out circulars giving instructions on the proper care of brakes, their manipulation, adjustment and maintenance. Suggestions on the right way to stop the automobile in all conditions of traffic are sent out, so that street safety may be increased.

An automobile owner who looks after his brakes at regular intervals, who tests them weekly and sees that they are immediately adjusted, if they show the least tendency toward slipping, needs no more than two-wheel brakes to stop his car effectively, under any conditions.

TAX GAMBLERS' BOAT.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 8.—(Associated Press)— bill designed to discourage Buenos Aireans from crossing the River Plate to gamble in Uruguay has been passed by the Argentine Chamber of Deputies. It imposes a tax of 10,000 pesos a voyage on any passenger steamer from an Argentine port which calls at any port situated within 80 kilometers of Buenos Aires, where roulette or other gaming establishments are maintained.

The measure directly affects a river steamer which nightly carries several hundred gamblers to the Uuruguayan port of Colonia, returning in the morning. Suicides of Argentines who lost fortunes on Colonia's roulette wheeels where cited when the bill was proposed. Gambling resorts are prohibited in the Argentine capital, but are legal in Uruguay.

Yellow is enjoying the greatest popularity of its career this season. It is used for complete costumes and wraps, and in combination with black, white and brown.

HOPES IN VATICAN FOR PEACE IN RUHR

Constant Efforts in Progress for Settlement of Problem Created by France.

LONDON, August 8.—(Canadian Press).— Constant efforts towards settlement of the Rhur situation are in progress at the Vatican according to the Daily Telegraph. Charles Jonnart, French Ambassador to the Holy See, says the newspapers informant, has had another long and important audience with the Pope while former Chancellor Wirth of Germany who is staying in Rome, and the German Minister at the Vatican Herr Bergen have been in constant communication with Cardinal Gasparr, the Papal Secretary of State.

Powerful political forces in Germany are looking to the Vatican to bring about the weakening of the French fold on the Rhine, says the writer, while the Reichstag is determined to leave no stone unturned to discover some channel through which Paris may be approached with out absolute loss of dignity. The hopes placed in the Vatican by Germany are considerable and with good grounds, the article continues.

POVERTY ENDS ROYAL ROMANCE OF MANY YEARS

LONDON, Aug. 8.—(Associated Press)—The post-war poverty of many once powerful nobles has brought before the public the sad ending of a royal love affair.

The story is the romance of Princess Louise of Belgium, daughter of Leopold II, who married Prince Philip of Coburg, and about thirty years ago left her husband and her two children to elope with Captain Geza von Mattasich, a Hungarian nobleman.

The princess was divorced by her husband, and Captain Von Mattasich lost his commission in the Austro-Hungarian army. Following the war money became scarce, and the lovers were compelled to move from their palatial residence in Vienna to a small village.

The princess disputed the will of her father, who left everything to his morganatic wife, the Baroness Vaughn, but she lost the suit. Then she appealed to her sister, the Princess Stephanie Lonyay, former Crown Princess of Austria.

Princess Stephanie offered to allow Louise, who is now 64 years old, to spend the rest of her life at the beautiful castle of Orosziar, in Hungary, on condition that she leave von Mattasich. The offer was accepted, and friends now have found another home for the penniless captain.

DROP OF FRANC DUE POLITICAL OFFENSIVE

PARIS, August 8. — Canadian Press. — The continued drop of the franc in London and New York, is attributed in French banking circles to the "political offensive" in London.

France does now now need either dollars or pounds sterling as tourists are bringing in quite enough to cover trade balances, it was said at the Bank of France to-day. There is no big treasury operations or banking move in progress that would influence exchange, and it is pointed out that the statement of the Bank of France shows the situation to be quite as favorable as it was a month ago.

OLD CURSON HOMESTEAD PORT HOPE, DESTROYED

PORT HOPE, Ont. Aug. 8.—The large 10-roomed house, a barn, driving shed and hen house, the property of Blake Symons, situated north of Port Hope Cemetery, was completely gutted by fire which commenced in the kitchen. Willing workers saved the contents, with the exception of the kitchen furniture. Part of the orchard adjoining was also badly burned. The loss is estimated at $5,000. The house is one of the old landmarks of that section, being the Curson homestead.

The Lech-Eakins Nuptials

A wonderfully pretty and unusual wedding took place at Stoney Lake yesterday, when Marjorie, younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Eakins, of Toronto, became the bride of Keith Gustave Lech, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Lech, of Peterboro. The ceremony, which was performed at three o'clock by Archdeacon Beamish, of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, took place at "Devon," Mount Julian, the summer home of the bride at Stoney Lake, where a beautiful setting for the ceremony was made by the well-kept grounds and the lovely bungalow, surrounded by rippling blue water.

An altar was erected in the living-room, which was lavishly decorated with cut flowers. The bride entered on the arm of her eldest brother, Mr. H. O. Eakins, of Toronto, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Mr. C. H. Ackerman, of Peterboro. During the signing of the register, "O Promise Me" was sung very sweetly by Mrs. Vincent A. Scott, of Toronto. Mrs. Scott, who was well-known at Stoney Lake before her marriage, was formerly Miss Elsie Dixon Craig. Her dress was of white embroidered canton crepe. On the re-entry of the bridal couple, after the signing of the register, Mr. Ackerman played Lohengrin's March.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white brocaded satin, with quaint high-waisted effect. Her dress was trimmed with rose point lace, and her veil, caught with orange blossoms, was of the same material. She wore a rope of pearls and carried a huge shower bouquet of ophelia roses, lily of the valley and sweet peas.

The bridesmaid, Miss Frances Butchart, of Owen Sound, wore violet georgette, with touches of silver, a silver wreath and bouquet of sunset roses. Mr. Cyril K. Lech, of Peterboro, acted as best man.

After the ceremony, the wedding party led the way to the beautiful sunken garden, where a reception was held to the immediate relatives and friends, numbering about a hundred and fifty guests. The bride's sister, Mrs. G. E. Oxley, of Toronto, who acted as hostess for the occasion, assisted in receiving, with Mrs. K. G. Lech, of Peterboro. Mrs. Oxley wore white brocaded crepe de chine, with diamond ornaments. Mrs. Lech was in amethyst brocaded satin, with large black hat, ermine scarf and corsage bouquet of mauve sweet peas.

After the reception, a wedding breakfast was served in al fresco fashion, the lovely surroundings forming a perfect frame for the wedding party, the table centred with the wedding cake, and adorned with pink roses and silver candlesticks.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Archdeacon Beamish and responded to by the bridegroom, who also proposed the toast to the attendants, replied to by Mr. Cyril Lech. The toast to the host and hostess, proposed by the bridegroom, was acknowledged by Mr. Oxley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lech left later in a shower of rose leaves. Through the kindness of Mr. J. R. Dodworth, of Pittsburgh, the first part of the trip, to some unknown point at Stoney Lake, was made in his fast motor boat, the "Elizabeth Second." The honeymoon will be spent at Montreal, Quebec and the Saguenay River. Mr. and Mrs. Lech will reside in Peterboro.

The bride travelled in a costume of "Who's Who" sand-colored crepe, with shoes and stockings to match, and hat of sand suede, trimmed with brown.

Among the wedding guests were: From Toronto: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eakins, Mr. and Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. A. S. Butchart, Mrs. J. S. Knapman, Mrs. A. A. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hall, Mrs. Reg. S. # MANY WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

Through the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Two Interesting Cases

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the common ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Mrs. Edwards Avoids Operation

Wilson, N. C.—"For about a year I was not able to do anything, not even my housework, because of the pains in my sides and the bearing-down pains. I could only lie around the house. The doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, but I tried different medicines which did no good, until my sister insisted on my trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She said there was nothing like it. I know that she was right, for I began to improve with the first bottle and it has done me more good than anything else. I am able now to do anything on the farm or in my home and I recommend it to my friends."—LILLIE EDWARDS, R.F.D. 3, Box 44, Wilson, N. C.

Another Operation Avoided

Akron, Ohio.—"I can never praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for what it has done for me. I had such pains and weakness that the doctor told me nothing but an operation would help me. But my mother had taken the Vegetable Compound and she told me what it had done for her, and so I took it and I am glad to tell every one that it made me a strong woman, and I have had two children since then."—Mrs. R. G. WESTOVER, 325 Grant Street, Akron, Ohio.

INVITE SIR ADAM BECK TO VISIT CAMPBELLFORD RE ELECTRIC RAILWAY

Council Impressed by Power Possibilities of District, and View With Favor Radial Railway Project Connecting Havelock and Campbellford With Lake Shore Routes.

THE DISCUSSION

CAMPBELLFORD, ug. 8.— Sir Adam Beck, chairman, Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.L.A. of North Hastings, J. F. B. Belford, M.L.A. for East Northumberland, and Major Johnston, M.L.A. East Peterborough, will be invited to visit this town as the guests of the municipality to look over the power possibilities of the district and to consider the question of the construction of an electric railway connecting Havelock and Campbellford with the railways along the lake short.

A resolution, fathered by Councillor Allan, and seconded by Reeve Anderson, authorizing Town Clerk McGregor to issue such an invitation, was submitted to the town council, in regular session last night, and unaimously adopted. The members present were Reeve Anderson, who presided in the absence of Mayor Meyers, Councillors Cole, Dorie, Allan, Carter, Burke and Meiklejohn.

In presenting his resolution, Councillor Allan said that Campbellford was fortunate in the fact that a member of the Hydro Commission was the representative of a neighboring constituency, North Hastings, and that the matters referred to had already been taken up with him. Another question to be taken up with the town's distinguished guests when they come to Campbellford and are shown over the district, is that of having the head offices of the Commission removed here from Belleville. All municipalities interested in the construction of a radial line are to be asked to co-operate in the matter of securing it and the local Khamber of Commerce will also be requested to work for the same end.

Reeve Anderson said that a fact no one could dispute is that Campbellford is situated in the heart of an electric power centre admittedly second to only one in the Dominion. The scenery along the route of the proposed radial from Havelock to Brighton would be unsurpassed. Such a road would be comparatively short and it could be constructed for less per mile than the amount expended on a provincial highway. It should, for the sake of the scenery, follow the bank of the river as far as possible. Summer resorts, he was convinced, would spring up all along the line. If the matter is taken up now the chances are that the district will eventually get the radial as now proposed.

Councillor Burke thought that the Hydro offices should be located in Campbellford instead of in Belleville, that city being outside the district and too far away from the centre of operations.

That Spur Line.

Clerk McGregor read a reply to the letter which he had sent to the General Superintenednt of the National Railway System of Montreal, asking that the Campbellford spur line be put in operation again. The clerk's communication was referred to the road's commissioner of industries, W. P. Fitzsimons, who stated in his reply that the siding as a whole was not in a safe condition for the operation over it of the company's heavy locomotives. To put it in repair would cost approximately $3,000. The yearly maintenance would be about $600 a year, to which must be added the expense of keeping the track free from ice and snow during the winter months. Besides, the cost of repair and maintenance there would be the wages of the crew and the upkeep of the locomotive required to give special service ove rthe line.

Why Track is Still There.

The letter goes on to say that where a spur line fails to pay, as was the case in Campbellford for several years, the custom is to remove the track. This course was not taken here as the railway officials were hopeful that a new industry would locate in Campbellford near the spur and that the siding would assist the town in attracting such a concern. It was accordingly decided to allow the track to remain for a period of five years provided the town would bear the cost of any repairs and the maintenance in case the siding was put in operation again.

Town Solicitor Humphries, who had the matter in hand for the municipality, made a tentative counter-proposition as follows: That as the railway earnings would be increased on the new industry traffic the cost of maintenance be reduced, and that the town be relieved of this expense altogether when the railway derived from the siding gross receipts of $20,000 a year.

Commissioner Fitzsimons says he is ready to recommend that this offer be accepted by the company provided the town is prepared to put the track in fit condition for operation, and to keep it free from ice and snow.

Matter Laid Over.

On motion of Councillors Burke and Cole it was decided to postpone the consideration of this communication until a special meeting which Town Solicitor Humphries will be asked to attend, is called.

Tax Receipts for 1922.

Tax Colector Cummings presented his report of the tax receipts for 1922. The total amount on the roll was $57,035.73. Of this the sum of $55,651.25 has been turned over to Treasurer Wood. The arrears amount to $388.45, and the abatements to $158.90.

Protection at Centre Street.

On motion of Councillors Cole and Allan Clerk McGregor was instructed to write the authorities of the National Railways asking that some safety device be put up at the Centre street crossing, the scene of the auto accident last week.

Re-flooring the Bridge.

Reeve Anderson reported the result of the conference which he and other members of the County Council recently had with the Deputy Minister of Highways, on the question of a provincial grant for the repairing of the Campbellford bridge, the request for Government aid being based on the fact that the bridge is an important connecting link in the system of improved highways.

The Deputy Minister informed the delegates that there was no provision in the Statutes to meet such cases. It is only bridges on Provincial Highways that receive government aid, and the one at Campbellford is part of the County Provincial Roads. The statute, however, may be amended to meet such cases, and Reeve Anderson is hopeful that this will be done. In the meantime he is in favor of re-flooring the bridge with plank, the cost of which he has ascertained will be about $2000.

Work on County Roads.

Reeve Anderson also reported that Highway Superintendent Greer had informed him that unless work on the county roads within the town limits is started in a short time the grant will be cancelled as the reports of all outlays on highways must be in the hands of the Department in a few weeks.

The Reeve called the attention of the Council's Committee on Roads and Bridges to this matter.

Councillor Cole, chairman of that committee, stated that they were waiting for the county engineer to come here and instruct them as to how this work is to be done, as it must be up to a certain standard.

Opening New Street.

The Council will meet at 9 o'clock Friday morning to consider the question of extending a new street from the intersection of Front and Second, to the railway. There are a number of new houses going up in that vicinity, and the owner of these are anxious to have a roadway by which they can get in and out.

Riding on Fire Truck.

Complaints have been received that boys ride to fires on the new motor truck, and attention was called to the fact that if any of these boys are injured that the town will be liable for damages. This matter was referred to the Police Commission.

Report on Hydrants.

A resolution was adopted calling upon the Water and Light Commission to furnish the Council with a report of the condition of the 52 hydrants in town. At a recent fire it was found that one of these was not in good working order, having probably been injured by frost last winter.

It was recommended that citizens be asked to refrain from using their lawn hose during the progress of a fire as when several hundred of these are in operation it affects the water pressure.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Local Oddfellows Held Second Annual Picnic at Percy Boom.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 8. — The members of the local Oddfellows Lodge, No. 248, with their wives and families held their second annual picnic to Percy Boom on Monday (Civic Holiday). — The members of Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge, No. 248, were guests and the whole party, numbering in all about one hundred, conceded this event to have been one of the pleasantest and jolliest of the season. Once upon the grounds, Mr. John Boyce, owner of the spacious grounds, did his utmost to cater to the comforts and convenience of his guests. Boats were placed at the disposal of the visitors, most of whom took advantage of a delightful sail on the river.

Mr. James Massie was also present with his fine motor boat Kumon, and he added much to the day's enjoyment by taking the picnickers for a joy ride in this charming little launch.

Perhaps one of the day's events most looked forward to was the announcement of dinner, which was provided on long tables that fairly groaned beneath the load of good things generously provided by the ladies, and the supper tables in the shady grove looked equally inviting.

Wesley Elliott, who preached for the first time since becoming pastor of the Methodist Church here. Rev. Mr. Elliott is a clear, forceful speaker, who impresses his hearers with his own earnestness. Rev. Mr. Elliott's morning address was based on Isaiah, chap 40, verse 31: "But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up on wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint," and in the evening the address was based on "Whom say ye that I am." The Methodist Church is to be congratulated upon securing as its pastor Rev. Mr. Elliott, who is one of the leaders in the Bay of Quinte Conference.

FUR ROBBERS MADE A SPEEDY RETREAT

Proprietor of Store Pulled a Gun But Missed as Usual.

TORONTO, Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press). — Another sensational attempt at robbery of a fur store was thwarted at 2 o'clock this morning, when two thieves were caught red handed by the proprietor, made a double quick get away with revolver bullets whistling about their ears

A Bonter was working in the rear of his shop at 4859 Bloor Street, east when without warning he was startled by a crash which came from the direction of the street. Rushing into front room, he discovered two shadowy figures snatching at furs which were hung on racks. Taken aback at the sudden appearance of an unexpected intruder the robbers hesitated a moment and then made wild dash for the door, leaving their spoils behind.

But before they could clear the building Bonter had grabbed an automatic which was lying on a table. He shot on the run, just as the thieves gained the sidewalk. The bullet went wide but the robbers had had enough. They jumped into waiting automobile and drove east on Bloor speeded on their way by five more shots from Bonter weapon.

HAMILTON CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

Sad Fatality When Little Girl Played With Matches in Bedroom.

HAMILTON, August 8. — (Canadian Press). — Fatally burned at her home yesterday afternoon when she ignited her clothing while playing with matches, Irene Gibson, aged two and half years, died at General Hospital.

The little girl was upstairs in her father's room at the time and took some matches from a dresser, while her father was asleep on the bed. She struck them on the window sill and ignited the curtains. The leaping flames caught on her clothes and her cries immediately aroused her father, who had the presence of mind to wrap heavy bed clothing around her. The burning clothing was soon extinguished and Mr. Gidson succeeded in preventing the spread of the blaze from the curtains.

Dr. Leach was called and the unfortunate child taken to the general hospital.

LINDSAY MILL WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Parkin's Planing Mill Gutted and Other Buildings Threatened.

LINDSAY, August 8.—(Special to the Examiner).—Fire which started at eight o'clock this morning completely gutted the Parkin's Planing Mill and threatened Horn Bros. Woollen Mill and eighteen boat houses. The damage to the planing mill is estimated at $25,000, building and content, being partly covered by insurance.

The fire was caused by a spark from a fire hole, where glue was melted, which ignited dry shavings. The mill, which was a frame structure, was in a few minutes a mass of flames. This building is situated on the east side of the river near Wellington Street Bridge and a northerly wind carried the sparks across the river to the plant of Horn Bros. Woollen Mill and also threatened 18 boat-houses in one structure known as Carew's boat house. Water was kept pouring on these buildings and the sparks smothered as they landed. Only hard work of this kind saved the building across the river.

The planing mill was equipped with modern machinery, and although partly covered by insurance, the loss to Mr. Parkin will be extensive.

CHICAGO LIBRARY HAS 3,500 BOOKS FOR BLIND

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—(Associated Press)—In an effort to reach every sightless person in this part of the country, the collection of books for the blind in the public library here has become one of the largest in the United States, according to Nathan R. Levin, assistant librarian of the Chicago Public Library.

The blind from nearly every state in the Mississippi valley patronize this collection, because of its ready accessibility, declares Edward Peterson, in charge of the work. Anybody can apply for a loan, and the government permits the books to be sent out in franked envelopes.

The number of available volumes in raised printing is comparatively small, it is said, but the Chicago library, with 3,500 books, claims to have virtually everything ever published for the benefit of sightless people.

It costs about $50,000 annually to feed the creatures in the London Zoo.

17-YEAR GIRL MURDERED AT DOOR OF HOME

Erie Johnston Victim of Cold Blooded and Deliberately Planned Shooting Last Night.

HAMILTON TRAGEDY

TORONTO, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—With a revolver pressing into his right side for two hours, during which he covered the distance of more than forty miles between Hamilton and Toronto in a wild night automobile ride and listened to a story of love, jealousy and murder, Archibald E. Kells, of Hamilton, was forced to aid George King, 25 years of age, in his escape to this city after he had shot and killed Eric Johnson, his 17-year-old sweetheart on the verandah of her home in full view of her horror-stricken parents, brothers and sisters. King ended his wild ride at a Queen Street West restaurant, where he ordered some food, and then telephoned the police at Cowan Avenue Station that he was going to commit suicide, and that his body would be found in the lavatory of the cafe.

Four hours after he had slain his sweetheart King was placed under arrest by Constables Tomlinson and Craig, who hurried to the restaurant in response to his message. They found King apparently demented but unharmed, and after taking his deposition in connection with the slaying of the girl, preferred a charge of murder against him. He will be taken back to Hamilton to-day.

Kells was on his way home about midnight last night when King jumped on the running board of his motor car and demanded that he be driven to Toronto. Kells at first refused, but when King whipped out a revolver and pressed it into his side with the remark, "You had better take me to Toronto," he reluctantly consented and started out for this city. King never once withdrew the revolver from Kells' right side. He told the story of the shooting, of the jealousy that led up to it, of the love he had borne the girl, and of his sorrow at his rash act. When he reached Toronto he then expressed his intention of ending his life in expiation of his crime.

Premeditated Crime.

HAMILTON, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Erie Johnson, aged 17 years, Kinrade Avenue, was shot last night at her home and died in the General Hospital soon afterwards. The police are looking for George King, who boarded at a house on Barton Street, and is alleged to have shot the girl at about 11.15 last night when she refused to marry him. He then ran out of the house and disappeared.

The bullet from a 38 calibre revolver penetrated her heart, but she did not succumb until after her removal to hospital.

King, who came to Hamilton from Collingwood, Ont., not long ago, has been employed by the Also Pure Ice Co. as a driver. He had known Miss Johnson, who was a stenographer for an Oakville Company about four weeks. He is stated to have asked her several times to marry him, and on one occasion spoke to Mrs. William Johnson, the girl's mother, who told him that her daughter was too young to be married, but that she had no objection to his coming to the house. King came to the Johnson home late in the evening. After talking some time with members of the family, he asked Miss Johnson to accompany him to the door, as he wished to give her a note. He gave her the missive and then shot her. The note was addressed to his mother, Mrs. H. King, 318 King Street West, Hamilton, and read as follows:

"Dear Mother,—Good-bye. I am going away for ever."

As the shot rang out and the girl fell mortally wounded, a boy, Charlie Thompson, of 230 Victoria Avenue, who was a visitor in the Johnson home, started after King, who ran down Kinrade Avenue to Barton Street, where stood a motor car with a man waiting in it. King leaped aboard and the car speeded up Barton Street and vanished.

The police believe the motor car is bound for the border, and instructions were hastily wired to border points to be on the watch.

FINED FOR CUTTING MANES FROM HORSES

Anecdotes of Harding

"Warren was our first baby," said his father, detailing his love story. "He was mighty welcome, a fine sturdy little fellow with a strong voice and a stronger appetite and the disposition of a baby angel."

"Was he handsome?" asked the interviewer.

Dr. Harding laced his fingers together and stared into the gas blaze for nearly a minute. Then he replied:

"There wasn't any unanimous opinion about that; some said 'yes' and some said 'no,' but his mother and I both thought he was real pretty."

* * *

Once a man on his Marion Star got drunk in the composing room and pied a whole case of type. "You get right out of here and stay out," ordered the editor-owner, mad as a hornet for a minute, and then, a second thought striking him, he added: "But come around Saturday night if you haven't got a new job by that time!"

* * *

Mrs. Harding, it is said, makes the best waffles ever tasted on a front porch in Ohio. Her husband had reduced waffle-eating to a precise formula. This is the way he states it:

"You eat the first fourteen waffles without syrup, but with lots of butter. Then you put syrup on the next nine, and the last half-dozen you eat just simply swimming in syrup. Eaten that way, waffles never hurt anybody."

* * *

A school chum of Harding's, now a leading lawyer in Marion, tells the following tobacco anecdote:

"Recall it as if it were yesterday," he said drolly. "Used to sit next to Doc in the Caledonia common school and later in the high school. What a boy he was—most awkward, ungainly chap—big, overgrown boy. He had learned to smoke and chew. Used to sit in school, head hidden behind a book and chew tobacco. If he'd been caught—why, in those days he'd have been fired out of school. He was cute. Hid behind his book."

* * *

In the composing room some of the most human stories of Harding's early and recent experiences are obtainable. William F. Bull, foreman, is full of reminiscences. One of his favorites tells how Harding kept his force in good spirits by supplying chewing tobacco.

One day Harding walked into the composing room and inquired:

"Any of you fellows got a chew?"

"Here you are," answered one of the printers, as he pulled out a small remnant of a plug.

"That all you got? That's not enough," remarked Harding. "Guess I'll have to go out and get some."

He returned a few minutes later with a strip of plug tobacco a foot long. With a hammer and a nail he soon adorned the wall with the long plug; then cut off a slice.

"Guess that'll hold you for a few days," he remarked.

A week or so later he again visited the composing room. His workmen had shown no reticence in making inroads upon the plug, and it was nearly all gone. Harding cut off a slice, which, it may be remarked, was only a rare thing for him to do. He never was a habitual chewer of tobacco.

"Guess I'll have to replenish that stock," he remarked after cutting off the chew. He returned a short time later and nailed up another long plug.

* * *

In 1914, shortly after his election to the United States Senate, he found himself in a railroad crossing countyseat town in Indiana and being delayed there for several hours, he dropped into the office of a daily newspaper. The editor was out of town for the day, a young woman in the editorial room said.

"Well," said Harding, "I'll go out into the composing room and talk to the foreman," and he did.

"Want to hire a man?" he asked the foreman.

"We can use another linotype operator," the foreman answered. "Can you run the machine?"

"Try me," replied Harding.

He seated himself at a linotype machine and ran off a galley of type in a short time. The foreman looked over the proof and said: "All right. When do you want to go to work? I'll talk to the proprietor about it."

"You write me. I'll be at home next Monday." And he handed his card: "Warren G. Harding, Marion, Ohio."

Next day the foreman handed the card to his proprietor, saying: "Get him; he's a mighty good man."

"Yes," was the reply. "He's a mighty good man, but I don't believe we can get him. He's got a better job. He's the United States Senator from Ohio."

A GOOD WINTER WHEAT

Farmers May Try Free a Well Tested Variety

The O. A. C. No. 104 is a Proven Success—Other Experimental Tests Suggested—All Material is Supplied Free of Charge—A Chance for Enterprising Farmers.

The market value of the winter wheat of Ontario amounts to over fifteen million dollars annually. It is, therefore, one of the most important of the money crops of the Province. The acreage of winter wheat during the past year has been about the same as the average annual acreage for the past forty years. There is not a county or district in Ontario in which winter wheat is not grown, although in New Ontario the average annual amount is not more than about 20,000 bushels. Owing to the comparative low price of winter wheat at present, strict attention should be given to economic methods and to large yields.

O. A. C. No. 104 a Carefully Chosen Cross

The Dawson's Golden Chaff is still the variety most largely grown according to the December Bulletin of the Ontario Department of Agriculture for 1922. With the object of securing even a better variety, crosses have been made at the Ontario Agricultural College between the Dawson's Golden chaff and some other varieties, such as, Tasmania Red, Crimson Red, Turkey Red, Buda Pesth, Imperial Amber, and Bulgarian. A new variety has been originated at the College by crossing the Dawson's Golden Chaff and the Bulgarian, and this is now known as the O. A. C. No. 104. In both the College and the co-operative tests this new variety has made an excellent record, surpassing the Dawson's Golden Chaff in both yield and quality of grain. It is a white wheat, and resembles the Bulgarian in possessing a white chaff and the Dawson's Golden Chaff in a beardless head. It is a vigorous grower, and has been less subject to winter-killing than the Dawson's Golden Chaff.

The Value of Using Good Seed

It is also important to use seed of high quality. The results of six years' experiments at the College, show an average increase in yield of grain per acre of 6.8 bushels from large as compared with small seed, of 7.8 bushels from plump as compared with shrunken seed, and of 35.6 bushels from sound as compared with broken seed. Seed which was allowed to become thoroughly ripened before it was cut produced a greater yield of both grain and straw, and a heavier weight of grain per measured bushel than that produced from wheat which was cut at any one of four earlier stages of maturity. In each of two years when winter wheat was sprouted in the fields, germination tests of the grain were made. The following results show the average percentage of germination from each selection: Skin over germ, unbroken, 94; skin over germ, broken, 76; sprouts one-quarter inch long, 30; and sprouts one inch long, 18. Not only was the sprouted wheat low in germination but the plants produced were very uneven in size.

White Wheats vs. the Red Varieties

White wheats are compared with red wheats yield more grain per acre, possess stronger straw, weigh a little less per measured bushel; are slightly softer in the grain, are more useful in the manufacture of shredded wheat and of pastry, and furnish a somewhat weaker flour for bread production.

Winter wheat which was grown on clover sod yielded much better than that which was grown on timothy sod, and that which was grown on land on which field peas were used as a green manure yielded 6.5 bushels of wheat per acre more than that grown on land on which buckwheat was used as a green manure.

Several Experimental Union Tests to Choose From

In time for seeding this autumn, valuable material will be sent out from the College to those farmers residing in Ontario who wish to conduct experiments upon their own farms through the medium of the Experimental Union. The Material will be supplied, free of charge, to those who wish to conduct the experiments and report the results in the early autumn of 1924. Any Ontario farmer may apply for the material for any one of the following seven experiments: (1) Three choice varieties of Winter Wheat (including O. A. C. No. 104); (2) One variety of Winter Rye and one of Winter Wheat; (3) Spring applications of five Fertilizers with Winter Wheat; (4) Autumn and Spring applications of Nitrate of Soda and Common Salt with Winter Wheat; (5) Winter Emmer and Winter Wheat; (6) Hairy Vetches and Winter Rye as fodder crops; (7) Mixtures of Winter Rye and Hairy Vetches for seed production.

The size of each plot is to be one rod wide by two rods long. Fertilizers will be sent by express for Experiment No. 4 this Autumn, and for Experiment No. 3 next Spring. All seed will be sent by mail except that for No. 4, which will accompany the fertilizers. All material will be sent out in the order in which the applications are received, and as long as the supplies last.—C. A. Zavitz, O. A. C., Guelph.

WANT TO GO HOME

BUENOS AIRES (By mail to United Press).—Ten thousand deserters from the Argentine army and navy are in Montevideo and want to come home, according to their "Amnesty Committee," which has petitioned President Alvear to permit them to return and resume their duties as Argentine citizens. In replying to the petition the president made it clear that he thought the first duty of the evaders was to return and take their punishment. Only then, he said, would any pardons be considered.

If you are going to do anything permanent for the average man, you must begin before he is a man. The chance of success lies in working with the boy, and not with the man."—Theo. Roosevelt.

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast.

Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to its cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all hurts. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. Get it in the house today. $1.25 at your druggist's.

Door Locked?

Did you ever lock the house door climb into your auto for a motor trip then get out and go back to make sure the door was locked? Did you have to try the knob not once but several times before convinced that the door wouldn't swing open at the first touch of a thief who might happen along?

Did you ever get out of bed and "make sure" the lights were turned off in a certain room or in the cellar even though you recalled very distinctly having turned them out?

Did you ever go over the house carefully before retiring or leaving the premises to make sure that nothing had been forgotten in the way of smouldering cigarets that might start a fire? Did you make the rounds of the house several times repeatedly scrutinizing the same places and even then not be confident that there was no fire hazard

Did you ever.....O what's the use? All of us are subject to these occasional losses of confidence in our own memory and judgment.

Cases such as these are apt to make us wonder occasionally if we are "all there" mentally. An insanity specialist, interrogated, might not be very comforting in his answers.

Old Dr. Johnson, out for a stroll and passing a picket fence, always had to hit every picket with his cane as he passed. Sometimes he believed that he had missed a certain picket, then he'd walk back a block or two and hit the offending piece of lumber an especially hard and comforting rap.

Think of Dr. Johnson, next time you have the impulse to step on every crack of a sidewalk—or avoid stepping on them.

These queer brain short-circuits or throw-backs are not so much matters of sanity as of nerves. They belong in the same class as nervous drumming with fingertips, tapping of shoes to keep time to music, counting stairs as we climb, making freakish moron pencil designs in absent-minded moments while talking over the phone or waiting for a number.

Such brain lapses, unless curbed, can become annoying habits. Fundamentally they are nervous disturbances.

And they demonstrate that good memory, confidence in one's judgment and acts, and the alertness that is the opposite of absent-mindedness—all these are in varying degres a condition of nerves, rather than of education or determination or the hanging of "pep" mottoes over the desk.

Safeguard your nerves, for only when they are functioning harmoniously does your brain do its work best. You've observed how difficult it is to concentrate and reason when nervously restless.

AMERICA'S OVERSEAS WRITERS

Frederic William Wile, chairman of the new organization of Washington correspondents, tells in the August "Our World" of the activities and members of the association. Among the men he takes up, giving interesting details of their background and experience, are Herbert Adams Gibbons, Mark Sullivan, Frank H. Simonds, Edward B. Clark, William Hard, David Lawrence, William Philip Simms, Arthur Bullard, Maynard O. Williams, Edward G. Lowry, Stephan Bonsal, Charles G. Ross and Frank J. Taylor.

"Newspaper correspondents at Washington have borne in upon them hourly the necessity of a better-informed America in respect of foreign affairs. Even the community whence the external policy of the country is directed is, broadly speaking, invincibly ignorant of events beyond the three-mile limit. The Department of State, of course, is filled with men of trained experience abroad. But Congress and the capital at large could hardly survive an Edisonian questionnaire on world conditions.

"In view of that prospect, it is satisfactory to know that the country possesses a corps of correspondents trained to think and write in international terms. The existence of such a journalistic fraternity is destined to be of effective influence upon America's foreign relations. It constitutes the governor on the engine of loose international thinking."

WHAT AMERICA OWES TO THE NEGRO

Negroes assisted in the discovery of America, says James Weldon Johnson in his article on the negro contribution to American civilization in the August "Our World," for the pilot of one of Columbus' ships on the first and third voyages was a negro. It is Mr. Johnson's belief that the negro is the creator of the only things artistic that have yet sprung from American soil and been universally acknowledged as distinctive American products.

There are those, of course, who will deny that American popular music and dances, which were originated by the Negro, are in any sense artistic contributions. This is a question a discussion of which we shall not enter into here. It may be admitted that they are lower forms of art, but they are evidence of a power that will some day be applied to the higher forms, a power to create that which has universal appeal and compels universal response; in a word, that which has the spark of life. The fact is, there is nothing related to art by which America is known and instantly recognized the world over except American popular music.

"The other two artistic contributions must be rated higher. Folk-lore and folk-music have always in every land been the main foundation upon which a distinctive art has been built. The American Negro folk-stories were for generations told by the 'ole folks' to the children, both white and black, of the South. They were finally collected by Joel Chandler Harris under the title of 'Uncle Remus' and have become a permanent part of American literature and given pleasure to the children and adults of the whole country.

"There is even more to be said for the folk-music. In the 'spirituals' or slave songs, the Negro has given America not alone its only body of folk-songs, but a mass of truly noble music. I never hear these songs but that I am struck by the wonder, the miracle of their production. Composed, for the most part, by unknown slaves, they are known of wherever music is loved and have compelled the serious attention of the scholarly musicians in this and other countries. Some of them so weirdly sweet and others so wonderfully strong! I doubt that there is a stronger theme in the musical literature of the world than 'Go Down Moses.' The melodies of 'Steal Away to Jesus,' 'Swing Low, Sweet Chariot,' 'Nobody Knows de Trouble I See,' 'I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray,' 'Deep River,' 'O, Freedom, Over Me,' and of many others, possess a beauty that is poignant."

HANDLING MEXICAN WORKMEN

You can't make a Mexican worry, says Ralph McAllister Ingersoll, in the August "Our World." Mr. Ingersoll was a mining manager in Mexico, and he found that by taking into account the Mexican's temperament and habits, and by treating him "white" he got along with them in good friendship.

"The point is that most Americans who have dealings with their neighbors, the Mexicans, see only these features and forget, with characteristic American intolerance of foreigners, that every race has failings and every race redeeming characteristics. They judge the Mexican as if he were an American and expect a people of different temperament, heredity and environment to think and act as they do.

"I hold no complete brief for the Mexican. I have worked with him enough and been too whole-heartedly angry with him for that. He is inclined to be lazy, without responsibility, thriftless and extremely dirty—though for this I blame no one but his employer. But I do hold that when treated justly he is very tractable; his very lack of worry makes him infinitely easier to handle than his American rival over the line. Like a child, he will repay trust with trust, understanding with understanding, and he is capable of great improvement. When he is eulogized, I usually laugh; but when he is condemned by men whose intentness on the golden standard has blinded them, I get very angry, for I know from experience his many good qualities."

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Old Boys' Reunion Committee Had a Meeting With a Number of Absentees as Usual.

MILLBROOK, August 8. — A meeting of the executive committee in connection with the Old Boys' reunion was held in the council chamber on Saturday evening, the president, A. J Fallis, M.P.P., being in the chair. It had been expected that the chairmen of the various committees would be present and report progress but some disappointment was experienced in this regard

P. Stinson, chairman of the sports committee, reported that a ball game between Bethany and Janetville had been arranged for, and at least two other teams will be present to play on Monday, August 27th; races, basket ball, and possibly a lacrosse game will also add to the program for which this committee is responsible.

The reception and finance committees had met during the week, and could report that they are at work in conection with the details for which they are severally responsible. Members of the reception committee canvassed the village last week in an endeavor to find out how many of the expected guests are provided for in the homes either for lodging or board. Knowing this the committee will have an idea what number will have to be arranged for in some other way for both meals and place to sleep.

Stinson-Clarke: That the chairmen of the various committees with the president, be a committee to arrange for printing the necessary posters, programmes, etc., same to meet not later than Wednesday evening of this week.

A number of bands were considered for the occasion, the program committee finally coming to terms with the Oshawa band, who will be present and furnish music for the entire three days. Messrs. S. Trew and N. Dunford, both Millbrook Old Boys, are members of this band, which comes highly recommended for an occasion of this kind.

Mr. Fallis reported that for convenience of seating and lighting it had been found best to change the decision to use the Mansion grounds and have all the services on Sunday as well as the sports program on Monday, and the mass meeting on Monday evening, at the Agricultural grounds.

Meeting adjourned to meet again next Saturday evening at the same hour and place.

DISEASE CARRIERS

Just how all the terrible ills and diseases that seize upon humans originated and have been carried from one part of the globe to another is difficult to explain. Perhaps some of them escaped from Pandora's box when she curiously lifted the lid. Who knows? It is enough to know that we have them with us. Also that it is our duty to aid the community in which you live and the public health boards in every possible way to stamp out all agencies which carry disease and death.

Flies, mosquitoes, ticks, lice, fleas and bed bugs are known to physicians as disease carriers. Their death toll every year is enormous. Mosquitoes caused the death of nearly five thousand people in the United States in 1921, which was nearly one-half as many as died from typhoid fever.

Dread Death Dealers.

The malaria-bearing mosquito is like a thief in the night. He will enter your house to bite and take your life if he is loaded right. More working days are lost as a result of his bite that from any other cause. Abolish the breeding places of these pests by seeking out wiggle-tails, the second stage in the life of the monquito, where they may be found in shallow water, ditches and swamps. The yellow-fever mosquito will breed in water barrels and in old tin cans and pails that are partly filled with water.

The house fly is accused of being the carrying agent of 30 distinct diseases and parasitic organisms. The chief of these are typhoid diarrhea, enterites and tuberculosis. Swat the fly is all right as far as it goes, but to abolish all breeding places is better. Let us pass sentence of death on the whole fly family.

Rats, and fleas from rats; dogs and cats and fleas from them, are disease carriers. Cancer and heart disese are about the only two leading diseases that do not show a marked decrease during the past few years in the United States. Cancer now leads in the diseases which are most fatal to human beings. A recent news item credits Dr. Bazvim, a prominent French scientist, with the statement that fleas from dogs and cats carry cancer germs to those with whom they come in contact.

Old rags and clothes from disease-infected districts, winds and dust, drinking water, impure milk, superstition and even the modern automobile have their part as disease-carrying agents.

Do Your Part.

Why a nation-wide or world-wide campaign of death to rats is not inaugurated is beyond understanding. They are an expensive luxury. They cost us $200,000,000 a year, or two dollars per person in the United States.

Rats carry typhus, bubonic plague and other diseases. Why not offer a prize of $100,000 for someone who will get rid of them? If a modern Pied Piper could only charm them away this amount would be a mere trifle to pay.

Many different problems of disease carriers have been met and solved by cities in our own country and greater one are yet to come. Economic aind social conditions demand the extermination of all these pests. Do your part.

The Air

The air around us which we breathe is a compound of many various elementary gases. At the earth's surface a cubic meter weighs 1.3 kilograms, while the same quantity of water weighs 1000 kilograms. But the weight varies with the temperature and pressure. The latter is measured by the barometer, in which the mercury ranges from 700 to 800 millimeters. Mercury is 13.6 times as heavy as water and water 773 times as heavy as air, so that we must imagine a column of air of the same density as at the earth's surface extending upward for 8000 meters. The peaks of the highest mountains would project beyond this "homogeneous" column. But in reality the air becomes thinner as we travel upward; every 80 meters it loses one percent of its pressure and specific weight, making the pressure and weight at an altitude of 5 kilometers only one-half as great as on earth. At each additional altitude of 5 kilometers there is a similar reduction, so that at 50 kilometers the density of air is less than one-thousandth of what it is on earth and the pressure less than one millimeter. It is approximately from this altitude that we get the last signs of the setting sun by reflection from particles of air, when the sun has sunk 16 degrees under the horizon. The radiant phenomena of the polar lights take place at a still higher altitude, and the "shooting stars," or asteroids, and meteors ignite by friction when they reach these parts of the atmosphere in their fall.

These are the only signs that reach us from those heights. Otherwise they are closed to us, perhaps forever. The greatest altitude attained by our balloons equipped with instruments is about 30 kilometers. Man has only reached a height of about 11 kilometers, and even at that altitude he can keep alive only by artificial breathing of oxygen. During the war members of the flying corps sometimes reached a height of 5 or 6 kilometers, where air has only about one-half of its terrestrial density, and the efficiency of the motors is greatly reduced.

Whenever a gas expands it cools to some extent because the process of expansion exhausts a certain amount of heat. Now the surface of the earth may be compared with a stove which is heated during the day by the warmth of the sun and radiates this heat at night. In this process of radiation the moisture in the air plays an important part. The air is saturated with moisture when the number of grams in a cubic meter of air equals that of the temperature. The residue is condensed into clouds, fog and haze. These formations consisting of microscopically minute particles retard and hinder the radiation and hence play an important part in the heating economy of the earth. When the sky is clear for instance, a single night's frost can destroy every young bud and shoot, while clouds and fog may act like a protective wall and prevent frost. During the day, to be sure, they have a depressing effect upon the temperature, for the air along the warm surface becomes lighter, rises and is thus cooled. Computations show that this cooling process would amount to one degree for every 100 meters of ascent, unless the conditions of saturation which is brought about creates a condensation of the moisture in the air, whereby warmth is produced and the cooling is diminished by one-half. For every rise of one kilometer we may expect 6 degrees of cooling. But this does not continue indefinitely. It ceases at an altitude of 10 kilometers, where the so-called isothermal layer begins, that is, that layer of the air in which there are no longer any rising currents, cloud, fog and haze formations, nor any occasion for precipitation. The air is arranged in strata and there is no continual rising and sinking, as in the lower layer. In the course of these movements in the lower "troposphere" those tremendous masses of energy are released with which we are familiar in the shape of storms and gales, especially in the low pressure regions. The cirri, the highest species of clouds (consisting of icicles) that we know, reach almost the boundary between the two strata, which is higher in summer and in the tropics, than in winter and in the higher latitudes. In the upper region the temperature remains practically constant. The air pressure is less than one-fourth as light as at the earth's surface, so that three-fourths of the air consumes the supply of energy which conditions our weather.

In closing we may say a few words about the component parts or elements contained in the air. Around the earth's surface we have a compound of 79 per cent. of nitrogen and 21 per cent. of oxygen. A fraction of one per cent. is carbon, hydrogen and argon. Still smaller fractions are helium, neon, krypton and xenon, discovered by Ramsay. Since each of these gases pervades space independently of the others, the stratification varies at various altitudes. Hydrogen, for instance, is 14 times as light as air and accordingly has a homogeneous altitude of 14 x 8000 meters, that is, 112 kilometers. Its density therefore decreases less rapidly than that of nitrogen or oxygen. Consequently there is an accumulation of hydrogen and helium in the upper strata. At an altitude of 100 kilometers air consists of 97 per cent. hydrogen, the heavy elements having almost disappeared. This theory is confirmed by the colors appearing in the polar lights, whose spectral analysis reveals the presence of rather rare gases, as we find them in a rarified condition in the vacuum tubes when the latter are charged with a high current. The most minute particles of fixed and fluent substances floating about in the air play an important part in the formation of precipitations and fogs. They are responsible for the degree of purity of the air in which we live. At higher altitudes and above the ocean there are hundreds of thousands of such particles in a liter of air. In poorly ventilated rooms there are millions.—Prof. Dr. E. R. Wright.

Hungary's Crisis

Canadians do not interest themselves widely in European affairs. Following the example of their great neighbor to the South, they are content, as a rule, to pursue the even tenor of their way—to amass riches in Canada and sink them in transportation experiments which very probably will bring comfort to their grandchildren but can only be a tribulation to themselves. Like no other nation but the Americans, they know how to "sit tight and saw wood." There was a brief space, starting in 1914, when their insouciance vanished and they were galvanized into international activity. Even after hostilities terminated, they did not retire promptly to the solitude of their vast prairies, their mountains and their endless miles of virgin timber, but tried a flutter in the Balkan market. The result, however, was not such as to encourage them to further experiments in European financing, and they now show a justifiable inclination to interest themselves in undertakings within their own borders. Yet Canada cannot hold herself entirely aloof. For since the economic conditions of all countries in the world must react on the Empire, and since, furthermore, Canada yearly becomes a more important unit within that Empire, in process of time Canadians must take a wider interest in world affairs. Hungary may seem an inconsiderable factor to many of us, yet if we would win and keep that prominent position in the British Commonwealth of nations to which our elected leaders would lay claim, we cannot lightly set aside the reconstruction of this distressed people, as unworthy of our notice.

* * *

For Hungary is at the parting of the ways. Just as Austria needed the indulgence of the Allies to save her from becoming a corpse upon their doorstep, so is Hungary in danger of being sacrificed on the funeral pyre of self-determination. To save Europe Hungary among others must be saved. The Economic Review, quoting from the Economiste Francais, gives the following account of Hungary's condition:—

"On May 4 last Count Bethlen, the Premier, and M. Kallay, Minister of Finance, of Hungary, made the Reparations Commission acquainted with the economic distress from which their country was suffering, and requested the suspension of the prior lien of the Allies on the national revenue and State property under clause 180 of the Treaty of Trianon, in order to enable Hungary to pledge part of such revenue and property as security for loans to be contracted for the purpose of balancing the Budget, discharge her pre-war and post-war debts and organize the national production."

The statement showed in detail the economic position of Hungary and emphasized the tendency, in drawing comparisons between Austria and Hungary "to accord greater sympathy to the former, as Hungary is still regarded as a rich country, and it is apt to be forgotten that she has a heavy load of foreign debt which is not the case with Austria." Count Bethlen drew a gloomy picture of social conditions, which had been largely demoralized by the revolutionary disturbances and foreign (Rumanian) occupation of 1919, and with which those who have followed the country's evolution since the war will be disposed to concur. "The Hungarian Premier began by pointing out very appropriately that the reduction of an economic unit such as pre-war Hungary, possessing a population of 21 millions, to a unit composed of 7 or 8 millions, even if conducted under the most favorable conditions (which was certainly not the case in this instance), of necessity entails considerable economic disturbances which time alone can remedy. Pre-war Hungary being an agricultural country, was constrained to import foreign capital. In order to obtain the sums necessary for meeting the interest and other obligations on this external debt, she was compelled to use her financial and trade balances. Now at present both these balances are on the debit side; the budget for 1922-23 shows a deficit of 89 million gold kronen (about 40 milliards of the present currency) and the trade balance a deficit of 224 gold kronen. In Hungarian territory, as now constituted, industrial production shows a decline of 47 per cent. compared with that of the pre-war years, due to lack of raw material, and agricultural production, and a decline of 35 per cent. due to lack of working capital. Under these conditions it is not surprising that the standard of living of the inhabitants of Hungary should have appreciably declined."

* * *

Figures are quoted showing the decrease in the consumption of cereals, following the general impoverishment of the people. A civil servant of an average class, who before the war received 400 kronen a month, now only receives 43. All commodities have risen in price, the increase since the beginning of the current year being specially marked. The Hungarian krone meanwhile continues to diminish in value, having fallen from 105 Swiss centimes in 1914 to 0.10 centimes last March. The difficulties with which the Hungarian Treasury are faced can therefore be easily comprehended, when it is recollected that a large external debt must be taken care of. France in the principal creditor, to whom Hungary owes 403,996,446 gold kronen. Up to the present under a special arrangement with her, Hungary has undertaken to pay 25 million francs a year, seeing that part of the arrears of the nations debt, as well as the total amount of the debts due under private agreement, have not yet been fixed. Hungary has fulfilled this obligation to date and she has taken this opportunity of signifying her intention of paying off all external debts to the last cent.

* * *

"It is, however, obvious," the Review says, "that the application to the Reparations Commission aims not only at the discharge of debts, but also at the general economic resurrection of Hungary, since, unless that country can be pulled up in due time on the slippery slope leading to certain bankruptcy, there can be no question of payment of any kind.

"In order to avoid this utter ruin, Hungary has need of new loans, namely an immediate short-dated loan of 40 or 50 million kronen to meet her most urgent needs and supply her with the means of meeting foreign payments indispensable to her foreign trade, and to enable the business of the State to be carried on until the autumn without a new note issue, also a long dated loan of at least 550 or 650 gold kronen, which will be used for the purpose of balancing the budget within the next few years (up to 1928 29) and of assisting the general economic recovery, that is to say in an intensified industrial and economic production, without which there is no hope of saving Hungary."

The current budget shows a determined effort to reduce the expenses of administration, drastic cuts being called for in military, judicial, civil and educational services. All monies available from a loan will moreover be spent on productive works and the receipts from State undertakings are expected to accrue proportionately. "By these measures the Hungarian Government hopes to restore its finances, to stabilize the krone, and to place on a sound footing the economic reconstruction of Hungary, without which it cannot continue in existence. In its reply to the request of the Hungarian Government the Reparations Commission has admitted in principle the necessity of coming to Hungary's assistance."

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Teresa Desmond (Terry), a beautiful imaginative child who believes in fairies and worships

Juliet Divine, the stage name of her half-sister. She rides in a gorgeous car and talks of a millionaire.

Terrence Desmond, their father, quick-tempered and unreliable, was formerly a caretaker of a Long Island estate. Forced to leave the estate through an escapade of Terry's he opens a roadhouse called The Blue Moon, with money advanced to him by

Tom Perrin, a prosperous friend of Julia's.

Mary Desmond, Terry's mother and Julia's stepmother, fears disgrace in the latters' career.

Mrs. Peter Parmalee, owns the house, Silverwood, of which Desmond was formerly caretaker.

Betty Sheen, her spoiled young granddaughter, whose rudeness to Terry, at Silverwood, the latter will never forget, is engaged to

Miles Sheridan, a handsome, likable young chap. His car breaks down at the door of The Blue Moon, and he meets Terry. Delighted with the child's charm and anxious to atone for his fiancee's past rudeness, supplies the wherewithal to send Terry to a Convent for next seven years.

While at the Convent, Terry receives word that her Mother has died.

Returning to the Blue Moon, Terry is installed as a cashier, which position she loathes.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy patron of the Blue Moon is impressed by Terry's resemblance to Juliet Divine whom he refers to as the Million Dollar Doll.

CHAPTER X

Cinderella and a Rolls-Royce

Terry spoke for the first time.

"What's a million dollar doll?" she asked, turning to her father with a faint impulse of anger; because it was Julia to whom the man gave what sounded like an impertinent nickname.

Nazlo laughed. "Let me answer, Mr. Desmond, with another question Did they teach you mythology—ancient legends of my native land—Greece—at you convent?"

"No, they didn't," the girl said. "But there was a child's mythology book, with lots of pictures, in the school library. I read it."

"Ah Do you remember Danae?"

"Ye-es," Terry hesitated. "There was a picture of her in a shower of gold sent by Jupiter."

"Go up top of the class Well, a million dollar doll's a Danae of today, who wouldn't be at home to Jupiter or any other god unless he brought a shower of gold—and some perfectly good pearls, diamonds and sables thrown in. Now do you understand?"

"No, I don't," said Terry, shortly. She felt hurt and bewildered, but Father made no open attempt to defend Julia.

His ears were red, as always when he was angry, but Mr. Nazlo couldn't know that. Besides, Nazlo was looking at her.

"Just as well you don't understand," he smiled. "It's refreshing to meet innocence, these days. Mr. Desmond, your daughter ought to see something of the world, don't you think? Seems to me you're wrong to keep her cooped up here, when she might be enjoying life. She'll be young only once."

Terry expected her father to hint that his daughter was his own business, but he accepted the advice in the jovial manner in which it was offered.

"I wanted the girl to learn business, and prove the stuff she was made of," he explained. "I don't mean to keep her nose to the grind-stone very long."

But he—Desmond—was supposed to have no special interest in Miss Divine. He had even pretended not to know that she had come back from Europe, and it vexed him that Terry should hear the news.

Now that this startling likeness had developed, it was not wise for Julia to show herself at the Blue Moon. She loved her father, but she had risen high in her own world, and cared less than ever to be identified as a roadside innkeeper's daughter. She had invented a legend of her own origin, and wished to stick to it.

As for Terrence, he had thrown over his "old-fashioned prejudices" in the days of Tom Perrin, to whom he owed his change of luck. Perhaps most of those prejudices had dissolved, like Cleopatra's pearl, in wine. At all events they were gone; and whatever Jule did was right.

Terrence had made further concessions to life, in the grand manner. For instance, in the case of millionaires like Nazlo, you kept your temper, up to the limit and down the other side. Such magnates could buy and sell you a hundred times over.

If you were stiff-backed you showed yourself a fool. You never knew what these fellows might do for you, if you flattered them. Besides, there was this girl Teresa to get off your hands.

Terrence hadn't made his daughter cashier because he needed her help in the restaurant. He could easily have engaged a young woman already trained, for the job. He had put Terry where she was, in order that she might be seen.

Almost reluctantly he admitted to himself (it seemed disloyalty) that the girl was as pretty as Jule. Besides, she was ten years younger. He thought that some rich chap was sure to take a fancy to the little cashier, and might even marry her.

But he'd never expected to land such a big fish as Eustace Nazlo, the Shoe King. Nazlo was a different type from the other men young, middle-aged, or old, who had been "caught" since her home-coming by Terry's red hair, and the big eyes that looked black, but were hazel or violet;

Those chaps had been "Johnnies"—common or garden Johnnies; and he could hardly have forced a "convent kid" to "cotton" to any of them, even had their intentions been serious, which so far, apparently, was not the case. But Nazlo was a man of brains, a Napoleon of business, who had started with nothing, and before the war was on his way to becoming a millionaire.

During the war he had reached the million mark. Everybody knew his name. His Rolls-Royce was in the garage at this minute, making every other car "look like thirty cents." Even Terry might have heard of him. But, it seemed, she hadn't.

Instead of annoying Nazlo, however, the girl's ignorance amused and pleased him. It proved, as well as anything could that the "story of her life" wasn't a fairy tale. No girl of her class, except a convent girl, would treat him with such indifference.

"My advice is, get another cashier immediately if not sooner," said Nazlo, "and release this young lady from prison. Do you like motoring, Miss Desmond? If you do, you might enjoy a spin in my Rolls-Royce."

Terry blushed. She had not changed much at heart since the days at Silverwood when she played the game of "let's pretend." "I've never been in an automobile," her thought spoke itself.

Interesting Thoughts of Interesting People

WALTER LIPPMAN in Vanity Fair: "There is nothing, it seems to me, so ominous in all the world as the fact that millions have learned to read, and can be swayed by printed words, before they have learned to read between the lines."

* * *

J. L. GARVIN, in the London Observer: "What caused the war and ruined the peace were partly the ambitions of exaggerated nationalism, partly the explosions of suppressed radicalism. Pride and fear, tradition and dreams, worked together to create a mass of passion and delusion. A universal disease, worst in Germany under the Hohenzollerns and in the vanished Hapsburg empire, possessed and corrupted the imagination of whole peoples."

* * *

PIERRE HAMP, French author and railroad official, in the Century: "To delight in a job, to love and be loved, are the two trump cards in the great game of life in which the playing must be so canny."

* * *

KATHERINE FULLERTON GEROULD in Harper's: "I do not believe that Hollywood, through the medium of the films, is corrupting the American world. Hollywood is an instance, a manifestation of something ubiquitously present in America, not an isolated phenomenon, nor yet a cause. It is not a synonym for the drug habit, or for multiplied divorces, or for mysterious murders, or for drunken orgies. It is . . . a state of mind. Hollywood . . . illustrates our general lack of the sense of proportion, our tendency to distort values. And Hollywood is wherever the young and ignorant expect to get the triumph without the toil, the reputation without the virtues, the game without the achievement, the reward without the sacrifice, the knowledge without the study."

MILLIONS IN FISH INDUSTRY, COLUMBIA

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 8.—British Columbia's salmon pack totaled 1,290,960 cases in 1922; valued at $10,109,927. This was an increase of 687,203 cases over the 1921 output and a gain in value of $4,175,983, according to a report compiled by the provincial department of mines and fisheries.

The total value of the output of British Columbia fisheries during the year, including fresh, canned, cured or otherwise prepared, the report shows, was $18,872,833. This was an increase over the previous year of $6,919,163, or 36 percent.

An interesting feature of the report was the fact that whaling operations which were suspended in 1921 were resumed in 1922 and produced an output valued at $158,814.

Total capital invested in the fish industry of British Columbia, the report shows, was $19,951,571. Of this $6,765,827 represented vessels, nets, traps, piers and wharves and $13,185,744 represented money invested in canning and curing establishments. The number of persons engaged in fishing operations and in canning and curing establishments, it is shown, was 14,930.

TECHNICAL TRAINING

LONDON, Aug. 8 (Associated Press) —Two-thirds of the boys reared in London enter casual trades, as unskilled labor and shopmen, and only 13 percent of them enter the skilled trades.

These figures, which have been prepared in the interests of a campaign to furnish greater technical education for London's youth, are said to be higher in unskilled and lower in skilled trades than any other large city in western Europe or America.

This is the result of insufficient technical training centers, and the poverty among the lower classes, which forces the boys to work at very early ages.

The campaign which is being backed by many welfare organizations will attempt to arouse interest in the establishing of training centers throughout England.

INTERNATIONAL CAST FOR GEST'S THEATRE

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN (By mail to United Press). —Morris Gest, American theatrical producer, is in Germany to add his bit to the internationalization of the American stage.

Gest, producer of New York's biggest spectacles during recent years, is in Berlin working out a new theatrical stunt—an international theater for New York, with Max Reinhardt, Germany's leading producer and director in charge.

Gest has signed Reinhardt to spend three months in New York this winter rehearsing the cast.

"The venture is not to be all-German," Gest said, in an interview. "It will have leading actors from all over Central Europe. It will be international. Reinhardt has proposed his 'Miracle' as a suitable piece, but I am convinced we should have another represented an opportunity to show themselves at their best.

"The war is over. We want to re-establish understanding between nations. And this is not easy, even in America. Great and small diplomats are busy endeavoring to bring it about. And as theater manager I am convinced that internationalization of the theater —bringing the best in Europe to America—is a big step toward understanding between nations."

CONTROL OF TYPHOID

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (United Press) —Control of typhoid fever has reached such a stage in the United States that in 1922 the death rate for this disease was the lowest ever recorded, according to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The figures have reached the offices of the American child health association.

The typhoid death rate in 1922 was 5.6 per 100,000 among the millions of Metropolitan industrial policyholders, who comprise about one-seventh of the total population of the United States and Canada, according to the figures. Had the rate of 1911 (22.8 per 100,000) prevailed in 1922, there would have been 3,161 deaths instead of the 779 that actually occurred.

Close comparison will readily reveal to you why the good Maxwell has gone so far in public favor in such a short time. Its outstanding superiorities are apparent even to the casual observer.

Petes Beat Cobourg in Ninth Inning--Two Games on Monday

OSLERS WILL BE HERE ON MONDAY

Local Central Leaguers Have Two Games Scheduled With Fast Toronto Team.

Next Monday is Civic Holiday and baseball aplenty will be provided for the local fans two games having been arranged between the Oslers of Toronto and the local Central Leaguers. The visitors need but little introduction here for this team has always been well to the front in Toronto ball circles. They were runners up this season for the honors of the Hampden Park League, a fast circuit which was won by the Hillcrests. They were only nosed out by the Hillcrests last Saturday by a score of 2 to 1 which shows that they can play a great brand of ball.

The first game for Monday is scheduled for 10.30 while the afternoon fixture will get under way at 3 o'clock. Spring, who is well known in this section is expected to be on the mound for one of these games.

YANK REFORM WAS FEATURE OF YEAR

No Longer the Rebellious, Manager-Bucking Team of Last Season — Big Surprise to Fans.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(United Press)—When the baseball season opened, the Giants and the Yanks were picked by practically all the experts to repeat as pennant winners.

The Giants were rated good almost to the point of a cinch for the National League pennant, while the Yanks were selected as just about good enough to win the American League honors.

It followed as a surprise then when in mid-season the Yanks had taken unto themselves the role of a cinch and had galloped to a lead of thirteen games, while the Giants were tossed into a fight for their lives with the Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburg Pirates.

The tranformation of the Yankees from a rebellious, manager-bucking team of temperamental stars into a smooth working, morale filled organization was one of the most interesting features not only of the baseball season, but of the entire year.

It follows that there were reasons for the rather sudden and long delayed desire of the American League champions to develop harmony and get the best out of what has been for three years a very fine ball club.

There are many theories advanced as those reasons.

First quoted as the biggest factor in the improvement of the team is the reform of the great Babe Ruth.

The swat king, although he is not within striking distance of new slugging marks, is, without doubt, the outstanding figure of baseball today. When the jury meets in the fall to vote for the most valuable player in the American League, there is little doubt that Babe Ruth will be elected.

Safety-first methods of the American League pitchers, which caused Ruth to be passed more than one hundred times in half a season, prevented him from setting new marks as a home-run hitter, but it seems certain that he will be the champion slugger of the big league even under that handicap.

While his opportunities to knock balls off the yard were restricted by the refusal of the pitchers to put them in his alley, Ruth switched his batting style and he developed into a likely candidate for the batting championship of the league. It seems almost certain that he will lead the league in runs batted in and runs scored.

With his general improvement at the bat, his fielding also became better. Without the handicap of the surplus weight that he carried last season he developed into a long-range fielder and his arm is second only to that of Bob Meusel, the finest outfielding-pegger in baseball.

Ruth has been "going straight" and the influence of his example no doubt was of benefit to the whole team. At one time, the less illustrious members of the team felt that they were being discriminated against when they were punished for infraction of the training rules while Ruth was able to "get away with murder."

Woman Abandoned Her Attempt to Swim Channel

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 8.— (Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Clemington-Carson, United States long distance swimmer, abandoned her attempt early yesterday morning to swim the English Channel from Dover to Calais. She was then only a few miles from the French coast, but the task was too great for her. She had covered a little over sixteen miles and had been in the water 14 1-2 hours.

When seen at her lodgings here last night, Mrs. Carson's first remark was: "I'm going to try again, but not this year."

Mrs. Carson was sustained during her long battle with the waves by plenty of sugar, crackers, biscuits and coffee.

ANNUAL REGATTA OF CANOE ASSN.

Big Week of Paddling Events Will Be Held at the Thousand Islands.

GANANOQUE, Ont., August 8 (Canadian Press). — Paddlers from many parts of the United States and Canada will take part in the forty-fourth annual meet of the American Canoe Association, which opens on Friday at Sugar Island in the Thousand Islands.

The commodore for 1923 is Payne L. Kretymer of New York; Sam. B. Burnham, of Providence, R.I., is secretary-treasurer; and W. J. Wing, of Gananoque, camp superintendent.

The big regatta day of the meet will be on 18th August, when the final paddling events will be held.

Last year this regatta was one of the most successful of the season, with big entry lists from the leading Canadian and U.S. canoe clubs, and the indications are that this year canoeists from both sides of the border will again participate.

Monday next will be devoted to measurements of canoes and sails for the sailing races, which with swimming races and a few more or less novelty paddling races make up the week's programme leading up to the regatta.

Canoe sailing forms an important part of the activities of the American Canoe Association, and there are a number of valuable trophies offered for this sport.

The programme for the paddling regatta is practically the same as last year, differing from the usual canoe regatta of a purely Canadian organization by the many double-blade events.

The week beginning 20th August will also be largely devoted to sailing races.

SCOTS WINNERS OF PHELAN CUP

Defeated the Woollens 2 to 1 in a Fast Game Last Evening.

The Thistles won the Phelan Charity Cup by defeating the Woollens 2 to 1 in an excellent game of football last evening. At the close of the game the cup was presented to the winning team by Sidney Whatley on behalf of the local football organization. The game was clean and sportsmanlike throughout and was one of the best seen here in some time.

The Scots were the first to become dangerous when McVey and Richmond gave Griffin some work to do, but the Woollens retaliated and carried the ball down to force a fruitless corner. The Scots came back strong, McVey and Richmond again carrying the ball down for the latter to score on a shot just below the cross bar. The Woollens hemmed the Scots into their own area for the next few minutes and Monkman gave Richards two hard shots to handle. Play ran from end to end till shortly before half time, when Richmond trapped the ball nicely and lifted a good shot into the gaol. Chambers tried to lift the ball over his head but the ball struck him in the face and bounded in to score against his own side.

The play was very even for the second half utnil Downes carried the ball down for the Woollens and centred to Mitchell, who tapped an easy one past Richards. The Scots cameback hard but the final shot missed the upright. A raid by Richmond into the Woollens' territory ended with a burst ball. The Scots were held in their own area for some time but the Woollens failed to score, McMillan on one occasion saving his team when he blocked Mitchell right in front of the goal. The play ran back and forth, and though the Woollens netted the ball once the Scots were saved when the referee ruled an off side. The last few minutes of the game were difficult to follow owing to the darkness. The players were:

Woollens—Griffin, goal; Cridland and Chambers, full backs; Reid, Monkman and Sayers, half backs; Mitchell, Crow, Gaskill, Roberts and Downes, forwards.

Thistles—Richards, goal; Hall and Rae, full backs; Jackson, McMillan and Hardie, half backs; McKay, Hutton, Richmonds, Williams and Burgess, forwards.

PETES SCORED TWICE IN THE NINTH FRAME NOSE OUT COBOURG

Victory Yesterday Almost Clinches Second Half Honors — Helson Hit Homer With Two On.

SCORE WAS 7 TO 6.

Cobourg proved a real opponent for the Petes and threw a big scare into the local fans by twice taking the lead in yesterday's game only to be nosed our in the ninth when errors on the part of the Lakeshore nine allowed two of the Solomonites to cross the plate, giving Peterboro the large end of a 7 to 6 score. The victory almost clinches the honors of the second half for Peterboro, though it is possible for Belleville to tie the Petes if the next game with Cobourg is lost.

Since yesterday's game was the one which should have been played in Cobourg today Cooburg was the home team and the Petes went to bat first. The return game will be played here on Saturday afternoon.

Examples of both good and bad baseball were shown in yesterday's game. Helson provided most of the features for the winners. His home run in the second with both second and third base occupied started the Petes on their way. He followed this up with a snappy single-handed double play which retired the side and cut off a promising Cobourg rally. Legon duplicated his stunt in the eighth frame when he took Drennan's fly to short left and ran in to catch Kenny off second.

The first three innings of the game were filled up with heavy hitting by both teams, a homer, two triples and four doubles being crammed into these frames. From the third on it was a regular pitchers battle, with the Petes holding a one run lead as far as the eighth. Cobourg jumped into the lead by scoring twice in the eighth but a flock of errors gave the Petes the lead again in the ninth.

Heckman went the whole distance on the mound for the Petes and after the first three innings turned in a great game. He was hit rather freely at the start, though snappier fielding might have cut off a couple of the wallops. He fanned thirteen of the opposing batters and allowed but two walks. After the third inning he held Cobourg hitless and scoreless in every inning except the eighth. He retired the side in order on strikes in the seventh and finished the game by fanning two in the ninth.

Schaffer started the mound work for Cobourg but after a single, a walk, a homer, an error and a triple had scored four runs in the second he was yanked and sent to first base, relieving J. Kenny who took up the hurling duties. Schaffer made a much better first sacker than he did as a pitcher. Kenny turned in a first class game and held the Petes to but two safeties during his term of duty on the rubber. Errors by his team mates in the ninth proved his downfall.

Kenny was also the leading batter of the game with a triple, double and single to his credit in four trips to the plate. Turpin hit twice in three times up, one of his wallops going for two bases.

First Inning.

Peterboro—Legon sent a fly to right field. Wolfe went two bases on a high hit to short left which the fielders allowed to drop between them. Ansaldo lined to third and Swanston grounded to short. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Cobourg—Skitch fanned. Turpin singled to left. Derry fanned. Kenny tripled to the fence in deep left center scoring Turpin. Drennan doubled scoring Kenny. Jackson lined into Heckman's hands. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Second Inning.

Peterboro—Comolli singled to short center. Heckman walked. Johnston sacrificed sending Comolli to third and Heckman to second. They both scored when Helson hit a home run to deep left, losing the ball near the fence. Collins was safe when Jahren dropped his fly to left, and scored on Legon's triple to deep center. Kenney relieved Schaffer on the mound for Cobourg and Legon came home on a wild pitch. Wolfe walked. Ansaldo flied to center and Swanston grounded to second. Five runs, three hits, one error.

Cobourg—Jahren fanned. Schaffer grounded to Heckman and Fardella struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning.

Peterboro—Comolli singled past short, but wa sforced at second on Heckman's bunt to the pitcher. Johnston sacrificed, sending Heckman to second and both runners were safe on Skitch's error. Johnston was forced at second on Helson's grounder to Skitch and Heckman went to third. Collins grounded first. No runs, one hits, one error.

Cobourg—Skitch walked. Turpin doubled to deep right. Derry doubled to right, the ball hitting the marker, scoring Skitch and Turpin. Kenny singled sending Derry to third. Drennan fanned. Jackson lined into Helson's hands who caught Derry off third for an unassisted double play. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning.

Peterboro—Legon fanned. Wolfe grounded to second. Ansaldo sent a fly to third. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cobourg—Jahren flied to Wolfe. Schaffer grounded to Heckman and Fardella fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning.

Peterboro—Swanston grounded to third. Comolli and Heckman both sent up high fouls which Jackson handled with ease. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cobourg—Comolli scooped up Skitch's grounder and threw him out at first, Heckman taking the throw. Turpin grounded to Comolli. Derry fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning.

Peterboro—Johnston fanned. Helson grounded to third. Collins singled to center but was forced at second on Legon's grounder to short. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Cobourg—Kenny flied to Comolli. Drennan lined into Heckman's hands. Ansaldo made a good catch of Jackson's fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning.

Peterboro—Wolfe fanned. Ansaldo put up a high foul which Jackson took. Swanston grounded to short. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cobourg—Jahren, Schaffer and Fardella fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning.

Peterboro—Comolli flied to first. Heckman grounded to short. Johnston was out on a high foul to the catcher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cobourg—Skitch hits a liner down the first base line which Umpire Theroux first called foul and then called fair. It went for two bases. Turpin walked. Derry fanned. Kenny doubled to deep left scoring Skitch and Turpin. Drennan sent a short fly to left. Legon ran in making a great shoestring catch and kept on to double Kenny off second. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning.

Peterboro—Helson fanned. Collins walked and was safe at second when Skitch left the ball get away from him on Drennan's throw from Legon's grounder. The ball rolled to right field and Collins went to third making a great slide to beat the throw to that base. Turpin tried to catch Legon who was taking a big lead off first but threw wide the ball going almost to the river grandstand. Collins scored on the throw and Legon went to second. Jahren caught Wolfe's fly but made a wild throw to second in an effort to catch Legon and the runner came home with the winning tally. Ansaldo grounded to Kenny for the third out. Two runs, no hits, three errors.

Cobourg—Jackson fanned. Jahren grounded to Ansaldo. Schaffer fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

BASEBALL TO SOOTHE RADICALS OF YUCATAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(Associated Press)—Mexican property owners in the Yucatan district are now organizing to oppose the increase of socialistic tendencies in the population there by instituting baseball teams. The idea is said to be giving the youths of the province some ideas about play and physical self-development.

As a first move, according to reports to the United States commerce department, the Socialist Resistance League, which is the organization promoting the effort, has brought 250 complete baseball outfits from the United States. In addition, a physical culture director has been sent to the United Sttaes to learn about the game as it is played, and booklets of rules and descriptions about it have been printed in Spanish.

Yucatan, from the beginning of Mexican troubles, has evinced consmnt symptoms of radical political activity.

New Trainer to Take Charge of Louis Firpo.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., August 8 (Canadian Press).—Horatio Lavello, of Buenos Ayres, will train Luis Angel Firpo, for the championship bout with Jack Dempsey, in New York, on 14th September, it was announced here yesterday by G. W. Widmer, secretary of the challenger.

Widmer had stated earlier that Jimmy Deforest, veteran United States trainer, who has had charge of Firpo since the Argentinian forged to the front of the heavyweight aspirants, would not prepare him for the championship match, but did not name his successor.

Deforest is generally accredited with having taught Firpo the fine points of boxing.

Widmer added that there had been no break with Deforest.

Firpo concluded his training yesterday afternoon for his scheduled ten-round bout here to-night with Joe Downey, of Cincinnati. He announced his weight as 214 pounds.

WIN ON SATURDAY WILL HELP PETES

Locals Will Grab Second Half Honors If Belleville Loses One Game or If Cobourg Is Defeated on Saturday.

Much depends on the game between Kingston at Belleville today. A victory for Kingston will mean that the Petes have the second half honors while a victory for Belleville will mean that the Petes will have to defeat Cobourg on Saturday or Kingston will have to win from Belleville in Kingston to avert the possibility of a tie. A win for Belleville today ard another on Saturday coupled with a victory for Cobourg here on Saturday is the only way in which Belleville can come up on even terms. The Petes by winning the Cobourg game can put the whole works on ice for then Belleville will have no chance to catch up and the honors of the Big Four League will have to be decided by a play off between Belleville, winner of the first half, and Peterboro.

With so much depending on Saturday's game the Petes will be right on edge to cop it and in view of the close battle they had here yesterday the Saturday game should be an equally good one.

SULLIVAN TIRED AFTER LONG SWIM

Tide Carried Him Out After He Was Within Three Miles of His Goal —Choppy Waves.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press.)— Henry Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass., who Monday, conquered Neptun, by swimming across the turbulent English Channel, from Dover to Calais was still a tired man last night and sought his bed early in order to gain a much needed rest.

While all Dover was talking of his conquest—an achievement which only two men before him had the grit and stamina to accomplish—Sullivan was sound asleep in his simple home in the outskirts of Dover, where he has liked each time he has come across the ocean to seek fame by swimming the Channel.

In his long fight of 27 hours and 25 minutes with the cold and choppy waters that separate England and France. Sullivan lost twenty pounds and won a thousand pounds. The £1,000 was given to him as a prize by the Daily Sketch, a London newspaper, which offered the purse several year, ago for the first man who duplicated the feats of Captain Webb and T. W Burgess.

Just before he plunged into the water Sunday afternoon, Sullivan's trainer, John Conlon, smeared a thick layer of lard over every inch of the big fellow's epidermis. It took three pounds of lard to cover him, and it had to be applied fast in order to keep the warmth of Sullivan's body from melting it before the swimmer could get into the water, where the grease was intended to ward off the cold of the sea.

At the last second Sullivan's plunge into the water was delayed because somebody had forgotten to bring a favorite lucky horseshoe into his row boat. Mrs. H. A. Cox, in whose home Sullivan is a guest came running down to the pier with it, and then the long swim began. For the first few hours Sullivan was swept in a bee-line in the direction of his goal by the flood tide; then he was carried off the line a little by the ebb. Soon after dawn he was within three miles of Calais, but he had to swim many times three miles to finally get there.

When the offset tide had carried him several miles down the coast and he was farther from his goal than he had been in the early morning, Sullivan turned to his pilot, N. L. Smith, of Boston, and said: "How am I going?"

"Well, Henry, the tide is against you," replied Smith, who at that hour had little hope of Sullivan achieving his ambition.

"When does the tide turn?" the swimmer inquired.

"Four o'clock,' answered Smith.

"Well then, we can stick it out and go in with the tide,' said Sullivan.

"When Henry said that," Smith recounted to-day, "I knew he was going to stick it out."

In describing his experieneces, Sullivan said that in such a swim the last twenty four hours are the hardest. Everything was lovely for the first three hours; the tide was favorable and the sea smooth, but just about the time he finished his little meal a few miles out from shore the breezes began to whip up the waters. Throughout the night small but irritating waves kept slapping him in the face. These minor movements of the sea, Sullivan declared proved much more troublesome than the larger waves.

Contray to some reports, Sullivan was not worn out when he landed. He got to his feet, staggered for the first few steps, owing to poor circulation, then straightened up and walked into the beach at Calais.

Royal Regatta Was Opened Yesterday.

COWES, Isle of Wight, August 8 (Canadian Press). — The Royal Yacht Squadron's annual four-day regatta opened yesterday in a fine sailing breeze which gave the boats an equal amount of work on and off the wind.

The chief event was the annual race for the King's Cup, in which three old cup winners, Colonel John Gretton's Cariad, Sir William Portal's Valdora, and Charles P. Johnson's Moonbeam, competed.

R. H. Lee's Terpsichore led from the start to the finish, but the Moonbeam won easily on handicap.

King George sailed on the Royal yacht Britannia, which won in the over-fifty-ton class, the Nyria being a fair second.

The Vanity, a new Fife boat, won again in the 12-meter class, with the Noreen second.

TENNIS BEGINNERS

The Forehand Stroke

The forehand stroke is the main stock-in-trade of all tennis players. There have been champions with nothing else and no player ever goes far without a strong or steady forehand.

There are three orthodox ways of playing this shot, known generally as the Lawford, the chop, and the side arm swing. The Lawford stroke is made by standing with the feet fairly well together, almost facing the net and hitting the ball a about the height of the shins with a drawing up movement. This imparts top spin to the ball making it curve down and gives it a fast bounce. It was considered the last word in ground strokes in its day and it is still a very useful stroke for getting through a narrow opening, as its left and right accuracy is easily controlled. It is also an easy stroke for beginners as the footwork required come naturally to most players. It requires, however, great accuracy in elevation and for this reason, its use is responsible for a great many nets and outs.

The chop stroke is almost obsolete in tennis, but it had a great vogue and is a useful stroke, particularly on a high ball. It is made by hitting the ball with the head of the racquet well up and imparting side spin by a cut or side stroke on the ball When properly made the ball will not bounce very high, but it is almost impossible to get enough face to make it effective.

The side arm swing eliminates most of the defects of the preceding strokes and is the most used and useful stroke in tennis to-day. It requires good footwork and good timing, but its possibilities in speed and direction are almost unlimited. In making this stroke, the feet should be in such position that a line drawn through toe, will be in line with the flight of the ball. This means that in most instances the player will stand sideways to the net. The ball should be hit at a height somewhere between the knee and thigh. The stroke should be followed through and on the follow-through the wrist should be turned back enough to impart top spin to the ball. In making this stroke the weight should be on the right foot in starting and shifted on the left in making the stroke. The fee should be far enough away from the ball as to almost straighten the arm in making the stroke. Avoid a cramped elbow at all costs. There is no limit to the force with which such a stroke may be made provided the necessary top spin is put on. If the footwork is good the elevatioon will be automatic; if the timing is good the direction will be certain. Beginners should try above all else for good footwork and to "feel" the ball on the racquet which indicates the correct follow-through. Acquire accuracy before thinking of speed.

The next article will deal with the back hand stroke.

INVISIBLE BELL WIRE.

Electric bell wire of the highest quality, when properly laid in the plaster of walls, is both concealed and durable. As generally installed, however, ordinary bell wire "laid solid" is soon corroded and, being inaccessible, it is replaced by new wires stapled on to the surface. Whether it be fixed by a professional wireman or by amateur talent such surface wiring is more or less unsightly, particularly when dust accumulates round it and when the wire begins to sag. A simple remedy for these troubles has been found by a British firm and consists in using flat wires. Two copper strips, each five-thousandths of an inch (about 0.125 mm.) in thickness and less than one-eighth of an inch (3 mm.) wide, are laid side by side between two tapes of insulating paper which are stuck together by a special adhesive. The finished product appears outwardly to be but a strip of paper five-eighths of an inch (15 mm.) wide which can be laid under wallpaper, carpet, or oil-cloth, and is then quite invisible. Alternatively it can be laid on the surface of a wall and painted or distempered to match its surroundings. It can be installed more quickly than the ordinary bell wire, and its invisibility is particularly valuable in the wiring of burglar alarm circuits. Naturally the success of the new wire depends upon the quality of the materials used and upon the details of manufacture, to all of which the closest attention has been given.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—From time to time appear letters in your paper favoring the conscription of certain articles which some people think are not good for others. This application of the principle of force to private life is something new. Heretofore individual liberty was considered sacred. But now we have people, some of whom cannot much more than read and write, telling the world what it has got to do. This new line of procedure means of course continued strife between those who are doing the dictating and those being dictated to. It is the most disastrous move ever made by people troubled, as people are sometimes, by a form of emotional insanity. They mistake their good impulses for world-beaters like the little girl who cut the dog's tail off so that it would not have so much to wag. We are being hurried on to a state of strife, hatred and disorder which, while it will not gain the end it started out to gain, will leave us in the hands of a principle of force from which there will be no escape, and which we cannot deny is of our own making. God's plan of salvation is no longer popular. How could it be when we have people who know nothing of the basis of morals or the history of human development, advocating measures for popular reform which may do very well with cockroaches in the kitchen, but have no place in humanity. It is Socialism.

THE ASSEMBLY AND "CHURCH UNION."

To the Edtior of The Examiner:

Sir,—As the Presbyterian Assembly's recent action affects not only the thing miscalled "Union," but the wider question of Religious Liberty in Canada, will you kindly permit a word, first to all the churches and then to Presbyterians.

First—to all the churches. A majority of that Assembly resolved on asking Parliament as follows: To create by Civil Law a new church, to coerce into that new church by Civil Law the unwilling Presbyterians, to confiscate and transfer to that new church by Civil Law all trust funds given to the Presbyterian church for her work, and, by Civil Law, to blot out forever the present Presbyterian church, so that none of those thus driven out of her could ever again return to her as a church home. That action of Assembly does not decide anything. "Church Union" is not settled. The Assembly has no power to settle it but is asking Parliament to settle it by Civil Law.

That action of the Assembly is a menace to religious liberty, and lovers of liberty, in all the churches, should resist to the uttermost, in Parliament and elsewhere, this attempted revival of official ecclesiastical despotism. If Parliament should pass this "Church Union Bill' 'no church would be safe. Any one might wake up some morning and find himself by Act of Parliament, a member of some new church that he does not approve, and the church of his choice gone forever. No institution of any kind—school, hospital or asylum—depending upon trust funds, would be safe, for these funds might be confiscated at any time by similar Acts of Parliament and handed over to some new control never intended by the donors. It would destroy the sacredness of the trust, one of the safeguards of British and Christian civilization.

And now a word to Presbyterians. That action of the Assembly is illegal, immoral, unchristian. This is said advisedly and with deep regret that it should be so sadly true.

(1) It is illegal, contrary to the Assembly's own constitution and laws. The Assembly as a church court is appointed solely and only to carry on the work of the Presbyterian church for the kingdom of God and is pledged to "maintain and defend the same," and "to follow no divisive course from the present order established therein." The Assembly has no shadow of right to attempt to transfer, alienate, close up, blot out the Presbyterian church, as an organization. In making that attempt the Assembly breaks its own laws and is faithless to the trust committed to its care.

(2) That action of the Assembly is immoral. It disregards all agreements as to the only conditions upon which "Union" would be attempted. At the outset in 1905 there was unanimous agreement that Union "must carry the consent of the entire membership." Again in 1912 when the first vote of the people gave more than fifty thousand against it, there was unanimous agreement that the movement be halted for "practically unanimous action."

Yet again in 1917, after a second vote of the people had given more than seventy-three thousand against it, and "to avoid disunion among the membership of our own church," the movement was halted a second time, there was a third unaimous agreement that any "action appropriate to a future period" should be left to "new light" by "Divine guidance through the growing experience of the people and the lessons of the war."

And now a majority of the Assembly, disregarding all these agreements, and ignoring the people, both as to their increased opposition at the second vote and their experience and the lessons of the war, attempts on a vote of one third of the membership taken eight years ago, to disband by Civil Law the church entrusted to its care. Any secular organization that would so treat its engagements would be forever discredited. The Montreal Standard, speaking of a recent labour strike, says: "The work of the world is carried on largely by the faith of men in each other that they will keep their word. If they will not then the world might as well shut up shop, for chaos ensues."

But is not the Presbyterian church pledged to the other churches? Certainly not. Not one has any right to pledge that church to give up her identity. If any feel that they have pledge that church to give up her go, but the Presbyterian church will remain, in unity and brotherhood with the world-wide Christian church, a loyal regiment in the world-wide Christian army under Christ its king.

(3) This action of the Assembly is unChristian. Christ's law for the Christian life is: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so to them." The coercionists would not like to be driven, by Civil Law, into a church where they did not believe it their duty to go, but that is what they are trying to do to others.

All who wish a new church are free to withdraw from the Presbyterian church. But not satisfied with liberty for themselves they deny it to others. It is unChristian.

There are two pitiably sad features of this miscalled "Union" Movement. One is that it has so completely blinded some good men to fairness, honour, justice, truth. The other is its constant effort to cover its moral nakedness by spiritual phraseology. Its latest official statement, since the Assembly, consists almost wholly of assertions that it is guided by the spirit of God, and it is now planning conferences to persuade the people of the "great spiritual good" which its illegal, immoral, unchristian action will bring.

And what of the future? Since there is appeal to Civil Law to enforce religious coercion there can only be appeal to that same Civil Law for protection from that coercion. And in Canada's civil courts and Parliaments truth and righteousness still abide.

Meantime Christ's cause greatly suffers in many ways, and those who are pressing this wrong-doing are responsible for the ills that follow their action.

THEATRES

EVERY ENTERTAINMENT ELEMENT IN "THE FOG."

"The Fog," which comes to the Capitol Theatre on Thursday is one of the outstanding productions of the year, according to advance reports received here. This Metro picture combines every element which goes into the making of a screen masterpiece. The story, by William Dudley is chock full of thrills, pathos and beautiful romance.

And the absorbing story is made to live on the screen by one of the most distinguished groups of players ever assembled for one picture. The cast inclures Mildred Harris, Louis Dresser, Ethel Wales, Louise Fazenda, Cullen Landis, Ralph Lewis, David Butler Majorie Prevoat, Ann May, Frank Currier and Edward Phillips.

The story is based on the struggles of a boy and a girl to pierce the fog of tyranny and misunderstanding which enveloped them. And their final triumph, after many adventures and disillusionments, is brought about through their love for each other.

The story was adapted by W. H. Van Loan. The scenario was prepared by Winifred Dunn. The photoplay was directed by Paul Powell under the personal supervision of Max Graf, and photographed by John R. Arnold.

Round Six of the new series "The Leather Pushers' will be shown as the added attraction.

The audience that saw 'Racing Hearts," at the Capitol Theatre last night got plenty of thrills out of the feature. "It is one of those pictures that you wish wouldn't end so soon," said a spectator. The beautiful Agnes Ayres can evidently do something in pictures besides look pretty. In "Racing Hearts,' she pilots a racing car to victory.

The race is the big feature of the production. All the thrills that the screen has collected in a series of racing episodes are packed into this picture, which will be shown for the last time to-night. The lovely Agnes is the daughter of a rich man. She yearns for speed, and when her driver turns yellow at the last moment, she takes the wheel which pilots the car to victory. There is intrigue and double-dealing and plenty of cross- currents to make the suspense last to the final minute.

The popular Theodore Roberts is the father of the heroine, and Richard Dix her lover.

CURIOUS NOTIONS ABOUT THE U.S.

LONDON, Aug. 8. — Europeans entertain curious notions about life in the United States. Many of them get their impressions from American moving pictures, which feature train robberies, bank hold ups, social scandals, shooting affrays, exciting automobile episodes, and other equally sensational things.

"From personal observation of American films in British cinemas," says a writer in the London Evening News, "we reach the conclusion that America is a large country entirely surrounded by sin and sentiment. It is inhabited in the East by unscrupulous, but enormously successful, business men, who devote their nights to squandering in cabarets their ill gotten gains of the day before. In the West the bad men rob stage-coaches and banks, shoot sheriffs and spend a good deal of time rolling on the ground in attempts to gouge each other's eyes out.

Worse and More of It.

"The North is peopled by bearded scoundrels, who go there to escape from the law, to steal mining claims, and to menace lonely girls snowbound in log cabins. The South is notable for cacti, sand, and half-breeds. The last-named are no particular vice. They are just bad.

"The rich women of the East are notable for the scantiness of their costume, their unchartable attitude toward other women, and for their remarkable bedrooms. These are of enormous size, elaborately decorated, have at least one telephone, and an easy way of egress for heroines and ingress for heroes.

"Sometimes the villain uses one of these entrances, and then the heroine throws a lamp at him and rings up the hero, who was lying awake waiting for the call."

And For the Rest—

"He dashes round in pajamas and an automobile to her rescue just in time to wake up the household and be covered with suspicion.

"In the West and the South very little work is done. The men of the town hang around the 'store' all day long in case they are wanted for a fight, and the women gossip over gates so as to be ready to run into the road and welcome home the blood-stained hero.

"America must be an awfully interesting place to live in; only few of us invertebrate Britons could stand the strain of such an exciting life. It isn't so much the amount of work the Americans do as the suddenness with which they do things, that must tell on them in time. Fortunes are made and homes ruined in America on the screeen in less time than the average Englishman takes to eat his breakfast."

LAST LIGHT BRIGADIER

LONDON, Aug. 7 (United Press).—The long unofficial list of veterans of the charge of the Light Brigade was shortened to one man when the Duke of Connaught announced that Troop Sergeant Major Edwin Hughes, retired, of the 13th Hussars, was the only authentic survivor. Hughes is 92 years old. He is the last of the Light Brigade pensioners on the list of the Royal Patriotic Fund Corporation, of which the Duke is chairman.

THE WEST INDIES

Will Mr. Baldwin's categorical denial that the British Government have ever contemplated the sale of the British West Indies to the United States be sufficient to put an end to this persistent rumor? There have been official denials before, but the report has continued to hold its ground steadily. When first it appeared in Britain, from a palpably American source, it was regarded as a subject of humorous comment. As an example of the fertility of imagination which the American newspaperman is said to possess, it was not without its value but as a serious proposal regarding the settlement of war debts, it was rightly held to be worthless. Yet it cropped up at regular intervals, displaying a dragon-like vitality which defied the swords of criticism and contradiction alike Propaganda poured from its nostrils and though the British Prime Minister has once again struck off its head it will no doubt grow a new one.

For propaganda has this queer result—that in time it hypnotises the people. It is as if M. Coue were to turn international bandit and for some unscrupulous purpose were to persuade a whole nation that they needed to be cured of some ill from which they did not suffer. Though at first the British people burst into mocking laughter so stubborn was the rumor that little by little men fell to wondering whether their elected servants might not have entered into some mercenary negotiations without the consent of their masters. They grew suspicious. Questions were asked in the House of Commons, and even now that the British people have agreed and promised to pay all their indebtedness to the United States, there are still some so simple that they think the rumor may have some foundation in fact. But they are fortunately very few.

* * *

In the United States it is apparently different. In that country, where assets are measured largely by their pecuniary value and sentiment is chiefly confined to the movies, there has been no disposition to doubt the authenticity of the rumor. No matter how the American people at times refer to the conservative tendencies of the British, they do not in their hearts of hearts believe that their Old World cousins are in realtiy poor business men They credit them with very little less than their own ability at spotting a good thing. They know what they would do under similar circumstances—Take the cash and let the credit go. Why should clever traders like the British do anything else? It was very clear to a considerable number of them—that the deal was as good as "cinched" as soon as it was suggested. A few paltry islands, which were of no real commercial value any longer, since the abolition of slavery and the introduction of free trade, what reason would there be in keeping them? But they counted without the true sentiment of the British, a sentiment which is no deep that only those who share it really know of it, a sentiment which could no more permit the sale of their own kith and kin than it could permit the desertion of those whom they have taken under their protection. For there are duties attached to Empire.

* * *

A century and a half ago the British West Indies were a source of great profit for the people of England. Sir Horace Walpole, writing to a friend, complained that it was practically impossible to obtain a seat at Westminster, since all constituencies had been bought by East Indian Nabobs or West Indian merchants. Many a noble family today owes its wealth to the plantations which it used to hold in the Leeward or the Windward Islands. Our Princess Mary herself married a husband whose family owned great West Indies possessions. Jamaica, Antigua, Barbuda, St. Kitts, the Bahamas, Dominica, Barbados, Montserrat, Bermuda, St. Lucia, Grenada, St. Vincent,—what visions these names must conjure in the mind of a man who did not grow up in an atmosphere of barter? Pieces of eight and doubloons, Captain Kidd, Spanish galleons and walking the plank, there is a mystery about them all. With the British perhaps distance may lend enchantment. Ten-storey hotels, jazz-bands and the movies leave little room for illusion.

* * *

Therefore the gods in the United States machine, putting a low assessment on the West Indies from the point of view of Great Britain and a high one from their own, "made a proposition." They suggested that the islands should be ceded in settlement of the war debt. A little later they stated that the suggestion had been received with favor. As time progressed their propaganda became bolder. They did not hesitate to state that "high British officials" had been in communication with the White House on the subject. All of which was intended to hoodwink the people of both countries. It is very certain, therefore, that the men who work the marionettes at Washington have some other project than that of helping Great Britain to settle her liabilities. Some other impetus has urged them to persevere in this ingenuous campaign. What is it—Panama canal or prohibition or both?—J. L. A.

TRENT RIVER DEFEATED CAMPBELLFORD BY 8-4

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 8. — On Friday, Aug. 3, the Trent River baseball team journeyed to Campbellford, where they defeated the mill team of that town by 8 to 4. There were several good plays, the feature of the day was a one handed catch on first base by C. Christie, who stretched lengthways on the ground to capture a wild throw and retire the runner. The best hit of the day was made by Bill Soan, the heavy-hitting third baseman of the Trent River team, who uncorked a mammoth drive to deep centre for three bases. J. Christie held the losers in check throughout the game, only being in trouble in the third inning. Hayward and Plunkett also starred for the winners, while Saunders, Cowell and Archer were best for the losers. Chas. Davidson umpired to the satisfaction of all.

Trent River's line-up was as follows: J. Christie, ph.; H. Plunkett, c.; C. Christie, 1b.; D. Chapman, 2b.; B. Sloan, 3b.; C. Hayward, s.s.; C. Hallowell, l.f.; V. Scott, c.f.; D. Greenly, r.f.

SEES BIG EXPANSION OF U. S. BANKING SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, August 8 (By Canadian Press).—Possibilities of large expansion of the federal reserve banking system are seen here in the recent action of the Federal Reserve Board in opening agencies of the Boston and Atlanta federal reserve banks at Havana.

This action was taken by the board as the result of a strong movement to have a branch bank of the federal reserve system established at Havana. While the establishment of the agencies is by no means the same as the establishment of a new bank, the developments which may follow on it are being keenly watched in financial circles. It is expected to result in stabilization of banking conditions in Cuba, according to officials, and, among other things, to replace the old and worn-out paper currency in Cuba with new federal reserve currency. The possibility that it will ultimately lead to a branch bank is the one in which financial interests are studying more closely.

The impression is strong here that the venture into Havana may be the first step toward making the federal reserve system a power in Latin America. It is known the possibility of putting branch banks into South America has been given serious consideration. That point has not yet been reached but some of the strongest men in the government's financial bodies favor it and look on it as likely to come sooner or later. Symptoms are not lacking of opposition from some of the private banking interests but it is not to be forgotten that these are days when there is a great quest for markets and this quest may lead to the use of the government's great financial agency in ways that would hardly have been thought possible a few years ago.

SWAMPED THE BABIES' CLINIC

Eighty-four Mothers Registered 102 Youngsters Yesterday—Held Clinic Out of Doors.

The Well Babies' Clinic was swamped yesterday. From early to late afternoon, the mothers and infants arrived. There were in all 84 mothers, with a total of 102 babies, some of the ladies bringing two or three children along. The attendant doctors and nurses examined thoroughly 37 new babies, but 20 were left unattended to, through press of time and inability to get through the entire number in one afternoon. Names of these infants were taken and they will be examined, weighed and measured next week at the regular Tuesday meeting. Registration for the baby contest at the Fall Fair closed yesterday afternoon.

The Clinic was held out of doors on the pretty side lawn of the G. W. V. A. Hall. Owing to the presence of the I. O. O. F. Encampment, this was made necessary, but the attending mothers and infants seemed to thoroughly enjoy the innovation, which was made more pleasant by the service of lemonade, supplied by Mrs. James Kendry. The big white tent had a special enclosure for the examining physician, Dr. Phyllis Young, assisted by a fifth year medical student from Toronto, Miss Margaret Baker. Mrs. George McCartney, the Clinic nurse, was as busy as usua, and Mrs. R. . Devey and Mrs. S. F. Touchburn were also on hand. Miss Marjorie Reid and Miss Greta Giles looked after the cards, and Miss Zoe Doyle helped with the tabulating. Mrs. John Black was another efficient worker.

At the Clinic yesterday, it was discovered that one of the entries in the under-developed child class had gained one pound in weight during the last week.

Before erecting the tent on the G. W. V. A. grounds, the Clinic were offered the use of the Peterboro Collegiate grounds by the chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. A. A. Fowler.

The deceased came to Peterborough from Buckhorn six years ago with her parents, Mrs. Sarah Freeburn, by whom she is survived, and the late Robert Freeburn. She was a member of George Street Methodist Church, and for some time a valued member of The Examiner staff. Her death is looked upon as a great loss by her co-workers, she having won her way to the affections of all.

Interment will be made in Lakefield Cemetery to-morrow, service being held at her late residence at 1.30 p.m. Rev. James Rollins will officiate.

A SELF-DAMPING IRON.

As every housewife knows, clothes that are "bone dry" cannot be ironed smooth. Unless one is very fortunate in stopping the drying of the linen at exactly the right moment, each piece must be sprinkled by hand. This operation results in saturating some parts of the fabric whilst others remain quite dry. Even after the material has been rolled up and left for an hour or two, some parts are much wetter than others. All this expenditure of time and trouble is avoided by an electric steam iron recently placed on the market by a British firm. Outwardly an ordinary electric iron, this special pattern contains a small water tank in the pillar which supports the handle. From the tank water falls, one drop at a time, on to the hote sole plate where it is immediately vaporized. The steam formed escapes through perforations in a diagonal line across the bottom of the iron and thus dampens the fabric at the exact moment and in the exact manner required. The amount of steam delivered is adjustable by turning a regulating screw on the drip feed, and if this screw be turned completely "off," the user has at once a dry iron. Every contingency likely to arise from the use of water in the iron itself has been met by prolonged experimental work, and by appropriate design and manufacture. Apart from its domestic uses, the new iron is finding extensive application in laundries, tailor shops, and other commercial concerns.

SUPPRESS UPRISING MINDANAO ISLAND

Pitched Battle Results in Death of Thirty Native Fanatics.

MANILA, Aug. 8.—(United Press.)—Following the complete destruction of a Moro stronghold in a pitched battle, during which 30 native fanatics were killed, it is believed that an uprising which has been brewing all week, has been suppressed.

The battle followed when a band of natives on the Island of Mindanao, led by the famous Guarain, set upon the constabulary, wounding many of them. The Moros had been threatening for some time that they would fight unless they were allowed to punish members of the constabulary for having killed some of their relatives two years ago. Religious fanaticism also played its part, the attackers being part of a group, it is supposed, returning from a pilgrimage to Mecca and desirous of driving the Christians from the island.

WEDDING BELLS

SMITH—GARSIDE.

A quiet wedding took place at half-past three o'clock this afternoon, at the Manse of Park Street Baptist Church, when Rev. W. E. Morrow united in the holy bonds of matrimony Clara Arminthea, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Garside, 199 Reid Street, and Thomas Smith, of Hamilton, formerly of Peterboro, son of Mrs. John Smith, of Peterboro, and the late John Smith.

The bride was attired in grey canton crepe, with hat, shoes and stockings to match, and bouquet of ophelia roses. Attendants were Miss Berenice Garside and Mr. John Smith.

After a wedding luncheon, served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Smith left by motor for New York and Boston, the bride travelling in navy suit, with hat to match. They will reside in Hamilton.

TRUDEAU—REDMOND.

At four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, 7th August, at St. George's Rectory, a quiet wedding was solemnised, the principals being Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Redmond, this city, and Alexander, son of Mrs. Adeline Trudeau, of Montreal.

Rev. W. R. Courage officiated.

QUIZ CORNER

CANADA'S EARLY HISTORY

Q—What are the chief features of Canada's early history?

A—In 1497 Cabot discovered and explored portions of the eastern coast of Canada, and 1534, 36 years later, Jacques Cartier sailed from St. Malo, France, landed at Gaspe, now in the province of Quebec, and took possession of the country in the name of the king of France. A year later, having returned to France in the meantime, he again set sail for Canada. Entering the Gulf of St. Lawrence, he sailed up the River as far as the present site of Montreal and Quebec. De Montes, a French nobleman, sailed with another expedition, this time in charge of Champlain, sailed up the St. Lawrence and laid the foundations of the present city of Quebec and established a trading-post on Mount Royale, the original site of the present city of Montreal, which was founded properly by Maisonneuve in 1642. This was the real beginning of the

IN MEMORIAM.

HARRISON. — In loving memory of Evy and Gerald Harrison, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Harrison (nee Nina Pearson), who were drowned near their home on 2nd June, 1923—Evy aged 5 years 1 month 11 days, Gerald 3 years 11 months 20 days. Interred in the Cemetery at Kincaid, Sask., 4th June.

Tender Shepherd, Thou has stilled
Now Thy little lambs' brief weeping;
Oh! how peaceful, pale and mild
In their narrow bed are sleeping.
And no sigh of anguish sore
Heaves their little bosoms more.

In this world of care and pain,
Lord, Thou wouldst no longer leave them;
To the sunny, heavenly plane
Thou dost now with joy receive them,
Clothed in robes of spotless white
Now they dwell with Thee in light.

Oh, Lord Jesus, grant that we
Where they live may soon be living.
And the lovely pastures see
That their heavenly food are giving;
Then the gain of death we prove
Though Thou take what most we love.

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, August 8th. Symbol.—Speculative interest was curtailed in the early dealings by the prospect of the 50 minutes suspension of business in the middle of the session because of the funeral service for President Harding in Washington. Despite the limited trading, however, the general list displayed a confident tone Studebaker, Baldwin and other industrial leaders reached new highs on the movement. Explanation for the recent strength of the Erie's issues was found in the optimistic statement of Vice-President Pownell that the road had enjoyed record traffic in the first six months of the year and prospects were bright for heavy business during the other five. Steel and tube preferred jumped to 116¾ up 1 1-2, reflecting the call for retirement of the issue at 110. Trading proceeded in a perfunctory fashion up to the time the exchange took its recess at 11 o'clock till 12.30 in observance of the funeral services for the late President Harding in Washington.

Rails continued to display a steady tone under the influence of a new high on the move in Union Pacific which reached 128 but the industrials were unsettled by the dropping out of renewed weakness in several issues.

Central leather dropped to a new low for the year at 141¼ compared with a pre-war low of 11 7-8 The conditions in the leather industry.

Allied chemicals also went into new low territory for the year at 61 on selling based on apprehension regarding foreign competition. The up-spring in Mack truck was not checked by the hesitancy of the general list. The stock reached a new high on recovery at 75½ in response to company's remarkable earnings exhibit for first six months when $13.23 was shown for the common.

TENNIS BEGINNERS

The Forehand Stroke

The forehand stroke is the main stock-in-trade of all tennis players. There have been champions with nothing else and no player ever goes far without a strong or steady forehand.

There are three orthodox ways of playing this shot, known generally as the Lawford, the chop, and the side arm swing. The Lawford stroke is made by standing with the feet fairly well together, almost facing the net and hitting the ball a about the height of the shins with a drawing up movement. This imparts top spin to the ball making it curve down and gives it a fast bounce. It was considered the last word in ground strokes in its day and it is still a very useful stroke for getting through a narrow opening, as its left and right accuracy is easily controlled. It is also an easy stroke for beginners as the footwork required comes naturally to most players. It requires, however, great accuracy in elevation and for this reason, its use is responsible for a great many nets and outs.

The chop stroke is almost obsolete in tennis, but it had a great vogue and is a useful stroke, particularly on a high ball. It is made by hitting the ball with the head of the racquet well up and imparting side spin by a cut or side stroke on the ball When properly made the ball will not bounce very high, but it is almost impossible to get enough face to make it effective.

The side arm swing eliminates most of the defects of the preceding strokes and is the most used and useful stroke in tennis to-day. It requires good footwork and good timing, but its possibilities in speed and direction are almost unlimited. In making this stroke, the feet should be in such position that a line drawn through toe, will be in line with the flight of the ball. This means that in most instances the player will stand sideways to the net. The ball should be hit at a height somewhere between the knee and thigh. The stroke should be followed through and on the follow-through the wrist should be turned back enough ti impart top spin to the ball. In making this stroke the weight should be on the right foot in starting and shifted on the left in making the sroke. The fee should be far enough away from the ball as to almost straighten the arm in making the stroke. Avoid a cramped elbow at all costs. There is no limit to the force with which such a stroke may be made provided the necessary top spin is put on. If the footwork is good the elevatioon will be automatic; if the timing is good the direction will be certain. Beginners should try above all else for good footwork and to "feel" the ball on the racquet which indicates the correct follow-through. Acquire accuracy before thinking of speed.

The next article will deal with the back hand stroke.

INVISIBLE BELL WIRE.

Electric bell wire of the highest quality; when properly laid in the plaster of walls, is both concealed and durable. As generally installed, however, ordinary bell wire "laid solid" is soon corroded and, being inaccessible, it is replaced by new wires stapled on to the surface. Whether it be fixed by a professional wireman or by amateur talent such surface wiring is more or less unsightly, particularly when dust accumulates round it and when the wire begins to sag. A simple remedy for these troubles has been found by a British firm and consists in using flat wires. Two copper strips, each five-thousandths of an inch (about 0.125 mm.) in thickness and less than one-eighth of an inch (3 mm.) wide, are laid side by side between two tapes of insulating paper which are stuck together by a special adhesive. The finished product appears outwardly to be but a strip of paper five-eighths of an inch (15 mm.) wide which can be laid under wallpaper, carpet, or oil-cloth, and is then quite invisible. Alternatively it can be laid on the surface of a wall and painted or distempered to match its surroundings. It can be installed more quickly than the ordinary bell wire, and its invisibility is particularly valuable in the wiring of burglar alarm circuits. Naturally the success of the new wire depends upon the quality of the materials used and upon the details of manufacture, to all of which the closest attention has been given.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—From time to time appear letters in your paper favoring the conscription of certain articles which some people think are not good for others. This application of the principle of force to private life is something new. Heretofore individual liberty was considered sacred. But now we have people, some of whom cannot much more than read and write, telling the world what it has got to do. This new line of procedure means of course continued strife between those who are doing the dictating and those being dictated to. It is the most disastrous move ever made by people troubled, as people are sometimes, by a form of emotional insanity. Their mistake their good impulses for world-beaters like the little girl who cut the dog's tail off so that it would not have so much to wag. We are being hurried on to a state of strife, hatred and disorder which, while it will not gain the end it started out to gain, will leave us in the hands of a principle of force from which there will be no escape, and which we cannot deny is of our own making. God's plan of salvation is no longer popular. How could it be when we have people who know nothing of the basis of morals or the history of human development, advocating measures for popular reform which may do very well with cockroaches in the kitchen, but have no place in humanity. It is Socialism.

THE ASSEMBLY AND "CHURCH UNION."

To the Edtior of The Examiner:

Sir,—As the Presbyterian Assembly's recent action affects not only the thing miscalled "Union," but the wider question of Religious Liberty in Canada, will you kindly permit a word, first to all the churches and then to Presbyterians.

First—to all the churches. A majority of that Assembly resolved on asking Parliament as follows: To create by Civil Law a new church, to coerce into that new church by Civil Law the unwilling Presbyterians, to confiscate and transfer to that new church by Civil Law all trust funds given to the Presbyterian church for her work, and, by Civil Law, to blot out forever the present Presbyterian church, so that none of those thus driven out of her could ever again return to her as a church home. That action of Assembly does not decide anything. "Church Union" is not settled. The Assembly has no power to settle it but is asking Parliament to settle it by Civil Law.

That action of the Assembly is a menace to religious liberty, and lovers of liberty, in all the churches, should resist to the uttermost, in Parliament and elsewhere, this attempted revival of official ecclesiastical despotism. If Parliament should pass this "Church Union Bill' 'no church would be safe. Any one might wake up some morning and find himself by Act of Parliament, a member of some new church that he does not approve, and the church of his choice gone forever. No institution of any kind—school, hospital or asylum—depending upon trust funds, would be safe, for these funds might be confiscated at any time by similar Acts of Parliament and handed over to some new control never intended by the donors. It would destroy the sacredness of the trust, one of the safeguards of British and Christian civilization.

And now a word to Presbyterians. That action of the Assembly is illegal, immoral, unchristian. This is said advisedly and with deep regret that it should be so sadly true.

(1) It is illegal, contrary to the Assembly's own constitution and laws. The Assembly as a church court is appointed solely and only to carry on the work of the Presbyterian church for the kingdom of God and is pledged to "maintain and defend the same," and "to follow no divisive course from the present order established therein." The Assembly has no shadow of right to attempt to transfer, alienate, close up, blot out the Presbyterian church, as an organization. In making that attempt the Assembly breaks its own laws and is faithless to the trust committed to its care.

(2) That action of the Assembly is immoral. It disregards all agreements as to the only conditions upon which "Union" would be attempted. At the outset in 1905 there was unanimous agreement that Union "must carry the consent of the entire membership." Again in 1912 when the first vote of the people gave more than fifty thousand against it, there was unanimous agreement that the movement be halted for "practically unanimous action."

Yet again in 1917, after a second vote of the people had given more than seventy-three thousand against it, and "to avoid disunion among the membership of our own church," the movement was halted a second time, there was a third unaimous agreement that any "action appropriate to a future period" should be left to "new light" by "Divine guidance through the growing experience of the people and the lessons of the war."

And now a majority of the Assembly, disregarding all these agreements, and ignoring the people, both as to their increased opposition at the second vote and their experience and the lessons of the war, attempts on a vote of one third of the membership taken eight years ago, to disband by Civil Law the church entrusted to its care. Any secular organization that would so treat its engagements would be forever discredited. The Montreal Standard, speaking of a recent labour strike, says: "The work of the world is carried on largely by the faith of man in each other that they will keep their word. If they will not then the world might as well shut up shop, for chaos ensues."

But is not the Presbyterian church pledged to the other churches? Certainly not. Not one has any right to pledge that church to give up her identity. If any feel that they have pledge that church to give up her go, but the Presbyterian church will remain, in unity and brotherhood with the world-wide Christian church, a loyal regiment in the world-wide Christian army under Christ its king.

(3) This action of the Assembly is unChristian. Christ's law for the Christian life is: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so to them." The coercionists would not like to be driven, by Civil Law, into a church where they did not believe it their duty to go, but that is what they are trying to do to others.

All who wish a new church are free to withdraw from the Presbyterian church. But not satisfied with liberty for themselves they deny it to others. It is unChristian.

There are two pitiably sad features of this miscalled "Union" Movement. One is that it has so completely blinded some good men to fairness, honour, justice, truth. The other is its constant effort to cover its moral nakedness by spiritual phraseology. Its latest official statement, since the Assembly, consists almost wholly of assertions that it is guided by the spirit of God, and it is now planning conferences to persuade the people of the "great spiritual good" which its illegal, immoral, unchristian action will bring.

And what of the future? Since there is appeal to Civil Law to enforce religious coercion there can only be appeal to that same Civil Law for protection from that coercion. And in Canada's civil courts and Parliaments truth and righteousness still abide.

Meantime Christ's cause greatly suffers in many ways, and those who are pressing this wrong-doing are responsible for the ills that follow their action.

THEATRES

EVERY ENTERTAINMENT ELEMENT IN "THE FOG."

"The Fog," which comes to the Capital Theatre on Thursday is one of the outstanding productions of the year, according to advance reports received here. This Metro picture combines every element which goes into the making of a screen masterpiece. The story, by William Dudley is chock full of thrills, pathos and beautiful romance.

And the absorbing story is made to live on the screen by one of the most distinguished groups of players ever assembled for on picture. The cast inclures Mildred Harris, Louis Dresser, Ethel Wales, Louise Fazenda, Cullen Landis, Ralph Lewis, David Butler Majorie Prevost, Ann May, Frank Currier and Edward Phillips.

The story is based on the struggles of a boy and a girl to pierce the fog of tyranny and misunderstanding which enveloped them. And their final triumph, after many adventures and disillusionments, is brought about through their love for each other.

The story was adapted by W. H. Van Loan. The scenario was prepared by Winifred Dunn. The photoplay was directed by Paul Powell under the personal supervision of Max Graf, and photographed by John R. Arnold.

Round Six of the new series "The Leather Pushers' will be shown as the added attraction.

---

The audience that saw 'Racing Hearts," at the Capitol Theatre last night got plenty of thrills out of the feature. "It is one of those pictures that you wish wouldn't end so soon," said a spectator. The beautiful Agnes Ayres can evidently do something in pictures besides look pretty. In "Racing Hearts,' she pilots a racing car to victory.

The race is the big feature of the production. All the thrills that the screen has collected in a series of racing episodes are packed into this picture, which will be shown for the last time to-night. The lovely Agnes is the daughter of a rich man. She yearns for speed, and when her driver turns yellow at the last moment, she takes the wheel which pilots the car to victory. There is intrigue and double-dealing and plenty of cross- currents to make the suspense last to the final minute.

The popular Theodore Roberts is the father of the heroine, and Richard Dix her lover.

CURIOUS NOTIONS ABOUT THE U.S.

LONDON, Aug. 8. — Europeans entertain curious notions about life in the United States. Many of them get their impressions from American moving pictures, which feature train robberies, bank hold ups, social scandals, shooting affrays, exciting automobile episodes, and other equally sensational things.

"From personal observation of American films in British cinemas," says a writer in the London Evening News, "we reach the conclusion that America is a large country entirely surrounded by sin and sentiment. It is inhabited in the East by unscrupulous, but enormously successful, business men, who devote their nights to squandering in cabarets their ill gotten gains of the day before. In the West the bad men rob stage-coaches and banks, shoot sheriffs and spend a good deal of time rolling on the ground in attempts to gouge each other's eyes out.

Worse and More of It.

"The North is peopled by bearded scoundrels, who go there to escape from the law, to steal mining claims, and to menace lonely girls snowbound in log cabins. The South is notable for cacti, sand, and half-breeds. The last-named are no particular vice. They are just bad.

"The rich women of the East are notable for the scantiness of their costume, their unchar table attitude toward other women, and for their remarkable bedrooms. These are of enormous size, elaborately decorated, have at least one telephone, and an easy way of egress for heroines and ingress for heroes.

"Sometimes the villain uses one of these entrances, and then the heroine throws a lamp at him and rings up the hero, who was lying awake waiting for the call."

And For the Rest—

"He dashes round in pajamas and an automobile to her rescue just in time to wake up the household and be covered with suspicion.

"In the West and the South very little work is done. The men of the town hang around the 'store' all day long in case they are wanted for a fight, and the women gossip over gates so as to be ready to run into the road and welcome home the blood-stained hero.

"America must be an awfully interesting place to live in; only few of us invertebrate Britons could stand the strain of such an exciting life. It isn't so much the amount of work the Americans do as the suddenness with which they do things, that must tell on them in time. Fortunes are made and homes ruined in America on the screen in less time than the average Englishman takes to eat his breakfast."

LAST LIGHT BRIGADIER

LONDON, Aug. 7 (United Press).—The long unofficial list of veterans of the charge of the Light Brigade was shortened to one man when the Duke of Connaught announced that Troop Sergeant Major Edwin Hughes, retired, of the 13th Hussars, was the only authentic survivor. Hughes is 92 years old. He is the last of the Light Brigade pensioners on the list of the Royal Patriotic Fund Corporation, of which the Duke is chairman.

THE WEST INDIES

Will Mr. Baldwin's categorical denial that the British Government have ever contemplated the sale of the British West Indies to the United States be sufficient to put an end to this persistent rumour? There have been official denials before, but the report has continued to hold its ground steadily. When first it appeared in Britain, from a palpably American source, it was regarded as a subject of humorous comment. As an example of the fertility of imagination which the American newspaperman is said to possess, it was not without its value but as a serious proposal regarding the settlement of war debts, it was rightly held to be worthless. Yet it cropped up at regular intervals, displaying a dragon-like vitality which defied the swords of criticism and contradiction alike Propaganda poured from its nostrils and though the British Prime Minister has once again struck off its head it will no doubt grow a new one.

For propaganda has this queer result—that in time it hypnotises the people. It is as if Mr. Cous were to turn international bandit and for some unscrupulous purpose were to persuade a whole nation that they needed to be cured of some ill from which they did not suffer. Though at first the British people burst into mocking laughter so stubborn was the rumor that little by little men fell to wondering whether their elected servants might not have entered into some mercenary negotiations without the consent of their masters. They grew suspicious. Questions were asked in the House of Commons, and even now that the British people have agreed and promised to pay all their indebtedness to the United States, there are still some so simple that they think the rumor may have some foundation in fact. But they are fortunately very few.

* * *

In the United States it is apparently different. In that country, where assets are measured largely by their pecuniary value and sentiment is chiefly confined to the movies, there has been no disposition to doubt the authenticity of the rumor. No matter how the American people at times refer to the conservative tendencies of the British, they do not in their hearts of hearts believe that their Old World cousins are in realtiy poor business men They credit them with very little less than their own ability at spotting a good thing. They know what they would do under similar circumstances—Take the cash and let the credit go. Why should clever traders like the British do anything else? It was very clear to a considerable number of them—that the deal was as good as "cinched" as soon as it was suggested. A few paltry islands, which were of no real commercial value any longer, since the abolition of slavery and the introduction of free trade, what reason would there be in keeping them? But they counted without the true sentiment of the British, a sentiment which lies so deep that only those who share it really know of it, a sentiment which could no more permit the sale of their own kith and kin than it could permit the desertion of those whom they have taken under their protection. For there are duties attached to Empire.

* * *

A century and a half ago the British West Indies were a source of great profit for the people of England. Sir Horace Walpole, writing to a friend, complained that it was practically impossible to obtain a seat at Westminster, since all constituencies had been bought by East Indian Nabobs or West Indian merchants. Many a noble family today owes its wealth to the plantations which it used to hold in the Leeward or the Windward Islands. Our Princess Mary herself married a husband whose family owned great West Indies possessions. Jamaica, Antigua, Barbuda, St. Kitts, the Bahamas, Dominica, Barbados, Montserrat, Bermuda, St. Lucia, Grenada, St. Vincent,—what visions these names must conjure in the mind of a man who did not grow up in an atmosphere of barter? Pieces of eight and doubloons, Captain Kidd, Spanish galleons and walking the plank, there is a mystery about them all. With the British perhaps distance may lend enchantment. Ten-storey hotels, jazz-bands and the movies leave little room for illusion.

* * *

Therefore the gods in the United States machine, putting a low assessment on the West Indies from the point of view of Great Britain and a high one from their own, "made a proposition." They suggested that the islands should be ceded in settlement of the war debt. A little later they stated that the suggestion had been received with favor. As time progressed their propaganda became bolder. They did not hesitate to state that "high British officials" had been in communication with the White House on the subject. All of which was intended to hoodwink the people of both countries. It is very certain, therefore, that the men who work the marionettes at Washington have some other project than that of helping Great Britain to settle her liabilities. Some other impetus has urged them to persevere in this ingenuous campaign. What is it—Panama canal or prohibition or both?—J. L. A.

TRENT RIVER DEFEATED CAMPBELLFORD BY 8-4

TRENT RIVER, Aug. 8. — On Friday, Aug. 3, the Trent River baseball team journeyed to Campbellford, where they defeated the mill team of that town by 8 to 4. There were several good plays, the feature of the day was a one handed catch on first ba- by C. Christie, who stretched lengthways on the ground to capture a wild throw and retire the runner. The best hit of the day was made by Bill Soan, the heavy-hitting third baseman of the Trent River team, who uncorked a mammoth drive to deep centre for three bases. J. Christie held the losers in check throughout the game, only being in trouble in the third inning. Hayward and Plunkett also starred for the winners, while Saunders, Cowell and Archer were best for the losers. Chas. Davidson umpired to the satisfaction of all.

Trent River's line-up was as follows: J. Christie, p.; H. Plunkett, c.; C. Christie, 1b.; D. Chapman, 2b.; B. Sloan, 3b.; C. Hayward, s.s.; C. Hallowell, l.f.; V. Scott, c.f.; D. Greenly, r.f.

SEES BIG EXPANSION OF U. S. BANKING SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, August 8 (By Canadian Press).—Possibilities of large expansion of the federal reserve banking system are seen here in the recent action of the Federal Reserve Board in opening agencies of the Boston and Atlanta federal reserve banks at Havana.

This action was taken by the board as the result of a strong movement to have a branch bank of the federal reserve system established at Havana. While the establishment of the agencies is by no means the same as the establishment of a new bank, the developments which may follow on it are being keenly watched in financial circles. It is expected to result in stabilization of banking conditions in Cuba, according to officials, and, among other things, to replace the old and worn-out paper currency in Cuba with new federal reserve currency. The possibility that it will ultimately lead to a branch bank is the one in which financial interests are studying more closely.

The impression is strong here that the venture into Havana may be the first step toward making the federal reserve system a power in Latin America. It is known the possibility of putting branch banks into South America has been given serious consideration. That point has not yet been reached but some of the strongest men in the government's financial bodies favor it and look on it as likely to come sooner or later. Symptoms are not lacking of opposition from some of the private banking interests but it is not to be forgotten that these are days when there is a great quest for markets and this quest may lead to the use of the government's great financial agency in ways that would hardly have been thought possible a few years ago.

SWAMPED THE BABIES' CLINIC

Eighty-four Mothers Registered 102 Youngsters Yesterday—Held Clinic Out of Doors.

The Well Babies' Clinic was swamped yesterday. From early to late afternoon, the mothers and infants arrived. There were in all 84 mothers, with a total of 102 babies, some of the ladies bringing two or three children along. The attendant doctors and nurses examined thoroughly 37 new babies, but 20 were left unattended to, through press of time and inability to get through the entire number in one afternoon. Names of these infants were taken and they will be examined, weighed and measured next week at the regular Tuesday meeting. Registration for the baby contest at the Fall Fair closed yesterday afternoon.

The Clinic was held out of doors on the pretty side lawn of the G. W. V. A. Hall. Owing to the presence of the I. O. O. F. Encampment, this was made necessary, but the attending mothers and infants seemed to thoroughly enjoy the innovation, which was made more pleasant by the service of lemonade, supplied by Mrs. James Kendry. The big white tent had a special enclosure for the examining physician, Dr. Phyllis Young, assisted by a fifth year medical student from Toronto, Miss Margaret Baker. Mrs. George McCartney, the Clinic nurse, was as busy as usua, and Mrs. R. .. Devey and Mrs. S. F. Touchburn were also on hand. Miss Marjorie Best and Miss Greta Giles looked after the cards, and Miss Zoe Doyle helped with the tabulating. Mrs. John Black was another efficient worker.

At the Clinic yesterday, it was discovered that one of the entries in the under-developed child class had gained one pound in weight during the last week.

Before erecting the tent on the G. W. V. A. grounds, the Clinic were offered the use of the Peterboro Collegiate grounds by the chairman of the Board of Education, Mr. A. A. Fowler.

The death occurred yesterday evening of Zetta Audrey Freeburn, at the family residence ,104 Dublin Street, after a lingering illness.

The deceased came to Peterborough from Buckhorn six years ago with her parents, Mrs. Sarah Freeburn, by whom she is survived, and the late Robert Freeburn. She was a member of George Street Methodist Church, and for some time a valued member of The Examiner staff. Her death is looked upon as a great loss by her co-workers, she having won her way to the affections of all.

Interment will be made in Lakefield Cemetery to-morrow, service being held at her late residence at 1.30 p.m. Rev. James Rollins will officiate.

A SELF-DAMPING IRON.

As every housewife knows, clothes that are "bone dry" cannot be ironed smooth. Unless one is very fortunate in stopping the drying of the linen at exactly the right moment, each piece must be sprinkled by hand. This operation results in saturating some parts of the fabric whilst others remain quite dry. Even after the material has been rolled up and left for an hour or two, some parts are much wetter than others. All this expenditure of time and trouble is avoided by an electric steam iron recently placed on the market by a British firm. Outwardly an ordinary electric iron, this special pattern contains a small water tank in the pillar which supports the handle. From the tank water falls, one drop at a time, on to the hote sole plate where it is immediately vaporized. The steam formed escapes through perforations in a diagonal line across the bottom of the iron and thus dampens the fabric at the exact moment and in the exact manner required. The amount of steam delivered is adjustable by turning a regulating screw on the drip feed, and if this screw be turned completely "off," the user has at once a dry iron. Every contingency likely to arise from the use of water in the iron itself has been met by prolonged experimental work, and by appropriate design and manufacture. Apart from its domestic uses, the new iron is finding extensive application in laundries, tailor shops, and other commercial concerns.

SUPPRESS UPRISING MINDANAO ISLAND

Pitched Battle Results in Death of Thirty Native Fanatics.

MANILA, Aug. 8.—(United Press.)—Following the complete destruction of a Moro stronghold in a pitched battle, during which 30 native fanatics were killed, it is believed that an uprising which has been brewing all week, has been suppressed.

The battle followed when a band of natives on the Island of Mindanao, led by the famous Guarain, set upon the constabulary, wounding many of them. The Moros had been threatening for some time that they would fight unless they were allowed to punish members of the constabulary for having killed some of their relatives two years ago. Religious fanaticism also played its part, the attackers being part of a group, it is supposed, returning from a pilgrimage to Mecca and desirous of driving the Christians from the island.

QUIZ CORNER

CANADA'S EARLY HISTORY

Q—What are the chief features of Canada's early history?

A—In 1497 Cabot discovered and explored portions of the eastern coast of Canada, and 1534, 36 years later, Jacques Cartier sailed from St. Malo, France, landed at Gaspe, now in the province of Quebec, and took possession of the country in the name of the king of France. A year later, having returned to France in the meantime, he again set sail for Canada. Entering the Gulf of St. Lawrence, he sailed up the River as far as the present site of Montreal and Quebec. De Montes, a French nobleman, sailed with another expedition, this time in charge of Champlain, sailed up the St. Lawrence and laid the foundations of the present city of Quebec and established a trading-post on Mount Royale, the original site of the present city of Montreal, which was founded properly by Maisonneuve in 1642. This was the real beginning of the

Tender Shepherd, Thou has stilled
Now Thy little lambs' brief weeping;
Oh! how peaceful, pale and mild
In their narrow bed are sleeping.
And no sigh of anguish sore
Heaves their little bosoms more.

In this world of care and pain,
Lord, Thou wouldst no longer leave them;
To the sunny, heavenly plane
Thou dost now with joy receive them,
Clothed in robes of spotless white
Now they dwell with Thee in light.

Oh, Lord Jesus, grant that we
Where they live may soon be living,
And the lovely pastures see
That their heavenly food are giving;
Then the pain of death we prove
Though Thou take what most we love.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — and New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, August 8th. Special.—Speculative interest was enthralled in the early dealings by the prospect of the 80 minutes suspension of business in the middle of the session because of the funeral service for President Harding in Washington. Despite the limited trading, however, the general list displayed a confident tone Studebaker, Baldwin and other industrial leaders reached new highs on the movement. Explanation for the recent strength of the Erie's issues was found in the optimistic statement of Vice-President Powell that the road had enjoyed record traffic in the first six months of the year and prospects were bright for heavy business during the other five. Steel and tube preferred jumped to 116½ up 1 1-2, reflecting the call for retirement of the issue at 110. Trading proceeded in a perfunctory fashion up to the time the exchange took its recess at 11 o'clock till 12.30 in observance of the funeral services for the late President Harding in Washington.

Rails continued to display a steady tone under the influence of a new high on the move in Union Pacific which reached 128 but the industrials were unsettled by the dropping out of renewed weakness in several issues

Central leather dropped to a new low for the year at 141/4 compared with a previous low of 11 7-8 The drop reflected the poor trade conditions in the leather industry.

Allied chemicals also went into new low territory for the year at 61 on selling based on apprehension regarding foreign competition The up-spring in Mack truck was not checked by the hesitancy of the general list. The stock reached a new high on recovery at 75½ in response to company's remarkable earnings exhibit for first six months when $13.23 was shown for the common.

Opening prices included Studebaker 104 3-4 up 3-8; Amer Loco 73 7-8 up 3-8; Baldwin 114¼ up 3-8; Amer Can 69 3-8; Bethlehem Steel 48½ up 3-8; United States Steel 88 7-8; Erie 13 up 1-8; St. Paul 16¾ up 1-4; Union Pacific 127 3-8; Penn 43 1-8; Marland 30 1-8 up ¼; Texas Co. 42 1-4 up 1-4; N.Y.C. 97 3-4 up 1-8.

DRAFT TREATY PROVIDING FOR DISARMAMENT

Efforts of Nations' League to Assure World Peace Culminate in Publication of Proposition.

CURB AGGRESSION

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(Special).—The efforts of the League of Nations' Disarmament Commission to find a mutual guarantee treaty which will effectively permit of international disarmament culminated Wednesday in the publication of a draft treaty which will be submitted to the league. The treaty provides:

1.—Signatory powers pledge themselves not to make war against other signatory powers.

2.—They undertake to assist any signatory power attacked which had disarmed in accordance with the provisions of the treaty.

3.—The undertaking extends only to their own continent, however.

4.—In case of hostilities the League Council would apply economic pressure, sanction loan funds and take military measures against the aggressor.

5.—Signatory powers agree to co-operate in any plan for reduction of armaments which is suggested by the League Council. This treaty will be first submitted to the League Council, and later to all league powers for approval.

French members of the commission made formal reservations to the clause admitting nations not represented in the league, while Italy reserved adhesion to the agreement until the League Council had discussed it.

FUNERAL RITES OF SMALL TOWN

Touching Simplicity Will Mark Interment at Marion of the Late President Harding.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—His home town of Marion to-day was eagerly awaiting the arrival of the funeral train bearing back to Ohio the body of the late Warren G. Harding.

The train with the body of the dead President was due to arrive here at 10 a.m., central standard time, preparatory to the final funeral services to-morrow that will be in direct contrast to the official services held yesterday in the Capitol at Washington. Latest advices were that the train would be more than two hours behind its schedule. The simple services here to-morrow will be for Warren G. Harding, citizen, friend, neighbor and husband.

For two days his friends and neighbors will accord the late President the customary funeral rites of the small towns of the Middle West, and then, with strict simplicity, will accompany Mrs. Harding and the body to the cemetery, where it will be entombed to-morrow afternoon. The only funeral services here will be at the cemetery, and they will be extremely brief and simple, in accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Harding. Only relatives and intimate friends will make up the small party going to the cemetery.

ROBBER SUSPECT WAS RELEASED

Allowed Bail in Securities Amounting to $15,000 —Complains of Detention in Jail.

TORONTO, August 9 (Canadian Press). — Having spent four days in custody on a charge of being implicated in the downtown bank messenger robbery of 24th July, William Morton of Detroit was released yesterday afternoon on bail.

Securities amounting to $15,000 were furnished by Morton's brother, who arrived in Toronto on Tuesday morning.

Crown Attorney J. E. Murphy approved the application for bail.

The prisoner was brought before Magistrate Cohen in the City Hall, where he was bound over on bail to appear in the Police Court on 15th August.

Morton complained of being detained so long in custody. He said he had agreed to come to Toronto and clear himself of any blame. On his arrival here, he said, he was kept in custody and even not allowed to shave.

RUSSIAN DIPLOMATS FLOOD U.S. WITH BOOTLEG JEWELS

French Officers Accuse Soviets High in Rank of Abusing the Privilege of Unsearched Baggage —One Smuggler Admits Guilt

PARIS, Aug. 9.— (United Press.) — "Bootleg Jewels," smuggled out of Russia in diplomatic pouches, are flooding the United States, according to information received by the French Secret Service.

French officers accuse the Soviet diplomats of abusing the privilige of unsearched baggage to bring millions of francs worth of jewels, stolen from churches and the old aristocracy of Russia, to France and, later shipping the precious stones to the United States. The French Minister of Finance states that one diplomatic smuggler, whose name was withheld, has been arrested and has admitted that the 2,000,000 francs worth of jewels in his pouch were destined for America's rich.

SPIRITUALISTS STARTLED NOW BY PHENOMENA

Face of Dean Liddell, 25 Years Dead, Appears on Wall of Oxford Cathedral.

NATURAL ORIGIN

LONDON, Aug. 9. — (United Press.)—The face of Dean Liddell, who died more than 25 years ago, has appeared on the east wall of Christ Church Cathedral at Oxford, according to the Daily Express. The mortar and cement on the wall are drying up with age in such a way as to leave a white patch of cement the size of a man's head, standing out from the darker color of the wall. This patch has assumed the exact features of the famous Dean. The face appears in profile of the chin, nose and head with a bald crown; the curley white hair below it was clearly formed.

The strange phenomena appears all the more startling because it is just below the memorial window set up for him. The head faces his wife's tablet, which is engraved in Latin, "Farewell, sweetest and dearest, farewell."

Two Explanations.

Two explanations are offered. The first is the natural one of coincidence. Those who hold this theory say that the face has been accidentally formed by damp stains. The second is that of supernatural significance, Oxford spiritualists declaring that it was planted by "thought impressions" of some one in the other world, or the constant mental concentration on the face of the dean, coupled with concentration on the memorial window that honors him would cause a pheonmena, they assert.

Hundreds of English and American visitors are flocking to Oxford to study the picture, while controversy ranges in spiritualistic circles.

Dean Liddell, was the father of "Alice," for whom Louis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" was written. The plot of the story was thought out in the Dean's garden only a few yards away from the Cathedral.

FARMERS HERE NEEDING HELP

And Yet Big Party of Harvesters From District is Going West on Monday

That a big party of harvesters will go from this district to the West is evidenced by the fact that the C. N. R. will have two special coaches for their accomodation on a train on Monday. Only three or four enquiries have been received at the Government Employmena Bureau, and it was thought that most of the farm help would be taken up in this district, where it is much needed. Enquiries continue to flood the Employment office here and farmers are greatly handicapped by lack of help.

A large number of men who will leave for the west on Monday are from the country district and the small towns around Peterboro.

A Big Project.

A big project of the Canadian National Railways at Midland, the building of a new elevator, is expected to take into employment about 2,000 men. The contractors are almost ready to commence pouring the cement in the construction of this building.

A BIG CAMPAIGN FOR IMMIGRANTS

Ontario's Greatest Needs Are Farm and Domestic Help.

TORONTO, August 9 (Canadian Press), — "I have in contemplation a vigorous campaign for immigration into Ontario next spring, and Agent-General Noxon's visit is in view to deciding the best methods to adopt in that campaign," stated the Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, yesterday concerning the Agent-General's coming visit. ....

Hon. Mr. Martin prescribed Ontario's greatest immigration needs are farm help and domestics, and strenuous efforts would be made, he said, to direct this class of emigration from the British Isles into Ontario. He believes for one thing that Ontario's office accommodation in London is totally unsuitable to the prestige and requirements of the banner Province ,and that one of the reasons that Ontario has missed large numbers of splendid emigrants has been that the Old Country people have been poorly informed of Ontario's needs and opportunities.

REJECTED THE APPEAL OF KRUPP DIRECTORS

PARIS, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.)— The Circuit of Cassaton to-day rejected the appeal of Baron Krupp Von Bohlen, head of the Krupp plant at Essen, and the other directors of the Krupp company, from the sentences imposed upon them by the French court martial at Werden, overruling the contention of the German counsel that the offence was not committed in enemy territory.

SUCCESSOR OF PRES. HARDING LIKE LINCOLN

Lifelong Friend of New United States Leader, Passing Through Peterboro, Gives His Verdict

WORKED HIS WAY UP

"Calvin Coolidge is the second Lincoln of America," said Isaac M. Crane, leading attorney in Northampton, Mass., when interviewed by the Examiner.

Mr. Crane was on a visit to the Kawartha Lakes when the news of President Harding's death reached him, and he left his camp immediately to return home. Breakdowns and other delays detained him, and he only reached Peterborough yesterday afternoon. He left last night, intending to make the journey to his home in the shortest possible time.

Mr. Crane expects to be closely associated with Acting President Coolidge. They have been life-long friends, having gone to school together, attended Amherst College together, and graduated in the same year, 1895.

Asked what was Mr. Coolidge's characteristic, the visitor said the new President is marked by his coolness and clear-headedness. "At school I remember we called him "Cool" as an abbreviation of his name. He was about 18, and it was seldom indeed that he became flustered. It was a fitting sobriquet. Later in life, when he attended Amherst College, some of the seniors said he was well named "Calvin," and called him strait-laced because he refused to join in questionable revels."

Worked His Way Up.

"President Coolidge has a great deal of native common-sense, and on top of that he has a legal training and experience in politics that make him an influence in the affairs of the country," Mr. Crane said. "He started in his public career as a member of the City Council of Northampton, the place where he studied law, and progressed steadily upward through the offices of City Solicitor and Mayor to the House of Representatives and the Senate of Massachusetts, in which he was President. He was Lieutenant-Governor and later Governor of his State, and was elected Vice-President of the United States in 1920."

Remarking that on close acquaintance Mr. Coolidge has a most lovable disposition, Mr. Crane said he gained friends everywhere. "Although people find him at first almost taciturn, his friends appreciate the sterling quality of the friendship he gives when cultivated."

A Second Lincoln.

"President Coolidge is like Lincoln in his rugged adherence to right principles; his high standard of honor; his personal progressiveness and his family life. Coolidge is a great man and will go far. He was the first Vice-President in the history of the United States to be admitted to the President's Cabinet meetings, and through them he gained a unique acquaintanceship with the duties of his new office."

Mr. Crane intimated that President Coolidge maintains an office in Northampton, but only turned to the practice of law incidentally. He would not say in what way he expects to be associated with the President.

GAVE VARIETY ENTERTAINMENT CLOSING MEET

Local Supporters of the Chautauqua Are Not Downhearted Over the Results.

COME BACK AGAIN

This year's Chautauqua programme concluded yesterday with an afternoon and evening session. A noticeable feature of this year's offerings was the fact that they progressed just as satisfactorily as they began.

Yesterday's programme, the last of the six days, were just as entertaining to their audiences as the first day' ssessions. In fact, the crowd seemed to grow as the days went on.

Musical Programme.

Capps' Male Quartette was the musical attraction yesterday. They were good singers, and their music was received with much applause. The four fine voices blended beautifully in the various quartette numbers. During the afternoon and evening performances, they sang together in "A Little Close Harmony," a Southern group, which included "My Carolina Mammy," "Uncle Moon" and "A Southern Melody"; two sacred numbers, "Some Blessed Day" and "Now the Day is Over"; some humorous ditties which were well received, "The Four Jolly Smiths," "Laughing Joe," and a parody on "Comin' Through the Rye"; a beautiful rendition of "The Rosary," and Tosti's "Good-bye," "Po' Little Lamb," "Eliza Lady," the ever-popular "Maggie," and the Sextette from "Lucia."

W. E. Capps, second tenor, possessor of a fine voice of the robust type, sang "Sunrise and You," with an encore, "The Irish Lullaby" and "I Listen For You."

J. L. Doddrington, first tenor, whose promising tones held the tender quality of the real, moving tenor range, sang "I Hear You Calling Me," "Morning," and "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling."

The baritone was Arthur Plumstead, with a powerful, resonant voice, heard to excellent advantage in "My Ships," "All For You," and "The Last Call."

The basso, A. J. Atkinson, sang several songs that suited to perfection his deep range and rich depth—"When the Bell in the Lighthouse Rings Ding-Dong," "Asleep in the Deep," and "The Big Bass Viol."

"That Printer of Udell's."

A unique feature of last evening's programme was the work of Everett Kemp, "the man with the million-dollar laugh," who gave in original fashion a reading of Harold Bell Wright's "That Printer of Udell's." With no make-up or costume helps, Mr. Kemp held his audience's attention riveted with his splendid characterisations of people in the story, which tells the adventures of the young,ragged "Dick." The first portion of the tale is a direct condemnation of "lip" Christians, and pictures the reception of the hungry youth by a prayer meeting group affected with "ecclesiastical pride and denominational egotism," but the last period tells of the real church Christian, and retails the gradual turning of the atheistic boy to the Bible and real religion.

At the conclusion of the programme, the general manager, Mr. Bendell, explained briefly the aims

CUNO PLEDGES STRONG STAND TO REICHSTAG

Will Mark Time on the Ruhr Until France Writes a Few More Notes.

A BELGIAN PROPOSAL

BERLIN, Aug. 9—(United Press). —Chancellor Cuno has placed his political fate in the hands of the Reichstag, announcing he will administer to the affairs of State only as long as he possesses the backing of Parliament.

Many elements of the "Left" are organizing to see that he does not get the vote of confidence he has requested.

Cuno's stand before the opening session Wednesday was a fighting one. He accused France of disorganizing Germany politically and economically, seeking simultaneously to enforce payment and break up the country.

"France seeks to impose penalties and exact promises which fulfilled for decades so that France may be at once the ruler and the destroyer of Europe," the Chancellor said.

Cuno strongly pledged that passive resistance will go on until it is known exactly what France demands.

At the opening of the session, the House stood in commemoration of President Harding.

The Belgian Government has decided to take the initiative and directly approach Great Britain and France if the reparations negotiations among the Allies show no signs of being resumed at an early date, says a Brussels despatch to Excelsior. Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Jaspar will come to Paris, the correspondent asserts, to propose that the reparations claims from Germany, so far as France and Belgium are concerned, be confined to the material damage suffered by these countries, and furthermore, that Great Britain cancel the inter-allied debts, receiving from Germany for her part the amount of money she owes the United States.

CHANGES IN UNION BANK MANAGEMENT

G. A. Campbell Going To Ottawa, and C. H. Pennefather Returns to Peterboro.

Mr. George A. Campbell, who has been manager of the local branch of the Union Bank for four years, has been promoted to the management of the main branch in Ottawa. He is succeeded here by Mr. C. H. Pennefather, late of Toronto and formerly manager of the Peterborough branch.

Mr. Campbell was assigned to Peterborough upon his return from overseas. Previously he had been with the Union Bank in Saskatoon and Calgary and had also been an inspector in the prairie provinces. During his stay in Peterborough he has identified himself with and given his assistance to various public movements as treasurer of the Health Association, treasurer of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association and auditor of the Curling Club. Mr. Campbell was also a member of the Peterborough Club and of the Golf Club. Mr. Campbell has made many friends in Peterborough who while regretting his departure will congratulate him upon his advancement. He leaves on Friday to assume his new duties in Ottawa.

VISITORS IMPRESSED BY A PROGRESSIVE PETERBORO

One American Expressed Surprise That Inhabitants of This Northern Wild Are Linked Up by Rail With New York

That Eskimos are not the leading citizens in Canada is the discovery being made this summer by many tourists from the United States.

Two men of world-wide experience passed through Peterboro on Monday en route to the Kawartha lakes. One of them is a graduate of a famous English University, and the other is a noted big game hunter, with a record of world travel. Both came here from New York, and when visited at the George street wharf one naively enquired whether there is anyway of getting from Peterboro to New York by railway. He was surprised to learn that the inhabitants of this northern wild are linked by rail with New York city, only sixteen or seventeen hours separating them.

Ex-service men of the late war declare that some old-country people, especially the French, were surprised to see Anglo-Saxon soldiers instead of Indians, and there are apparently many citizens in the United States, who think Canada is populated by Eskimos and American aborigines.

The advertising being done by the municipalities and the several development associations is bringing tourists here, and they are being convinced that Canada is far from being entirely a wilderness. Several of the Americans who visited the Grand Encampment sessions here admitted that they were surprised by their experiences here and by the progressive city of Peterboro.

LOCAL CHINESE NOT REGISTERED

No Instructions Have Yet Been Received by Peterboro Officials in This Regard.

No instructions have been received by Peterborough official, regarding the registration of Chinese inhabitants of the city as required by an Act passed at the last session of the Dominion Parliament. The regulations has been gazetted requiring all Chinese residents of Canada to register, but the procedure to be followed in the registration was not indicated, and so far none have put in an appearance.

Immigration agents are charged with the position of registrars in places where they have offices, but, there being no such official in Peterborough, the duty will be delegated to another office. Customs officials have the duty of registration in some centres, but there have been no Celestial callers at the local Customs House. In some districts the postmaster may perfom the office, but Peterborough's post office authorities have no instructions, and no Orientals have approached them regarding registration.

The Chinese themselves think this lack of instruction indicates that there is a possibility of the act be-in discriminated against.

PAVING PLANS FOR 1924 ARE LAID ON PAPER

Board of Works Agrees to Permanent Improvement of Heavy Traffic Streets in North End.

TEST TARVIA TOO

A tentative programme of street paving was outlined by the Board of Works last night.

Notice will be given of the Council's intention to pave Smith Street from George to Water Streets, Water Street from Smith to the Canadian National Railway, McDonnel Street from Aylmer to Reid Streets, Water Street from Brock to Dublin Streets and from Antrim to Smith Streets, and Aylmer Street from McDonnel to Dublin Street.

With this work laid down on Ald. Morrison's motion, seconded by Ald. Crowe, the Board of Works can proceed with the re-macadamizing of other streets without any fears that they might be selected for pavement next year with a consequent loss of the money spent on them this season.

The Board acceded to Ald. Maher's representations that the penetration Tarvia treatment should be put to test locally, and recommended that City Engineer Parsons be authorised to select 3,500 yards of street for this surfacing material.

Mr. Parsons informed the Board that a Tarvia road should last ten years, but advised that it was hardly durable enough for main highways. The Tarvia road costs about $1.25 a square yard, as compared with $2.25 for concrete. Some of the streets mentioned for the Tarvia treatment were Crescent, Mark, Reid North, Gilmour and others, but the committee finally agreed to whatever selection the City Engineer makes next year.

On Mayor Tayor's motion, seconded by Ald. Fife, the macadamizing brigade will turn their attention to George Street, from Smith to Argyle Street, and Reid Street from McDonnel Street to Monaghan Road, after the present work on Park Street is completed.

General satisfaction was expressed with the roads that have been virtually rebuilt this season, and the only reason the macadamizing campaign could not be extended now was the fact that one road roller was insufficient for Peterboro's needs. A new one would cost about $5,000, Mr. Parsons estimated, and that was all that was said about an extra roller.

It was stated that the street paving now under construction was costing less than the city could lay it for, but Mr. Parsons added that under day labor and supervision by the Board of Works Department more time would probably be spent in finishing off the work. The City Engineer said that Mr. Carroll willingly carried out all the instructions given him and the work was going ahead harmoniously.

Several of the Aldermen suggested that in view of the favorable terms the Council had obtained in Mr. Carroll's contract that we might be asked whether he would consider a contract for next year on the same basis, but this idea was dismissed with the realization that this year's Council should not commit next year's to an undertaking of that kind. There was plenty of time, it was said, to deal with the 1924 paving programme early in the new year.

A Thought

Consider the ravens; for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouses nor barn; and God feedeth them; how much more are ye better than the fowls?—Luke 12:24.

Thousands of men breathe, move and live; pass off the stage of life and are heard of no more. Why? They did not a particle of good in the world.—Chalmers.

World's Champ Commuter Over Long Distances

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 9.—As a long distance commuter, Ida Kruse Mac Farlane of this city holds the record.

She uses up a 1000-mile commutation ticket every time she gets on the train, and consumes a day and a night getting to her day's work.

Mrs. Mac Farlane is really a traveling pedagogue, who simultaneously teaches in three cities—Denver, Kansas City and Omaha.

With headquarters here, where she is professor of English at the University of Denver, she makes the trip from this city and return, and Omaha and return each month, meeting classes in each city and laying out courses of study.

Classes for Women.

"It began by my organizing classes for women whose school days were ended but whose desire for education was not," she says.

"These women came in from the suburbs and the surrounding country and overflowed the capacity of the class room. So I decided I could serve them better by laying aside certain days and go to them. The distance grew and the demands upon my time multiplied until commuting to Kansas City and Omah resulted."

Mrs. Mac Farlane has had as many as a thousand pupils in her class at Kansas City and almost that many in Omaha and Denver. All of her pupils have reached the age of maturity. Many are mothers and a surprisingly large number are grandmothers.

Belated Education.

"They are women whose struggle for existence in the past has made impossible the education they desired," she explains. "There was no time or money for self-improvement in the early days.

"Now wheat, oil, corn and the advance in the value of land have all contributed to give them the ease they earned, and they feel they will enjoy it more with keener appreciation.

"Many of the women are actuated by the praiseworthy ambition to keep up with their children.

"I have women of 70 in my classes," Mrs. Mac Farlane concludes. "It is most interesting to watch the age limit advance. I expect to enroll women of 80 next year.

"Education is the most beautiful thing in life, except religion, and there is no age in either."

THE GROWING OF O. P. V. SILAGE

(Experimental Farms Note.)

If mixed farming is to be followed in Northern Ontario and the keeping of live stock to build up the fertility of the soil a cheap and succulent feed must be available to bring them through the winter. Up to the present time it has been found at the Kapuskasing Experimental Station that O. P. V. is one of the best feeds for this purpose although greater tonnage has been obtained from sunflowers and at a much less cost of production. The O. P. V. has its advantages over sunflowers; as it can be sown at a much later date requires no intertilling is a much more satisfactory crop to handle under field conditions can be cut by the binder and the blower will handle the full size sheaf from the wagon where it can be fed to the blower as fast as it can be taken care of. When it is out at the proper stage for silage purposes it makes a very succulent feed and is readily eaten by stock of all kinds.

It has been found that when shrinkage takes place there is over-fermentation in the silo with resultant musty silage. At the station it is usual to keep a light stream of water in the blower and excellent results have always been obtained but care must be exercised as too much water will cause injury. O. P. V. generally grows very rank under favorable conditions and smothers weeds of any kind; and early fall plowing can be carried on when the crop is removed which is a great advantage in the north owing to the short season in which to do the work. Every advantage must be taken of silage crops that mature in time for fall plowing to be done and O. P. V. has the advantage over both corn and sunflowers in this respect.

O. P. V. will grow to maturity in from 90 to 100 days under good growing conditions. As sunflowers and corn take a much longer period to fully mature the harvesting and silo work is extended into really cold and unpleasant weather; and where fall plowing is as essential as it is in this region this is a big handicap. The clay soil is much easier to work when fall plowing is done and it also means earlier seeding which is equally essential where such a short growing season obtains for the cereals which follow a hoed crop. This crop can be highly recommended for the settlers of the clay belt. Where they have no silo it can be cured as hay makes good feed for live stock and will bring them through the winter in good shape.

SOUND AND ITS MEASUREMENT

To those of a philosophical turn of mind there is much food for thought in the extent to which sound enters into our daily affairs. The human ear which is so sensitive that it can detect the tiny air wave started by a far gate latch a hundred yards away is deafened by the roar of street traffic or strains to catch the message of a telephone diaphragm less than an inch away. In eliminating unnecessary noise and in strengthening and purifying sounds which it is desired to hear there are innumerable difficulties to overcome. The amount of energy in the sound wave is almost incredibly small whatever our impression in particular cases. Also the sound wave is transient and has nothing tangible which can be measured. One of the most useful methods of investigation consists in recording the wave photographically. An instrument devised for the purpose by a British scientific firm employs a very light diaphragm which is set in motion by the sound and records its oscillations on a photographic film. The special features lie in the extraordinary thinness of the diaphragm and in the arrangements made to alter the range of measurement. By aid of this and other instruments much knowledge has been gained contributing towards the perfection of the telephone and gramophone and assisting in the construction of better buildings and silent machines.

LATE REPORT IS MORE FAVORABLE

C.N.R. Crop Report Places Manitoba Damage at Ten to Fifty Per Cent.—Conditions Good Elsewhere.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Black rust and saw-fly have in many places damaged the crop to percentages ranging from ten to fifty per cent., states the Canadian National Railway crop report for western lines issued here yesterday.

Some wheat cutting is reported in Manitoba, and it is expected to be general between August 15 and 20. Southern and south-western sections of the province have been more seriously damaged with rust and sawfly than those in the north and central districts. Already rye has been harvested in many districts and the yield has been satisfactory in most places, the report states.

Many places report fall rye cutting as being in full swing in Saskatchewan and good yields are expected. A large number of points report no damage whatever from rust. With favorable weather all crops are making good progress towards maturity. Harvesting will begin begin between August 15 and 20.

Crop reports from Alberta are more favorable than from either of the other provinces. No damage so far is reported from either hail, rust or frost. All crops are doing well and harvesting will be general about Aug. 25.

MASQUERADE AT CROWE'S LANDING

Annual Affair Was a Big Success—"Spark Plug" Appeared on the Scene.

LAKEFIELD, August 9. — The annual masquerade held at Crowe's Landing last evening was an unqualified success in every way. Though there were not as many in costume as last year the number of guests who were not in masque far exceeded that of any other occasion, upwards of two hundred persons being present.

The sensation of the evening was the appearance of "Spark Plug" and the antics of Barney Googles racing steed kept the guests in fits of laughter for the greater part of the evening. When the tide came to unmasque "Spark Plug" was found to be composed of Vaughn Finlay and Clyde Jackson.

Others who were in costume were Miss Mary Roxborough, as a Maple Leaf. Miss Lois Cuffe and Miss Bara Foots as bride and groom; Miss Mary Finlay as a Butterfly Fairy; Miss Florence MacRae as a wood nymph; Boby Lennox as a Baby Rabbit; Miss Coburn as Bathing Girl Bert Chapman and George Wadds as Poppy Girls; Miss Cairns as a Spanish girl; Mrs. Wadds as a Spanish dancer; Miss Dorothy Moir as an Old Fashioned Girl; Ross McIntyre as a Nigger Clown; Miss Marion Platt and Miss Margery Henderson as Pierrettes; Miss Doris Jackson, as a Dutch Girl; W. Glassey as Sir Walter Raleigh; Jimmy Simpson and Billy Chapman, as clowns; Miss Lois Mitchell, as a Turkish girl; Miss Fanning as an Eastern lady; Miss Glassey as a Colonial girl; Miss Bessie Griffith, as an Irish girl; Miss Florence Campbell as a rose bud; Edwin Cowley as a clown.

GIGANTIC COUNTY FAIR PLANNED AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press)—A gigantic county fair, which already is assuming international proportions, will be held in Public Hall, this city, Oct. 6 to 16. It is to be known as the Cleveland National Exhibition and will have a display of agricultural products and implements, livestock, fruits and flowers from every part of America.

James F. Fleming, manager of the Ohio State Fair, is in charge of the exhibition.

Manager Fleming has announced that the Canadian government has reserved 2,000 square feet of space in which will be exhibited Canadian products. A letter has been received from the office of President Obregon of Mexico announcing that that country's department of industry is considering an exhibit. Porto Rico and Cuba also will send displays.

The finest livestock in America will be entered, the management believes. The exhibition comes after most of the state fairs have been held and it is planned to gather here the champion herds of all the state fairs, making the livestock section a show of champions.

An apple show with fruit entered from all parts of the country is also attracting wide attention. There will be displays of women's work, such as baking and canning; the work of domestic science and manual training of pupils of the schools.

CUNO DECLARES THAT PASSIVE RESISTANCE WILL BE CONTINUED

Chancellor Greeted With Cries of "Traitor" When He Rose to Speak—Speech Received Coldly.

BRITISH NOTE.

BERLIN, August 9. Canadian Press. — Passive resistance will be continued with all the strength of the German people, "free from mad acts of violence and terror," and the people in the unoccupied territory will "support actively" those in the occupied region, Chancellor Cuno asserted in addressing the Reichstag when it convened for a short extraordinary session yesterday.

When the Chancellor rose to begin his long address he was prevented from speaking for some time by the Communists, who greeted him with epithets such as "Traitor," "Swindler," and "The President of the Stinnes Company's Board is going to speak."

One Communist eDputy got very excited, shook his fist at the Chancellor and was called to order twice. Herr Cuno was subjected to continual interruption during the speech, which was received somewhat coldly by the House.

"If there is no light on the horizon which promises us speedy help, then it is for us to keep alive by means of our iron determination," said the Chancellor in his peroration, "and to make every sacrifice in this we must rely solely upon ourselves. We stand alone and must and will help ourselves."

The Chancellor asserted that France was receiving only one-fifth the coal and coke which she formerly received and declared that she could not hope for better deliveries as the workers and employers refused to work "at the point of the bayonet for the benefit of the oppressor."

He counselled his hearers to have nothing to do with civil war, and announced that the government would suppress with the strongest hand any civil disorder or rioting. He pleaded for open discussion as a means of saving the nation, and said that he himself was ready to resign when it was felt the people had lost confidence in him.

Tribute to Harding.

At the opening of the sitting President Loebe paid a tribute to the late President Harding the members and the occupants of the public galleries standing during Herr Loebe's address.

At the opening of the short extraordinary session of the Reichstag yesterday to dispose of urgent financial measures, Chancellor Cuno made a long speech reviewing the internal and external situations and alluding to the British draft reply of the German note to say that the principles upon which Great Britain based her proposals were not pleasant for Germany.

There were many suggestions in the draft which appeared impossible to the German government, so far as it was able to judge without knowledge of the supplementary documents, asserted the Chancellor, adding that in an endeavor to maintain good relations with her "comrade-in-arms of yesterday," Great Britain had gone extraordinarily far in her concessions to the French viewpoint.

"It is not our business," declared Herr Cuno, "to expatiate on what Great Britain considers her interests and we are no so foolish as to imagine sympathies for Germany where there are none."

Await Publication.

Emphasizing the danger and the futility of conjectures pending the publication of the British documents the German Chancellor said the only thing certain was that there was no reason for any great hopes.

"Germany must be prepared for a long period of suffering," he added, "and to accommodate itself to such circumstances, and not expect to work wonders. We must believe in ourselves and manifest that belief, not by fatalistic resignation, but by determined action."

Alluding to France's demand for cessation of passive resistance before she is willing to open negotiations or say what she wants, the Chancellor emphatically declared that it was impossible to ask the people of the Ruhr and the Rhineland to abandon their sole weapon unconditionally.

To Continue Resistance.

"What we cannot do and will not do is to abandon a German land and betray fellow countrymen," he asserted. "We refuse to work under the bayonets of our oppressors."

Submission to the "merciless obstinacy" of the French Government, he declared, would have to be sealed with a document which would be worse than the Treaty of Versailles. The latter agreement, he contended, "weighs like a curse upon the peoples of Europe."

Referring to the British draft reply, Chancellor Cuno said: "This proposal, which practically sacrifices the German standpoint to the French standpoint, has been rejected by the ruler and destroyer of Europe."

He then continued: "If it is the case that there are no practical possibilities for reaching an understanding with France, which is desired by us, but rejected by Paris, and if there is no light on the horizon which promises speedy help then it is for us to keep alive by means of our iron determination and to make every sacrifice in this we must rely solely upon ourselves. We stand alone and must and will help ourselves."

"Therefore," Chancellor Cuno concluded "it is necessary to continue with all our strength passive resistance, free from mad acts of violence and terror against the people in the occupied region, and to support actively from the unoccupied territory the population which is persevering in a passive resistance of its own will."

Check-Up on Incomes of Big Bootleggers.

SYRACUSE, August 9. — Canadian Press. — A check up on incomes of bootleggers has been directed by Jesse W. Clarke, the Collector of Inland Revenue, and efforts will be made to prosecute in numerous instances when true income tax returns have not been filed. Reports that several bootleggers have openly boasted of large incomes have inspired the check-up on the part of the Bureau.

ANCIENT EGYPT BRIDES COST JUST $4 EACH

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press)—Professor W. Flinders Petrie, the eminent Egyptologist who was recently knighted by King George, gives some interesting information regarding the private life of the ancient Egyptians. The earliest marriage contract known in Egypt, he says, dates from 500 B.C. The terms of the pact, as drawn up by the husband, were as follows:

"Since God willeth that we should unite one with the other in righteous wedlock, after the manner of every free man and every wise woman, therefore I have given thee four dollars in gold as a bridal gift, that thou mayest come and enter my house as a free woman. And for my part I will not neglect thee more than as it were my own body. Neither shall I be able to put thee forth without a cause, having legal ground. But should I wish to put thee forth, I will pay 17 dollars for the matter."

Laddie-Boy Has Said Good-Bye to His Master

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Laddie Boy said goodbye to his master in the East Room of the White House yesterday morning. Mrs. Harding, who loves Laddie Boy no less than her husband did, told the attendant in whose special charge the pup has been, to take him into the East Room for a moment, because he seemed to want to go.

Alertly, Laddie Boy sniffed the air freighted with the fragrance of funeral blooms, walked solemnly around the bier lying under the great crystal chandelier and poked his nose into the flowers, as though looking for the master he knew was there but couldn't see. Then he turned his brown eyes on the White House attaches with an inquiring look.

Kansas Wheat Crop Has Taken a Slump.

TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press.) — The Kansas wheat crop has slumped to an average yield of nine bushels per acre and a crop of 79,596,000 bushels, which makes it rank definitely as the second from the smallest in ten years, according to the monthly crop review issued by E. C. Paxton, Federal Crop Statistician for Kansas. In contrast to the wheat, Paxton declared, the corn outlook still is bright and promises to be the third largest in ten years.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of Today)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

CABINET DISCUSSED CONFERENCE PLANS

Imperial Economic Conference Has Been Given Close Consideration By Canadian Authorities.

OTTAWA, Aug. 19— (Canadian Press.)— At the close of yesterday afternoon's session of the cabinet Premier King intimated that a great deal of attention is being given to questions which will come before the Imperial and Imperial Economic Conferences in the fall.

Referring to an impression which, he felt, prevailed in some quarters that Canada was not giving as much consideration to matters which will be discussed at the forthcoming empire meetings as other countries, Premier King declared that ever since the conference agenda had been received experts had been employed in the various government departments compiling necessary data.

"In view of the careful consideration which is being bestowed upon these matters," said the Premier, "I regret that an impression should obtain in any quarter that the Canadian government is not showing sufficient interest in the questions which will be dealt with at the conference."

BUDDISTS PLAN DRIVE FOR WHITE CONVERTS IN HAWAII ISLANDS

HONOLULU, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press)—An active drive for converts to Buddhism among the English speaking people of the Hawaiian territory is forecast as the result of action taken by Buddhist leaders in deciding to organize a Buddhist evangelican association in Hawaii with headquarters here.

The principal aim of the society will be to spread the teaching of the sect in English, and present plans call for the training of English speaking priests of Buddha, the publication of canonical books in English regarding Buddhism.

Two men, graduates of a local high school or a Buddhist university in Japan, will be invited to study for five years in a mainland university, on the understanding that they are to preach Buddhism in Hawaii on the conclusion of their studies.

The society is an outgrowth of the efforts of Archbishop M. T. Kirby of the Hongwanji mission here, and Englishman converted to Buddhism in Japan, who has been in charge of churches here for some time.

CATHOLICS FROM EVERY STATE AT NOTRE DAME

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 9.—(United Press).—Visited by the French missionaries in the seventeenth century, South Bend today saw another assemblage of missionaries gather here.

One thousand delegates to the Catholic Students' Mission crusade met on the campus of Notre Dame University, historic Catholic institution of learning, in general convention. Every state in the Union was represented.

Perhaps the most spectacular event of the convention will be exemplification of the crusade Ordinal in full regalia. The Ordinal was written by Rev. Anselm Keefe, of the Catholic University of Brookland, and the delegates will participate in the original ceremonial.

The chapel, the Grotto and the Lake of St. Mary at Notre Dame will be the scene upon which the ceremolian of the crusade ritual will be carried out.

Each of the crusaders, representatives of the American high schools and colleges will wear a long flowing gown of white, with a cap-like hood for head and shoulders, the cape to be marked with a scarlet cross and blue shield.

Trumpets, torches and crosses are being prepared at Notre Dame for the night procession. Different costumes will be worn by those taking parts of hermits, guides and other heroes of history.

The crusade is held for the purpose of enlightment, inspiration, prayer and recreation. Various phases of mission work will be studied, and exhibits will tell the story of the Catholic missionary.

The convention program will open tonight with ritual work and a band concert. Archbishop Henry Moeller, D.D., of Cincinnati, will deliver a sermon at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, after which the business session will open.

The closing session will be held Sunday morning with low mass and a general farewell program.

Stolen Car Was Caught at Border.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 9 — (Canadian Press)—Timely assistance rendered by W. R. Bannerman, customs landing waiter on duty at the city dock, yesterday, led to the recovery of a motor car stolen Tuesday night in Ottawa and the arrest by the local police of two occupants, giving the names and address of Malcolm Smith and Morris Smith, 197 Dalhousie Street Ottawa, of Russian birth. Fifteen minutes after word had been received by the police here of the theft of the car and particulars had been flashed to the city dock, officer Bannerman noticed the wanted motor car, the occupants of which were endeavouring to cross the St. Lawrence into New York State.

They are under detention here waiting the arrival of an officer from Ottawa.

GENERAL APPROVAL OF ALL MANDATES

Investigation By Commission Shows That Rights of Native Populations Have Been Protected.

GENEVA, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—General approval of the administration of the mandates given by the League of Nations yesterday by the Permanent Mandates Commission at a public session closing its three weeks' hearing on the reports submitted by the mandatory powers.

The commission found that the mandatory powers have fully protected the rights of the native populations. As outlined, the measures taken by the mandatory powers against the abuse of alcoloh in the mandatory countries was considered satisfatcory, but the commission decided to recommend to the Council of the League an act pertaining to the importation of alcohol into the African territory under British mandate.

The Commission held that the spirit, if not the letter, of the mandates, would be violated if the natives were recruited for the army, as it was intended they should be utilized only for defence and the maintenance of order in Togo and French Kameran.

M. Beau, who represents France on the commission, said the commission could not dictate to a mandatory regarding complaints that competition between different mission organizations had become inconvenient, as the mandates accord religious freedom as long as order is maintained.

HEAVY TRAFFIC OVER NEW ROAD

Banff - Windermere Highway Has Exceeded All Expectations.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Tourist traffic on the Banff-Windermere highway during the month that it has now been opened, has exceeded all expectations, it was stated to-day at the Dominion Parks Branch. Furthermore no accident of any moment has yet been recorded.

While figures have yet to be compiled by the Parks Branch it was announced that visitors from the United States as well as from Canadian points have already shown keen appreciation of the new facilities for traversing the mountain scenery by automobile. The highway with a clay base surfaced by hard packed gravel, is regarded as particularly safe, in some cases having a stretch of from five to six miles of straight road. Chalets at convenient distance, supply gasoline as well as food and if required, sleeping accomodation.

WATERLOO DISPLACED BY NEWER SHRINES

BRUSSELS, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press).—Waterloo, until 1914, was the most frequented spot in Belgium. Victor Hugo's "dreary plain," dotted with monuments commemorating the armies taking part in the battle, topped by its colossal lion on the historic hill of Mont Saint-Jean, attracted countless foreign visitors, and on Sundays citizens of Brussels journeyed there in caravans.

Ancient mail coaches clattered up and down the streets of the Belgian capital, and their conductors, to the discordant tunes of obsolete brass instruments, invited tourists to Waterloo, 11 miles distant.

Guides fought and cursed at the Waterloo station for the remunerating privilege of escorting over the battlefield the numerous visitors which every train disgorged into the town.

Cafes, restaurants, hotels were doing a huge business. Today gaunt and sad guides await visitors in vain. Waterloo is desolate. Deserted inns are closing up. A great souvenir is being wiped out; an industry going bankrupt.

Devastated Flanders fields are monopolizing the curiosity seekers. Nieuport, Dixmude, Ypres and the Yser, the most thickly populated war cemeteries of Belgium, also provide its greatest attraction for the living.

The Great War has killed Waterloo, and by half-destroying Flanders has resuscitated it.

PRIVY COUNCIL TO HEAR APPEAL OF PROVINCES AGAINST THE RAILWAYS

Wheat Pool Will Be Well Supported.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Government assistance will be lent any effort to form a co-operative wheat selling pool in Manitoba, Hon. John Bracken, premier of Manitoba, said yesterday on his return from Saskatoon where he attended a conference for formation of the voluntary selling agencies for Saskatchewan and Alberta.

"I cannot speak for the farm organizations of Mantioba, but in case they should decide that it is desirable to proceed immediately to organize a voluntary pool on the contract basis the government will only be too glad to lend its moral support," Mr. Bracken stated.

FOREST FIRES CAUSE ALARM

Dummer Farmers Plow Space Around Homes to Protect Them From the Advancing Flames.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 9.— Reports from the north tell of several serious forest fires raging in the vicinity of Apsley and the smoke from the conflagrations can be seen throughout the lakes district. Many of the farmers in Center Dummer have been forced to plow up a space around their homes in order to protect them from the advances of the flames.

The biggest fire reported is just south of Apsley and a big force of men is out fighting it. But little hope is held of getting it under control unless a good rain comes to second the efforts of the fire fighters. Smaller fires are reported in several other localities.

NEW DOCKS AT WINDSOR.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.)— A large deputation from Essex border municipalities which have been in the capital for two days urging claims for federal consideration upon the government, left last night for Windsor. As a result of the deputation's representations, the company operating the international ferry service between Windsor and Detroit will receive permission to construct new docks on the Canadian side. The city of Windsor may also get a new post office building if the municipal council sees fit to provide a site and the old structure can be sold for $500,000, the estimtaed valuation placed upon it by the Windsor Real Estate Board.

CORSET INDUSTRY REPORT.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—In a trade report upon the corset industry issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics it is shown that there was a decrease in production in 1921 of $928,000 as compared with figures for the previous year. The reduction in production values is explained by the fact that fewer firms made returns in 1921 than in 1920. Cost of materials was also shown to be higher in 1921 and that contributed to cut down the total. Fourteen firms reported in 1920, eight of them located in Ontario, and six in Quebec. The following year seven Ontario plants reported and four in Quebec made returns.

SUGAR STATISTICS.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.) — Sugar statistics for the four weeks ending July 14 show that there were 78,285,518 pounds in stock at the end of the period covered by the report compared with 69,218,000 in the corresponding four weeks of 1922. Receipts totalled 73,830,000 in comparison with 105,759,000 while melting and shipment totals were 81,740,000 compared with 133,128,000 in the corresponding period last year.

PRIVY COUNCIL TO HEAR APPEAL OF PROVINCES AGAINST THE RAILWAYS

British Columbia Supported By Alberta in Appeal Against Ruling of Railway Commission.

HEARING TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press). — The appeal of the British Columbia Government against the order of the Railway Commission of last year relating to freight rates affecting that province, opens to-day before the Privy Council. Hon. John Oliver and counsel have been here for several days preparing for the hearing. The British Columbia appeal is also being supported by Alberta, which is represented by Frank Ford, K.C.

The case goes back as far as October 1920, when the Privy Council, dealing with an appeal of the Governments of Manitoba and Saskatchewan ordered the railway commission to institute an enquiry into the question of the equalization of freight and passenger rates between the east and the west. The Privy Council, in directing the railway commission to conduct the enquiry advised that if they dealt with the question of facts on the appeal, they would defeat the purpose for which the commission had been created and it would in end, be highly prejudicial to the public interest. The council further stated that what constituted a fair and reasonable rate should be arrived at without reference to the requirements of the Canadian National Railways.

Started in 1920.

The hearing of the commission is what was subsequently known as the Equalization Case started in November, 1920. The commision sat at every important centre from Halifax to Vancouver. The last sitting took place at Ottawa, covering a period of some three weeks and the order was finally issued on June 30, 1922. Every public and commercial body in Canada that desired to express its opinion or give evidence was invited to do so, and most of them took advantage of the offer. The evidence covered six bulky volumes of nearly 5,000 pages. Every detail with reference to the financial position of the Canadian Pacific Railway was dealt with most exhaustively, as also was the question of railway costs and expenditure. With the exception of the celebrated western rate case, which was concluded in 1914 after three years of investigation no such exhaustive enquiry has ever taken place in Canada.

Statement Issued.

The appeal made by British Columbia, according to a railway statement issued, here last night, is a reversal of the National order of events. The appeal, it is said should have been made by the other sections of the Dominion and the railway companies. Substantiating this, and showing that British

BRITISH CABINET MEETING DELAYED

Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon Have Difficult Task to Handle in the Reparations Problem.

LONDON, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—The Cabinet Council, which was to have been held yesterday, was postponed until to-day, and, according to the latest report, the publication of the documents constituting the British case in the reparations problem has been delayed until the end of the week. Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon, the Foreign Secretary, were both in London and in close consultation yesterday over the next step, and Lord Curzon again received the Belgian Ambassador.

Lord Derby and Lord Robert Cecil are expected back from their Paris visit to-day, and it is supposed that some development may come of Lord Robert's interview with Premier Poincare. No strong hopes are entertained that the Cabinet will agree upon any decisive action. Reports are growing insistent that Premier Baldwin is experiencing great difficulty in converting to his view the die-hard section of his party led by Lord Derby and the Marquis of Salisbury, which, ever since it succeeded in overthrowing Lloyd George, has had a great ascendancy in the Government Councils.

Moreover, the tone of Chancellor Cuno's speech before the Reichstag yesterday is little calculated to make the British task easier.

AN EDITOR'S DISCOVERY.

The editor of the Walkerton Telescope has made the cheerful, reassuring discovery that the "French-Canadian is a fine fellow when you get to know him."

It might be interesting, or at least illuminating, to get a glimpse of the preconceptions of the people of Quebec which Ye Editor took with him on his recent trip through the Maritime Provinces to a press convention down by the sea. Whatever were his ideas, they underwent a change when Mr. Editor laid aside his telescope and got a "close-up" of his brother publishers in Quebec, who, he claims, were the life of the party.

There is no note of condescension in the Walkerton editor's tribute to the amiability of his confreres, and he expands his appreciation with the acknowledgment that "we can all learn something from the French-Canadian in courtesy and other things."

This newspaper proprietor from Ontario appears to have been converted to the Bonne Entente idea by his contacts and association with representative Quebec men in his own line of business. There may be something to be said after all for interprovincial conventions if they effect better understanding between influential men of the two big neighbouring Provinces of the East, and create friendships with men who, as in the Telescope editor's experience, "prove delightful companions."

THE GOLDEN AGE OF PLASTERING.

Plasterers in New York may not be rolling down to work in limousines, but their current scale of wages should enable them to indulge their fancies in little luxuries and make a fair showing in the motor row.

Last week their rate of pay, rather their fee or salary, in the politer, professional euphuism for remuneration in bulk, jumped from $12 to $14 a day, and with double time on Saturdays and Sundays the plasterer's envelope should be weighted henceforth with the mean sum of $119 for a week's worth.

That is the possible maximum on the basis of the increased scale providing the plasterer decides to work for it. This phenomenon of the building trades in New York is due primarily to the disparity of supply and demand in the plastering trade.

Such attractive wages will probably tend to restore the balance of labour by heavy recruiting from the crowded ranks of the white-collared gentry. Even now there are special short courses advertised in New York papers guaranteeing to prepare men quickly for one or other of the building trades. This is applying the modern, machine-like method of turning out men in nearly all lines of occupation that used to be entered by way of a thorough, perhaps in some case too long, apprenticeship.

For the present at any rate the New York plasterers are almost in the supposedly exclusive $10,000 a year class, and while the cost of building in the big city continues on that scale, the rentals must be prodigious. The new buildings are perhaps planned for plutocratic plasterers.

THOSE MISSING PERENNIALS.

It is not surprising that a scarcity of perennial plants in Peterborough's gardens was observed and noted by the judge of the Horticultural Society's annual competition a few days ago.

Perennials and all the old charm and sentiment they symbolize have been sacrificed to modern conveniences. They are numbered among the victims of high taxes.

Our grandfathers could afford the spacious property which they bordered and plotted with these graceful flowers — tall, slender hollyhocks in the background, interspersed with larkspurs, phlox and sweet William filling in the centre spaces with their fragrant, unfailing bloom, Iris too and gaillardia, and many others that seemed crowded together in long wide beds likely gayly colored tapestries of summer.

But their beauty demanded perspective for rich effect, a vista of colour against green lattice-work.

There were gardens in those days, and also there were light taxes and low assessments.

Now, only the wealthy can afford such treasures. Gardens are for the most part melancholy plots hidden behind the house, if these plots have not been built up with a garage.

There may still be an innate love of flowers, but its expression is limited to a pitiful little verandah box along the balcony of the upper balcony, or perhaps a straggling of annuals in the strip of earth along the concrete walk to the backdoor.

The old gardens of yesterday are cluttered up with houses that seem to jostle one another in uncomfortable proximity, and perennials are mostly a memory except about some of the old homes and their expansive lawns that have survived the devastation of progress and escaped the designs of the real estate agents.

Anyway, perennials and all they signify of bye-gone peace and tranquillity, of home-staying happiness and contentment, have no place in the modern scheme of life that demands a tremendous rushing about and incessant search for pleasure.

THE PULPWOOD EMBARGO.

Although the proposed embargo against the export of pulpwood cut on privately owned lands in Canada has been held in suspense by the Dominion Government, it should be clearly understood that this is not an entirely domestic matter. Back of the political aspect lies the rather important fact that a considerable percentage of the money invested in this industry has come from the United States. This reduces the issue in some degree to a contest between those Americans who have put their money into a Canadian enterprise and those who have not. The domestic attitude toward these investors is friendly and sympathetic; but there is, at the same time, a strong and justifiable feeling against the exportation of raw material which could at least be put through one or more stages of manufacture on this side of the line.

There seems to be no good or convincing reason why Canada should not take full advantage of her position in respect of such resources as are in strong demand in the United States. Pulpwood is an outstanding example. Our neighbors have reduced their supply of spruce and other woods suitable for the manufacture of paper to a point where they are obliged to call heavily upon us. Year by year our exports of both pulpwood and pulp have been increasing in volume. It would serve Canadian interests much better if less raw material of that class went out of the country, and more of the finished product. In other words, our aim should be to export paper. Only in that way would we realize fully and adequately on our industrial potentialities.

Our national policy in that regard is suggested by a glance at the facts as to our resources. It is estimated that Canada has 250,000,000 acres of forest growth of merchantable size, and 600,000,000 forested acres of younger timber suitable for pulpwood. What bearing have these figures on the issue which is just now being discussed between the Dominion and the United States? The answer is found in the exceedingly rapid development of the pulpwood industry. It is assumed that the 600,000,000 acres of younger growth to which reference has just been made would yield 1,250,000,000 cords of pulpwood. The present consumption is 4,000,000 cords per annum. On that basis the supply would last for over 300 years, without allowing for from two to three per cent. of regrowth; but at that point the authorities differ. It is stoutly maintained by some experts that we have not as much pulpwood in sight as is supposed, and that, on the basis of consumption during the past twenty years in particular, our resources would be exhausted in sixty years, or reduced to a volume which would mean exceedingly high cost for pulp.

Under any circumstances, conservation is imperative. There is always the menace of destruction by fire. Reforestation is possible, and the experiments of the Laurentide Corporation in Quebec have been encouraging. Prudence, however, demands that we should look ahead with a calculating eye. Even though the danger of exhaustion should not call urgently for protective measures, every consideration of sound business and defensible selfishness calls for a policy which would ensure for Canada the full benefits which attach to her strong position in respect of pulpwood. There cannot be any argument against realizing on our natural advantages, notwithstanding the American point of view. This does not mean that we should be either narrow or harsh; but it should mean the employment of Canadian labor and Canadian water-power in the commercial development of purely Canadian forest resources. And that could be done without giving offence to our neighbors, who certainly have not considered our interests in connection with their own domestic policies. That is to say, it should not bear the character of retaliation.

Rising above all aspects of this matter is our need of industrial development as a corollary to immigration; and here should be room for the employment of tens of thousands. It is not an idle dream that Canada may become the chief source of the world's paper. She will not reach that position, however, while she exports her raw material.—Ottawa Journal.

TORONTO CATTLE.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—The live stock receipts at the Union Stockyards were small yesterday morning, but there were 2,200 head held over from Tuesday's market, most of them of poor quality, unfinished and not attractive to buyers. Buyers will take a limited quantity of choice butcher cattle at about $6.50 to $7.25. Inferior cattle are hard to sell at any price. There is some unfinished stuff coming in from the province because of the lack of pasture and yesterday several more carloads of western cattle came in. Farmers bought a few loads for stockers and feeders at $3.00 to $4.50, but there is no real demand and a great many cattle will have to be carried over.

Tuesday's Rogers and Maybee bought 350 head for export at $7.25 to $7.50, but there was no buying for export yesterday and probably will not be until next Monday.

The calf market remained steady with the bulk of choice vealers at $10 a hundred and an odd top at $11. Small lots of early grassers are arriving and are bringing the low prices of $4 to $5 a hundred.

The hog market took a strong upward turn with opening bids from the packers on a basis of $9.35 fed and watered for thick smooths or $10.25 for selects. The premium for selects was quoted at 90 cents a hundred for this week.

Trade was a little slow at the start in the sheep and lamb division with a few sales at $12 a hundred. The light supplies of sheep are selling readily at $5 to $6 for choice light kinds with some a shade higher.

United Farmers' Co-Operative Company, Limited, sold: Butchers, 6, 1160 lbs., $6.85; 13, 1110, $6.75; 2, 1080, $6.75; 2, 985, $6.65; 2, 870, $6.50; 6, 710, $6.50; 13, 910, $6.35; 5, 1080, $6.25; 12, 1210, $6.25; 4, 980, $6; 6, 960, $6; 1, 1240, $6; 11, 1110, $6; 1, 1020, $5.75; 3, 950, $5.75; 1, 1000, $5.50; 1, 1040, $5.50; 2, 760, $5; 1, 1070, $5; 1, 1140, $5; 5, 950, $5; 1, 840, $4.25; 1, 760, $4.25. ## PRIVY COUNCIL

Columbia has not greatly suffered is cited in a statement made to the press by Premier Oliver on his arrival in Otawa when he pointed out the growing prosperity and development of British Columbia.

It is claimed by the railway, that if British Columbia gets what Hon. John Oliver says is her rights she will be the most sadly disappointed province in the Dominion while her business interests would be up in arms.

The railway statement cites a declaration by Chief Commissioner Carvell at the last hearing that fully 85 per cent. of British Columbia's tonnage was carried on commodity rates. These commodity rates are said to be on a lower basis than those which any other section of the Dominion enjoys. In this connection the statement is made that the export of grain via Vancouver has not only grown over 600 per cent. during the last two years, but has swamped the facilities at Vancouver to take care of the same

Railway Statement.

The railway statement adverts to the announced intention by Premier Oliver to ask for the appointment of of a custom house officer at New York to enable shipments from Canada to be forwarded by American railways to New York and thence via Panama to Vancouver.The most serious aspect of this proposal, it is said, was that there had recently been instituted a direct Canadian service beween Canadian Atlantic and Canadian Pacific ports via the Panama. This was an entirely new enterprise.

"The obvious absurbity of furnishing customs facilities at a foreign port to encourage the diversion of traffic from Canadian harbours and Canadian water carriers is apparent," says the railway statement. "If British Columbia's appeal in each direction is granted it will amount to depriving Canadian water and rail carriers of tonnage."

COMMENT ON RUHR.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press)—London has heard some frank comment recent... uation in the Ruhr.

J. Thomas, the labor leader, said recently at Shrewsbury: "It appears we are at the parting of the ways in European affairs, so far as France is concerned. No one wants to excuse Germany for her misdeeds, but we should say to France that the only solution of the present state of affairs is to get together, talk things over frankly, and watch the future with a desire to forget the past. We cannot stand by and allow the continuance of a policy which is ruinous to France as well as Germany, and can but lead to disaster for ourselves."

DIARRHOEA and VOMITING

Doubled Up With Pains

If you are suddenly attacked with diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps or pains in the stomach or any looseness of the bowels do not waste valuable time, but at once procure a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and see how quickly it will relieve you.

Mr. Ernest Morris, 3 Webb St., London, Ont., writes:—"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for what it has done for me.

Some time ago I took an awful violent headache, then started to vomit and felt so sick I could hardly stand it all day; towards evening intense pains came in my bowels and I was just doubled up the pains were so bad; the perspiration stood out like beads on my forehead; then the diarrhoea started and I really thought I was going to die.

My husband went to the drug store and got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; he gave me four doses at intervals, and by noon next day the diarrhoea had stopped and the pain was all gone too.

Now I will never be without 'Dr. Fowler's' in the house."

FIVE NEW PLANTS.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— Records compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics dealing with the cordage, rope and twine industry during 1921 and 1922 deal with nine plants located in Canada, five in Ontario, two in Quebec and one each in Nova Scotia and British Columbia. Total production values for 1921 was $7,962,550 as compared with $5,781,161 in 1922. The statement explains that the decline in the cost of materials accounted in a large measure for the decrease in the value of production which continued through both years covered by the report.

REGULAR MEETING MILLBROOK COUNCIL

By-Law Fixes the Rate at 40 Mills—Consider Installing Silent Policeman.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 9.—The regular monthy meeting of Millbrook council was held on Monday evening, Reeve Wood in the chair and all members present except Councillor Eakins who is spending this week with friends at the Thousand Islands.

A requisition was received from the school board asking council to raise $3,892 towards current expenses of the school here, including teachers' salaries, etc. The township of Cavan raises $1,600, and the remainder necessary to meet expenses incurred is received in grants.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

H. Nattrass, labor and salary, $31.35; A. Brown, labor, $3.50; J. Hunter, labor, $52.50; F. McIvor, labor, $13.50; J. B. Trick, labor, $37.75; E. Stewart, labor, $36.05; W. Budd, labor, $65.70; N. Lamb, labor, $7.50; C. Leal, labor, $28.75; H. Hutchinson, labor, $18.50; Attwooll & Shepard, lumber, material, etc., $56.69; S. E. Eakins, hardware, $13.44; Millbrook Telephone Company, $4.25; W. G. Russell & Sons, $90.71; S. Donnelly, street watering, $142.00; J. Thorne, cement-mixer (rent), $8.00.

Lang-Sayles: That above accounts be paid.

Sayles-Stinson: That debentures due Mrs. John Allen be paid on November 1st, 1923.

This motion followed a discussion in which it was explained that though said debentures do not fall due until April, 1924, yet in view of the fact that Victory bonds held by the village are due on November 1st this year the council thought it best to pay Mrs. Allen rather than let the money remain in the bank at lower interest than the bonds are bringing.

Sayles-Stinson: That the clerk be instructed to notify Cavan council re placing of dam across stream on property which A. Lytle recently purchased from S. Carveth thus cutting off village supply of water for fire protection, and use of citizens, and request that same be removed forthwith.

Report was received from Fire Chief J. J. Clarke showing firemen's equipment in good condition.

C. W. Richards addressed council asking an increase in salary for his duties as tax-collector, but was re-engaged at the usual amount per annum, viz., $75.00.

Silent Policeman.

The necessary by-law was passed striking the rate for the current year at 40 mills, divided as follows: School 15 mills, local improvement 14 mills, electric lightning .03 mills, debentures .02 mills, county .06 mills. The rate is the same as last year.

Lang-Sayles: That the reeve and Councillor Stinson be a committee to consider the advisibility of installing a silent policeman at C. Thorndyke's corner, and have same attended to if they thought best that such action be taken.

Councillor Sayles gave notice of introduction of by-laws re use of tractor on streets, and parking of cars on King street especially on Wednesday and Saturday night when traffic is greatest.

G. H. Harrington addressed council re parking of cars on Tupper street and blocking his driveway making it impossible for him to take his own car, either in, or out, on evenings when the stores are open. Council promised to take up the matter when the by-law re motor traffic is considered.

Your Health

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

Fellow American College of Surgeons

BEAT PROSTRATION

The vacation period is with us and thousands of city people have left their homes to sojourn in the country. They are at the seashore, in the mountains, the villages or on the farm where there is always a danger of being the victim of heat stroke or prostration.

Heat prostration is not, in 85 per cent. of the cases reported, due so much to direct sun exposure as it is to low physical condition and body fatigue.

Irregularities in meals, stomach out of working order, laboring over tasks brings on a depleted nervous system which will do the business. All that is required to complete the picture is two or three not days with the temperature above 90 degrees and the hygrometer showing a high humidity.

Watch Your Diet.

On your vacation be careful to keep your daily diet within bounds of reason, don't eat anything and everything. Be sure the drinking water is pure and is not making inroads on your power of resistance. If you are greatly fatigued from any cause, keep out of the sun, rest in the shade or recline until you feel stronger and the extreme heat is past.

Dr. W. L. Gender has pointed out that what is known as real sunstroke is not primarily due to a certain high degree of temperature. On the contrary it depends on the accustomed temperature of any given place. That is to say, a hot or tropical country with the thermometer well above 90 degrees, may be as free from prostrations as the summer temperature of Chicago or New York.

First Aid Treatment.

Heat prostrations may occur to persons who have moved from one part of the country to another and are unable to adapt themselves to the different degree of heat. In extreme cases of heat prostration death may occur quickly. There is always a chance, however, if treatment is applied in time to save the patient. It is a good rule to always be on your guard. If you feel yourself getting dizzy or becoming faint with the tendency to stomach sickness seek a cool place at once and lie down.

The layman may aid in giving simple treatment to those suffering from heat prostration. Remove to a cool place. If the heart action is weakened and the skin is cold be sure to place patient in a recumbent position.

Give stimulants and keep body warm. If the head and skin are hot and the eyes red and heavy, apply cold water, or rub the surface of the skin with ice. Gentle rubbing or massage to stimulate the circulation is beneficial. If this simple treatment does not bring results and the patient remains unconscious, do your best until a physician arrives.

COOLS LOVERS' ARDOR.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 9.—(Associated Press)—Beyond the Jordan is a Community of Circassians, recruited by the British for police duty, the male members of which are inclined, even today, to follow the old custom of a whirlwind campaign in their love affairs, sometimes called marriage by capture.

A few days ago one of these men, making use of the custom and the opportunity, attacked a house with some of his companions and captured a wealthy Circassian widow who had come from Damascus to the wilds of Transjordania to look after her late husband's sheep. The sergeant ran off with her to Kerak, where he proposed that they be married.

Unfortunately he had omitted one thing, which is curiously regarded by capture," to secure the lady's consent. In this case she declined. Appeal was made to the authorities, and King Abdullah ordered the arrest of the would-be groom and decreed that the custom of marriage by capture should cease.

CHAPTER XI

A Fond Father

"What I didn't suppose there was such an innocent left " Nazlo laughed. "But then I've never before come across a girl just out of a convent.

"You're a new experience, Miss Desmond. That means a good deal to a blase fellow like me Do you understand the word—'blase'?"

"Yes. I learned French at the convent," Terry said.

Nazlo beamed. Like most Greeks, he was a natural linguist, and it was pleasant to show off an accomplishment before a pretty girl who could appreciate it. He burst into fluent French, and Terry shyly answered in the same language. The nun who taught French in the Convent was a Parisienne.

The girl's shyness came not from fear of Nazlo as a man, but from distrust of herself, lest she should make some mistake and be shamed in the of a person so clever, so old.

It had always struck her as strange since she came back to the Blue Moon that so many elderly men seemed to take an interest in young girls. Such whispered gossip as she had had in the Convent with other girls about "being in love" concerned itself with young men—"boys."

It hadn't yet occurred to her that the ageing men who brought pretty little painted things to the inn could be "in love" with them. They must put themselves to the trouble of escorting these young things and paying for their meals, because they were their uncles, or friends of the family.

It was true, these faded old eyes could goggle at you in the same silly, fishlike way that boys' eyes had. Still, the poor old men couldn't, simply couldn't be in love

This Mr. Nazlo wasn't exactly old, but he was elderly. It was interesting to speak French with him, and Terry would have liked the man if there hadn't been that funny flash in his eyes which gave her a little stab. In spite of the flash, however, she wanted to go in his automobile. She almost prayed that her father would say yes.

"Well, what about it, Mr. Desmond?" the Shoe King asked, dropping back into English. "Will you trust me to take your daughter for a blow?"

"Mighty nice of you to trouble over a little girl like her," Terrence answered jauntily. "And I'd like to give her the pleasure.

"I'm afraid though, I can't spare her this evening. We're slack just now. But people are beginning to come in, and there's always a crowd later on."

The heat of his anger had died down; and his hopes had begun to rise, but he was "too sharp to show excitement Desmond knew it would be bad policy to throw his daughter at Nazlo's head.

"When did you say you meant to give your cashier a holiday?" the Greek smilingly persisted.

"I didn't mention any time, but as a matter of fact I was thinking of letting her off next week, and getting a regular cashier."

"Can't you give her an hour or so off now and then, before that?" Nazlo was almost pleading.

"Very much afraid I couldn't, sir," replied Terrence gravely. But he chuckled within. The affair was going like smoke

Terry was wildly excited the day when she was to know the joy of motoring. She had dreamed of it, and "played" that she was having it, so often It seemed too good to be true that it was going to happen.

There was a new cashier in the restaurant since this morning, and at five o'clock Mr. Nazlo would come for her. She felt almost happy for the first time since her mother's death. She couldn't help being just a little happy

It was ten minutes to five; time to run downstairs, in case Mr. Nazlo should be early. But the girl paused an instant before the tiny mirror that hung above her dressing table.

She was in mourning, but to her surprise, Father had brought her a present from Oldport; grey silk motor coat, and a toque to match.

Suddenly a picture of long ago painted itself in her brain; Jule, in a wonderful grey silk motor coat and veiled toque, sitting in the drawing-room at Silverwood. Why, she was nearly as old now as Jule had been then

A pang of homesickness shot through her heart, a great longing for Julia's love. It seemed as if the Princess had forgotten her, these days

She ran downstairs, and into the restaurant, empty save for five or six couples. Desmond, who was instructing the new cashier, strolled over to Terry, at once escorting her to the door.

"Nazlo'll be here any minute," he said. "Glad you won't keep him waiting. He's not the kind for that game."

"Hm You're sort of easy to look at in that hat Thought 'twould suit you. You can keep your end up, I guess, with any of th peaches Nazlo knows, even th high Society females he's in with since the war.

"But, see here, my girl, I'll give you the straight tip:—Mind your p's and q's with this fine gentleman."

"What do you mean, Dad?" Terry questioned him, surprised; because Mr. Nazlo was Father's contemporary if not his friend.

"Don't you understand plain English as well as the French language? Anyhow, haven't you got a woman's instinct?"

"I don't know," stumbled the girl, ashamed of her denseness. "I'll behave politely, if that's what you mean."

"I mean a little more," Terrence caught her up. "Don't make yourself cheap. Let him squeeze your hand, but no kissing—see?

"Not unless he's popped the question, and I hardly think he'll get to that in the first round, if ever. Still, he might. It's up to you, I guess."

Terry stared. She was not a slow-witted girl, but the thought that Eustace Nazlo might propose to marry her was so strange that she couldn't take it in.

All she knew at the moment was that the pleasure of her excursion was spoiled. She had an impulse to turn, fly to her room, lock herself in, throw off the motor coat and hat and stamp on them, but at that moment the Rolls Royce drew up before the door

HONEYMOONERS? TOUR COUPLES OF 'EM

It's a nice long honeymoon trip these newly weds have in store. They sailed from Seattle recently on the Admiral Liner President Jackson, to become school teachers in the Philippines. The U. S. Bureau of Education has decided it is more satisfactory to send newly married couples rather than single folks, who become homesick and resign. Right to left, they are: Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Hillhoe, Fargo, N.D.; Mr. and Mrs. King W. Chapman, Woodburn, Ind; Mrs. W. W. Phelps, "chaperon"; Mr. and Mrs. Elmo J. Russell, Oskaloosa, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. George C. Struble, Kas.

My Tiger

If even the reader of these lines should go a hunting big game in the jungles of India, for want of a better occupation, let him take care not to kill a tiger.

Why, you ask? Well, I'll tell you. On a journey to Bombay on board the Cleopatra I once met a wealthy Englishman who was bound for a hunt in India. Over a game of bridge and some drinks of whiskey and soda we sealed the bond of friendship. And so it happened that one fine day I found myself as his guest, posted near a mango-tree, waiting for a leopard or tiger to appear whom I could ceremoniously shoot to death. I waited long, but in vain. Aside from the swarms of mosquitos that dag their fangs relentlessly into my flesh, and several rather large cobras that glided officiously along, nothing disturbed the silence of the jungle.

Then suddenly, not far from where I was, in the tall grass, I heard a rustling and a suppressed snorting—a tiger!

Involuntarily I took a step backwards, seeking cover behind the trees. My enthusiasm had suddenly vanished. My courage sank, far rose and my heart beat violently. With knees all agog I stood there praying God to lead the wild beast in some other direction away from me. But heaven had no compassion. The tiger approached. Already I could discern the yellow stripes along his flanks and I started with horror into those uncanny bright eyes. At this moment the muscles of my arms instinctively raised my gun up to my shoulder. In resignation I closed my eyes and pulled the trigger.

A low gurgling sob became audible for a second, then all was quiet. A penetrating odor of gunpowder pervaded motionless. Bathed in perspiration the air. I opened my eyes but stood and shaking like a leaf I awaited further developments. No paralytic could have been more helpless.

"I say, my friend, where are you? My word, that was a perfect shot!" These words broke the spell which had held me in its grip. Shyly I emerged and regained my composure only when I saw my friend bending over the lifeless beast. It was a beautiful specimen of a tiger.

After the animal had been skinned, a strange restlessness seized me. I decided to return home.

Four Hindu servants were delegated to accompany me. With typical Hindu resignation they bore my palanquin through the virgin wilderness of the forest primeval, through arid, rocky river-beds to Cathmandu. Thence we continued over vast stretches of land covered with ricinus and indigo, past date groves and palmyra trees, to Sigauli, where at last iron rails greeted me—the first sign of civilization that I found. The sensation that a man must experience whose life has been saved overcame me as the train carried me safely to Bombay. The ice-armored parapets of the Himalayas stirred my imagination and in the presence of these majestic lofty witnesses I vowed never to undertake so risky a venture again.

But the further removed I was from the scene of my darkest hour, the pride grew. And when I showed my trophy to friends in Bombay, a strong feeling of heroism asserted itself.

On the homeward trip the weather was bad and in order to escape boredom I engaged in a flirtation with an attractive American girl. She soon expressed eagerness to see the hide of which I had boasted.

She went into raptures upon seeing it. "It is the best souvenir that I possess," was my reply.

"Would you sell it?" she asked.

"Never!" I cried alarmed at the thought.

But upon gazing into her hazel eyes, I wavered and seizing her hand I said: "For a kiss."

She paid me my price. Farewell, tiger!

The next few days were happy ones. I sold and resold the hide to her innumerable times. All my past experiences seemed blotted out and I lived entirely in the blissful present. So did she.

But the reaction soon set in. Cold reason broke its fetters and regret over the loss of the trophy that I had won so dearly, gnawed at my heart. When I was alone I racked my brain for some means of returning into possession of the tiger once more. I became irritable and nervous. Finally on the eve of our arrival in Italy, when I was still taxing my poor ingenuity seeking a mode of recovery, I went to the girl and got engaged to her.

Thus the tiger was saved, but—

Wherefore, gentle reader, if you should ever go a-hunting big game in the jungles of India, take care not to kill a tiger.

A 20-TON STEEL DOOR.

The way of the transgressor becomes ever harder. Armed though he be with every resource of science, it is difficult to believe that any burglar could damage appreciably the "treasury door" which a British firm has made for the strong room of one of the principal banks. This door, which weighs 20 tons, (20500 kg) and is 2 ft. (61 cm.) in thickness, is the result of many years' scientific research. It is capable of resisting, to a greater degree than anything hitherto produced, every possible risk. A cylindrical casting of drill-resisting manganese steel, nowhere thinner than 2 ins. (5 cm.) extends inwards at the rim for a depth of 25¼ ins. (63.5 cm.) and, when closed, fits tightly against a frame of the same material. The hinge carrying this casting has double bearings and is so designed that the final movement of the door in closing is a direct slide inwards for a distance of 2½ ins. (6.4 cm.). A series of 26 radial bolts, hopelessly beyond the reach of any malefactor's tools, secure the door to the frame. Within the cylindrical casting there is a composite slab of tough steel, five-ply welded armour plate, and undrillable alloy. This slab is protected by a mass of granolithic mixture containing irregular and oxy-flame resisting reinforcement. A final protection is afforded by an electric screen which, if pierced by any method, raises an alarm. Behind all this, the boltwork and controlling locks are fitted. Such a door can indeed claim to be invulnerable.

SAFETY IN STEAM BOILERS.

Throughout the world, red is instinctively recognized as a warning signal and under no circumstances is it more desirable to show the red light of danger than when the water runs low in a steam boiler. Generally, a red line is marked on a scale behind the gauge glass to indicate the lowest level compatible with safety, but it is then necessary to hunt for the actual level of the water in the tube. The red index line is easily seen but the meniscus or surface layer of the water is not easy to locate in a badly lighted boiler house or if the gauge glass be somewhat dirty. An ingenius means of making the meniscus itself stand out as an unmistakeable red line has been devised by a British engineer. A ventilated metal tube containing a small electric lamp is attached to the gauge glass and the rays from the lamp pass through an optical glass transmitted, colored red, on to a reflector by which they are directed onto the meniscus. The lamp can be supplied from a battery or other source of current, and it can be alight continuously or connected to a switch-button which the attendant presses whenever he wishes to note the water level. So long as the lamp is alight the meniscus shows up as a luminous red line, the position and import for which it stands.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

PRECAUTION

"Why do you look in the mirror so much?" asked the married man of the pretty maid who had just been hired.

KITCHEN OUTFIT FOR MOTOR CAMPER

Not the least important department of the auto-camper's equipment is the combination kitchen and dining room without which camping would be impossible. This is perhaps the hardest part of the outfit to make up owing to individual tastes and the number of articles needed.

For the cooking an ordinary party will require the following: two frying pans, two or three stew pans, coffee pot, two or more cooking spoons, one long-handled cooking fork, a grill with long handle and perhaps a tea pot, and big pail for drawing water.

The folding army mess kits are very compact and useful. A large dish for washing dishes is essential.

Provision Lists

As to the material of cooking utensils, enamelware stands a good deal of punishment and is easy to keep clean. Aluminum has the advantage of light weight but has a tendency to conduct heat and is not so strong as enamelware.

One can start his trip with his own notion of what provisions may be needed. But here is a list for a small party which gives an idea. Pound of butter (in tin), bag of flour and one of prepared flour, carton of salt, five pounds of sugar, pound of coffee, dozen eggs, pound of bacon, can of corned beef, several small cans of condensed milk, lard, cereal and seasonings.

Several items could be enlarged but generally the motorist has no trouble in meeting stores on the way and too big a burden can be avoided.

An ice basket or portable refrigerator is really a necessity. An ice basket will keep things quite cold for 24 hours on 5 cents worth of ice.

Some sort of table is needed for dining purposes. The common folding card table is fine for this and takes up little room. A linoleum cloth will keep it clean. Folding chairs or stools make eating more comfortable.

Many New Ideas

There are several collapsible dining outfits on the market which solve this whole problem of chairs and table. They are designed for this special purpose and are easily carried.

It is one of the delights of the pastime to buy fresh poultry, eggs and milk from the farmers along the way. Prices are generally much lower than in the city markets and also the goods are fresh.

One might add a selection of canned goods to use in an emergency. Canned baked beans, tomatoes, soups, asparagus and fruits may come in handy, especially when ready cooked foods are needed in a hurry.

AN IMPROVED WATER VALVE

Every householder must have appreciated the convenience of that type of tap in which the movement of a handle through a right-angle turns the water full on. Also he will probably have noticed the peculiar click and jarr which occurs in the pipe if the handle be turned off suddenly. In industrial work both of these pipes assumes increased importance. The saving of time effected by the instantaneous on and off movements is an important factor where valves have to be operated many times a day, but the shock—technically called "water hammer"—which results from sudden stoppage of the flow may have serious consequences where large pipes are concerned. A way of obtaining the advantage, without the risk, of a quick-action valve has been evolved by a British firm and incorporated in a design which may be briefly described as follows. Normally, the valve is held closed by the pressure of the supply and by a spring on the valve stem. In order to open the valve a handle provided with a special cam is turned through a right angle. The cam then bears on a plunger and forces the valve wide open. When the handle is turned to the "off" position, the valve is closed automatically but not suddenly. A dashpot action controls the tendency of the spring to close the valve, and the water is therefore cut off gradually. This eliminates "water hammer" and the actual time occupied by the valve in closing is, of course, very short. For all practical purposes the action is instantaneous but there is just that element of scientific control which makes the difference between failure and success.

RECIPES

Why not make drop cookies during the hot summer months? While the rolled ones are perfect in shape they really don't taste a bit better and take just twice as long to make.

Cookies offer a charming accompaniment to iced tea in the afternoon, are delightful for a picnic and are quite as acceptable as cake with a simple fruit ice for dessert.

Drop cookies with nuts or raisins in them are just that much better than plain ones, but the plain cream cookies are wonderfully good.

Cream Cookies

Two eggs, 1 cup sweet cream, 1 cup sugar, 3 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, nutmeg.

Beat eggs well with a dover beater. Add sugar and continue beating. Add cream and beat well. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder and stir into first mixture. Add nutmeg. Drop from a spoon onto a well buttered and floured cookie sheet. Flatten with spoon to prevent cookies from being too thick when baked. Sprinkle lightly with sugar and drop a raisin in the center of each cookie. Bake twelve minutes in a moderately hot oven. As these cookies need no butter they are not expensive. If sour cream is used stir one-fourth teaspoon soda into cream. Use the same amount of baking powder as with sweet cream.

Rolled Oats Cookies

Two cups light brown sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs, ½ cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups flour, 2 cups rolled oats, ½ cup chopped English walnuts, ½ cup chopped raisins.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs well beaten. Dissolve soda in milk and add to first mixture. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Drop from a spoon onto a well-buttered and floured sheet. Bake in a hot oven.

Chocolate Drop Cookies

Two cups granulated sugar, 3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cake bitter chocolate, ½ cup butter, 3 eggs, 3 teaspoons vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt.

Melt chocolate. Add sugar. Mix and sift flour and baking powder. Add to first mixture. Beat eggs, butter and vanilla well together. Add first mixture to this, slowly beating well. Drop

Hub Cookies

One cup butter, 1½ cups brown sugar, 2½ cups flour, 3 eggs, 1½ cups chopped raisins, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and sugar. Add part of the flour. Add eggs well beaten. Add raisins with remaining flour sifted over them. Add soda dissolved in a little warm water. Add salt. Mix well at each step. Drop from spoon and bake in a hot oven.

A CHEERFUL GIVER

A colored revival was in full blast, and one old fellow was exhorting the people to contribute generously.

"Look what de Lawd's done fo' you all, bredren!" he shouted. "Give Him a portion of all you has. Give Him a tenth. A tenth belongs to de Lawd!"

"Amen!" yelled a perspiring member of the congregation, overcome by emotion. "Glory to de Lawd! Give Him mo.' Give Him a twentieth!"

FAIR DIRECTORS OF PERCY STAGED GREAT FIELD DAY

Splendid Sports Programme at Warkworth Finds Responsive Enthusiasm from 3000 Delighted Spectators.

WARKWORTH, August 9. — The Board of Directors of the Warkworth Fair, or the Percy Agricultural Society, to be correct, never do anything by halves. They have, by means of their annual exhibition, put the village and township on the map of Ontario. At the Warkworth Fall Fair for years the prize-list has been the largest offered at any fair in Northumberland County, a statement proved by the fact that the directors here receive the biggest grant from the Government. Percy Township Council has always been generous, too, in the matter of donations. At the coming fair the amount offered in prizes will be greater than ever, as the grant to fair boards made by the County Council has been increased. As the distribution of this grant is based on the total of the prize-list, the Percy board of directors will receive the big end of this increased grant.

Yesterday the Fair Board staged a field day, and as usual this was a success. The funds of the society will be materially increased, as the attendance was well up to 3,000. The programme offered was varied enough to provide amusement for all classes, old and young. There was, as a starter, a parade through the village of industrial floats and an old-fashioned Calithumpian turnout, in which there were many grotesque makeups. The Campbellford Band furnished the music for the procession and rendered selections at intervals during the afternoon. Three horse races furnished entertainment for those who have a taste for that class of sport; but it was the two ball games the results of which appear in another column, that really held the crowd.

The Races.

The horse races drew a field of 12 horses, four starting in each of the three races. The judges were G. H. Kingsley, Cobourg, starter; William Maher and J. P. Richards, of Cobourg, and Gus White, of Peterborough. The timekeepers were Dr. J. E. Ayles of Colborne and J. Nelson Stone of Campbellford. J. A. Armstrong, secretary of the society, was clerk of the course.

First Race.

The first race was won by Sunny Jim, owned by Caldwell, of Port Hope, in three straight heats; Polly Stout, owned by Elmhurst, of Keene, second money Lloyd George, owned by Ed. Jones, of Peterboro, third, and Elmhurst's Bucco, fourth. The best time in this race was 2.18¼.

Second Race.

In this race the four horses entered finished in the following order:

B.U.B., owned by Moyes, Port Hope, won first money in three straight heats.

Dakolah Maid, owned by A. Turley, Frankford, won second place in straight heats; Roy Mack, owned by Dr. Johnston, Port Hope, was third, and Lady Way, owned by Tinney, of Cobourg, finished in fourth place. Best time, 2.21 3-4.

Third Race.

Elmhurst's Cy Winger won the first, third and fourth heat and first money.

Tinney's Furioso, Jr., was second in the first heat, first in the second and fourth in the other two.

Harry H., owned by Vanelstein, Port Hope, was third in the first two and second in the last two heats.

Plato, owned by Morgan, of Grafton, was fourth.

Best time, 2.29¼ ¼.

Prize-Winners in Parade.

The following were the prize-winners in the parade:

Best decorated auto—Dr. Allan.

Best industrial float—Mildred, Curtis and Company, first; R. Honey, second.

Most comic turnout—Ross Moore, first; J. Lawlor, second.

Any other class—Miss Denike and ladies, who gave a representation of a Japanese tea-room, first; J. Hawker, a representation of the old woman who with her numerous children lived in a shoe, second.

Best outfit in parade—Dr. Allan, first; Mrs. Kelly, second.

The comic turnout that won first prize was a float showing an aged couple on their honeymoon trip.

Deputy Reeve Nelson, one of the directors of the society, arranged this part of the programme, which was one of the best features of the entertainment.

No Time Was Lost In This Case

Mrs. Luckhurst quickly discovered that Dreco possessed remarkable health-giving qualities.

Every women should read the following statement from Mrs. J. Luckhurst, of 705 Durie Street, Toronto, Ont. It portrays convincingly the true merit of Dreco, especially emphasizing the quickness of its beneficial action.

"For several years I have suffered from indigestion," days Mrs. Luckhurst. "I had gas on the stomach, acid risings and smothering spells. The pains were very severe across my back and I felt tired out all the time. My liver was sluggish and I was chronically constipated. Had constantly to take a laxative which gave me only temporary relief. I didn't rest well and my appetite was very poor. The food I did eat gave me no nourishment because it was not properly digested.

"No remedy ever gave me the adjunct of good results that Dreco has and I have only taken a half bottle. I had only taken a few doses when I could feel the difference and it seems to act so differenly from any other medicine. It has gone to the root of my troubles I am sure, and I feel positive that by continuing the treatment I will get real good results. I havent' been having those terrible bloating spells and shortness of breath, nor have I any pains through my limbs and back. I eat well and sleep soundly and am indeed happy that I can recommend Dreco."

Dreco acts quickly and with sure helpful result, because it is made from Nature's own remedies.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Elevator Company Will Appeal Case.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Special leave to carry an appeal in the case of the Ruthenian farmers' elevator company against Lukey, a test litigation in which the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal held certain clauses of the Saskatchewan sale of shares act invalid, to Supreme Court of Canada was granted by the Provincial Court of Appeal yesterday. The applicants were M. Lukey, Canora, Sask., farmer, and the Provincial Attorney-General's department.

Litigation commenced when the elevator company sought to collect on two $100 notes which Lukey had given them in return for two shares of stock. The District Court judge ordered payment, whereupon Lukey carried the case to the Appeal Court on the ground that the company, while operating under a Dominion charter, had not secured permission of the local government board to sell their stock in Saskatchewan.

INSANE SLAYER CAPTURED IN AN OAT FIELD

Man Hunt for John Cosgrave Ended Wednesday Night 6 Miles North of Guelph.

LIVED IN A SWAMP

GUELPH, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.) — The man hunt for John Cosgrave, the escaped insane murderer, from the Ontario Reformatory, ended early yesterday evening, when the fugitive was captured in an oat field six miles north of Guelph on the Eramosa road.

A telephone tip from Mrs. A. Peart, wife of the general store keeper at Four Corners to the Guelph police, and relayed to Superintendent Neelands at the Reformatory, at 7 o'clock, was the commencement of the last act in an escape that has stirred up this whole section of the province. Ten minutes after receiving the message, Superintendent Neelands and a party of guards set out from the institution and in less than half an hour later the fugitive had been caught.

Cosgrave apparently had been living in the swampy lands south-east of the reformatory ever since his escape until some time yesterday when he came out into the open country and started for the north. He was given a ride by a farmer named Lawson, who did not know of his escape, early yesterday evening. When passing the Peart store at Four Corners, Mrs. Peart recognized his prison garb and gave the alarm. Mr. Lawson stopped at Four Corners and Cosgrave continued north on the Eramosa road on foot. He had only gone a mile when the searchers reached Four Corners, and just before the latter came up with him he entered an oat field. He was seen by the guards in the field and quickly surrounded and captured without a struggle.

OTONABEE RIVER CLAIMS ANOTHER

Gus Cavalier Lost His Life While in Swimming Near the Waterworks.

Gus Cavalier, well known bartender at the Empress Hotel, was drowned last night while swimming near the water works. His body was recovered an hour later.

The call for the pulmotor was received at the Fire Hall at 8.15. Shortly before that time a boy, Leonard Mitchel, had seen the man in difficulties and had heard his cries for help. Mitchell ran to get assistance, and on his return Cavalier had disappeared.

Police Constables G. Puffer and W. H. Welch were quickly on the scene and started a search. The spot where the unfortunate man was last seen was pointed out by young Mitchel, and grappling irons were brought into use.

F. H. Patterson, who was at the scene of the tragedy, paddled in a canoe to the island and found some clothing in Fontaine's cottage. Joseph Fontaine identified it as that of Gus Cavalier.

Pulmotor Not Used.

The pulmotor had in the meantime arrived, but was of no service, the body not having been found. The directions given the firemen were not clear, they being called to "north of the water trough on Water street." The apparatus returned without seeing the victim.

At 9.40 p.m. the body was found by J. Fontaine, and the coroner was notified. Dr. T. W. H. Young gave permission for George Graham, proprietor of the Empress Hotel, to take the body under his care and obtain an undertaker. The body was viewed by the coroner this morning.

Victim Was Popular.

Gus Cavalier came to Peterborough from Cobourg, where he had resided in the Orphanage from the age of 5 years. He had been employed in the Empress Hotel for the last 9 years, and was very popular with his fellow workmen and with the public whom he served. A brother, Mike Cavalier, 366 Mark street, said this morning he cannot imagine how the accident occurred. "Gus had the name of being a cracking good swimmer," he said. "He often told me about swimming across the river."

TRAIN DERAILED NO FATALITIES

C. P. R. Harvester Special Jumps Track Near Warren, East of Sudbury—Several Injured.

SUDBURY, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press) — Special harvester train running over the Canadian Pacific main line was derailed near Warren about 40 miles east of Sudbury, last night at about 6 o'clock.

The engine and seven cars left the rails five of the cars being passenger coaches. There are no fatalities but between 15 and 20 have been injured.

The wreck occured on the Westerly end of a 20 mile tangent, where the main line of the C. P. R. runs through a perfectly flat country.

"Physicians attending passengers injured stated early this morning that all are expected to recover. A. Shaw who sold out his home in Montreal and was on his way to Calgary to take up farming, was probably the most serious case, and while apparent injuries are severe contusions on his shoulders, arms and head, he has been having hemorrhages which have not yet been diagnosed. His two little sons, aged six and eight, are also in the hospital with him, having been severely bruised. Mrs. Shaw had almost a miraculous escape and beyond shock is uninjured. Mrs. Mary Lacross, Quebec suffered internal injuries. Sixteen other casualties were taken to Sudbury Hotels, they were all from Montreal and suffered only slight bruses. Three other Montreal people are in Sudbury Hospital.

What caused the wreck is still a mystery. The train consisted of 20 cars in all, and was hauled by one of the largest locomotives on C. P. R. service.

It was making 35 miles an hour when Engineer Kitchen felt a bump on the ties and knew it had jumped the track. He applied the emergency brake and for a moment believed the train would stay on the ties but the engine suddenly shot off at a angen into the ditch and upset. Neither fireman or engineer was injured. Directly behind the engine was a through baggage car, this served as a buffer for the rest of the train and was smashed to kindling, and baggage scattered all over the neighbourhood. The next three cars contained family parties and it was in these cars that all casualties occurred One overturned and another taking the opposite side of the track, went clear over the right of way into the Sudbury North Bay highway. The third followed the same side as the first the next was a refreshment car which slithered into the ditch but kept upright and not even milk taken on at North Bay was spilt.

GRAIN BOAT ASHORE.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press)—The steel steamer Glenealy, of the playfair fleet of Midland, bound from Fort William to Montreal with 82,000 bushels of grain, ran ashore Tuesday night six miles from Farrans Point and is said to be in a serious condition. The Sincennes-McNaughton wrecking outfit, Montreal has been summoned. The Glenealy was built last winter in Great Britain and came to the Great Lakes early this season.

USING MAILS TO DEFRAUD

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 8.—(Associated Press).—Victory H. Arnold, banker and revivalist of this city, will be arraigned in the Federal Court at Superior, Wis., to answer to an indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud. Arnold was president of the now bankrupt Madison Bond Company and gained wide comment by his religious revival meetings in New York City and Madison before the United States Government began investigating his alleged bond selling work in Wisconsin.

The Federal Grand Jury, meeting here last December, returned a complaint against Arnold which pointed to transactions in which investors were found to have lost nearly $600,000. Residents of southern Wisconsin are largely concerned.

While those responsible for the complaints leading to the indictment claim that Mr. Arnold unlawfully acquired and invested money of other persons, Arnold himself takes the position that he is a victim of a "vicious circle of Madison business men" who oppose him.

The indictment sets out three alleged schemes which it says are fraudulent and which Arnold will be called upon to explain during the court hearing. He is charged with misrepresenting the value of securities offered for sale by his company, with attempting to defraud investors out of company bonds by offer of an unsecured note, and with causing the false arrest of company officials.

In December of 1921 Arnold gave the needy of Madison a Christmas dinner costing $25,000. Thereafter he led a series of revival meetings, at which he urged a return to the teachings of the Bible. Then he and his family moved to New York where the revival meetings were continued.

Hundreds of Elderly Men and Women Praise Tanlac For Its Great Benefits

Many People Join in Words of Gratitude That Pour Into Tanlac Offices From All Over The Continent—Tell of Remarkable Experiences.

One of the features that has stood out most prominently in connection with the introduction and sale of Tanlac everywhere has been the very large number of men and women of advanced age who have testified to the splendid results they have derived from its use.

Among the many elderly people who have recently realized the powers of the medicine and voluntarily express their great gratitude to Tanlac is Thomas Palmer, Sr., well known retired farmer of Hansel, Ontario. Mr. Palmer says:

CAN GET AROUND LIKE A YOUNG MAN

"You don't often see a man as spry as I am at seventy-two and judging by the way Tanlac fixed me up I am sure it is fine for anybody.

"Before I took Tanlac I could hardly walk and had not been down town without my walking stick since last September. Sometimes every joint in my body ached. I was terribly run down, had suffered from constipation for ten years, my kidneys bothered me a great deal, I had no appetite and seldom got a good night's sleep.

"I took different medicines for two years without any relief to speak of but Tanlac and the Tanlac Vegetable Pills have put me back in fine shape and I stand ready to praise it to the limit."

GAINED FIVE POUNDS ON EVERY BOTTLE OF TANLAC

Mr. Fannie Judson, widely known and highly esteemed resident of 228 Albert St., Windsor, Ont., recently said:

"There is nothing better I can say for Tanlac than that I am still enjoying the splendid health it brought me four years ago. At that time I had been suffering from a complication of troubles for five years and was right on the verge of a complete breakdown. I had fallen off to a mere skeleton of my former self and was too weak and nervous even to hold a writing pen. I could sleep little and suffered from indigestion.

"I used five bottles of Tanlac and gained five pounds for every bottle and am now enjoying as fine health as most any school girl."

PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN PRAISES TANLAC

"I was one of the first to buy Tanlac when it was introduced in Montreal and ever since then I have been one of its firmest friends," states Mr. S. Chaille, 94 de Granpre St., Montreal, Que., for twenty years a prominent real estate man. "The medicine put me back in the finest health. It is certainly a dependable preparation."

THREE IN THIS HOME RESTORED

"I can not speak too highly of Tanlac," says James Desjarlias, well known contractor, 235 Boyer St., Montreal. "The medicine not only rid me of indigestion, nervousness and loss of weight and built me up thirteen pounds, but put my wife in fine condition and restored my father and built him up seventeen pounds. Tanlac is simply grand."

HAS NOT SEEN ITS EQUAL IN SIXTY YEARS

"I thought all medicine were about alike until I took Tanlac, and I want to say I have not seen its equal in all my sixty years," says Wm. Sadd, 28 Mulberry St., Hamilton, Ont. "For sixty years I had asthma and hay fever so bad every spring I could hardly breathe. What I ate nauseated me, I was so nervous I had to walk the floor at night and had such a pain across my back I could hardly stoop over to lace my shoes.

"Tanlac fixed me up so fine I feel as active as I did thirty years ago."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Take no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. Sold everywhere.

HOPING FOR JOINT REPLY TO GERMANY

Cuno's Speech in Reichstag Not Taken Seriously by Britain.

LONDON, Aug. 9. — (Canadian Press.)— Chancellor Cuno's speech in the Reichstag yesterday seemingly has had little effect in Great Britain, where the dominant opinion expressed by those in authority is that the importance of German Government utterances is approaching the vanishing point so far as their acutal effects are concerned. The most welcome part of the speech was the Chancellor's admission that the German Government had nothing to expect from Great Britain in the way of sympathy or assistance. It is hoped this will mollify the French, who have been insisting that the present British policy is serving only to strengthen Germany's resistance in the Ruhr and elsewhere.

The Cabinet met again this morning and continued its efforts to formulate an answer to the French and Belgian notes, which contained a virtual rejection of the British draft note to Germany. Great Britain will not as yet deem it impossible to bring the Allies into accord for a joint reply to the German's latest reparation offer, it appears from current utterances in political quarters.

SWARM CONTROL

(Experimental Farms Note)

Natural swarming may be termed the bugbear of beekeeping and to control it is the most difficult problem of the beekeeper. Natural swarming usually occurs during a honey flow especially at the beginning and if the swarm is allowed to issue it may be lost or the honey crop reduced. In order to get the maximum crop o honey from a colony it is advisable to keep the working force of the colony together by using some method of swarm control.

Swarming is usually caused by overcrowding or congestion of the brood nest and any manipulation that will relieve this congestion will often prevent swarming.

All colonies do not require the same treatment and preparations for swarming may often be checked by applying the following manipulations. A. By giving the queen more room for egg production. (2) By adding more supers for the storing of nectar. (3) By giving the colony more shade and ventilation. (4) By raising a few combs of brood from the brood nest to a super. (5) destroying queen cells before they are far advanced.

The swarming fever may be so intense that some colonies will not respond to the above measures and may persist in their determination to swarm; with these more drastic measures must be applied: (1) Artificial swarming in which the bees and queen are all shaken on to a full set of empty combs or full sheets of foundation. The brood is put into a super and placed on top of the colony above the honey supers. In the production of comb honey the brood is placed in another hive standing along side of the original colony; in this case enough bees should be left in the old hive to take care of the brood. (2) Remove the old queen from the hive and destroy all queen cells. Ten days later again destroy all queen cells and introduce a young laying queen. (3)In localities where the honey flow is short and very heavy the removal of all the brood and bees from the brood chamber to a top super and leaving the queen on a full set of empty combs below will often stop swarming. These three manipulations should only be applied when larvæ in queen cells are found.

It is a good plan to clip the queen's wings in the spring especially in outapiaries for should a swarm emerge between visits there is less likelihood of the swarm absconding.

Should a swarm emerge with a clipped queen she will be unable to fly and can be found on the ground at the entrance of the hive. The queen should be caged the old hive moved to one side and a new hive put in its place while the swarm is in the air. The cage containing the queen is placed at the entrance of the new hive and when the swarm returns the queen is released. The supers from the parent colony are then placed over the swarm and the parent colony can be either placed on a new stand or left by the side of the swarm.

SWITCHGEAR FOR MINES.

In "fiery" coal mines, where the the tiniest exposed electric spark may ignite the explosive atmosphere, with results disastrous to life and property, electrical machinery is nevertheless used on an enormous scale and—where proper equipment is employed—with complete safety. The most remarkable part of the equipment is perhaps the switchgear used to control the various motors by closing or opening the electrical circuit. There is, of course, inevitably an arc between the switch contacts at the moment when they are drawn apart and it is essential to make such arrangements that this arc cannot ignite firedamp or coal dust in the surrounding atmosphere. Merely to enclose the switch in an "air-tight" chamber is not sufficient. No casing which meets the requirements of the service can be sealed really hermetically. The only safe policy is that adopted by British manufacturers, which recognize that explosive gases will collect within the casing, which must therefore be designed to withstand and confine an internal explosion. The standard test applied to British switchgear for use in mines, or other explosive atmospheres, consists in filling the casing of the apparatus with the most explosive mixture of firedamp and air, placing the whole apparatus in a chamber filled with a similar mixture, and exploding the mixture inside the switch by an electric spark. The explosion must not be communicated to the mixture in the outer chamber, nor must the casing of the switch or any internal part be injured by the force of the explosion. It is also arranged that no contact can be made or broken with the "live" parts whilst the casing is open for purposes of inspection. The means by which these results are secured are the outcome of long experience in design, manufacture, and use.

Gooseberries

If you like gooseberries these recipes may appeal. And if you don't know how delicious spiced and jellied and jammed gooseberries are with winter meat, try these rules and be convinced.

When cool add sugar, remaining vinegar and water boiled to a sirup. Stir in carefully and add remaining ingredients. The mustard seed should be crushed. Add enough more vinegar to make the consistency of mixed pickle. Bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Gooseberry Jelly.

Three quarts berries, 1 quart water sugar.

Wash berries and put in preserving kettle with water. Bring to the boiling point and cook until tender. Crush wih potato masher and continue cooking until reduced to a pulp. Turn into jelly bag and strain out juice. Measure juice and for each cup of juice allow ¾ cup of sugar. Boil sugar and juice until the liquid will "set" when tried on a cold plate. Turn into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin when cold.

Tame or wild berries can be used in any of these recipes.

Britons to Garner Harvest.

Nearly six thousand Britons will land in Canada shortly to work in the harvest fields of the prairie provinces. Much more than half of these have been recruited in the British Isles by agents of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and the first contingent is expected to arrive on the C. P. R. S. Montclare. Special return rates have been offered and the accepted applicants, all of whom are of the finest physique, may return to their own land should they not find conditions here agreeable after harvest. This photograph was taken outside the London, England, offices of the Canadian Pacific, and shows a crowd of applicants for reduced transportation awaiting admission.

GOING CRAZY?

Cheer up, humanity is not any crazier than usual, according to Dr. Joseph Collins, one of the leading American neurologists. He's worth listening to, for he's not a "publicity scientist," thinking up odd theories to catch popular attention. When Dr. Collins speaks, the conservative medical profession listens respectfully.

Dr. Desloges, head of asylums in Quebec province, Canada, recently claimed: "Everywhere symptoms are visible that insanity is increasing at an alarming rate. These symptoms are many and varied. In the individual they are mainly an extreme effervescence. People work with wild enthusiasm and play with the same desperate energy."

Answering Desloges in the New York Times, Dr. Collins says: "If an impresario will get a moving picture of a domestic servant working with wild enthusiasm, or a farm laborer, or even a mill hand, his fortune will be made. And I vow there is no desperate energy displayed where I play or see play, save at Monte Carlo."

We're not as wild and enthusiastic in real life as we are on the stage, in the movies or in fiction.

Symptoms of collective or national insanity are evident in Germany, Russia and France, says Dr. Collins, and in America which is obsessed with money mania.

But Collins thinks that the cure for this money insanity "that threatens our existence as a nation is the voluntary acceptance of the Ten Commandments and the enforcement of the Criminal Code."

In other words, we are law-breaking rather than crazy.

Dr. Collins, having investigated history, reports that the insanity scare is a periodical visitation, the same as every generation resurrects the theory that the sun is cooling off and heading humanity toward a frigid climate in which all will perish.

Another distinguished neurologist tells us that when a person fears for his sanity it's a pretty fair sign he's in control of his mental faculties, and that this is as true of nations and civilizations as it is of individuals. A characteristic of the insane is an obsession that they're sane and that no one can prove they're crazy.

Humanity's nerves are in bad shape, undoubtedly, but its sanity is not endangered though it may be confused by "nerves."

What we need is more relaxation and less speed in daily life. The so-called efficiency experts, trying to speed us up to the last ounce of energy, are partly responsible for our nervous ailments.

We're not going to be here on earth very long, any of us, so why not take our time and try to learn what it's all about—instead of attempting to travel 1,000 miles an hour and keep our daily lives geared correspondingly? Trouble is, we're rushing in a tremendous hurry through life, and without any apparent destination.

All eternity lies ahead. Don't shove.

YOUR SUCCESS

Nature has taught every man to be a salesman when it comes to making love, comments George Cromwell Blower, New York teacher of applied psychology.

"Nature teaches the boy who would sell himself to his sweetheart as her husband, that everything about him talks and that he must make it talk for and not against him.

"For that reason, he brushes his hair, washes his ears, shines his shoes, whisks his clothes and puts on his best manners and most pleasing smile."

Courtship is the original form of salesmanship.

In primitive life, the young man brings to his intended bride the choicest birds, fish and other game—to convince her that he will be a "good provider." And he brings her the rare colored stone for jewelry, or the rear bird plumage, to convince her that he can supply luxuries. He is selling himself to her.

In civilized life, you find the young man performing the same way—displaying, to his sweetheart, his bankbook and business prospects and the box of candy or flowers.

The more you study simple psychology the more it will occur to you that all life is a matter of salesmanship.

We "go out of our way" to please and hold our friends. That's salesmanship.

We cultivate attractive manners and common-sense demeanor, and patiently build up a reputation for honesty and reliability. All salesmanship.

Instinctively we realize that we are here in this material life on a short trip, with certain qualifications of advantage to others and certain handicaps that hold us back. We concentrate to overcome the handicaps and develop the qualifications. That's salesmanship—the supper applied-science.

Two thoughts will occur to you as you ponder this discussion of salesmanship as a vital part of every human life:

FIRST: It would be an excellent idea for every boy and girl to receive, some time or other in their education, a practical course in the fundamentals of the psychology of salesmanship. We can have much productive ability, but without the ability to sell (market) it we are destined to be candlelights under a bushel.

SECOND: Salesmanship applies to nations as it applies to individuals. Amiable foreign relations are a matter of salesmanship, and it might be a good idea to let the sales engineers try their hand at so-called diplomacy—usually the science of selling gold bricks and then trying to keep the buyers satisfied.

The first lesson in genuine human salesmanship is Ralph Waldo Emerson's essay on "Compensation." Bookstores have it in cheap copies. The libraries have it free. It's probably the canest thing written in at least five senturies.

SCIENTISTS SEEK MEANS INCREASE COTTON CROP

TALLULAH, La., Aug. 9.—(Associated Press).—Entomologists at the United States Department of Agriculture Experiment Station here hope to see, as a result of their researches, the enactment of uniform state laws to compel the dusting of all cotton with calcium arsenate from airplanes, or by auxiliary machinery where planes cannot be utilized. The dusting, it is claimed, would result in the maximum control of the boll weevil, which has caused the loss of untold millions of dollars to the cotton growers of the south.

The boll weevil has been controlled on dusted acreage, it is stated, but untreated acreage has permitted the reproduction of the pest and a continuation of devastation. The weevil depends primarily upon the cotton plant for food, and the poisoning of its entire food supply, according to the experts, would permit maximum control. This can be done only through the compulsory treatment of all cotton, and legislative acts are regarded as necessary for a successful campaign.

The entomologists are using airplanes here in their experiments, after having tried many machines for distributing dry calcium arsenate and the poison in solution. They declare the dry poison offers the greatest possibilities of control, as it can be broken up into particles fine enough to reach all parts of the plant, which is not possible with the water globules.

One of the greatest problems facing the experimenters was the determination of a proper distributing apparatus. An apparatus that depends upon the velocity of the air now is in use and the entomologists believe the distribution problem has been solved. It is known as the Venturi tube, a horn shaped contrivance without any interior devices to impede the air current. At the rear end are pieces to break up the poison into four streams which flow outward and downward. The poison is supplied to the tube through a slide valve in a hopper located in the cockpit of the plane.

From five to six pounds of calcium arsenate are used on each acre at an average cost of $1.00, and it is believed the airplane will save at least one pound to the acre, representing an enormous reduction in the aggregate during a season. Satisfactory results, according to the entomologists, can be obtained through six applications.

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not [illegible] happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think. If you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many [illegible] lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying a little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

THE FIRST STEP TOWARDS THE CROP OF 1924

(Experimental Farms Note)

It may appear to be a little too early to begin thinking of next year's honey crop but the successful beekeeper knows that the success of next year's crop depends upon the preparations made for it and the time they are made. A successful season depends to a large extent upon good wintering. Good wintering depends upon three things namely: colonies well filled with young bees an abundance of wholesome stores and adequate protection from the varying outside temperatures during the winter and early spring.

The first thing then is to get colonies well filled with young bees and to get them before the winter sets in; this means that we must have the bees produced between the months of July and October and in order to do this we must have a prolific queen in the hive during the months of August and September. The first step therefore in producing a crop of honey in 1924 is to see that every colony is headed with a good prolific queen during the latter part of July or the first week in August. A good second year queen will often produce the required number of bees in the fall but she is very likely to get lost during the winter or fall the following spring. A young queen reared during the latter part of June or July is the most dependable for she is not only prolific during the fall but she is comparatively young and prolific the next spring the two seasons of the year when brood production counts most.

Every beekeeper should examine his colonies during the latter part of July and destroy all queens that show the least signs of failing replacing them with young queens that are prolific. Old queens that are still producing a maximum amount of brood can be left and replaced later in the season by younger queens.

A good system of requeening the colonies is one that is combined with swarm control measures that is introducing the young queen at the same time treatment is applied to control swarming. During the main flow from clover when swarming is most intense and the colonies have larvæ in queen cups remove the old queen from the hive and destroy all queen cells present. Nine days later again remove all queen cells and introduce a young laying queen. By this method the swarming is controlled and the colonies are requeened at the right time. If the old queen is prolific and increase is desired a frame or two of emerging brood may be removed with her and placed in a new hive. This nucleus can be built up into a strong colony by fall when the old queen can be replaced by a young one.

BRANTFORD TEAM HERE ON SATURDAY

Will Meet the G. W. V. A. Footballers in Ontario Cup-Tie.

The Ontario Cup tie between the Massey Harris team of Brantford and the G.W.V.A. of this city will be played off on Saturday afternoon. These two teams met in Brantford last Saturday and played to a 1 to 1 draw. The game here will be the deciding game and will be played to a finish. The Brantford game showed the two teams to be very evenly matched and Saturday's game here is sure to be a fast and well played contest. In addition to playing a good clean game the Brantford boys showed themselves to be good sportsmen in every sense of the word. The winners of Saturday's game will go into the semi-finals for the Ontario Cup and will meet the winners of the Hamilton-St. Catherines game. The semi-finals will be played a week from Saturday and the winners of this game will come up against one of the Toronto teams for the finals.

Saturday's game will be played at Riverside Park immediately after the baseball game. The kick off will be at 5 o'clock.

PETES MUST WIN SATURDAY'S GAME

The Kingston Ponies Now Have a Chance to Tie Up Second Half Race.

Kingston's victory over Belleville in Belleville yesterday made three straight defeats for the Trunks on their home lot and puts the Ponies in a position to draw up on even terms with the Petes for second half honors. To tie the Petes the Ponies must defeat Belleville in Kingston next Saturday and the Petes must lose to Cobourg. If the Petes beat Cobourg on Saturday they have the second half cinched or if Belleville beats Kingston the Petes will be sitting on the top of the heap and even if they do lose. The safest thing for them to do if they wish to cop the laurels is to trim Cobourg and make things sure and that is just what the Solomonites are out to do.

The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park and with so much depending on the outcome the Petes will be right on edge to win. Cobourg can be counted on to put up a stiff battle to wipe out some of the numerous defeats sustained by that team this season.

The standings of the teams in the Big Four circuit are:

| | Won | Lost | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Peterboro | 8 | 3 | .727 |
| Kingston | 7 | 4 | .636 |
| Belleville | 6 | 5 | .545 |

VICTORY LAST EVENING GAVE INTERMEDIATE CITY HONORS TO C.G.E.

Defeated Raybestos in One of the Best Intermediate Games of the Season.

SCORE WAS 5 TO 4.

The C.G.E. nine clinched the Intermediate city honors last evening by defeating the Raybestos 5 to 4. The game was a battle from start to finish and at one time looked as if the Brake Makers had won. The Electricians, however, came back strong in the sixth sending in thr three runs necessary to win.

Butcher was the heavy batter of the day, getting three hits in four trips to the plate. Jackson connected twice in two times up, one of his wallops going for two sacks.

Kirn and Frost did the pitching and both turned in good steady games. Kirn received the best support, his teammates coming through without an error while the C.G.E. had three misplays chalked up against them. Frost walked one and fanned 3 and Kirn walked two and fanned four.

The C.G.E. sent one run across in the first inning and held that lead until the fourth when Hip Hardill doubled, went to third on an infield out and romped home with the tying score when Dugan made a bad throw to third.

The C.G.E. went into the lead again with one run in the fifth when Rose scored on an infield out after hitting for three bases. The Raybestos landed hard on Frosts' offering in the sixth, three hits and an error, coupled with a bone head play which allowed Hip Hardill to steal home, netting three runs and giving the Raybestos a two run lead. Things looked black for the C.G.E. but they came back just as strong in their half, four hits sending three runs home. Jackson injected his two bagger into the game in this frame sending in Frost and Rogers. He later scored the winning run himself on McCarney's single.

The Raybestos threatened to tie up the score again in the seventh, two hits putting men on second and third with two out. Bonehead baserunning, however, brought the game to an end.

After the second innings Zufelt kept his hits well scattered, and his support was all any pitcher could ask for. Dawson in left made four hard running catches of flies that Brighton's best batter sent into his corner. Leal, the crack Delora pitcher, sat on the bench with the visitors. It was supposed that he had been brought to use in case of an emergency, but if any attempt had been made to play him, Warkworth would have protested under the residence rule. Mulhall at short played a good game, and fought hard for his team till the last man was out. The line-up:

Warkworth—Dawson, lf; K. Zufelt, 1b; Poole, 2b; Mulhall, ss; A. Zufelt, p; Beatty, rf; McGregor, cf; Wilson, c; Dick 3b.

Brighton—Archer, rf; Walt, cf; Halliday, 2b; McKee, ss; Strong, c; Solomon, 3b; Frise, 1b; Hare, lf; Shannon, p.

CAMPBELLFORD WINS ATOTHER

Defeated Roseneath in a Good Game on Warkworth Grounds—Story of Game.

WARKWORTH, August 9.—Wednesday was a big day in the Northumberland League here when two crucial games were played on the local diamond, the Warkworth Veterans defeating Brighton by a score of 7 to 5, and Campbellford winning from Roseneath, taking the long end of a 4 to 3 count. This means that the red-socked Brightons are eliminated from the race, and that Warkworth and Campbellford are tied for second place, according to the official records in the hands of Secretary Mulhall of the League. Home and home games between thees teams will now be arranged to break the deadlock.

When Campbellford faced the Roseneath nine they found themselves up against a vastly different proposition from that which confronted them when they met this team on their home grounds. No team in the league has developed more rapidly than the boys from the landlocked village, and for some time they have been putting up some of the best ball on the circuit. Campbellfor beat them yesterday, it is true, but it was certainly the hardest won victory that the Davidson outfit pulled down this year. It took ten innings of strenuous play to decide the issue and the credit of the win must be given to Weston and Holmes whose timely hits, including a homer by Weston, and a double by Holmes, pulled the game out of the fire. In the tenth it was a single by Weston that sent Eagleson across the plate with the winning run.

The Roseneaths made their three runs in their first time at bat, and therefore the remaining nine times up they were blanked. There were about 3,000 noisy spectators watching the game, the largest crowd that has witnessed a Northumberland league game this season, and perhaps this explains why Brady was not himself at the start. He hit Montgomery, the first man who faced him, and gave Davey a walk. Then Shearer singled to right; Baker went to first on four balls; B. Thackery fanned, Armstrong sent one to left, for a base, Moore walked; R. Thackery missed three good balls, and Leach went out on a fly to Holmes. Nine men were at bat in this frame and three runs were tallied.

After this disastrous start Brady steadied down and was his reliable self gain, fielding his position without a bungle, and doing his most effective box work when there were men on bases.

Weston Gets Homer.

The Campbellford team scored their first run in the second. After Holmes had been retired on a roller to the pitcher, Weston stepped up to the plate and sent the ball so far to the right that he made the circuit before it could be returned to the infield. Brady made a single to right but when he tried to steal second R. Thackery's throw to that bag was to quick for him.

Campbellford drew blanks for the next five innings through the excellent pitching of Leach and the splendid support which he received from his team mates. In the eighth they made two runs on a single by Hume a double by Holmes and a hit to centre by Weston. The three other men who went to bat, Cowell, Eagleson and Brady, failed to reach first.

These two runs tied the score, and both teams failed to break the tie in the ninth. In the tenth Campbellford made short work of their opponents. Leach popped out to Brady, Montgomery fanned and Davey sent a high fly to right, but Hume was right there.

It was getting dark when Campbellford went to bat in the tenth but not a spectator left the field. Eagleson, the first man up, made a clean single to left and stole secon. After Hume had been retired Holmes hit safely to centre. The hopes of the Campbellford rooters rose when Weston walked up to the plate and he did not disappoint them.

A smashing hit past the third baseman sent Eagleson in with the winning run and the game was over. Holmes went as far as second, but stopped when he saw that no more runs were needed. Then the fans from Campbellford became delirious with the joy of victory.

Notes of the Game.

It was only hard luck that prevented Nesbitt from making a home run in the third, and the like is seldom seen on a ball field. He sent the ball crashing down between the centre and right fielders. It struck against the side of one of the Fair buildings with a crash like a pistol shot, and bounded back right into the hands of Moore, who was after it hot fast. Moore shot the ball to Davey and Nesbitt was out at second.

In the fourth innings Moore sent a roller to Brady, who attempted to tag the Rooseneath man on his way to third, but Moore, colliding with him, knocked the ball out of his hand before Brady could touch him. It rolled down between first and second, but Holmes picked it up in time to throw out the runner at first. This was one of the fastest plays of the game.

Cowell, in the ninth, made one of the longest drives seen in the League this season, but the ball fell just on the wrong side of the right foul line.

In the seventh a dispute over a decision by Base Umpire Reynolds threatened to break up the game. Running into third, West collided with Shearer, the Roseneath guardian of that sack, who stood squarely on the base line waiting for Blakely's fly, and caused him to drop the ball. Umpire Reynolds called the runner safe, claiming that he had the right of way, and that the fielder had no right to block him. The Roseneath team rushed from their places to the home plate, and chorused a protest, spectators crowding in to take a hand in the dispute.

Rather than see the game broken up, Campbellford agreed to have the decision reversed, and the runner declared out.

In the second, third, fourth, ninth and tenth innings, Roseneath was retired in one, two, three order.

Dr. Armstrong, who played left for Roseneath, is one of the best players in the team. He learned the game while attending the High School at Campbellford.

H. J. Wood, president of the Campbellford Club, who recently removed to Young's Point, has written to congratulate the boys on their string of victories.

BELLEVILLE LOST KINGSTON PONIES

Belleville Led Until the Fifth Frame and Then Faded Away.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 9.—(Special)—Kingston Ponies this afternoon defeated Grand Trunks right in the home lot by the score of 9-7 in an ordinary game which the locals lead until the fifth frame. Flashes of real baseball were dished up including a smart catch, a wonderful pick-up, a brilliant piece of hit and run ball which netted locals a counter and a double steal by the Ponies which was pretty. Baseball rowdyism was introduced in the third frame when Batstone was called out at the plate by Umpire Joe Thereaux when he was really safe. Manager Bert Daley shoved Thereaux roughly to the ground and Twigg was banished for calling "Umps" "Pet' names. Batstone was also an offender but was allowed to finish the game. Police drove the crowd, off the diamond. Williams went the route for Trunks with 9 strike outs to Ted Gallagher's 5, but he was wild passing six. Three baggers were clouted by Casey and Meagher and Cherry for Kingston. A feature of the game was supplied in the ninth, when Bill Mills disabled catcher was put into bat for Ross in the pinch. The first ball delivered he drove it to the race track for a circuit clout. Trunks were out, hit 14 to 7 but had two errors to visitors 4.

GOOD BASEBALL BY HILLCRESTS

Maple Leafs Lucky to Hold East City Nine to Tie Score at Oval.

Playing at Nicholls Oval last evening, the Hillcrests came to life and held the Maple Leafs to a 5 to 5 tie. The Easterners payed sterling ball in the field, and their four hits, one of which went for a homer, were opportune. Pitching over a plate that was 12 inches by 4 inches, "Chuck" Bradley passed nine batsmen, one of the charities forcing in a run. His teammates threw in five errors.

"Bun" Weese pitched a steady game for the Hillcrests, allowing nine hits, two of them triples, passing two Leafs and fanning five. The infield played exceptionally well, the fielding being snappy and the throws accurate. Holland at first had a dozen put-outs.

Hillcrests scored a pair of runs in the third, which Perdue opened with a single to centre. He was thrown out at second by Taylor following Leahy's fly, which the right fielder muffed. Walsh came through with a clout to left. Marchen had to come in for the ball, and when he misjudged it, the ball went through, allowing both Leahy and Walsh to score. Hillcrests put two more runners on, but failed to get them home.

Bradley got one back in the fifth. He hit for three bases and scored on Delahaye's sacrifice fly.

The Leafs jumped into the lead in the sixth. Corbett singled and stole second and third, and scored on Franks' infield out. Taylor fanned. Grant was hit and stole second, scoring on Johnston's single. Johnston made his way to third, and went home when Bradley's grounder was fumbled.

Hillcrests tied it up in their half of the sixth. Guerin fanned. Grant dropped a throw from Johnston off Smith's grounder. Smith stole second. Vinette fanned. Weese and Mein drew walks, filling the bases. Perdue also got a pass, forcing Smith home. Leahy singled to centre scoring Weese. Mein was caught at the plate on the thrown-in by Hall.

The Leafs went ahead again in the seventh. Hall singled. Marchen fanned and Corbett singled. Hall, who had made third, scored on a passed ball. Franks went out on a short fly, and Taylor was thrown out.

Walsh tied it up for his team in their seventh when he singled and stole second. The throw to the bag was wide, the ball going to centre and through Hall, allowing Walsh to reach the plate. Bradley then fanned Holand and Guerin. Smith was passed. Vinette shot a hot line drive to Grant, who grabbed the ball and the game was over.

KING'S YACHT LOST THE SECOND RACE

Weather Conditions Were Not Suited to the Britannia—Nyria in First.

COWES, Isle of Wight, August 9 (Canadian Press). — The second day's racing of the Royal Yacht Squadron was carried out in light weather, with several shifts in the wind, which necessitated considerable manoeuvring.

Eleven events were on the programme. The chief of these was a handicap race for yachts exceeding 100 tons.

King George's Britannia was the scratch boat, but the weather conditions were not suited to her, and she was led home by Mrs. E. R. Workman's Nyria, to which Britannia conceded seven minutes.

Britannia finished second, but was disqualified, the second prize going to Colonel J. Gretton's ketch Cariad.

K. H. Preston's Paula III. was an easy winner in the class for vessels under 100 tons. J. S. Highfield's Dorina, formerly the Tuiga, was second; Moonbeam, winner of the King's Cup, was third.

Frederick Last's Noreen won the 12-metre class race by five seconds from Mr. O'Connor's Kelpie, Mr. Payne's new Fife boat Vanity being third.

Jean captured the 6-metre class race, with Capelle second, and Reg third.

Brantford is evidently not going to take any chance, as the secretary of the Vets received word this morning that they intended to leave for Peterborough early on Friday evening, arriving here the same night, thus giving them plenty of rest before playing the game.

DR. ALLEN LOST IN FINAL GAME

Defeated by Cobourg Rink of War Veterans in Riggs Trophy Competition at Belleville Bowling.

BELLEVILLE, August 9.—A. E. Martin of Cobourg was the skip who won the Riggs Trophy today at the annual tourney of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club. His team finished with a flourish, defeating Dr Allen's of Peterborp by a margin of 25 to 10, one end being unplayed. The finals were completed just before noon yesterday.

Dr. Allen and Mr. Martin were about evenly divided for the first nine ends were all for the victorious skip. In the thirteenth end he made no less than six points and in the fourteenth four. The ninth end was a tie, each rink having a bowl at equal distance from the jack.

The victorious Cobourg rink is an all-veteran rink. The four players all served during the Great War.

The finalists were:—

| Cobourg | Peterboro |

| F. Barge | G. Geroux |
| H. McCullough | G. Gimblett |

W. DeLany of Cobourg reached the semi-finals of the Ackerman cup series losing at that stage to Sulman of Belleville.

Reg Fox of Peterboro was knocked out of the Ritchie cup competition by Walter Wiggins of Campbellford in the second round by 20-13. And Wiggins himself fell to Shaw of Ottawa in the third round.

SPEEDY DELIVERY IS AIM OF POST OFFICE

The PostOffice Department invites the co-operaton of the Public in placing letter boxes on their premises for the reception of mail matter, it being to their interest to install a letterbox or slot in the door.

The Posmaster points out that in doing this they not only expediate the delivery of their own as well as other people's mail, at all times, but insure its safe delivery, when away from the house, which is sometimes the case. It also obviates a response to the door at inconvenient moments, and instead of requiring the carrier to wait or compel him to slip the mail under the door, or wedge it between the doorknob and the frame, he can drop it in the convenient mail receptacle that has been provided.

It is suggested that those who have not already provided a letterbox for the reception of their mail take the necessary steps to do so at their earliest convenience.

BOUT POSTPONED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., August 9 (Canadian Press). — Governor McCray yesterday afternoon requested George Snider, sheriff of Marion Co., to stop the bout scheduled for last night here between Luis Firpo and Joe Downey, Cincinnati boxer.

The Governor took this step, it was said, following the receipt of protests from all over the State, against the holding of the bout, out of respect to the memory of President Harding.

Sheriff Snider said there would be no bout.

After being informed that the bout would not be permitted, Hughie Gartland, manager of Firpo, and "Biddy" Bishop, manager for Downey, expressed their willingness to return next Wednesday night to carry out the programme.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, August 9. — Wall street's attention was focused at the opening upon the foreign scene and considerable discouragement was published by further details of the enemy session of the Reichstag at which Chancellor Cuno voiced defiance of France.

Industrials continued under the pressure which characterized the late dealing of the previous sessions. Stocks which had been conspicuously weak on Wednesday, such as Central Leather, Famous Players and Allied Chemical, were still heavy, while the speculative leaders were also in free supply. Rails showed a relatively better tone reflecting the further new high record established for car loadings last week.

Greater steadiness characterized the general list after the early selling had been absorbed. But the market showed no tendency to rally, apparently awaiting the outcome of the British Cabinet meeting, at which time it was hoped some hint would be dropped regarding Britain's next step in the reparations mix-up. Oil continued to display irregularity but the Standard Oil stocks gave indications of impressive support. Interests identified with these properties are said to have been large buyers for the last several weeks. This explanation is advanced for the ability of the Rockefeller shares to hold up better than the independent oil stocks.

An over-sold condition in the market is reflected in the reduced volume of trading daily transactions. Some stocks that are active in normal periods are confined to a few hundred shares. One broker, who is also an observer of market conditions, says: 90 per cent. of the business so far this year has been confined to professionals and floor traders. Few traders are looking for any great activity in August due to the absence of so many of the large operators. The consensus of opinion seems to be that while there will be no great activity in August, the tendency of the stocks is more likely to be upward than downward. Stocks have experienced a four months' decline which gives the bulls advantage over traders working for further declines.

Prices in the main body of stocks came alomst to a standstill in the second hour and the speculative community had to be content with watching the action of a few special issues.

Dupont jumped practically 4 points to 117 3-8 on reports that General Motors would declare an extra dividend of 20c a share. No action of this sort is contemplated now, but current earnings indicate increased disbursements later in the year.

CLUB WOMAN IS BACK OF MOVIES.

Helen Varick Boswell Head of Committee on New Project.

BY MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—All that is left of the flapper is the name! For want of anything better, and because we have become accustomed to the appellation, we still call the girl in her late teens a flapper. But she bears no resemblance now at least physically, to the girl of six months or a year ago who received so much condemnation from parents and reformers.

Her curt manners didn't fit in with the lenghened skirt, so she changed her manners to suit the style.

And fashion authorities say she must change even more for the coming season. She will have but one ideal—to be picturesque.

Long skirts, draperies bustles, tight bodices and lace ruffles and frills are going to make her look like the partrait of a lady.

Velvet, satin and satin-backed crepes in the most gorgeous colorings, as well as dignified black will be combined with lace and fur to give the picture quality

Fur is to be one of the most popular trimmings for fall and winter, not used in the conventional manner about the neck and sleeves but outlining the complicated draperies and following the fahionable circular hemlines.

Taffeta and moire come in the most delicate shades and the most brilliant ones—and are made into the bouffant type of frock that is much more popular with the debutante of today than is the straightline model.

Ribbons, laces, French flowers and combinaions of all three are used on these fullskirted tight-bodiced gowns.

Cuffs and collars of lace or linen are featured on the newest frocks, and the fashionable neckline of the moment is the shallow oval reaching to the shoulder points.

Even wraps have lost all their practical, serviceable look and are richer and more elaborate than they have been for years.

But when father has arrayed his daughter in all her new splendor, which is by no means cheap, he may sign for plain little flapper of yesteryear.

Married women, for the first time in the civic history of London, are eligible to hold the freedom of the city.

For excellent wear and comfort President Suspenders and objects of Chautauqua. Speaking this morning of the Redpath programmes, Mr. Bendell referred to the work done by Chautauqua lecturers during the war and the pre-war work they had done in the United States when they had helped to gradually turn the sentiment of the people towards the Allies' cause, fighting against the pro-German element which was doing its best to keep America from participation in the late conflict. Chautauqua programmes had been characterised as "sugar-coated education." It had been estimated that over two and one-half millions of the people on this continent yearly heard the various summer courses given, and its worth was estimated so highly on the other side of the border that the Government had remitted the usual amusement tax on the United States programmes.

Mr. Bendell, and the business manager, Mr. B. F. Davis, were both unanimous in their appreciation of Canadian business methods and the treatment accorded the Chautauqua entertainers. In even the smallest communities, they declared, they had found that spirit of Anglo-Saxon fairness and squareness that was eager to live up to any obligation incurred.

"The Canadian people pay their debts, and don't haggle over them."

G. A. Gillespie, chief guarantor of this year's Chautauqua series, said this morning:

"The Dominion Redpath Chautauqua just closed has been a great success, in so far as the programmes offered were concerned. The message and influence of the Chautauqua to those who were fortunate enough to attend must surely exercise a great power for good, in helping to bring back world peace and the community conditions we should all strive for.

"Every clergyman, manufacturer, business man, banker, and workman should support the Chautauqua, as it has a message for every ear. The talent is high-class, instructive, and a treat that cannot be purchased for the same price anywhere else.

"The committee which was responsible for the Chautauqua this year is not down-hearted. They believe that the citizens of Peterborough do want the Chautauqua, and believe that some body of men, encouraged by the influence of the three hundred ticketholders of this year, will devise some means to have the Chautauqua return again next year.

"We wish to thank all who helped in the sale of tickets this year, and wish to thank especially The Peterborough Examiner for splendid reports of the various programmes."

South Sea Island rivals end it by eating the girl. We have seen them want to do it here.

Chevrolet Leads Because It Deserves To

IN 1922 Chevrolet astonished the world by producing a car of remarkable quality at a remarkably low price. The 1923 Chevrolet is an even better car at an even lower price.

The same high quality of construction that characterized the 1922 Chevrolet has been retained—but to these have been added new features that make the 1923 Superior Chevrolet truly astonishing value.

Not only has the car been improved mechanically, but the new high radiator and cowl line and heavy crown fenders add immensely to its appearance and make it one of the most beautiful cars on the road irrespective of price.

DISMISS USELESS DRURY APPOINTEES

TORONTO, August 9. Canadian Press. — The Toronto Telegram says to-day that practically every department of the Provincial Government, with the exception of that of Attorney-General, may be reorganized by the new Ferguson ministry.

Already, says the paper, numerous junior and useless appointees have been dismissed, and the work of the weeding out is continuing.

It is proposed that the new ministers will make their own investigations and that there will be no commission to assist them in reaching decisions as to where the axe should be used. The Telegram says that the province faces the prospect of the "most stupendous deficit ever recorded, as the result of last year's operations of the Drury-Smith regime, notwithstanding immediate economies being effected by the new Ferguson-Price control. But the government is proceeding on the basis that a new house can not be built on the ruins, and the ruins will be abolished preparatory to a new start."

Cost of Commission.

Premier Ferguson to-day stated that all the work of investigation by the Gregory Commission into Hydro affairs was over, and the report was now being compiled. Practically all the staff had now been dispensed with. The cost of the enquiry, he estimated, was $450,000.

PRESIDENT TO ACT IN COAL SITUATION

Give Attention to Problem of Distribution in States and Canada.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—Predictions are general here that unless anthracite miners and operators of the U. S. soon voluntarily resume operations there will be a move by the new administration to bring them together. This may come in the form of a request from the Coal Commission to both sides to resume negotiations, or from President Coolidge himself.

Action by the Government is looked for soon, but probably not until after the President returns from the funeral at Marion. President Coolidge is expected also to give attention to the serious problem of coal distribution, which is difficult for New England, New York and northern border States. The working out of this distribution question is also of great moment to Eastern Canada.

ASKS MR. KENNER TO EXPLAIN ACTION

Arnprior Alleges Teachers' Federation "Picketed" Town Against Incoming Teachers.

TORONTO, August 9. Canadian Press. — Alleging that the action of the Teachers' Federation had prevented them from filling vacancies on the teaching staff of the new $60,000 high school, a deputation of Arnprior school trustees and citizens waited upon Premier Ferguson late yesterday afternoon, and requested that the Government look into their difficult situation.

According to the story as related yesterday to Premier Ferguson, Arnprior some time ago asked the then school head, Principal Ross, for his resignation, and following vigorous discussions as to whether Principal Ross' term ended in June, gave him sufficient notice. The pricipal took the matter up with the Teachers' Federation. The complaint as laid before the Premier is that the Teachers' Federation in labor parlance "picketed" the town against incoming teachers.

As a result of that action the Federation was alleged by the deputation to have taken, Arnprior cannot get either a new principal or the teachers to fill four other vacancies on the staff.

Advertisements in the morning press, it was stated, brought numerous applications, some of which were accepted by the school board, but subsequently letters were said to have been received from the newly-engaged teachers, stating that "they were sorry" but they had discovered that they were unable to fill the positions.

Principal Ross's contention before the Federation is understood to be that he did not receive official notice of the intended change in school headship sufficiently ahead of the close of the year. The trustees maintain that he did, and according to the department's understanding of it, the difficulty has arisen out of a misunderstanding as to whether Mr. Ross' term expired in June or August.

As the result of representations made to him yesterday, however Premier Ferguson has wired to President H. R. H. Kenner of the Teachers' Federation at Peterboro, and to the secretary of the organization to appear before him and explain the situation. He is understood also to have assured the deputation that Arnprior will have school teachers by the time of the High School opening on September 1st next.

BOARD OF WORKS TUG OF WAR MEN MAKING HEADWAY

Looking for Opposition From Keene, Douro and Points West.

The Board of Works tug-of-war team had a work-out last evening, and judging from the enthusiasm and pep of the men and the inspiration created by the presence of President Evans at the practice, this team will give a good account of themselves at the contest next Monday at Exhibition Park. "Anchor-Man" Murphy seems to be the right man in the right place, and judging from his work in that position there is no need to ask President Evans "will your anchor hold?" especially when Walter Whitehead is in the front line trench—that is, if he can find room for his feet, for Walter cannot be tipped forward.

Secretary Stapleton is having a very busy time these days with his official duties, and answering communications from Nassau, McMarrtinville, Downer's Corners and other large centres that are entering teams in the competition. Truly, it will be a great event, and Captain Thirnbeck is so well pleased with his team, that he is prepared to make a "side bet," of course, with limitations stipulated.

The officers are urgently requesting all members of the team to be on hand for the final work-out on Friday evening, and also extend an invitation to all sympathetic citizens who are interested in clean manly sport, to come out and encourage the boys with their presence. Seats free.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—A new seaplane speed record was made at Philadelphia navy yard to-day, when Lieut. A. W. Gorton, of Providence, R.I., flew over the Delaware river course at an average rate of 175.5 miles an hour.

YOUNG FORESTERS HAD SPORTS DAY

Successful Outing of Juvenile Branch A.O.F. in Chemong Park.

Court "White Lily," juvenile branch of the A.O.F., held their picnic to Chemong Park, where a most enjoyable time was spent. Through the generosity of the Motor League, cars were provided for the use of the boys to the number of about 40. On arriving at the park, a splendid programme of sports was run off under the supervision of Bros. T. Hendry, G. Mathews, W. Dowson and E. Freman of the adults' lodge.

After the sports the party sat down to a splendid supper, to which full justice was done.

Great credit for the success of the outing is due to the hard working secretary, Bro. Godfrey Mathews.

GREAT CARE NEEDED IN SELECTING MAN

TORONTO, Aug. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—Sir Thomas White, former Minister of Finance in the Borden Cabinet, paid a visit to Premier Ferguson this morning. Premier Ferguson stated that the government was still some distance away from the actual appointment, owing to the fact that great care had to be taken to select the right

DROWNING WAS AN ACCIDENT

Gus Cavalier Seized by Cramp on Lonely Swim —Highly Thought of.

After viewing the body of Gus Cavalier this morning, the coroner expressed the opinion that death resulted from accidental drowning. The hands were drawn across the body, indicating that the cause of drowning was a sudden cramp.

Cavalier had been camping with Joe Fontaine and Leo Emery in Fontaine's cottage, across the river from the waterworks. The young men took turns in doing the necessary cleaning of the cottage, and last night was Cavaliers' turn. He told his companions he was going up early and left about 7.30.

He took one of the two boats that were moored on the west shore and paddled across to the cottage, where he undressed. He then paddled back to the west shore and went in swimming from that side. Joe Fontaine was unable to explain why he should do this, as it was not the custom.

When about thirty yards from the shore he was seen to be in difficulties and a boy gave the alarm.

A General Favourite.

His companions, who interviewed to-day were greatly shocked by the loss of one whom they describe as "a splendid fellow." He will be missed by his wide coterie of friends, who admired him for his good nature and his prowess as a sportsman. He was an excellent swimmer, Fontaine said.

Funeral To-morrow.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning from the residence of his brother, Michael, 366 Mark street. The cortege will proceed to Cobourg by motor at 6.30, where a Requiem High mass will be sung.

The father of the young man, Joseph Cavalier, lives in Colborne.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS ENJOYING PROSPERITY

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(Associated Press.)— American wage-earners are now enjoying a period of prosperity, greater even than the so-called "peak period" of 1920, according to a statement issued by the National Industrial Conference Board, which recently concluded a research into wages and the cost of living.

Asserting that 1920 "need no longer be considered the most recent high-water mark for workers in industry," the investigators point out that many plants have announced increases of 10 to 15 per cent.

"It is true," the report continues, "that wages were at their highest levels in 1920, but the cost of living was also high at that time."

Later, the investigators find, the cost of living declined more rapidly than earnings, and in 1922 wages again began to rise, "first as a result of longer hours worked and later because of wage increases."

The report, based on a study of conditions in plants employing 600,000 workers, estimates the comparative excess of rising wages over rising living costs as between 17 and 18 per cent. greater in May, 1923, than in June, 1920, using July, 1914—the last pre-war month—as a working basis.

"The wage-earner was better off in May, 1923, than during the 'peak' months of 1920," it observes in conclusion. "Wages in May were fast approaching the 'peak' levels while the cost of living was considerably below the 'peak' and in consequence 'real earnings' rose well above the former 'peak' figures."

A THOUGHT

Better it is that it be said unto thee, Come up hither, than thot thou shouldst be put lower in the presence of the prince whom thine eyes have seen.—Prov. 25:7.

Whenever you see a man who is successful in society, try to discover what makes him pleasing and if possible adopt his system.—Beaconsfield.

WEDDING BELLS

DIMMOCK—MacGREGOR.

Married in Toronto, August 3rd, by the Rev. Dr. King, Margaret I. MacGregor, of Peterboro and Charles W. Dimmock of Detroit. They will reside in Detroit.

AGNEW CALDWELL.

A wedding of considerable local interest which took place in the Georgetown Methodist Church on Tuesday afternoon of this week was that of Dr. Robert G. Agnew, of West Toronto, and Miss Mary A. Caldwell, of Georgetown. Dr Agnew is well-known in Peterboro through his connection with the Male Voice Quartette from Toronto, which has given several concerts in George Street Methodist Church. Two members of the quartette, M. A. Cayley and W. H. Walker, gave vocal solos during the ceremony, and Mr. E. R. Bowles presided at the organ.

Dr. and Mrs. Agnew leave in September for Chentu, China, where Dr. Agnew will join the Dental Faculty of the Chentu University, under the Methodist Missionary Society.

CARMICHAEL—NELSON.

A very pretty wedding took place at one o'clock yesterday at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, when Lillian May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Nelson, became the bride of George Raymond Carmichael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Carmichael, Kenora, Ont. Rev. Robert Pogue performed the ceremony, assisted by the bride's uncle, Rev. J. Ivison Wilson, of Brighton.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by girl friends of the bride. Masses of tall tiger lilies and palms banked the organ loft, and the pews were headed with bunches of sweet peas and gypsophila, tied with wide satin ribbons.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beautiful gown of cream duchesse satin, trimmed with old Quaker lace, and an embroidered veil. Her bouquet was of ophelia roses, showered with valley lilies, and she wore the bridegroom's gift, a rope of pearls.

The maid-of-honor was the bride's sister, Miss Wilma Nelson, wearing pink duchesse satin, with touches of silver, hat of grey maline, grey shoes and stockings, and carrying a bouquet of pink columbia roses.

There were three bridesmaids: Miss Gertrude McGraw of Preston, Miss Agnes Carmichael of Peterboro and Miss Isabel Nelson, a sister of the bride. Miss McGraw's gown was of honeydew duchesse satin. Her bouquet was mauve chrysanthemums and her large maline hat had mauve ribbon streamers.

Embroidered French voile over satin composed the costumes of Miss Agnes Carmichael and Miss Isabel Nelson, the former in blue, the latter in orchid. They carried yellow 'mums and wore light-colored maline hats with ribbon streamers matching their dresses.

The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Mr. Ross Carmichael, of Toronto. Ushers were: Donald Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, and Donald Carmichael and Crawford Best, of Peterboro.

The wedding march was played by Mr. M. B. Chenhall. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Ross Carmichael, of Toronto, sang "Until." Mrs. Carmichael wore brown embroidered crepe, with large hat of brown and corsage bouquet of roses.

Mrs. W. F. Nelson, mother of the bride, wore black Spanish lace over satin, large black hat, and corsage bouquet of red roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. George Dawson, of Montreal, was in grey canton crepe, trimmed with lace, with hat to match.

After the ceremony, a buffet breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with gladioli, sweet peas, and gypsophila.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael left on the afternoon C.P.R. train for an extended honeymoon, which will take them later to the south shore of Lake Superior, to Duluth, and finally to Kenora, where they will reside. The bride travelled in a dress of navy canton crepe, trimmed with grey, navy hat, grey shoes and stockings, and Isabella fox fur, the bridegroom's gift. Gifts to the bride's attendants were silver vanity cases; to the ushers and best man, gold cuff links.

Among the wedding guests were: Mrs. James Dixon and Miss Fanny Dixon, of Peterboro; Mrs. George Dawson, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Carmichael, Miss Murphy and Miss Nellie Rayson, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Williamson, of Winnipeg; Rev. and Mrs. J. Ivison Wilson, of Brighton; Miss Gertrude McGraw, of Preston; Miss Sophie Cameron, of Ottawa; Miss Georgie Springer and Miss Jean Nicholson, of Belleville; Dr. and Mrs. D. Carmichael, Miss Agnes Carmichael, Donald Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. I. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Chenhall, the Misses Lillian Moore, Ethel Morrison, Dorothy Hill, Isabel Nesbitt, Marjorie Best, and Messrs. Heber Rogers, Crawford Best, A. Fortye, of Peterboro; Donald Fitzgerald, of Lakefield.

CROWDS TOOK LAST LOOK ON FACE OF DEAD

Touching Scenes in Marion, at Obsequies of Late Chief Executive of U.S.

MESSAGE TO CANADA

MARION, Aug. 10.— (Canadian Press.)— Slow moving throngs crowded the streets of Marion to-day in the last public honors for the late Warren Harding.

It seemed that not alone Ohio, but every surrounding State from which Marion could be reached had sent legions here to pass beside the bier or to stand silent as the dead President was carried to his rest. Congested sidewalks flanked the Centre street, where the home of his father stands and where the body lies.

On the north side, down a tree-lined sidewalk that leads to the home, a close-crowded line, kept in place by guards, stretched away for blocks. The far end was down beyond the draped court house, and it moved away from the house of sadness instead of toward it. Hundreds upon hundreds came to join the gathering every hour.

The Last Look.

The crowds awaiting a last opportunity to gaze again on the face of the dead before he casket was finally closed for movement to the cemetery were viewed by Mrs. Harding from windows of the house where she spent the night.

Silence in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press.)— All New York to-day mourned for the late Warren G. Harding. As the early morning displaced the "crosses of light" that had shone through the night from the windows of lowering sky scrapers, there were missing the rush of thousands to their daily tasks. Banks and business houses generally were closed. Ony necessary work was undertaken.

The world of sport stopped its play. Not only were baseball games and other important athletic matches cancelled, but amateurs paid their respect to one who loved sport, by refraining from their games. Many public and private golf courses were closed as were many bathing beaches. Gay Broadway was sad, while boisterous Coney Island called a halt to all activities until after 5 o'clock, New York time, the hour when the President's body is to be placed in its vault, at Marion.

Perhaps never in the city's history has there been such a day of quiet.

Thanks Canada.

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—His Excellency the Governor-General, accompanied by Miss Walpole, representing Lady Byng, and Major P. J. Hodgens, O.B.E., attended memorial service for President Harding which was held to-day at Yarmouth, N.S. His Excellency has received the following telegram from Washington:

"The President requests me to express to your Government and to the people of Canada his heartfelt thanks for your kind message of sympathy received through His Majesty's Embassy at Washington on the occasion of the death of the late President.

"(Signed) Charles E. Hughes,
"Secretary of State."

BLACK KNIGHTS TO CELEBRATE

Attend Church on Sunday—Sports Programme and Ball Game at Exhibition Park Monday

At 1.30 Monday afternoon the Knights will form up at Central Park and march down George Street to the Exhibition Grounds. A march past will be held at the grand-stand, and a good programme of sports will be run off. This programme will include two of the best horse races seen in Peterboro in some time. The 2.15 class for a purse of $300 will include such well-known horses as Sunny Jim, Bessie Brook, Hazel H., Liberty Patch, Roy Mack, Lady Way, Polly Stout and Bucco. The 2.30 class for a purse of $200 will include Major Hal, Si Winger, Thor. Patch, Furioso Jr., Billy Winger, Doris Patch, Lena Rivers, Mary Spring and Jimmy Direct Jr.

A tug-of-war contest will be staged between teams representing R.B.P. No. 251, the Board of Works Department, and any other teams which care to enter.

At 3 o'clock a ball game will be staged between the Lakeviews and the Adanacs, two of the fastest junior baseball teams in the province. This game will be played directly in front of the grand-stand, and prizes will be awarded the winners.

Between the different heats of the races speeches will be made by W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. for West Peterboro; J. R. Patterson, M.P.P. for South Victoria; F. M. Clarke, P.G.M., of Belleville; Rev. R. M. Patterson, of Fraserville, and Rev. S. T. Wickett, of Tyrone. The Peterboro Rangers' Band will furnish music during the afternoon.

The committee in charge would esteem it a great favor if the citizens and merchants would decorate their houses and places of business. The committee has gone to considerable expense in arranging the programme and cannot do the decorating as well.

CHANGE WHOLE OUTLOOK SAYS PARTY LEADER

Harding's Death Will Have Material Effect on the Presidential Fight.

A THIRD PARTY

By Charles P Stewart.

WASHINGTON, August 10. — What effect will Hardings death have on the presidental fight of 1924.

With the tragedy so recent, politicians have discussed the question little yet—aloud. But naturally they have it much in mind. It's generally agreed that Harding would have been renominated if he'd lived.

However, many leading Republicans felt that public sentiment called for a more radical candidate than he. For instance, Magnus Johnson's defeat of Harding's choice, Governor Preus, in Minnesota, looked that way. A so-called progressive nominee, these Republicans believe, would get votes Harding couldn't get. But NOT to renominate him, they also belived would cost the party the support of numerous voters who considered him entitled to another term.

In short, it was feared changing candidates would lose more votes than it would gain.

Now, however, the party leaders areat liberty to use their best judgment. There's no reason why they shouldn't make as radical a selection as they deem desirable. Therefore, not only will there be a new name at the tickets head, but the policy the ticket represents may be quite different from the one Harding's views undoubtedly would have held his party to.

You Can't Tell.

It looks like a pretty good bet that Coolidge won't be the nominee, unless he performs miracles in less than a year for he's classed generally as more conservative than Harding was.

And yet its impossible to be quite sure. On a show-down, in the convention, the Republican conservatives may prove to be stronger than the progressives, so-called, not so strong as surface indications have led people to suppose.

Seemingly the man whose chances have been most strengthend is Hiram Johnson.

Whole Outlook Changed.

The new outlook upsets Democratic calculations too. The Democratic leaders thought they knew just the type of man and sort of platform they'd have to oppose. The fact that they are almost certain now to have to face an altogether different type of candidate, standing for an altogether different line of policies, may force them to change whatever campaign plans they have tentatively made.

Third Party Prospect.

The third party movement may be affected, as well. Perhaps as the old line group policies develop there won't seem to be much need of a new one. For example, with a man like Hiram Johnson in the field as a regular party none see—this is just an illustration and no prophecy at all—it wouldn't appear that there be any necessity for the progressives to name a candidate of their own.

SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN WALL FELL

Spectacular Fire at Windsor, Ont., Which Caused Considerable Damage.

WINDSOR, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Captain James E. Hislop and Fireman John McCrae and Stephen Jackson were seriously hurt in the fall of a brick wall at a fire which did damage estimated at $150,000 to the Fournier building on the bank of the Detroit River to-day.

The three men were buried by the collapse of the wall, and were dug out by comrades and rushed to the hospital, where their condition is reported as serious.

The fire, one of the most spectacular which the city has seen in years, broke out shortly after seven o'clock. Every piece of fire apparatus in the city was called to the scene.

NAVAL DEMONSTRATION.

PARIS, August 10. Canadian Press —A naval demonstration in Chinese waters by the European powers, it was learned yesterday, is under consideration owing to anarchical conditions in the Chinese navy. The French Department of Marine is preparing to send two cruisers, one of them being the armored cruiser Jules Ferry, if the demonstration is decided upon.

BERLIN BANKS CLOSED TODAY NO CURRENCY

Strikes in Printing Trades Also Stop Production of Paper Marks, and Are Spreading.

NO CASH IN SIGHT

BERLIN, Aug. 10.— (Special).— All the Berlin banks closed to-day at noon because of lack of currency with which to continue operations. The Reichsbank announced it had no currency on hand and none was in sight for immediate future.

Printers On Strike.

The sixty printing presses which have been turning out billions of marks ceased operation this morning owing to strike in the printers trade.

These strikers also have tied up the Berlin evening newspapers. It is reported the strike movement is spreading to various parts of Germany among different branches of workers who are disatisfied with the wage arrangements.

Iron Man of Rhur.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—General Degoutte, "the iron man of the Rhur," has been rewarded for his skill in taking over the German industrial area over six months ago.

President Millerand has just signed a decree making General Degoutte a member of the Legion of Honor. The recommendation was made by M. Maknot, Minister of War.

MAKES STREET TRAVEL SAFER

New System of Traffic Control Being Adopted in Peterboro to Minimize Danger.

Peterborough's streets were decorated during the night with varied designs of white strips, circles and arrows which form the nucleus of a new system of traffic control designed to make travel on the streets safer for both pedestrian and motorist.

The system is taken from that used in the largest cities on the continent modified to the needs of Peterborough, and it is believed by the police that it will minimize danger when enforced as Chief Newhall plans.

That this precaution is needed is evidenced by the wheel tracks on the virgin white of the circle at the corner of Charlotte and George street, painted by the police in the early hours of this morning. It has been a rule of long standing that motorists must turn around the iron plate at this corner, but tracks show that scores of cars ran over it this morning, clearly breaking the traffic regulations.

The system now under way provides safety zones for pedestrians at street intersections and while boarding or descending from street cars. Crossing the intersection at Charlotte and George are safety strips ten feet wide, and Chief Newhall orders that while a pedestrian is walking across these strips no automobile shall enter upon them. Where the street cars stop on Charlotte street there is a safety strip on both sides seven feet wide. While citizens are standing on this safety zone no car must drive or or along it under penalty of prosecution. On account of the narrower street, George street is protected only by three-foot strips.

Safety in Transferring.

Safety in transferring from street cars on George street to those on Charlotte street and vice versa has been provided by running the safety strips together at the corner of the sidewalks. It is possible to walk from street car to street car on the safety strip and pedestrians' rights there must be observed by vehicle drivers.

At the corner of George and Simcoe two arrows clearly indicate the path to be taken by automobiles making the turn there.

Parking of cars near street intersections will now be regulated according to the practice in other cities. White marks on the sidewalk 60 feet from intersections mark the limit for parked cars. No car may be marked between these marks and the street corners. Parking cars at other points will also be regulated according to plans to be formulated later.

No Complete Turns.

According to plans drawn up by Chief Newhall, complete turns at busy intersections will be prohibited at all times, and left hand turns will not be allowed during peak hours at the three main intersections on George street. The three corners affected by this rule are where Charlotte, Simcoe and Hunter cross George street.

Racing with fire engines and police vehicles will be prohibited by the new rules, and parking between the safety zone and the sidewalk will also be prohibited.

A rule now in force forbids the parking of cars with the engines running.

In the Cause of Safety.

These regulations are not being made with the object of harassing the citizens of the city, but in the cause of safety, Chief Newhall says. Peterborough has expanded in vehicular traffic of late years to such an extent that protection of this kind is absolutely necessary. The regulations will be clearly stencilled on the sidewalks at the points affected, and citizens will be held strictly to a compliance with the instructions. "If the people will help the police in this effort for safety," the Chief declared, "the police will be willing to cooperate with them, and needless badgering will not be indulged in. But if they can't see the white lines they are sure to see the Magistrate."

Lauds Progress and Enterprise of Peterborough

Revisiting Peterborough after over 40 years' absence, Robert Johnson finds many changes. In fact he scarcely recognized the place which has grown from a hamlet to a city in the time he has been away.

Hunter Street Bridge caught Mr. Johnson's eye first among the improvements, and he describes it as equal in architecture and construction to anything he has seen on the other side of the line.

Mr. Johnson is employed as foreman in a factory in Erie, Pennsylvania. His superintendent returned lately from a fishing trip to Bobcaygeon, and told Mr. Johnson of the accessibility of the district by car. The superintendent also praised Peterborough very highly, and his commendations enthused Mr. Johnson into making the trip to his old home town. He was born and brought up in a house which stood on the lot now occupied by J. C. Sullivan's house.

Mr. Johnson says there are not many of the old boys with whom he attended school in Ashburnham now in the city.

Expect Verdict Of Not Guilty

Being a Little Boochio Story of a Temperate Man After a Holiday in Old Quebec.

He was just home from a holiday in Quebec and a month's delights were still fresh upon him. And so he was telling his friends about a cycle hike into the Eastern townships,—when it all happened.

"It was quite warm that day," he recalled, "and along in the afternoon I began to feel the need of some refreshment. Presently I came to a small village, and, locating an inn, an old-fashioned hospitable place, I went in and asked the proprietor if he had any good ale. He had. He named over some ales that were only memories. Not that I ever was a drinking man, I needn't tell you that. Well, Molson's sounded like an old-time banquet, so I told the genial bonifface to bring one bottle off the ice, with some crackers and a segment of cheese."

The prodigal should have been warned by the hungry, avid light in the eyes of his several friends, but his perceptions were wandering around in that Quebec hamlet.

"As I said," he proceeded, "it was an exceedingly warm day, and I had come a long distance through pleasant country. I had plenty of time to approach my lunch with due decorum, and I made of it a little ceremony there in that tap room. Sounds like a scene from Merry England, but that was about the way I felt. My host pulled the cork, and filled my glass with the foaming nectar. The collar on it was so deep you could have dove into it and never brought up bottom. Naturally I delayed the first taste in the moment of anticipation.

"It was the real stuff. As I say I have never been a drinking man, in fact I have prided myself on being temperate, but you know there is nothing like a glass of good cold ale on a hot summer day. Well, I sat there, and munched the crackers and savored the cheese and sipped my ale, and I was wishing I had you two along with me——"

But that marked the snapping of his friends' restraint, and from the provocation he gave them it is likely that the jury will bring in a verdict of justifiable homicide.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS A TALK ON CHAUTAUQUA

Aims and Objects of the Movement Explained by Business Representatives.

WILL LOSE MONEY

To-day was Chautauqua day at the Kinwanis Club, Kiwanian J. Johns occupied the chair in the absence of President J. A. McKone who is away on holidays. The speakers were R. E. Bendell and B. F. Davis, both of the Chatauqua circuit and G. A. Gillespie who was largely responsible in a financial way for bringing Chautauqua to Peterboro this year. Mr. Gillespie in explaining his interest in Chautauqua said he believed the effort had been worth while and he had nothing to regret in spite of a deficit that would have to be borne by a few public spirited citizens. Chautauqua was a fine thing for a body of men such as the Kiwanis and Rotary Club to take over but it should not be left to a few men as it had been this year.

Kiwanian J. Wearing said Chautauqua was a fine thing for a sufficiently large body of citizens to foster but he did not approve of letting a few men carry the burden. This year Mr. Gillespie would be the chief loser to the extent of several hundred dollars. Mr. Wearing suggested that the matter of providing financial support for Chautauqua be left to a joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Club

Kiwanian Graham Macdougall warned the members against turning the club into a ticket selling organization Several other things have to be supported by the Kiwanians.

Kiwanian Hamish MacIntosh said that a town was known by the class of entertainment its citizens patronized

Mr. B. F. Davis who is associated with the Chautauqua in a business capacity said he was impressed by the greatness of the two nations that lie side by side, serve the same God and are possessed of the same ideals.

Mr R. E. Bendell business manager for the Chautauqua spent some time explaining the aims and objects of the movement and the method of financing it. Each town through a committee is asked to guarantee the sale of five hundred tickets at two dollars and a half each. This entitles the ticket holder to admission to the entire thirteen performances.

Kiwanian Bob Mackey suggested that the price of the tickets be cut in half and the ticket holders allowed to attend six performance. This would enable the citizens of moderate means to attend. A prolonged discussion was brought to a close at the request of the chairman.

INSULIN SUPPLY TO HAND HERE

At Least One Peterborough Physician Admits Possession of New Remedy for Diabetes.

At least one physician in Peterborough has a supply of insulin, the new diabetic remedy, but he does not wish his name made public.

It has been announced in Toronto that there is a sufficient supply of insulin being manufactured to take care of the demand that will follow Dr. Forbes Godfrey's announcement that the new remedy will be given free to needy patients.

The announcement by Dr. Godfrey, Minister of Health, that insulin would be supplied free for patients unable to pay was received with rejoicing by physicians. In this city there are many diabetic patients, some of whom are not in circumstances to purchase the expensive remedy.

"It is a new departure for a Minister of Health," a local physician said, "but it is one with which no one will have a quarrel. The expenditure of the public funds in the cause of saving lives is perfectly justified."

"The new Ontario Government has taken the proper course," a surgeon said. "It is a move in the right direction. Remedies of this kind, which may save thousands of lives, should be distributed free, and will be, when we reach a higher state of civilization."

COUNCIL WILL CONTEST SUIT OF ATTORNEY'S

Demands Full Amount of Fees for O.T.A. Case.— Council Whittled the Bill by $45.

SOLICITOR'S WARNI. G

"If he sues you I think you'll have to pay," was City Solicitor Wearing's statement to the council regarding Crown Attorney Hatton's bill against the city for $95.

Mr. Hatton had rendered his account for prosecutions under the O. T.A., at the rate of ten dollars for each of nine cases, but the Council had concluded that $45 was sufficient.

When no signs of payment in full were forthcoming Mr. Hatton notified the Council that he would bring suit for the balance of his account, and members of the Council said they would prefer to have legal advice before finally disposing of Mr. Hatton's claim. In the meantime he had accepted the city's payment of $50 and applied it to the credit side of the account.

Ald. McIntyre asked Mr. Wearing the other night whether he would recommend the Council to fight the case, and the City Solicitor made the cryptic response quoted above.

He was asked what he meant by that, and replied laughingly that the members would have to take their own meaning out of it.

"Well, then, I feel like fighting it" said Ald. Phelan. "It can't cost us very much in any event, and I think that is what we should do."

Ald. McIntyre seconded the motion and it carried.

Mr. Wearing's letter to the Council said it would be fair on Mr. Hatton's part to make a fixed fee of $5 in all cases in which the parties pleaded guilty. When, however, there is a trial involving more work and time the fee charged by Mr. Hatton should be governed by the length of time taken by the trial, the minimum fee in a case of that kind being $10 and the maximum $25.

Mr. Wearing also said that Mr. Hatton's bills were subject to reduction by the Attorney-General's Department, and he could hardly expect that his bills sent direct to the city should be paid without some kind of examination.

"There is no fixed tariff for such charges," wrote Mr. Wearing, "and in fact I am not at all sure that this work should not be done by the City Solicitor, in which case of course it would cost the city nothing."

Ald. Phelan said that when O.T.A. prisoners pleaded guilty and were fined they were assessed five dollars in the costs as the Crown attorney's fee; then he sent in a bill to the city for an additional five dollars in each case. Ald. Phelan said that was one reason why he believed the council should contest any suit Mr. Hatton entered against the city.

Presenting his case, Mr. Hatton wrote the Council as follows:

June 23, 1923.

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
City Clerk, City:

Dear Sir: Referring to my itemized acount for services rendered for the prosecution of liquor cases in the City Police Court at $95. This account has been taxed or reduced by some one, I presume, F. J. A. Hall, City Auditor, by $45.

Mr. Hall said "he could find no authority for the charge of $10 made in nine of these cases. Sec 65 of the O. T. Act states that under certain conditions which your Chief of Police certifies to have been fulfilled in these cases, the Crown Attorney is entitled to his proper fees."

The question therefore would be, What is the proper fee? It is quite true the fee as mentioned in the Ontario Statute of 1917, is $5 in each

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: All those who are in favor of the entire prohibition and abolition of all drugs and alcohol please write to "A," Box 3300 Examiner office, at once. If we want to get rid of drunks and drug addicts we must leave no nest eggs. I am not one of those who believe in prohibiting everything bad, but God did a bad day's work when He provided nature's chemistry for making alcohol and drugs, and we must undo it all, especially women who know the evils. Some want to abolish face powder, but I say that if women feel that they don't look half decent without it, let them have it. We all know that a little paint on an old shed will work wonders. Why should the savages have all the paint?

It is true as some say that when man or woman will sacrifice themselves and their friends to their bellies they are really nothing more than vicious at heart. But as I say, the world heretofore has been too free. Freedom is all right for a few but we must do what the Deity did not do, and that is leave nothing to the man himself or to the woman. I would rather see another man in hell than drunk. Now send on your names. THOMAS.

P.S.—What's the good of preaching salvation, when we have got to save the world ourselves. The next great world-movement will be to change all churches into prohibition camps. The Gospel really ain't doin' no good. The Saviour could not have belonged to the W. C.T.U., for he was not a prohibitionist. He did not believe in killing sin with human laws.

He's Got 600 Elephants But Wants Still More

HERB SCHOENFELD AND HIS ELEPHANTS.

SEATTLE, Aug. 10.—Herbert Schoenfeld, Seattle business man, has a white elephant on his hands—and several hundred more of various types, sizes and colors.

When it comes to elephants, Schoenfeld is a "fiend." He cheerfully admits it. He has an overpowering penchant for hand-carved pachyderms of any breed.

Shoenfeld's collection now numbers some 600 specimens and is growing. He has been gathering them in from the far corners of the world for 15 years and his business office, where he houses his pets, looks like an elephantine menagerie.

"I have always liked elephants," explains Schoenfeld. "I have always been interested in reading about their symbolism—their connection, in the eyes of orientals, with good luck, friendship and strength. Fifteen years ago I was in Japan, where elephant bronzes were numerous. The opportunity was there and I started my collection."

The Schoenfeld "herd" now includes artistic creations in bronze, marble, porcelain, mahogany, native woods of European and tropical forests, coral and sponge. The largest of the group measures four feet from tail to trunk and is 28 inches high. It is of bronze and came originally from Honolulu. An elephant carved from pink coral is the smallest one, a miniature of about one-half by one-fourth inch.

When Schoenfeld's friends go atouring in distant places, they send him more elephants.

"And some day," he says, "I hope to get a live one."

Colored Man Was the Subject of Ejection.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—(United Press).—The Paris Prefect of Police on Thursday closed the Montmart dance hall, whence Prince George Tavaloua, son of the colored ex-King of Dahomey, was ejected on August 6, following complaints of Americans against a negro being served in one of their rendezcous. Caustic comment continues in the French press, where writers emphasize that the negroes are French citizens and must be respected by foreign tourists.

NEWFOUNDLAND TO FOSTER INDUSTRIES

Three Important Trade Measures Are Now Before the Legislature — To Develop Timber and Pulp Industry.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld, Aug 10. — (Canadian Press).—Three important measures are now before the local legislature. All of them are concerned with trade industries of the country, two being propositions for the establishment of timber and pulp industries and the third being designated for the encouragement of the fisheries. The timber and pulp propositions are sponsored by two Canadians, Harry J. rowe, of Toronto and Malcolm Mooney, of Quebec. Crowe, who owns over seven hundred square miles of timber lands in the neighbourhood of White Bay, is concluding an agreement with the Newfoundland Government whereunder he shall be permitted to export rossed and drumbarked timber for a period of twenty five years. All export taxes are to be waived for the first year. During the second year he must pay twenty-five cents per cord export tax and a tax of fifty cents from the end of the second year on-ward to the end of the term of twenty-five years. In consideration of his investment in plant and labour the government of Newfoundland agrees to permit Crowe to import his machinery duty free. The Mooney proposition involves the transfer to Mooney by the Government of a large timber area on the northeast coast of the island for the usual rentals. Mooney undertaking to build a pulp and paper mill there-on within a period of three years and to spend three hundred thousand dollars on the project within a year after the signing of the contract between Mooney and the Government. The agreement is for the erection of a mill with a capacity of one hundred tons per day. The draft agreement provide, that the Government of this country may make a contract with any approved concern for this purpose. Two ships are to be provided. They must be not less than two thousand tons burden and capable of steaming twelve knots. Special construction will be necessary as the ships must be of steel and burn oil fuel, must be ice-breakers and will be permitted to prosecute the seal industry each spring. The Newfoundland terminus of the line will be St. John's while the stipulated ports in the West Indies are Cuba Porto Rico, Jamaica, Trinidad, Barbadoes and such other ports as mail and freight needs or the directions of the Newfoundland Government may call for. Each ship must have accomodation for twelve first-class passengers. The government of Newfoundland undertakes to pay such contractor a subsidy of ten thousand dollars per round trip for the first ten years and eight thousand dollars per round trip during each year thereafter and up to the completion of a total period of twenty-five years.

COMMUNISTS WERE ACTIVE YESTERDAY

Demand Resignation of Cuno and His Cabinet—Threaten Big Workers' Strike.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The Communists again were active yesterday. Prior to the sitting of the Reichstag various workmen's deputations interview Social Democratic Deputies and demanded the resignation of Chancellor Cuno and his Cabinet. They threatened to strike or to adopt passive resistance to enforce their demand. It is not expected, however, that the move of the Communists will have any effect on the vote of confidence in Chancellor Cuno, which probably will be taken today.

In the Reichstag yesterday, former Chancellor Mueller said he considered the time had arrived for Germany to apply for admission into the League of Nations, "but not in tow of British policies." Dr. Gustav Streseman, leader of the German People's party, warned Great Britain that German Bolshevism would mean British Bolshevism, and declared that "if Germany dies, Europe also dies."

Dr. Streseman concluded by saying the German spirit was not so poor as to tolerate forever the "theft of the Rhineland." This declaration was received with thunderous applause.

Skyscrapers Form Huge Crosses of Light.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press)—Giant crosses of incandescent lights gleaned forth from New York skyscrapers last night in tribute to the memory of the late Warren G. Harding.

The Building Managers' Association decided at a meeting yesterday to darken all their buildings except for perpendicular and horizontal lines of offices in the form of a mammoth cross.

About twenty-five buildings in various sections of the city will thus commemorate the passing of the twenty-ninth President of the United States.

Giant Army Planes for Service on Coast-to-Coast Mail Route

U. S. Postal Department Plans a 28 - Hour Service Between New York and San Francisco — Fifty Planes Will Be Used— Carry 500 Pounds of Mail.

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Eight big army airplanes, specially built for the Postmaster General's Department, are being shipped from eastern factories to Chicago and Cheyenne for the overnight lap in a series of tests of transcontinental, all-weather, 28-hour aerial mail service, to start August 21.

Orders that the proposed air service be given a rigid five-day try-out were received here yesterday by J. E. Whitbeck, Superintendent of the Eastern Division, Air Mail Service, from Col. Paul Henderson, of the Postmaster General's staff at Washington.

Officers of the post assume that if the flights are successful there will follow a brief period for the correction of minor defects and the arrangement of a fixed schedule, after which continuous coast-to-coast air service will be regularly installed.

Approximately fifty machines will be used. All-night flying will be done between Chicago and Cheyenne, for which service the eight new machines were specially constructed. The test schedule will provide 28 hours of actual flying time between oceans, with 20-minute stops at Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake and Reno. Planes will leave here at 11 a.m., Eastern Standard Time; Chicago, 7 p.m., Central Time, and Cheyenne, 4.30 a.m., Mountain Time, reaching Cressy Field, San Francisco, at 4 p.m., Western Time.

The return flight time table will be: Leave San Francisco, 6 a.m.; Cheyenne, 5.30 p.m.; Chicago, 3.30 a.m., arriving at New York at 3 p.m.

The new night machines are single-seater biplanes fitted to carry in sustained flight 500 pounds of mail. They are equipped with powerful search and signal light generators. While they have a normal speed of 100 miles under way, they can maintain headway and land at 40 to 45 miles an hour.

A path of beacon lights has been installed along the night route between Chicago and Cheyenne with long range lighthouses interspersed at regular distances to guard the pilot through darkness, fogs and storms, Superintendent Whitbeck said.

COMPLAINTS HEARD BY PRIVY COUNCIL

Arguments For Western Provinces Will Be Concluded This Morning — To Hear Railways.

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Presentation of the case for British Columbia and Alberta in the appeal of the two Western Provinces against alleged discriminatory freight rates occupied the entire sitting of the Privy Council yesterday. Shortly before six o'clock, G. C. McGeer, counsel for Alberta and British Columbia, announced that he expected to conclude his argument in a few minutes this morning, and the sitting was adjourned. When Mr. McGeer finishes F. Ford, representing the Province of Alberta, may have a few words to say, and then F. H. Chrysler, K.C., will argue the case for the railways. It is hoped to conclude argument by this evening, but this is uncertain.

Mr. McGeer's argument yesterday was based on the broad general ground that British Columbia was entitled to the same treatment in the matter of railway rates as other parts of the Dominion. He insisted that the Confederation agreement provided for this, and that the present rates constituted a violation of this agreement. Under present conditions, he claimed, manufacturers in British Columbia were unfairly discriminated against in the markets of the middle west, while the eastern manufacturers were favored. He claimed that lumber could be shipped from Seattle to New York via the Panama Canal for a little more than half what it cost to ship the same commodity from Vancouver to Calgary.

Investigating Failure of Big Brokerage House

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press)—The Federal Grand Jury yesterday started to work on the E. M. Fuller and W. Frank McGee confessions, which promise to reveal the inside operations of the E. M. Fuller and Company brokerage house, which failed for $6,000,000, and to involve a number of prominent persons.

Several witnesses, whose testimony was based on the revelations of Fuller and McGee, were introduced by United States Attorney Hayward, who predicted there would be public developments Monday. He further indicated that 15,000 or more creditors of the bankrupt firm's customers, would learn that there would be small chance of their cashing in upon the revelations of the bucketeers.

The identity of the witnesses called yesterday before the Grand Jury was not revealed

Colone Hayward announced that the Fuller case would have precedence before the Grand Jury over all other matters. Indictments were not expected before the early part of next week, he said.

Western Canada Will Be Well Represented.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press.)—Western Canada will be well represented at the British Empire Exhibition in London next year, in the opinion of J. S. McKinnon, of Toronto, who left for home last night after a tour of the four western provinces in the interests of the exhibition, of which he is a Candian director. Mr. McKinnon interviewed the premiers of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and he stated yesterday that he found them all keenly interested in the project and anxious to co-operate to make the Canadian section complete and representative.

Exhibits from the prairie provinces will be largely agricultural, while British Columbia will make known its resources in lumber and fisheries as well.

CABINET DISCUSSED REPLY TO FRANCE

Britain Preparing Long Reply to Send to France Dealing With Points Raised By Poincare.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—The net results of yesterdays Cabinet Council which discussed the terms of Great Britain's reply to France and Belgium with regard to German reparations appears to be that the negotiations between the Allies are proceeding and that no approach has yet been made to anything like separate action.

A long reply will be sent by Great Britain to the French Government, dealing with all the points raised by M Poincare, the French Premier, in his recent note. The reply also will strongly re-state Great Britain's position.

It is understood the note will intimate that Great Britain cannot advise Germany to withdraw her passive resistance decree absolutely and unconditionally, and that it also will remind France that British interests do not permit of waiting interminably.

In effect it seems to be that Premier Baldwin still is seeking to surmount the difficulties of the situation without endangering an open break with France, and it is supposed Belgium is engaged in trying to find means for accommodation between the divergent views of her allies.

No further development is expected pending publication of the British note and France's response to Great Britain's fresh arguments.

Used Crooked Dice in Game at Race Track.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Charles Jackson was freed on a suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty to using crooked dice in a crap game at the race track, in police court yesterday. Jackson's freedom was not destined to last long. He was deported to Detroit, where the police arrested him, on a charge of escaping from the Indiana State Penitentiary, where he was serving a life sentence for manslaughter.

Constable Albert McCaulley, of the Windsor police department, is to receive a $50 cash reward for arresting Jackson.

To Establish Bureau of Forest Research.

QUEBEC, Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press.)— The Department of Lands and Forests are presently engaged on a scheme for the establishment of bureaus of forest research in various parts of the province. The proposal is being advanced in connection with the efforts of the government to encourage tree planting and the reforestation of devastated areas. A comprehensive programme has been arranged in this connection by the officers of the forestry service and in a short time it will be presented to Hon. Mr. Mercier, Minister of Lands and Forests.

WHEAT STORAGE IS IMPRACTIBLE

U. S. Farmers Have Not Sufficient Storage Facilities—Must Put Wheat on the Market at Once.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—The plan advanced by the American Farm Bureau Federation to store 200,000,000 bushels of wheat on the farms in the hope of raising prices, was declared yesterday to be unsound, impracticable and of no permanent benefit to the farmer, by John J. Stream, president of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Farmers in distress are not those with storage facilities, nor are they financially able to construct such containers, Mr. Stream said. If storage space was available and if farmers were a unit in following the plan it would still be far from solution, he added.

"Keeping wheat off the market has and never will change the supply and demand status," he declared. "It would simply add to the confusion that has resulted from agitation and ridiculous public pronouncements by ill-advised politicians. We must get rid of the surplus. If held until next year it would have to compete with the new crop.

"Under the quixotic plan farmers simply become incompetent speculators who in search of a possible temporary improvement, would risk creating a far greater burden later on. The farmers' real problem is finding a market, not finding a way to keep his wheat on his own farm."

"Wheat prices are not ruinously low," he said, "but the things the farmers must buy are unreasonably high, due to the high tariff and unprecedented high wages and short hours in most industries."

While the farmer must sell in the world market he is not given the privilege of buying in the world market because of the tariff and labor construction, Mr. Stream asserted.

Mr. Stream declared political agitators have destroyed the farmers' credit with flaring tales of his insolvency and predicted the crest of the radical wave has passed.

"When the farmer fires the politicians and again begins thinking to himself, a new period of prosperity will open up."

Soviet Russia Will Not Head of Trade Delegation

LONDON, August 10. Canadian Press. — The Russian trade delegation here denied yesterday that the Soviet government had cancelled the appointment of Christian Rakovsky as head of the Russian delegation in London.

The Daily Express of London announced several days ago that Russia had officially notified Great Britain that the appointment of M. Rakovsky as head of the Russian delegation in London would be cancelled in deference to Great Britain's objections. These objections, as announced previously by the Express, were based on the alleged anti-British attitude of Rakovsky.

There are 27 railway tunnels in England over a mile long.

First General Cargo From East to West.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.— (Canadian Press.)—Carrying the first general cargo ever shipped by water from eastern to western Canada, the Canadian steamship Margaret Coughlan left Montreal for Vancouver, via the Panama Canal. The sailing was arranged as an experiment to see whether sufficient business could be developed to make coast to coast sailings profitable and it is stated that the experiment has proved successful in a large measure, although the ship was not quite full. The venture is being received with a great deal of enthusiasm, particularly in the west, where importers and exporters have long advocated the provision of cheaper methods of transportation between the manufacturing sections of the east and the British Columbia market.

GERMAN STORES REMAIN CLOSED

Shopkeepers Demand the Right to Buy and Sell on a Gold Basis—Workers Also Want Gold.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press)— Retail establishments of every kind in Berlin, except those dealing in foodstuffs, yesterday gave an exhibition of passive resistance of their own by remaining closed.

The protest demonstration was aimed at an official ruling which prevents retailers from adjusting their prices to the fluctuations in the mark, a condition which they claim leaves them without protection against currency depreciation or ability to replenish their stocks.

The movement to fix prices and wages on the basis of a gold unit is rapidly spreading, especially in the cases of wage workers in all lines of industry, who are demanding payment of wages on a gold standard basis. The movement is meeting with the approval of employers generally. They declare the workers are entitled to such protection pending the Government's ability to establish the mark on a fixed basis.

Germany Ready to Enter the League.

BERLIN, Aug. 10.— (Canadian Press)—Discussing Germany's attitude toward the League of Nations in the course of an extended statement in the Reichstag yesterday, Baron von Rosenberg, the Foreign Secretary, declared that his country was prepared to enter the League but was powerless to remove the hindrances in the way of her joining.

"While the League's present construction shows palpable defect, these are immaterial," he said. "The main thing is the underlying thought, not the League itself."

Harding's Desk and Chair Draped in Black.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press)—There was one desk in the office of the Marion Star yesterday where there was no typewriter clicking and where there was no copy paper. It was the large, flat-topped oak desk in Mr. Harding's office, where he had sat for so many years writing editorials and reading proofs. It was draped in black and white as was his editorial chair.

NATIONAL DEBT DROPPED A LITTLE

Net Debt Fell About Eight Million During Month of July — Gross Debt Up Three Million.

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The net debt of Canada, according to the statement issued by the Department of Finance, fell by a little less than $8,000,000 during the month of July, although the gross debt rose by something less than $3,000,000.

The net debt of Canada at the end of July stood at $2,403,235,809, as compared with $2,409,001,572 at the end of June. The gross debt at the end of July was $2,928,212,777, as compared with $2,925,568,384 at the end of June. The increase in the gross debt is due to a rise in the circulation of Dominion notes.

The difference between the two statements is explained by an increase in the investment of Dominion funds over and above those which are classed as inactive, such as the railways.

During the year ending with July there was a drop of about $47,000,000 in the gross debt, but the net debt during the same period went up by approximately $11,000,000. The reduction in the gross debt is explained chiefly by a decline in the debt payable in Canada. There was also a decline in the temporary loans during the year, but there were increases in the note circulation and the miscellaneous banking account of the Government. The increase in the net debt is explained by a decline in Government investments generally accompanied by an increase in those investments which do not produce a revenue.

The revenue of the Dominion for July was $32,759,524, showing an increase of about $2,500,000 over the month of June. The current expenditures for the month of July showed a decline of well up to $9,000,000, standing at $18,356,720. The capital and special expenditures stood at $907,085, showing a decline of about $100,000. Taking the four months of the fiscal year, up to the end of July, there was an increase of about $11,000,000 in the current revenue during the present year, while there was a cut of something over $4,000,000 in the current expenditure. The revenue for the four months in the present year was $152,265,643, and the current expenditure, $91,145,399.

The largest single source of revenue during the month of July is found in the sales tax and other excise taxes, which produced $11,019,857, an increase of about half a million over the previous month. The customs duties, which came second, were responsible for a revenue of $9,763,656, a decrease of something over half a million, from June. The excise duties on tobacco and spirits brought in $3,432,625 during July or approximately the same as the previous month. The revenue from income tax was $3,871,022, nearly three times as much as in June, but almost a million and a half less than in July, 1922.

CARING FOR THE FATHERLESS.

Hard-fisted Councillors might be reconciled to the requisitions for the Mothers' Allowance Commission if the annual report of the commission were issued about the time Municipal Councils are struggling with their budgets.

Their parsimony and their vigilance over the treasuries they so zealously guard might relent a little under the realization of their own participation in a great public duty. The annual report of the commission is an emphatic reminder of the vast good it is accomplishing.

Eleven thousand children have been saved from beggary through the agency of the Mothers' Allowance Commission. The people of their Province have provided them with the means to health and education, motherly care and comfortable home life, all the essentials to that happiness which should be the birthright of every child.

It is not difficult to imagine the privations and hardships these fatherless children would have had to face, eleven thousand of them, if this public assistance were not available. And in that distressful picture would be the pain and heartache, the toil and abasing dependence of the mothers who were left to fend single-handed for their young families.

The number of beneficiaries under the act in 1920 was 2,660, as compared with 3,559 for the fiscal year of 1921-22, or an increase of 33.80 per cent.

CHEQUE ON THE PROFITS.

Cruisers, presumably American, have been noticed lately passing through the Trent waterway without stopping at the up-town Government wharf. These tourists had evidently not had their attention drawn to the facilities that are available there for taking aboard supplies, and inconvenience to them and loss to the city resulted.

A telephone at the George street wharf makes the ordering of the necessary groceries, gasoline and supplies convenient, this being one of the objects in having the telephone installed. In the single item of gasoline the city gained considerably last year, 3,500 gallons having been ordered from the George street wharf. Up to date this year 1,700 gallons have been purchased in this way.

Many of those who called at the wharf this year had passed Little Lake and entered the canal leading to the Lift Lock before learning that they had missed the opportunity to call at the city. They then turned back.

This could be obviated by the placing of inexpensive signs pointing the way to the wharf. These could be so arranged that boats both ascending and descending the waterway would be reminded of the opportunity that the only city on the Trent waterway system offers for shopping.

The city pays heavily toward advertising the waterway, and should cheque in on the advantages accruing whenever possible.

A QUERY FROM ASHBURNHAM.

Residents of Ashburnham are under the impression that the Council has forgotten another report of City Engineer Parsons'.

They have noticed that their approach to the Hunter Street Bridge departs discordantly from the plans which they remember as having been drafted by the City Engineer a year or more ago, embodying certain ideas proposed by ex-Alderman Hamilton.

According to that design, which was generally approved, Hunter street, looking easterly from the bridge, was to have absorbed the junction with Burnham street in a graceful sweeping curve that would have erased the sharp corner of the intersection and received the traffic from the south, with the hazards reduced to the possible minimum.

The design further contemplated a wide curve from Burnham street easterly into Hunter street, with space enough for a circular plot to be planted with flowers at the junction. To carry out this scheme the angle at the southwest corner, which is owned by the city, would have been filled in as part of the general plan which contemplated the permanent beautification of that corner, including the eventual incorporation of that property into a park which was to slope down to the river from Burnham street.

It may have been too ambitious a project, but there was no doubt of the asset it would create at the western entrance into Ashburnham, and residents of that part of the city would have been content with its gradual development. They are unable to find any trace of ex-Alderman Hamilton's scheme in the course of the new pavement at the Burnham street crossing, and these ratepayers are wondering whether the broader improvement they had expected has been definitely abandoned.

"YOUR HEALTH."

This is the title of a new department which is now included in the Examiner's daily service to its readers.

The subject of health should require no introduction or recommendation. Every person is more or less interested in his physical fitness which a few years ago was the nation's concern; but too often that interest is misdirected by his lack of knowledge, or is discouraged or balked by apprehension of the expense of professional consultation.

Some day perhaps it may be the custom that the services of a doctor shall be as inexpensive, as accessible and as prompt as those which the citizen now receives, when necessary, from his fire department. Or, better still, and retaining the figure of the fire department, a doctor may make the round of homes, even if personal liberty is further invaded, under municipal authority to prevent disease, if possible, after the manner of the firemen's inspection to prevent fires.

It might be assumed that medical doctors have little idea of the public's interest in the preservation of health. Like money and love and tragedy and other universals, it appeals powerfully to the individual; and in that category health should rank first.

Doctors are not ordinarily interviewed about health as are bankers and merchants and business men about questions of finance and industry and business. And too often when the knowledge and opinions of doctors are communicated to the public they are worded in polysyllabic esoteric terms that simply, mystify and dismay laymen.

Succinct, sufficient and erudite statements of the cause of President Harding's death were made public, but it is altogether likely that most persons who read them could merely recall the simple fact that Mr. Harding died very suddenly.

The Examiner's new health department is intended to be as helpful as possible within obvious limits, and if it proves as practical as similar features in other papers it should disseminate information on ordinary questions of health which might properly be included in common school education.

CAMPBELLFORD REACHES OUT.

Alexander the Great, according to the records of history, at one stage of his meteoric military career, sat down and wept because, according to his somewhat limited geographical knowledge, there were no more worlds against which he might lead his hosts to satisfy his insane lust for conquest. Perhaps the great military leader did not weep, or if he did the reason for his tears was other than that given by his biographer. It is barely possible that the ashes of disappointment were bitter in his palate, and that he realized that now that the game had been played out, the candle had to a great extent been wasted, that the fruits of victory were not worth the efforts that had been expended in their gathering.

But assuming that the historical record is correct, there was no warrant for the monarch's grief. After all, he was a rank quitter. There were beyond his range of vision plenty of worlds ready for spoliation by the invader. There were ahead of him more hills of conquest than he had ever yet scaled. All that was lacking on his part was the enterprise that would beckon him into further adventure.

There are individuals and towns in the present age that show the same spirit as that of the military genius of old—towns especially. Perhaps the leading residents and the officials of these places do not shed tears, but they are likely to sit down in slothful ease and contentment. They imagine that the best has been attained, that there is really nothing more to be accomplished. Unlike Alexander the Great, they shed no tears, but felicitate themselves on the glory of past achievements. The tax rate has been kept down without regard to modern-day progress, the debenture debt is within bounds—then what more is there that can be done?

Of course, there are exceptions. The town of Campbellford is apparently not satisfied that there are no more prizes to win, that the future contains nothing quite as good as the past. Campbellford is situated in the very heart of the greatest power centre in the Province, with one exception. It manufacturers its own power and light at a cost below that of any sister municipality. It is a town of fine homes, good churches and schools that are second to none as the departmental reports will testify. Its manufacturies are prosperous, and hard times or unemployment are practically unknown, even in the depth of the winter season. Just at present a new High School and another power plant are in progress of construction at an estimated outlay of over a million dollars. The town really has assets enough to wipe out the debenture debt and then leave it as well off as the majority of municipalities of the same size in Ontario.

The scenic beauty of Campbellford and the surrounding district is unsurpassed. Popular as it is now as a summer resort, it can be made a still greater drawing centre for the tourist traffic. All that it requires, according to its enterprising citizens, is greater transportation facilities. The best for Campbellford, they believe, is yet to come.

Sir Adam Beck, Chairman, Hon. J. R. Cooke, member of the Hydro Commission, and other public men of influence, are to be invited to Campbellford to see at first hand the possibilities of the town in the matter of further power development. Any knowledge which Sir Adam and Mr. Cooke may already possess on this subject has been gleaned from the blue prints prepared by the Hydro engineers, and it is about as difficult to gather information from these documents as it is to form an idea of what a Town Council has done by reading the official minutes.

At all events, Campbellford is looking out for more worlds to conquer, thus showing a commendable spirit of enterprise that is worthy of emulation by municipalities that may in point of population overshadow the ambitious little municipality on the Trent.

WHERE LAW IS ENFORCED.

If you are thinking of going into the murder or car stealing business, stay away from London, England.

In that great metropolis last year there were only 26 murders. In 13 cases arrests were made, and in the other 13 the murderer committed suicide.

Of the arrests made there were 13 convictions; three were considered insane and 10 were hanged.

In that great district only 327 motor cars and cycles were stolen. Of this number 314 were recovered and the thieves arrested and convicted.

One wonders at the safety of life and property in a city which, from its location on the very edge of Europe, would be a mark for scoundrels from all nations.

But there is the record. One hundred per cent. in running down first degree crime, and 96 per cent. in recovering stolen cars and punishing the thieves.

Who does it? The Old Country officer, unarmed except for his baton. Well trained, physically superior to most men, and mentally alert, he sets up a record that officers of United States cities, with guns on their hips and all sorts of equipment at their disposal, can neither equal nor approach.—London Advertiser.

TORONTO CATTLE.

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—There was a short run at the Union stockyards yesterday morning. 109 cattle came in, and there were about 700 cattle left over Wednesday. Although trade was dull, and prices were unchanged to slightly lower, it is probable that everything but 200 or 300 common cattle, mostly westerns, will be cleaned up. There is a steady demand for choice butcher cattle at $6.50 to $7.00, and some of the common cattle were bought at $3.00 to $4.50 for stockers and feeders, but buyers do not want them and price may yet be lower.

There were only 35 calves came into the market yesterday. They sold steady at about $10.00.

Lambs sold at $12.00. Ten sheep were offered. There is same demand for them at 6 to 6½.

Hogs were 25 points higher again yesterday. Packers were bidding $9.60 fed and watered yesterday and are taking what hogs they can get at that price. So it is not probable that the price of hogs will be lower immediately.

United Farmers' Co-Operative Co., Limited, sold: 1, 880 lbs., $5.75; 6, 1100 lbs., $5.60; 1, 820 lbs., $5; 1, 800 lbs., $3. Cows—1, 1040 lbs., $3.75; 1, 1120 lbs., $3.50. ### EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Both Montreal and Toronto markets contiue firm, with a strong upward tendency. Receipts of eggs that will grade extras are short at many Ontario points. Practically no eggs are moving east at the present time from the Prairie Provinces. This combined with the opening of the export demand and the movement for export of several cars during the present week accounts for the upward tendency.

Toronto firm, unchanged, receipts falling off, market shows tendency for the higher grades.

Montreal market firm, specials 38 to 39, extras 33 to 34, firsts 28, seconds 23 to 24. Dressed poultry unchanged.

Winnipeg market firm, receipts light, dealers quoting to country shippers extras 28, firsts 23, seconds 17, cracks 12. Jobbing extras 32 to 36, firsts 27 to 28, seconds 21 to 22.

Saskatchewan receipts light, dealers quoting extras 23, firsts 18, seconds 13, cracks 8. A car of firsts and seconds is reported rolling to Montreal from Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Receipts, 1,368 cattle and calves, 865 hogs and 204 sheep.

Trading on th cattle market was active yesterday, with the better classes of killing cattle going out at firm prices. Good butcher steers made $5 to $6, butcher heifers $5 to $5.75 and best butcher cows $3.75 to $4.25. Stockers and feeders were in demand around $3 to $3.75.

The hog market was steady, thick smooths selling at $9.25 and select bacons at $10.17 1-2.

Good lambs made $9.50 and feeder sheep up to $5.75.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—There was no change in the condition of the market for spot supplies of oats. The tone of the flour market was steady. The millfeed market was unchanged. Business in rolled oats is quiet, the baled hay market is without feature. There was a steady demand for eggs. The butter market was quiet. The cheese market was more active.

DAY OF MOURNING IN UNITED STATES FOR PRES. HARDING

Citizens Today Will Pay Fitting Tribute of Silence Throughout Whole Land to Memory of Great Man.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).— The United States will pay tribute of silence to the late President Warren G. Harding as his body is entombed to-day at Marion. From coast to coast and from border to border every wheel of the Federal Government and practically every one of industry and of commerce will stand still. Theatres and other amusement places will be closed, baseball games postponed and other events of sports deferred.

As recommended President Coolidge in his proclamation officially announcing the death of the late President the day will be one of mourning and of prayer.

At sea on great passenger liners, prayers will be said and memorial ceremonials will be held in a number of foreign lands, in historic Westminster Abbey, in France, Switzerland and South America and elsewhere.

In many places factories, shipyards and houses of business will be closed throughout the day. In others, there will be cessation of work at the burial hour. Traffic on all the railroads will come to a halt at the hour of entombment and remain motionless for from two to five minutes. Work in the railroads shops will cease for similar periods. The Postal Telegraph Company will silence all of its telegraph and cable wires for two minutes, while the Western Union will suspend activities for three minutes. At four o'clock, eastern standard time, "taps will be flashed on all Associated Press wires and every telegraph instrument in the service will be stilled for two minutes while all employees maintain absolute silence.

BRITAIN'S TRIBUTE.

LONDON, Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press).—Several thousand citizens of Great Britain and the United States gathered at Westminster Abbey at noon to-day to mourn the death of the late President Harding. Hundreds who could not be accommodated within the cool recesses of the ancient cathedral lined the streets and squares in the vicinity of the Parliament Buildings as prominent personages in the political and social life of the country arrived for the service. Then the overflow crowd gathered in the Abbey yard, where it heard the funeral music played on the great organ.

The United States Embassy distributed the 1,200 available seats yesterday morning, and was obliged later to decline the requests of hundreds of tourists who sought tickets of admission.

Judge Fined Himself For Breach of the Law.

WATERTOWN, N.Y., Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press). — Special city Judge Edward W. Carroll set an example in law enforcement yesterday when he confessed to himself in court that he had violated a city traffic ordinance, read himself a lecture on law obedience and pronounced a fine of one dollar and paid it to himself as judge.

The judge had parked his car too long in a restricted zone.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Zion Methodist Church Broke Another Record —A Baseball Game— Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD Aug. 10. — Zion Methodist Church, which is located in Petherick's Corners, about six miles from town, is the oldest church society of the four now included in the East Seymour circuit of which Rev. J. E. Glover is at present pastor. The members of this congregation have for years prided themselves on holding the leading annual social, in point of attendance and receipts, in the township. Last years profits from their function amounted to $212 but at the social last night this fine record was broken when 642 paid for admission at the gate. The receipts from this social alone amounting to $224.80. The various booths, which did a thriving business all evening in the sale of ice cream, soft drinks and fancy work have yet to be heard from so that it is expected that the net returns will not be far short of $300.

The social was held in the grove on the farm of John Simpson, which is carpeted with pine needles and is an ideal spot for an affair of that kind. Lights were suspended from the trees and the entire grounds were gay with flags and other decorations. One of the finest retreats for the guests was a neatly arranged bower in which ice cream was served by a bevy of young girls in white. Guests were present from Campbellford and all parts of the district. No function of this kind would be complete without the presence of the Campbellford band which was out in force last night and with only brief intermission rendered popular and clasical selections during the entire evening.

Base ball Game.

One of the noved fetures was a baseball game which was announced to begin at 6 o'clock but there was a hitch in the arrangements due to a misunderstanding.

The team from Springbrook, made up of nine stalwart young fellows arrayed in natty uniforms and inspired with athletic ambitions, was on hand promptly at the hour advertised, fully expecting that their opponents were to be none other than the conquering Campbellford team in the Northumberland league. The members of the latter nine did not know what was expected of them and failed to show up, although a number of the best players, including Hume, Brady and Eagleson were at the social later in the evening in their capacity as private citizens.

Rather than see the large crowd that gathered in a neighboring field, on foot and in autos, a team was picked up from among the young men on the grounds, but the identity of these players, together with that of the officiating umpire. was carefully concealed. Melville Fitzgerald, the well known cheese buyer, whose home is in Springbrook, acted as official scorer and he is responsible for the claim that the result was 8 to 6 in favour of his home town nine. The young fellows put up a fine brand of ball, and from their performance at bat and in the field it is not hard to believe that they would have given even the Campbellford team an interesting session had they had the opportunity. The lineup of Springbrook was as follows: George Ruth, c.; J. Primeau, p.; B. Onslow, 1b.; C. LaBlanc, 2b.; C. Burkitt, 3b.; C. Sisler, l.f.; R. Batstone, c.f.; H. Haslett, r.f.; F. Latimer, ss.

Church Built in 1878.

The brick church in which the Methodists of Petherick's Corners and district meet for divine worship was erected in 1878. For years previous the congregation held service in the school house, in which many a man who has since won distinction in professional and business life, learned his letters and other rudiments in education. The first denomination to obtain a footing in the community was the Bible Christians, who were succeeded by the various Methodist branches until the union of these elements was effected.

The oldest member of the church is William Petherick, who is verging on his eightieth year, but who at the social last night was as active as the majority of those who are only half his years. Mr. Petherick has lived on the farm on which he now resides since he was 11 months old. His father was the late Daniel Petherick, who cleared up the land and prepared the way for the erection of the fine residence and outbuildings which now adorn it. There are only two men in the neighborhood who outrank Mr. Petherick in seniority, Sandy Anderson, two or three years, and Alexander Brunton, who is six months older. One of the first services Mr. Petherick ever rendered the church was to light the fire in the old school house every Sunday or other day on which service was held, a duty which he performed for over 17 years. He has served 45 years as steward and recording steward and is at present secretary for the congregation.

Held Auction Sale.

The crowd last night was large, but the ladies had provided dainties in such profusion that there was a surplus left after the last guests had been served.

These dainties were disposed of at fancy figures by Robert Fry, of Campbellford, who assumed the role of auctioneer for the occasion so successfully that a number of his friends expressed regret that he had not adopted that business as his regular vocation.

The Ladies' Aid.

All members of the congregation co-operated in the preparations for and in the management of the function last night, but as usual in all such affairs, the members of the Ladies' Aid are entitled to the credit as the chief executive. The officers of this society are: Mrs. John Simpson, president; Miss Amy Anderson, secretary; and Miss Verna Barnum, treasurer.

That Game with Roseneath.

The ten-innings game that Campbellford won from Roseneath by a margin of one at Warkworth on Wednesday was the chief topic of conversation here yesterday, and no event of recent date, including the late election, probably gave rise to so much discussion. One of the chief topics of dispute was whether there were one or two Campbellford men out when the winning run was scored in the tenth, some stressing this point as if it really affected the credit for the hard-fought victory. Echoes of their argument reached here from outside points, one of the teams that has been eliminated from the race by the results of Wednesday's games being particularly insistent that there were two men down when victory perched upon the Campbellford standard.

The facts in the case admit of no argument. In the tenth inning Eagleson was the first man up, and he singled. After Hume had been retired Holmes and Weston both hit safely, and Eagleson was home with the winning run. Hume was the only man out when the game ended.

Jack Nesbitt Bereaved.

Jack Nesbitt, catcher for the Campbellford League team, has been called to Toronto by the death of his mother. He will be unable to take part in the postponed game with Hastings that is scheduled to be played in that village on Saturday afternoon.

Special Meeting of Council.

Mayor Meyers has called a special meeting of the Town Council for Monday evening. The notice states that the chief matter of business to be considered is the question of submitting to the property owners the by-law making an additional grant of $28,800 for the completion of the new High School as requested by the Board of Education.

SAYS ALBANIA IS QUIET.

TIRANA, Alabania, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press)—W. F. Stirling, official adviser to the Albanian government, who has just completed a tour of the whole country, says the reports of insurrection and fighting in Albania are pure inventions, and that the country was never more tranquil.

The state of public security is remarkably good, Mr. Stirling declares, and no Balkan country was ever more orderly. The Albanians are a keen and enterprising country and attract foreign capital to assist them in exploiting its wealth.

FOREIGN MONEY IS GOING DOWN

Germany's Attitude on the Ruhr Responsible For Further Weakness

NEW YORK, August 10 (Canadian Press). — French and Belgian francs were quoted at their lowest rates for all time in yesterday's foreign exchange market in direct reflection of Germany's announced intention to continue passive resistance in the Ruhr. French francs sold as low as 5.65 each, or four points below previous day's final rate, while Belgian francs dropped 20 points to 4.23 cents, and rallied later to 4.27 cents.

Sterling exchange held firm.

Meanwhile some erratic fluctuations were taking place in German marks. They closed at 35 cents per million, opened yesterday morning at 21 cents, and then jumped to 65 cents late in the afternoon in response to foreign buying orders.

The low record for all time is 17 cents a million, which was established earlier in the week.

Foreign exchange dealers were unable to account for the flurry of buying orders for marks, but feared it might have some relation with Chancellor Cuno's reported determination to check further demoralisation of Germany's depreciated currency.

GEORGE HENRY ON HIGHWAY POLICIES

Province Making Survey of Ontario Highways

PICTON, August 10 (Canadian Press). — The necessity of careful and sane highway policy with the securing of value for money spent was the keynote of an address by the Hon. George S. Henry at the annual outing of the Picton Motor Club, held at the Sandbanks yesterday.

Hon. Mr. Henry, the speaker of the day, who was introduced by Mayor Newman of Picton, said he was at the present time making a survey of the Ontario Provincial Highways, as well as of the other roads under Provincial authority.

The Province had a large investment in highways, Mr. Henry said, and this investment must be protected. The people must realise that there must be a sane use of the public highways. Next year, a new law would be in force in Ontario, with some new restrictions against excessive speed, including jail sentences.

The Government had no desire to imprison any one, Mr. Henry declared, but life and property must be protected. Ontario stands highest, he said, in the percentage of motor fatalities in the Dominion. This was an unenviable record, and it was the work of the Government and the Motor League to improve such conditions.

Other speakers were G. M. McWilliams, president of the Ontario Motor League; W. G. Robertson, secretary of the Motor League; G. A. Hodgins, past president, and Capt. J. P. Beatty, director, all of Toronto.

A LOWER RATE YET FOR ALBERTA COAL

Such is Hope Expressed By Premier Ferguson — Will Visit Thornton.

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—(Canadain Press).—Premier Ferguson is hopeful for still lower freight quotation or the transportation of Alberta coal into Ontario and when he has assembled facts and figures which he is now preparing, he will make personal visit to Sir Henry Thornton to impress upon him the big business it means in future for the Canadian National Railways.

'I am hopeful, he said "that I will be able to persuade the National Railways to figure a lower rate than that which has been mentioned. I think I can satisfy them that there is tonnage enough and that there is a very substantial business to be developed sufficient to justify their fixing the rate that will permit Alberta coal to come in here in competition with the Pennsylvania product.

The rate fixed by Sir Henry is $7 per ton freight for an experimental trainload of 6,000 tons, and the hope of the Premier is that he can get it cut down to $6 per ton.

Rylstone Social.

The Presbyterians congregation at Rylstone held their annual lawn social on Mr. Herbert Spencer's lawn recently.

In spite of the heavy thunder showers during the afternoon the attendance was excellent. The cancelling of the Northumberland Regiment Band was a disappointment to many when the later evening turned out so fine.

In the absence of Campbellford's fine band, music was provided by members of the two neighboring Orange lodges (Zion and Stanwood lodges.) They beat the drums and played their fifes with as much vigor and enthusiasm as they did at Campbellford on the glorious twelfth of July, and when a young Scotchman started the pibroch sounding everybody was delighted. This music furnished by its friend was greatly appreciated by the local congregation.

RED SQUIRREL SWAM RAPIDS ABOVE FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Aug. 10. (Canadian Press).—A red squirrel, one of the kind known to every tourist who has visited the State reservation at Niagara Falls, successfully swam the rapids above the American Falls yesterday and saved itself from going over the cataract to death.

The squirrel fell into the stream from a log a few hundred yards above the brink of the cataract and was swept out in the current. It succeeded in making a rock some distance out in the river. To this it clung while the turbulent waters of the rapids swept by.

Reservation employees saw the little animal's predicament and they secured a long ladder and shoved an end out to the rock, thinking the squirrel would scramble over it to the shore. But it disdained the ladder and plunged into the stream, landing on the mainland shore after a desperate struggle, only a few feet from the brink of the Falls.

Reservation officials say this is their first experience with swimming squirrels.

MAD INFATUATION OF RICH EGYPTIAN ENDS IN BLOOD

Left Immense Fortune, Youth Falls in Love With Beautiful French Woman

(By LYLE C. WILSON)

LONDON, Aug. 10 (United Press)—Smouldering passions fanned by jealousy and nurtured in the selfish breasts of a boy prince of Egypt and his maturely beautiful French wife have resulted in tragedy.

A fatal revolver flashed in a corridor of London's gaudiest hotel; a prince died; and his princess exchanged the voluptuous luxury of her suite of rooms for a stuffy, comfortless cell in Bow Street police station.

Surfeited with money and believing thereby to have been released from the common duty of consideration for others, the actors in the alleged murder played the part of spoiled children during six short months of honeymooning. Then the woman killed the man and is threatened with the noose of the hangmen.

Ali Kamel Fahmy Bey, is the name of the 22-year-old Egyptian who is dead. His princely extravagance matched with princely, but often misguided, charity earned him the title of Prince and he was so known. Actually Fahmy Bey was only a minor Egyptian noble. In a country but a few months restored to monarchial government the bestowal of courtesy titles is apt to carry as much weight as the more formal pronouncements of the King.

Income of .325,500 Yearly

At the age of 18 Fahmy Bey's father died leaving the youth heir to an income of $325,500 a year. The war had brought the family tremendous wealth. The yearly tribute of thousands of aces of cotton fields was at once diverted to gratify the whims of young Fahmy Bey.

He bought fleets of motor cars. He was not skillful in their use but paraded them proudly about the streets of Cairo. His cars were the fastest and had the greatest exhaust pipes of any in Egypt.

Connected with the exhaust were in genious American contrivances which transformed the bark of the motor into shrill blasts of a many-noted horn.

It was not difficult to know that Fahmy Bey was coming. He advertised his approach with a fanfare worthy of an emperor.

The morot cars soon became passe. Fahmy commissioned Thorneysroft's, the greatest pleasure boat builders in England, to create a river boat worthy of its prospective owner. The wonderfully conceived boat was shipped to Cairo and in it Fahmy added stature to his pose as a Prince in fact as well as in name.

Fahmy Bey travelled. He knew Paris, London and Vienna—and little else. He was not well educated. His money was the life spark of his career and ultimately it killed him.

Woman of His Dreams

One day in Cairo Fahmy Bey saw the woman of his dreams. He contrived an introduction. She was the daughter of a French family, visiting in Egypt.

Unschooled in any life but that of self-indulgence, the young Egyptian no sooner sensed his own family's objections to the match than he stubbornly determined the marriage should be.

The woman he had chosen for a bride was ten years his elder. She had been married before. Her faith was not that of Fahmy.

In spite of all these things Fahmy planned his campaign.

He followed his choice to Paris and spent streams of money to further his cause. His charmer fled to Deauville—where fortunes melt overnight—where gather the beautiful, the wealthy, the defiled of the world.

In this glittering atmosphere of women, showering money and license, Fahmy shone. He could outspend the spendthrifts. He could out-dance the masters of the ball rooms. He was handsome. He was passionate.

Perhaps less lucky women coveted the youth who was dancing attendance on the charming Parisian. His pleas triumphed. His love was returned. He was happy.

Fahmy returned to Cairo to obtain the consent of his family.

Sees Dismal Future For British Trade.

LONDON, August 10. Associated Press. — "I put the settlement of the European situation first and foremost of all measures which can be taken for the improvement of trade and the reduction of unemployment in this country," said Sir Eric Geddes, former cabinet minister and economic authority, addressing the Bradford Branch of the Federation of British Industries the other day.

"The general upward trend of trade," continued the speaker, "is checked because of the disturbed condition of Europe, and while I have fair reason to hope for an upward trend in the cycle of trade I can at present see nothing but blackness when I look for a resumption of the upward progression in the general level of trade shown during the last century.

"Our unemployment is caused by the state of Europe. The working, trading and banking community of the country cannot too insistently bring before the government the conviction that the great problems of this country would melt as mist before the sun if a stabilized condition could be brought about in Europe.

"Not only can Germany not purchase from us, but Italy prefers to purchase from Germany because the German cost of production is much lower owing to her depreciated currency . And it does not stop there. India cannot purchase from us, because Germany cannot purchase India's products, and so on throughout the world.

As proof that England still lagged behind America in the efficiency of her factory operatives, Sir Eric said that while English hands did no more work than they did some years ago, in America there had been an all-round improvement of fifteen per cent. in the efficiency of the factory workers.

NINETY-EIGHT OUT OF EVERY HUNDRED WOMEN

who have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for ailments peculiar to their sex, have been benefited by it. What a marvellous record for any medicine to hold! Over 50,000 women replied to a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Cobourg, Ont., 98 per cent of whom definitely stated that they had been benefited or restored to health by this old-fashioned root and herb medicine. This is a most wonderful record for efficiency, and should induce every woman who suffers from any ailment peculiar to her sex to give it a fair trial.

MAY HARNESS VOLCANOES TO OPERATE FACTORIES

(By CLARENCE DUBOSE)

TOKYO (By mail to United Press).—Several Japanese scientists are trying to perfect a scheme for taming volcanoes, harnessing 'em up into horsepower units and converting their wayward energy into commercially constructive activity.

If the idea works out the nicest thing a big industrial plant could have around its premises would be a fine, live volcano. You'd just pull a lever and let the volcano furnish all the heat to run the factory. Besides, after working six days a week running power plants, not many volcanoes would go on an earthquake spree on their day off.

Japan is just all cluttered up with volcanoes, good, bad and indifferent, and holds all per-diem earthquake records of the world—flat-footed, running-start, catch-as-catch can and hurdles. If every volcano in Japan was running a flock of factories—why, H. Ford's quantity production would look thin. There'd probably be a mad rush to every new volcano-field, just like to the Texas oil fields—with wildcatters selling fake volcano stock and everything.

Two Japanese engineering professors of the Kyushu Imperial University are now roaming around the Beppu volcanoes, sinking pipes into the ground and experimenting with various theories they have of the most effective way of extracting volcanic heat and turning it into productive motive power.

"It's a long chance," they admit, "and it may be fantastic and unrealizable. But it was also a long chance, and fantastic, and it seemed unrealizable when men talked about harnessing lightning and making electricity run the world."

A WORM-DRIVEN HOSE CLIP

Among the many minor problems of life, that of making a tight joint between a flexible hose and a metal pipe or ferrule, is one of the most troublesome. Even if the sizes of the hose and the metal part happen to be suitable a simple push-on connection is rarely effective, but blows off under the slightest provocation. Some form of mechanical fastening must be employed and it is difficult to exert an even pressure, all round, so as to prevent leakage, without cutting or otherwise injuring the hose. A smooth metal band, bearing evenly the correct pressure at every point, is clearly the ideal means of attachment and this is provided in adjustible form by a recent British invention. The principle employed is that of the worm-gear drive, now used so extensively in motor cars and other power applications. One end of a flexible steel band carries a square-threaded screw or "worm" which engages with threads cut outside the other end of the band. By tightening the screw a direct pull is exerted on the evenly on the hose at all parts of its circumference. The clip has no loose parts, and it is heavily galvanized to prevent rusting. It is applicable to any size of hose, new or worn, and can be used again and again. The screw is self-locking and cannot work loose.

SAVING STEPS.

Every woman should arrange her kitchen so that she does not have to cross and recross it many times in order to perform simple tasks.

Jay Walking

Most accidents to pedestrians occur at the crossings, yet we insist on educating the public against jaywalking

This is the tenor of the argument for safer crossings in crowded sections of cities, presented by Ewart Williams Hobbs in the National Safety News for July. At the same time Hobbs presents a possible solution to this important phase of the traffic problem.

It isn't fair, he says, to urge the pedestrian to cross only at intersections while these are the most hazardous spots. "If we wish to keep him off that portion of the highway between intersections," he adds, "we must make the intersections attractive to him."

We are not doing this, Hobbs maintains. We have traffic officers at crossings—"who temporarily block traffic, making it move in waves like a many-footed caterpillar on a still summer's day." We have buttons, bumpers or mushrooms which can easily be straddled by reckless drivers. And there are dummy policemen and all sorts of stanchions to guide motor traffic.

But they do not prevent accidents to pedestrians Neither does moral suasion, or any sort of education, declares Hobbs.

Physical Prevention

"The general principle to be observed in the protection of the pedestrian is physical prevention, rather than moral suasion," he says. "We will really get no where until street crossings are equipped with honest-to-goodness physical safety appliances. And we ought not to be afraid to experiment a little."

In trying to decide on an efficient system for controlling traffic, Hobbs considers two methods. One is what he calls the gyratory system, by which the traffic swings about a central pivot or circular park. "It enters the procession and leaves it, and does not cross immediately," he explains.

But there's a serious objection to this plan.

"The traffic keeps moving, which is good for the traffic, but not so good for the pedestrian. The gyratory system also requires elbow room, which can ill be spared in a big business section."

The other plan for traffic control and greater safety, is the erection of barriers in the middle of the streets at the four points of the cross roads.

But these barriers must be "of sufficient width to insure stability, height to prevent straddling and lowness to prevent concealment of small objects such as children."

Narrow Streets

Also, shaped long and rather high, their contour prevents a direct and destructive crash. And, most important, "they give a less confusing line of traffic and afford safety to pedestrians half-way across the street."

Such barriers would practically divide a wide road into two narrow streets. And the narrow street, argues Hobbs, is the safest.

"An experienced traffic officer will tell you that, generally speaking, fewer accidents occur on narrow streets than on broad ones. The reason is that automobile traffic is flexible. An automobile can circle around a street car, cut across and move in and out, perform all sorts of exciting contortions on a wide street.

"Where there isn't room for it to perform, you have some idea where it is going, and can keep out of its way. You know where its 'way' is going to be. There is some certainty about its direction."

Traffic Problems

LONDON, August 10.—(Associated Press).—Twenty million pounds annually is thrown to the winds as the result of traffic delays and congestion on the streets of London, according to experts in the art of statistics. This huge sum, which is said to be a conservative estimate, is sufficient, however, to arouse the indignation of many London newspapers, and to open a campaign against the present plight of the street traffic.

The members for London in the House of Commons have agreed to take the matter up and present a bill designed to regulate all class of traffic in the city.

The most difficult problem in London is that of the omnibus and other heavy motor lorries. There are about 3,700 passenger buses in operation in the city, and the number is steadily increasing. The congested traffic has caused a considerable loss to the bus owners, as it is impossible for the machines to make any speed through the maize of other vehicles. The situation is becoming worse according to the newspapers, and it now takes a bus three minutes longer to traverse the Strand, about a half mile in length, than it did six months ago.

A report shows that 53,500 vehicle pass Hyde Park Corner every 12 hours beginning at eight o'clock in the morning, while Piccadilly Circus accounts for 42,200 and Trafalgar Square for [illegible]

[illegible] the present time only in the City of London proper, an area of less than a square mile, is heavy traffic prohibited on some of the main streets. On all other streets any class of vehicle may wander at its own will.

There have been many attempts by royal commissions and select committees to deal with the problem, but these have been unable to find a solution.

LIFTING HEAVY LOADS BY HAND

Man being so much less powerful than his works, he has continually to rely upon mechanical aid in order that his puny strength may achieve what his brain desires. For many purposes steam power, or one of the forces of Nature, is made to perform the whole of the labour but it often happens that man-power is alone available. In such cases the hand-winch is a most useful machine for, by turning the handle long enough, one man can lift almost any weight through any distance. Naturally, with so little strength to call upon, the worker is anxious to dispense with unnecessary weight and gearing in the parts which he has to move. In this respect, a new British make of a one-man hoist shows what can be achieved by combining scientific design with experience in manufacture. Outwardly the hoist consists of a handle, a small drum, and a ring by which the machine can be bolted on to any convenient support. Teeth are cut on one side of the drum and these engage with a fixed gear wheel. The details of the design are such that the drum advances only one tooth for each revolution of the handle. The force exerted in the chain passing over the drum is therefore much greater than that applied to the handle. In fact a man can easily lift 1½ tons (1500 kg.) by this means, and the height of lift can be 100 feet (30 metres) or more because the chain simply runs over the small drum and has not to be wound thereon. When it is desired to lower the load, the handle is simply turned backwards but there is no possibility of the load running away; the handle is quite safe no matter in what position it is released.

PEACH STAINS.

Pure glycerin will remove the stains of peaches from linen or cotton. Let the glycerin remain there a few minutes before washing it out with clear water.

IMPROVEMENTS IN GLASSWARE

The fascination of sparkling glassware is universal in its appeal and, though it finds its highest expression in the costly products which grace the tables of the rich and the cabinets of the collector, there is a marked preference for clear, smooth glass in the commonest dishes, bowls and jars. In recognition of this fact, British manufacturers, who have long been known for their special glassware, have devoted themselves also to the production of moulded articles for all purposes. Though the brilliance and sparile of blown and cut glass cannot be realised completely in any other product, the latest British moulded glass is clear and bright, and bears no moulding marks. It is unquestionably the best material available for everyday use, and except in the cheapest qualities, it is toughened by annealing and so becomes most durable in service. These improvements apply not only to tableware but also to the many types of jars used for jam, fruit, and other foodstuffs. Similar advances have also been made in the production of tinted glass for decorative windows and panels.

FLUNKERS.

Sixteen out of every 100 students flunk at Northwestern University's College of Liberal Arts. But Professor Howard finds the flunkers average as high in intelligence as ones who pass their examinations. Like life in general, success is as much (or more) a matter of application and work as of ability.

Regarding the college flunkers: Judgment must be reserved until later in life when some of them may outdistance the star students of college days.

Failure can be an incident, not a permanent decision, the same as an army may lose many battles and still win the war.

Sensations

Elsie was unhappy.

Her husband was keeping a secret from her—the first time during their new wedded bliss.

He did not trust her with it. And she could not guess it. The more she thought of it, the more certain she became that it was a terrible secret.

About an hour ago those two unpleasant, uncanny individuals had visited him again, the tall, dark fellow with the ashen face and the blond, stout chap with his eternal diabolical smile which seemed almost more terrible to her than the sphinx-like mien of the pale-face.

There they were, the three of them, in Oscar's room, engaged in consultation behind barred doors.

Oh, what could they be talking about?

Not a sound was audible. Elsie could not catch a word, no matter how often she passed by the door.

She sat down on the window-casing in the living room and took up a book. But before finishing a page she cast it aside in disgust. Then she busied herself with her knitting. After she had dropped the tenth stitch, she got disgusted with this pastime, too.

Before allowing disgust to overcome her a third time, however, she made a terrible decision, one which an hour ago would also have been sure to disgust her. But unhappiness and despair had hatched the plan in her mind and she was ready to stoop low so as to carry it out. And she did stoop low, in the hall, at the door of her husband's room, the objective of her stooping being the keyhole. She had formed the desperate decision of learning the secret by spying, peeping, prowling, eavesdropping.

Closing her left eye, she quinted through the latch-hole with her right one whose vision was particularly clear.

The trio was seated closely together around the table. They were putting their heads together like real conspirators. Oscar had a sheet of paper before him and a pencil in his hand. Occasionally he gnawed and sucked at the pencil in a vicious, blood-thirsty manner.

But in this way she could not catch a word of what they were saying. So she now applied her ear to the keyhole and heard a number of things. Her heart began to beat violently. Fear and trembling almost caused her to lose her balance and bump against the door.

"We'll let the boiler burst....."

"No, first he will have to go through the blazing factory into the powderhouse....."

"I think we ought to push him out on the life-ladder, which will collapse with the wall....."

Elsie felt unable to continue listening. She became dizzy and held on to the umbrella-stand for support. But this swayed and made a noise, and she had to hurry away so as not to betray herself.

Her first impulse was to open the window and call for the police. But with a shudder she recalled that her own husband was one of the fiends who were plotting this hellish crime. Her gentle Oscar! Her Oscar, whose eyes were like a rose, whose expression was the picture of sheepish innocence and whose very voice bespoke humble moderation. Who would have thought it possible? Who would have suspected a storehouse of dastardly ideas, an arsenal of ruthless plots behind that voice?

"Away, away from here!" something within her called. Her heart bled from a thousand hurts when she thought of the separation. She would break down after the first step out of the house—she knew it. Yet anything to get away from this monster.

Oh, how she loved the monster! What a charming, splendid monster he could be!

Helplessly she looked around the room, trying to decide what to take along on her flight. Just then the door opened. It was Oscar. The thought came over her like a flash: "They have overheard me—he has come to finish me off."

"What do you want?" she stammered breathlessly.

"I just wanted to consult a volume of the encyclopedia," he answered blandly. "We're looking for a particularly strong poison."

"Poison!" she cried. "Poison? Oscar, I beg you, I entreat you. Get rid of this band of murderers."

He looked at her with a blank expression. Then he laughed loud and heartily. "You foolish little kitten!" he exclaimed and threw his arms around her. "Why, we're at work on a thrilling photoplay and need a few more sensations."

A moment of abashed silence. Then a cry of delight—and she was in his arms.

With beaming face she slyly coaxed him into the adjoining room. "Do you need a sensation, Oscar? Just look here. I have one for you. Isn't that a thrilling sensation? The hat shop just sent it up." In her most smiling, begging, entreating manner she held out a lovely new hat to his gaze.

"And only thirty five dollars," she added coyly.

"Yes, yes," he mumbled. "Later, maybe afterward. But first I must find that poison."—John A Berry, Philadelphia.

MAKING HIGH-SPEED PARTS SEEM STATIONARY

It is a curious fact that persistency of vision, which alone makes possible the "moving-pictures" of the cinema, also makes it possible to see—apparently stationary—any part of a machine which is really running at high speed. By this means the observer is enabled to study the exact position and behaviour of the parts under service conditions. This achievement, which is of obvious utility to the designer or user of any high-speed machine, is effected by a British invention. An electric lamp and contact making device, both of special construction, are arranged so that the machine is subjected to intermittent illumination. The consecutive flashes being timed so that the part under examination is in the same position on each occasion, it follows that the part appears stationary and can be studied at leisure. This in itself is a useful result and greatly facilitates the adjustment of high-speed engines, textile machinery, gear drives, and so forth, but it is possible to go further and to see the parts moving slowly under high-speed conditions. This is effected by the use of a "creaping gear" which slightly retards each consecutive flash of light. As a result, the machine is seen in a position slightly in advance of that which it occupied when last under view. In other words, a wheel which is actually running at 1500 revolutions a minute can be made apparently to take 4 seconds for a single revolution. Every stage of the revolution can thus be followed and the events seen are, of course, those which are actually occurring at full speed. Causes of vibration and the method of working of a valve or spring can be examined, and a sewing machine can be seen making its stitches. In fact the whole motion of any moving part can be discerned.

BABY'S FOOD

There is no real reason why the so-called baby week should be a special occasion in our yearly calendar. In the great cities where special efforts are placed on having meetings or city-wide campaigns for the raising of funds for baby institutions and dependent babies, it may be the proper thing. For the millions who do not come under the direct influence of such organizations every week is baby week throughout the whole year.

Physicians and publications which are trying to make the baby a safe proposition are busy at just this very thing the whole year through. Mothers are given careful instructions, which have as their end and aim the prevention of illness for both babies and mothers and the keeping of infant mortality at the lowest possible ebb. While no one period of a baby's life is more pronouncer than another, and the second year bugaboo is no longer a fad, the weight must show increase regularly from year to year. The first year, under normal conditions, the baby should about treble its weight.

It may not seem to some mothers that regular feeding periods are of such vital importance to the baby's health, but for normal, healthy babies the four-hour period seems to meet the general rule from the age of six weeks up to one year. If the baby is breast-fed, the judgment of the mother in most cases determines the amount of nourishment. Not many mothers, in the ordinary walks of life, weigh their babies before and after taking nourishment.

If the baby is bottle-fed, use from three ounces at the first month to seven or eight ounces at the sixth month. This shows a gradual increase at each feeding from one to two ounces each month. The proportion of water and sugar is determined by the kind used in mixing with the cow's milk. In some parts of our country the milk is far richer than in others and this must be taken into account when diluting. If there is no gain or even insufficient gain in the baby's weight, find out the cause at once, as a loss in weight may mean the loss of a baby. Consult your physician at the first signs of failure to gain.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Teresa Desmond (Terry), a beautiful imaginative child who believes in fairies and worships

Juliet Divine, the stage name of her half-sister. She rides in a gorgeous car and talks of a millionaire.

Terrence Desmond, their father, quick-tempered and unreliable, was formerly a caretaker of a Long Island estate. Forced to leave the estate through an escapade of Terry's he opens a roadhouse called The Blue Moon, with money advanced to him by

Tom Perrin, a prosperous friend of Julia's.

Mary Desmond, Terry's mother and Julia's stepmother, fears disgrace in the latters' career.

Mrs. Peter Parmalee, owns the house, Silverwood, of which Desmond was formerly caretaker.

Betty. Sheen, her spoiled young granddaughter, whose rudeness to Terry, at Silverwood, the latter will never forget, is engaged to

Miles Sheridan, a handsome, likable young chap. His car breaks down at the door of The Blue Moon, and he meets Terry. Delighted with the child's charm and anxious to atone for his fiancee's past rudeness, supplies the wherewithal to send Terry to a Convent for next seven years.

While at the Convent, Terry receives word that her Mother has died.

Returning to the Blue Moon, Terry is installed as a cashier, which position she loathes.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy patron of the Blue Moon is impressed by Terry's resemblance to Juliet Divine whom he refers to as the Million Dollar Dooll.

Upon Nazlo's invitation to go driving, Terry confesses she has never been in an automobile.

Terry is horrified to learn that her father counts on her marrying Nazlo and for her the pleasure of the ride is already spoiled.

CHAPTER XII

Beauty and the Beast

Even as she stood there, Nazlo waved a hand and sprang out of the limousine, coming toward her.

It was too late for Terry to run. There would be too awful a row with Father afterwards. Besides, what Father had said wasn't Mr. Nazlo's fault.

"You shall have your daughter back by ten or eleven o'clock—good little girls' bed-time," the Shoe King condescended to the roadside-innkeeper, as he motioned the chauffeur away, and tenderly tucked a light dust-rug round Terry's knees.

"Just an early dinner somewhere—then home. That's the programme for a convent-maid, what?"

"Yes, that's the programme," Desmond echoed.

The car began to glide smoothly away. He watched it, scratched his chin, then slowly turned and went into the house, whistling under his breath.

"Where would you like to have dinner?" Nazlo asked

Terry tried not to be self-conscious; she could not meet the deepest, yellows grey eyes, which had a devouring light in them, like a flame. If she did meet them, they would hold hers, she feared.

Nervously she looked out of the window, and said that she knew nothine about places where people dined.

Nazlo described two or three on Long Island, resorts which might be suitable. "If it were late September instead of late August, I'd suggest somewhere in New York," he said, "but it's hot in the city."

Instantly the girl forgot her troubles. "Oh," she exclaimed, gazing up like a child, "would you take me to New York? I've never been there."

In his amazement Nazlo ceased the hypnotic eye-work which was his specialty. "Never been to New York?" he echoed. "That's a joke, isn't it?"

"No, indeed it isn t," Terry confessed. "Truly, I've never been. I've lived always on Long Island, at home and at the Convent. I'd give anything to see New York."

Thoughts flashed through her head. Perhaps she could persuade Mr. Nazlo to take her up Riverside Drive. Then she could pass the house where Julia lived.

"You'd give 'anything,' would you?" he echoed in a petting tone, as if she were a little girl. "That's a generous offer Might be dangerous with some men"—(he saw her face change)—"but not with me.

"Of course you shall 'see New York.' What I want is to please you, fair Dapline."

"How do you call me 'Daphne?'"

she ventured.

"I thought you were so well up in Greek mythology"

"Oh Daphne was a nymph. She turned into a tree."

"Go up head again A God tried to make love to her, so she turned into a tree to protect herself. I believe that's what you'd try to do in her place. You've got that—nymph air. But a wise god would hypnotize you to fall in love with him. It would be a shame for a pretty girl like you to turn into a tree."

Again the magnetic look Terry avoided it. Something within her advised that she'd better think of an excuse and ask to go home; a headache—anything. But the temptation to see New York and Julia's home was too strong.

Besides, Mr. Nazlo was only talking about mythology. He was interested in it because he was Greek.

"I don't want to turn into a tree," she said, blushing. "Would we have time to go up Riverside Drive before dinner?"

"We've got all the time there is," Nazlo replied. "Why do you want to see Riverside Drive? Have you got friends there?"

"I—I've heard about the Grant Monument," Terry saved herself.

Nazlo laughed. "What a little schoolchild it is Interested in history Well, I'll be good. Instead of playing Apollo to your Daphne and beating him at his game—which I bet I could do—I'll personally conduct a private tour of "Seeing New York".

"That is, I will, if you'll let me arrange every detail on the programme for the rest of the evening. Will you?"

"I—think so," agreed Terry.

Nazlo seemed satisfied, and made himself charming, or so it seemed to the girl. He told her things about the road, and pointed out objects of interest in the landscape.

Her surprise at the great bridge, and at the towering skyscrapers of New York which turned streets into mountain canyons, enchanted him. He had met a number of young women who behaved like children, but never a girl of seventeen who was at heart a child. Her beauty, her refinement of manner, and her ignorance of life made a rare combination almost too good to be true.

Yet it was true. And Nazlo found it intoxicating. He'd meant to keep his head through this evening, but as he watched his companion, so shy, yet so trusting, he wasn't quite sure whether he could do it.

At Terry's request, the car slowed down along Riverside Drive. She gazed out of the window, bending forward. Every one of the big, handsome houses fascinated her. Now and then she asked questions.

The back of the girl's head was exquisite: the bright copper-red hair pressed down by the simple toque; the three or four shining, childish ringlets that had twisted themselves out of the mass just at the nape of the white neck. Nazlo resisted temptation until after the Grant Monument had been inspected, and the car had nearly traversed the length of Riverside Drive, on the return journey.

Then, when the girl bade him look at some house which struck her fancy, and he leaned towards her, the impulse tingled to an electric shock. He belted the girl's waist with an arm, drew her back and kissed her on what—as a student of French—he called the "nuque."—a lingering kiss.

QUIZ CORNER

FORT NIAGARA.

Q—When and by whom was Fort Niagara taken?

A—On July 24, 1759 while Wolfe was fighting at Quebec, Sir William Johnson was doing more than any other one man to keep the French from the interior, and their Indian allies from going to Montcalm's help. On this date he defeated a large French force, and the next day took Fort Niagara. Johnson was an Irish boy of Dutch descent, who came to America, settling in the Mohawk valley as a storekeeper; and so winning the friendship of the Indians by his absolute honesty as well as business smartness that the Mohawks adopted him; and he married Molly Brant, sister of the famous Chief Joseph.

DRUNKENNESS IN CANADA.

Q—To what extent does drunkenness exist in Canada base on convictions?

A—The criminal statistics for 1922 issued by the Census Bureau, reports a general decrease in drunkenness, based on convictions for the same, viz: 34,362 in 1921 and 25,048 in 1922. Also, convictions for offences against liquor acts fell from 10,460 in 1921 to 8,579 in 1922 although convictions for illicit stills rose from 220 in 1921 to 643 in 1922.

CROP REPORTS

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The more or less dry pastures of the last few weeks have told against the production of milk, which has fallen off perceptibly recently. Prices for dairy products, however, are holding up relatively well.

The dry weather also has hardened the soil, so that in many cases, the plowing of clay land with horses is very difficult, and that the areas of fall wheat sown this year may be considerably restricted. Those who have tractors are considered fortunate so far as this work is concerned.

The cutting of oats has begun in several counties. Taken as a whole this crop is likely to turn out somewhat lighter in yield and in weight of grain than in an average year, and also will be shorter in straw.

Corn, which was very backward early in the season has done better during the recent warm spell, but like all remaining field crops would be much the better for rain.

Timiskaming reports local farmers as saying that the general results of harvesting will be perhaps the best they have had since coming into the district.

Alsike seed is selling at $5.50 a bushel in Peel.

Victoria: Reports of alsike threshing so far would indicate a small yield between five and eight bushels per acre. The seed is a little small, but otherwise a fairly good sample.

Grey: Large quantities of alfalfa hay were harvested in some districts. An enquiry was received from a Co-operative Company in Pennsylvania recently.

Brant: While in: Onondaga district recently I inspected a number of alsike and alfalfa fields. The early alfalfa blossoms have filled well, but the later blossoms are not carrying much seed owing to the dry weather blighting the flowers. Alsike is running from four to five bushels per acre, with some fields running even higher, but that seems to be about the average of fields so far threshed.

Victoria: Some old meadows which are badly pested with Canada Fleabane and Sow Thistle are being ploughed up and cultivated in an effort to rid the land of weeds.

Timiskaming: There have been a great many barns going up throughout the fire area, many of which have been financed through the Agricultural Development Board. We consider this a real sign of faith in the District, and progress on the part of the individual.

Farm laborers are as hard as ever to procure, although Middlesex has been able to place a number of men during the week.

Grey: Considerable live stock went out this week from the various loading centres. Hogs were quoted at $8.60 f.o.b. However, by far the greater percentage is shipped through local Shipping Clubs which method seems gaining rapidly in popularity in so far as hog selling is concerned since the hog grading regulations came into effect. A large shipment of selected lambs sold for $13.50 to $14 on Tuesday on the Toronto market.

Lanark: A buyer bought sixty-five young grass-fed cattle at Lanark village on day last week.

Timiskaming: During the past week, the U.F.O. have sent in several car-loads of young heifers to be distributed at a very nominal cost among the fire sufferers of the District. This stuff appears to be mostly of the grade short-horn type. Horses are still in very good demand, and are commanding a good price.

Carelton: More light hogs are going to the market now. Out of two decks of 117 shipped from a shipping point in this country last week, there were 31 selects, 48 thick smooths, 34 heavies and 35 shop hogs. As with this shipment, it is noticeable that there is a smaller percentage of heavier but rather a heavy run of light hogs.

Huron: Live stock shipments appear to have been fairly large in this section during the past week. A shipment of 134 hogs from the local station were graded 105 selects.

Oxford: The Egg Marketing Association handled about seven thousand dozen this week, an increase over last week. Local stores are buying at twenty cents today, while Co-operative paid 24½c for extras last week and will pay 27c this week. The average for good lots will net the farmer about ½ to 1% under the top price.

BEADED FROCKS.

Beaded frocks in shaded tones are very lovely, particularly one that is pale pink at the top and grades down to a rich rose at the feet.

ACTION URGENT TO SAVE PEAT INVESTMENT

Unless action is taken, and taken promptly, we, the people of Canada will lose, quite unnecessarily, the benefit of the $300,000 invested in the peat experiments during the last four years. This money has been expended wisely, in a well conceived and cleverly executed series of experiments designed to develop a mechanism that will convert raw peat, containing only 12 per cent. combustible matter, into a high-grade fuel. The engineers directly concerned are satisfied that they have developed a commercially feasible process, and the officers of the Departments of Mines in Toronto and Ottawa are likewise convinced that cheap peat fuel is now available, if we will take the pains to make it. The general public are still, however, almost completely unaware of the truth about the present situation of peat fuel manufacture, and investors still look upon the demonstrated facts and figures as "too good to be true."

"While there may be some doubts as to the result achieved (by the Peat Committee), your Committee is of the opinion that the moneys expended were justified, and that the Governments interested should consider the advisability of making still further efforts to more fully demonstrate the feasibility or non-feasibility of producing a suitable peat fuel for domestic or industrial purposes, which will compete successfully with other fuels now in use." This is the conclusion of the Senate Committee on Fuel Supply, contained in its final report made on June 25th. The Peat Committee and its work have had much active opposition and numerous detractors, and their evidence has resulted in the Senate Committee's mild expression of doubt. Their conclusion is without doubt—that the work should be carried on to a final conclusion.

The Dominion Fuel Board, with full and intimate knowledge of the case, makes the following statement in its interim report: "Too little attention has been directed to the importance of the peat resources Canada possesses. These are very large and strategically situated in Ontario and Quebec where coal is lacking. Experiments conducted by the Dominion Government, and latterly by the Dominion and Ontario governments acting together, at Alfred, Ontario, have produced a high-grade auxiliary fuel. The process evolved is a simple one, consisting of the reduction of the moisture in the raw peat by drying by sun and wind. The Board is of the opinion that peat should be utilized to supply a part of the fuel needs of central Canada, and if the results accomplished last year at Alfred are not sufficient to induce private capital to engage in the production of this fuel, further encouragement should be given the industry by the governments concerned." There is no mistaking the tenor of this statement; the Fuel Board is convinced that the experiments at Alfred have been fully successful, and recommends that further public funds be expended in order to convince the public of the fact.

Last summer 5,000 tons of excellent fuel was made available at Alfred. This summer at least 15,000 tons should have been made there. Through a series of inexcusable blunders the plant is idle and we shall not get a pound of peat. The responsibility for the bungling is mostly laid to the account of certain members of the late Ontario Government, and need not be discussed here. To retrieve the situation, prompt and decisive action is required on the part of the present Ontario government.

The case of peat fuel as it stands today is briefly as follows: The work of the Peat Committee has apparently been insufficient to induce private capital to invest in a commercial plant, though to the initiated, the commercial feasibility of the process has been demonstrated conclusively. The co-operative arrangement with the Ontario government once concluded, the Federal Department of Mines cannot logically undertake to aid further, at the expense of the whole Dominion, either of the only two provinces concerned. It therefore devolves upon the provincial governments of Ontario and Quebec to take action. The Quebec government has offered a bounty, at a rate still to be determined, for peat fuel made in the province. The Ontario Government has done nothing to protect its investment.

The idle peat plant at Alfred, Ontario, can be had for the asking by anyone with the means and a bona fide intention to operate it; a recent order-in-council says so. It is worth $50,000 as it stands, and a moderate sum will change it from the cumbersome steam-driven mechanism it is at present, to the electrically driven plant the Peat Committee recommend for commercial operation. This plant cannot be moved economically to a bog in Quebec, where it could earn a bounty. If it is to be operated during the season of 1924 active steps must be taken before the snow flies to get it ready.

If private capital should fail to meet this need within the next few weeks, it is clearly incumbent upon the Ontario Government to fill the breach. Under the impulse of war time necessity a Conservative government undertook the experiment. During the last days of the succeeding government, the effort was allowed to lapse. The newly elected Conservative government has protested a keen interest in the mining industry. Here is a chance for it to fulfil these professions in practice, and to complete the task begun in 1919 with the personal support of the present Premier.—"Canadian Mining Journal."

Get far more wear from dainty garments

It isn't because they're so fragile that your crepe garments, fine silks, and laces wear out quickly.

It's the injurious things contained in ordinary laundry soaps.

You can get far more wear from the sheerest, daintiest things you own—by laundering them this way:

Use snowy-white, crinkly PALMOLIVE PRINCESS SOAP FLAKES. Nothing but purest soap. A great foam of suds that gently dissolves all dirt and soil—but never injures the filmiest fabric. And if anything it really brightens and renews delicate colors.

Being pure soap—nothing else—they go farther and clean more thoroughly. That makes them actually economical for use in the washing machine, for all laundering, and for all household purposes in fact.

Your dealer has them in handy one-pound packages and in bags. Do get some—if only to try—today.

NEWS BAILIEBORO AND THE DISTRICT

Motor Car Plunged Into Ditch—Bush Fires Numerous—Wheat Crop Good

BAILIEBORO, August 10. —The members of the Royal Orange Lodges of Fraserville and Bailieboro attended r divine worship at the Methodist church, on Sunday, August 5th, when about 20 Orangemen were in attendance. Rev. R. M. Patterson, pastor, delivered a very impressive sermon, taking as his text, Joshua, chapters 3 and 4, chapters which Mr. Patterson stated are better known to the members of the order than to others. The choir rendered two very suitable anthems quite in accordance with the sermon preached.

Plunged into Ditch.

On Sunday evening last a Hudson car driven by a young lady, was accidentally plunged into a deep ditch near Bewdley. The young lady turned out to meet another car, and her automobile plunged into a marshy ditch. The two wheels on the right side of the car were deeply embedded in the mud, but none of its occupants were injured. The car remained in its muddy berth until a number of passers by came to their aid. A rope was procured and the upset machine was attached to another very high powered car and finally drawn out on to the road again, no damage being done to the car.

Bush Fires.

Bush fires are reported to be quite numerous during the past week. The surrounding country has been shrouded in mists of smoke.

The Epworth League of Port Hope and Cobourg held their annual excursion on Wednesday, Aug. 8th. The steamer Stoney Lake left Bewdley at 9 a.m., and from there to Gore's Landing and thence to Peterboro.

FIND PREHISTORIC GRAVES.

PRAGUE, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press)—While digging a canal in the Ore Mountains recently, workmen unearthed tombs which archaeologists declare are over 4,000 years old.

The skeletons lying on the ground in a crouching attitude, are well preserved, and conspicuously large. The forehead is receding, the frontal sinus strongly developed, the upper jaw protuding, and the chin small. The teeth are much worn but otherwise sound.

LIKE ARMY.

Girls are just as good in the army as boys any old day. So say these two Charles City (Ia.) misses—Percy Paine (above), 14, and Alletta Carey, 16. A letter they wrote to President Harding has set verteran officers in the War Department wondering if something can't be done in the way of establishing citizen' training camps for young women.

NEWS OF MARMORA AND THE DISTRICT

Oddfellows of Springbrook Staged a Jolly Day at Crow Lake — Personals

MARMORA, Aug. 10.—The Oddfellows of Springbrook and their families and friends had a picnic at Crow lake on Wednesday.

The Eastern Stars of Belleville, about three hundred strong, spent the day at Marble Cliff and had one glorious time. The programme of sports consisted of the following:

A ball game, married ladies vs. single, in which the single came out victorious owing to the fact that they had more speed. Although the married ladies were more expert at handling the club or bat they were slow on the bases, however, and lost the game by 26-13.

Next came the races. The first, a balloon race for ladies. 1st prize Mrs. Green, 2nd Mrs. Kerr. The idea was to get the balloon across the tape without carrying it.

Men's obstacle race—1 Mr. Lloyd, 2 Mr. Gibbons, 3 Mr. Welsh.

Boys under eight—1 Jno. Kerr, 2 C. Holley, 3 Jno. Jolin.

Boys under 15—1 Jno. Kerr, 2 Wm. M. Currie, 3 Allen Kerr.

Girls under 8—1 Fern Lees, 2 Jean Gibbons, 3 Rose Wilson.

Girls under 15—1 Kitty Torrence, 2 Mabel Bell, 3 Kathleen Kerr.

Men's 3-legged race—1 Givens and Dillnutt, 2 Doctor and Wilson.

Spoon and bean race for men and women, in which there were nine of each. They came in pretty well bunched up and it was hard to pick a winner, although the judges gave first prize to Mr. Green and Mrs. Chesher and 2nd to Mr. Gibbons and Mrs. Phillips.

The ladies' race was won by Miss Horrie; the prize was a beautiful cut glass vase.

After the sports all enjoyed refreshments on the beach, where Mr. T. Neal had a table built for the occasion.

The pavilion orchestra played afternoon and evening for those who liked dancing and at night a big lucky number dance was contested, in which 15 prizes were awarded. They consisted of bathing caps.

A really big day was spent to suit each one's inclination, such as bathing, boating, dancing and games of all kinds.

Wednesday evening the Hastings County Medical Association held a banquet at the town hall. Doctor Mather of Tweed, filled the chair and the main speaker for the evening was Doctor Oscar Graham of Toronto, who gave a very interesting talk on Chronic Abdominal Conditions. Thos. Potts, of St. James' hotel, served supper.

News Paragraphs.

Remote Asir Resists Contract With World.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press).—The Emir of Asir is dead and buried in his capital at Sabia, and has been succeeded by his son; but it has remained for the National Geographic Society to call the attention of the world to his passing and to the romantic existence of the little nation over which he reigned.

Asir is a principality situated on the Arabian shore of the Red Sea, says a bulletin issued by the society, and has existed with little change probably since the Israelites traversed that body of water dry shot. Phoenicians, Venetians and Portuguese have coasted along its sandy shores and, since the Suez Canal was completed, steamers from all parts of the world have passed in sight of its beaches. Yet the country is little known to travelers.

One reason for this is that the inhabitants are fanatic Mohammedans. Not only are Christians not wanted, but even the Turks, who also are Moslems and representatives of the Caliph, are their enemies. In fact, during her war with Turkey in 1911-12, Italy managed to gain the alliance of the Emir of Asir against Constantinople. Nominally Asir was a part of the Turkish Empire, but the people never surrendered their independence. While the Turks held several garrison towns, very little of the country's area was ever explored by them.

There is nothing along the Red Sea coast of the country to attract the traveler, for it is hot and barren and fever-ridden. But the high plateau behind which rises the interior of Asir, is a land of much water and of gardens, fields and orchards.

LIARS

Those of us who never, under any circumstances, deviate from the truth are so greatly in the minority that it is no easy matter to avoid dealing with liars. We may deplore liars, but there is no getting away from the fact that they have entered practically every walk of life. Fortunately, however, it is possible, with practice, to recognize a liar when we meet him. As human beings average up much alike, liars behave about the same, in the long run, wherever found. Both in what people say, and the way they say it, we have plenty of tell-tale evidence to indicate whether they should be believed.

Here, by way of illustration, is a sample conversation between a beautiful young woman and one of her admirers:

"Hello, girlie. What are you doing this evening?"

"What am I doing this evening? Why, I'm going with some friends to the theater."

"How about tomorrow evening?"

"Tomorrow evening? Let's see—oh, yes, one of the girls asked me to go automobiling with her."

"And Thursday evening?"

"Thursday evening. Well, I'm—"

Now there's no use waiting to learn what she says she is planning for Thursday evening, for it is evident that whatever she tells him will be a lie.

She repeated at least part of each question he asked her—in order to gain thinking time in which to invent a previous engagement. There is somebody else with whom she prefers to spend the evening, but she would rather lie than hurt a young man's feelings. As every trial lawyer knows, the practice of repeating questions is one of the commonest devices of the offhand liar.

Everybody has encountered, too, the man who always has his inside coat pocket filled with letters, clippings and papers of one kind and another, with it," he declares, after making an assertion, "just lookee here". And he begins to fumble through the stuff in his pocket. You see, he is such a liar at heart that he is suspicious of himself and assumes that others are equally suspicious of him.

This feeling of self suspicion is revealed also by a man's language and emphasis. Let us suppose that you ask a man: "Were you at home Saturday night?" If he is an invariably truthful man, and was at home, and doesn't care who knows it, he replies simply "yes." But if he has some reason to lie about his whereabouts Saturday night, and wants you to think he was at home when he was not, then he feels that to reply with a mere "yes" doesn't make his case strong enough. Knowing that he is a liar, he suspects himself of not being convincing. Therefore, he is more likely to say: "Yes, I was," and possibly to say it with needless emphasis. Whenever a man seems over-anxious to make you thing that a trivial thing is true, the chances are that it isn't. If he were thoroughly truthful, it would never occur to him that anybody might question his word. Like the man who boasts about his prowess in one line, in order to cover up a sense of inferiority about something else, the liar who makes a statement too strong runs the risk of revealing his own fear that it will not be accepted as the truth.

The Shifty Eye

We all know that a man telling a lie may feel so ill at ease that he cannot look one straight in the eye. But the trouble is that many a man becomes such a good extemporaneous liar that he is able to do that very thing. Knowing that any evasiveness with the eyes will excite suspicion, he has acquired a brazen ability to impale his hearers with the glittering optic while rambling gayly through an account of something that never happened. It is then necessary to take note of some sign of nervousness—maybe the way he keeps twisting frantically at a button on his vest, or crossing and recrossing his legs.

When a man is telling a prepared story there is likely to be a vacant expression in his face, as of one giving a memorized singsong recital. But if he is recalling an actual occurrence, his face lights up, from time to time, as forgotten details return to his mind. Furthermore, if called upon for details of something that never happened, or something that he himself didn't see happen, the liar is almost certain to remember too much. He recalls exactly how many clouds were in the sky, or the precise hour of the day of an incident years previous—details that ordinarily would not stick in one's memory.

It must be reluctantly admitted that, everything else being equal, women are more likely to lie than man. This is really no reflection on the justly popular femin ne sex, but is a natural outco ne of woman's environment and the way society is organized. In the first place, woman is weaker physically than man, and must resort to something more subtle than her fists as a means of self-protection. A lie therefore becomes a natural weapon of defense. You ask a man a question that he doesn't wish to answer and he may tell you that it is none of your business. If you don't like that, perhaps he shakes his fist in your face and inquires what you are going to do about it. That is comparatively impractical for a woman. She finds it more convenient simply to tell a fib that will satisfy the demands of the situation. The practice of sending word to an unwelcome caller that one is not at home was instituted by women.

Woman's White Lie

This disposition of women to use a white lie as a matter of social convenience is probably heightened by the fact that, in a sense, speaking by and large, woman's whole life is a lie. I refer to the fact that, in regard to marriage, woman is supposed to be the pursued party. The fact is that she is almost invariably the pursuer. Women are ordinarily, I think, more anxious to be married than men. It is the female of the human species that resorts to bright-colored feathers and garments designed to lure the male to her side. By the practice of tactfulness in conversation and studied flattery, she is altogether likely to capture the male after whom she sets out. Tactfulness and flattery are a clever woman's handmaidens. And it is only with great difficulty that one may be uniformly tactful without lapping over into the borderland of actual mendacity. This habit of subtlety in woman not only makes an occasional lie rather easy for her, but it also makes her more difficult to detect in a lie.

Generally speaking, about the most reliable person from whom to get information is a small boy. Any family possessing a boy knows that he is observant, "gets into everything" and has no motive beyond satisfying his inordinate curiosity. He likes to pry into things for the sheer joy of finding the facts as they are. When he grows older he may find it not so easy, for business or social reasons, to tell an accurate story. But when he becomes an old man, he once more may be like a boy—too mellow to have biolent prejudices; interested in telling the truth for truth's sake.

It is astonishing how often people lie just to save time and conversation. You ask a man if he will serve as chairman of this or that committee next April, and he replies that he will, knowing all the while that he doesn't intend to do any such thing, but hopes for some later happening to make it easy for him to get out of it. My friend, Keegan, will agree to anything that he is asked to do. Suggest to him that he join a party on a trip to the North Pole next Tuesday and he will say: "Sure, I'll go. Where'll I meet you?" He would rather tell a lie, and then forget all about the appointment later, than take time to explain just why it isn't convenient for him to go to the Pole.

It is well to remember than when a man tells a lie and fools you, it is because you failed to ask the right questions with which to explode his story. These questions do not need to be asked in the form of a cross-examination, but perhaps in casual conversation. For example, suppose that a man says he took a train from New York on a certain day and went to Boston. You ask him, in a tone of polite interest, what time he left New York, and how long it took the train to reach Boston. If he only recently made the trip, he should be able to answer, readily, just about what time his train started and arrived. But if he hasn't been to Boston he may have only the haziest notion about the schedule of the train he says he took. No matter what the circumstance, there is always some prop necessary to support his story that the liar failed to think about. If your question pulls away that prop, the liar is lost. Credit men in retail stores often catch a dishonest customer in a lie by asking suddenly for the customer's telephone number. If the customer cannot supply the number readily and naturally, the chances are that he isn't living where he says he is.

I once heard Woodrow Wilson remark that he often learned the true facts about a situation by talking to liars. "If I talk to enough of them," he said, "there will be certain points on which they all agree. Then I know that those details are probably true."

STANDING WATER IS LATEST POWER SOURCE

OLD OAKEN BUCKET MAY BE A DYNAMO TO RUN WASHING MACHINE

By LEON STARMONT.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 10.—Standing water will produce power, and the laws of physics must be rewritten, if Rufus Ames, Spokane inventor, can make good on his claims.

Ames is building a machine which, he says, will run of its own accord when immersed in a water tank. He claims he has solved the problem of harnessing the lifting power of water. He says he can make wheels turn by means of buoyancy.

If Ames can make good on his claims, here are some of the things his invention will lead to:

Ships driven forward by the same power that holds hem up;

Houses lighted by the same water tank that holds their drinking water and fire protection;

Farm machinery and household shops run by home-made electric juice;

Irrigating ditches on high levels fed by pumps operated without other pressure than that obtainable from a standing pool.

Eighteen Months to Build.

Ames says that after four solid years of experiments he has arrived at the solution of his problem.

"My machine represents the work of 18 months," Ames said.

"Four other men have tried to build it for me, but they all failed because they tried to introduce their own ideas into the construction.

"This machine is being built the way I want it, and I know that it will work."

"Why are you so sure?" he was asked.

"Fill a waterbag with air and try to push it under water," Ames said. "The same power that lifts that waterbag to the surface is the power I am utilizing in this machine."

"But it takes more power to force the bag under water than the water exerts in pushing it out," the objection was made.

"That is because there is only one bag. But I shall utilize the lifting power of 14 bags in order to inflate each bag under water."

He has rigged up an endless chain arrangement operating on two wheel arrangements, one above the other.

What Makes It Go.

Around this he had placed three series of interconnected airbags.

As each airbag rises to a certain point a lever deflates it and forces the air through the tubing into the bag rising from beneath. This is continued without interruption as long as the wheels revolve.

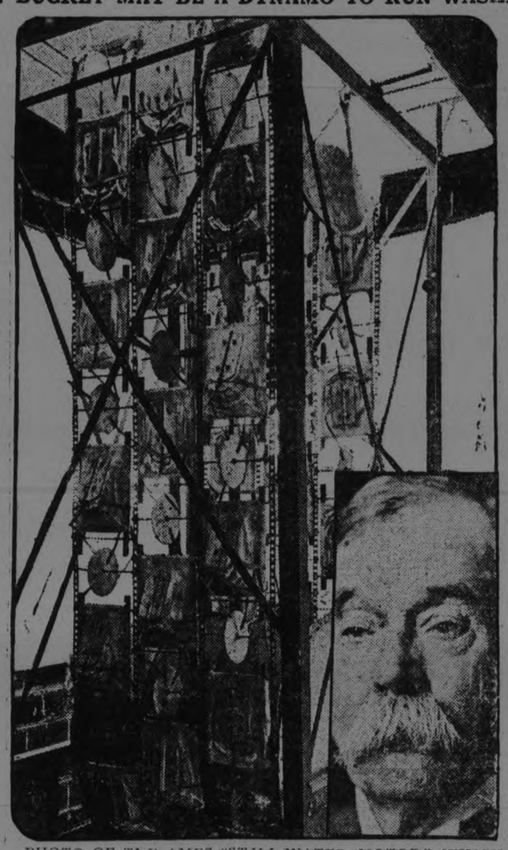

PHOTO OF THE AMES "STILL-WATER MOTOR," WHICH THE INVENTOR SAYS WILL REVOLUTIONIZE THE LAWS OF PHYSICS. NOTE THE WAY THE AIR-TIGHT BAGS ARE ARRANGED ON THE ENDLESS CHAIN. INSET IS PHOTO OF RUFUS AMES, INVENTOR.

As the lever deflates the top bag another lever causes the inflation of the bottom bag.

The bags are so arranged that only one is inflated at a time.

Ames contends that when this apparatus is immersed in water the lifting power of the water on 14 bags will cause them to seek the surface and the power of these 14 will more than offset the friction and the displacing of the water surrounding the fifteenth bag.

As the bags descend into the water they are deflated. As they are inflated at the bottom of the tank they will, Ames says, rise.

And no scientist can point out, Ames declares, any reason why his apparatus won't work. As yet it has not been tried out.

Had Idea Long Time.

The airbag itself represents four months of experiment before one was obtained that would work satisfactorily. And there are 60 airbags.

Ames, a former locomotive engineer, says the idea has been incubating in his head for about 35 years.

"It just popped into my head that there must be some way of harnessing the lifting power of water," he said.

"I would think about it for months; then forget it again.

"Sometimes an idea for carrying out some detail of the plan would occur to me. More often than not when I experimented to carry them out, I found that they wouldn't work.

"Previous models have failed because all the power that the machine could generate itself was lost in its own operation. But in this model there is only about 10 per cent. lost power. Ninety per cent. of the generated power will be preserved after the wheels start turning. The machine will run of its own accord and have 90 per cent. of its power left to turn other machinery.

"It isn't perpetual motion; but it is the nearest thing to perpetual motion ever devised.

"My machine will operate continually, barring rotting or rusting of the parts, by the addition of a few drops of water a day to the tank in which it stands.

"After all, the only difference between ordinary water power and my invention is that the turbine wheels utilized the weight of water, its downward pull by gravity, and I utilize its lifting power, the upward push of buoyancy."

DIET ADVICE

How to have a gorgeous time without gorgin- is the theme of the latest book on slinesss called "Girth Control," by Henry T. Finck.

His interest in the slender waistline is not the result of collusion with fashion designers—for he admires a more plump type of woman than is now the fashion—but because in corpulence he sees a constant danger to health and a handicap in the struggle for existence.

"Become an oxygen glutten," he advises. "That's the kind of a gourmand you need never feel ashamed to confess yourself."

Deep breathing, he believes, breaks down more fat cells than massage. For that reason hiking, swimming and those exercises which make this necessary are most valuable.

Gardening he calls the ideal occupation for the reducer. The morning hours mark the exodus of fat because at this time the starch and sugar taken in the previous day's meals have been largely consumed.

"Spinach is an ideal food of which unlimited quantities may be eaten without affecting the weight. The same is true of clery, lettuce romaine and endive.

"Only a few fruits are fattening, such as bananas, ripe olives and alligator pears. Nothing is more beneficial for overweights than plenty of weak, unsweetened lemonade. If orange and lemon juice were substituted for tea and coffee, it would help regenerate the race."

Eat Fruits

"Best of all midday meals is the fruit lunch because fruit is almost all water and mineral salts which are absorbed at once, putting no burden on the stomach and keeping your brain clear for the afternoon's work.

"For dinner you may safely allow yourself five or six courses—soup, hors d'oeuvre, fish or meat, vegetables and dessert. Select lean meats and eat slowly. Every dinner should include a salad, a cooked vegetable or two.

"Potatoes are fattening, but they are no longer denied the corpulent because they are rich in iron, also in soda and potash and thus overcome a tendency to acidosis.

MILLIONS SPENT FOR GUM.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press)—The people of the United States pay more than a million dollars a week for their chewing gum, according to statistics brought together by the National City Bank and given out by this institution. The habit of chewing gum evidently is growing, for the output has doubled since 1914.

The export sales of gum are large, and increasing. The product goes to practically every country in the world.

MEDICINAL PLANTS AND THEIR USES

By P. W. LUCE

Because you see a field covered with the homely dandelion, do not jump at the conclusion that it belongs to some lazy farmer who is letting his place go to rack and ruin. These dandelions may be the best paying crop on the ranch.

Dandelion wine? Nothing of the kind! Dandelions have a market value which is in no way affected by fluctuations in the enforcement of Prohibition laws. Even the most ardent opponent of liquor can grow dandelions with a clear conscience.

The most valuable part of the dandelion is the root, which is used extensively in drug making. At the present time dried dandelion root has a market value of 35 cents a pound, wholesale, and druggists complain of a scarcity of supplies. Considering the number of unwanted dandelions one sees on lawns, parks, and boulevards, to say nothing of fields and wild places, such a complaint is rather surprising, particularly as there are many appliances on the market for digging out the roots.

Cultivated on a commercial scale, as is done in England and in some parts of the United States, an acre of dandelions will yield, in the second year from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of dried root. At current market prices this means a gross income of from $100 to $475 per acre. The expense of harvesting is about all that has to be considered, for dandelions grow willingly almost anywhere.

Another common weed which has a high commercial value as a medicinal plant is the burdock. This can be made to yield from $400 to $600 per acre. A field once planted to burdock, is planted in perpetuity, for this is probably the hardest weed in the world to kill.

Horsemint, a plant which is a terrible pest in some parts of Canada, can be made to yield up to $50 or $60 per acre, on a rank crop. This income assumes better proportions when it is realized that horsemint can be mown with a reaper, and harvested like hay. Peppermint and spearmint, which are too abundant in many places, yield richer rewards, sometimes as high as $450 per acre. These grow chiefly on muck lands, and the harvesting is more difficult, as reaping has to be done with a scythe or sickle.

Horsemint yields horsemint oil, which is 66 per cent. thymol. On an average, an acre of horsemint will give twenty pounds of oil, which the wholesale druggist will sell for $160.

Golden Seal is extensively cultivated in Eastern Canada and in the eastern states. Because the grower has to wait five years for his financial returns, plantations are usually on a small scale. An acre, grown to maturity, yields around $7,750, though maximum crops sold at high market prices have brought the grower as high as $12,000 per acre. The dried root of the Golden Seal is used in the preparation of medicine for the digestive organs, and for catarrhal affections of the mucous membrane. Druggists pay from $5 to $6 a pound for this root.

Foxglove, which grows luxuriantly without encouragement, has a selling value of 25 cents a pound, the plant being rich in digitalis. Experiments are now being conducted at the University of British Columbia to ascertain the effect of selected fertilizers on the drug content of these plants. This institution has met with marked success in experiments with English hemlock, which has grown to a height of ten feet, though five feet is the average height in the old country.

Ginseng is being cultivated on a commercial scale near Vancouver, extreme precautions being taken to guard the valuable plants from thieves. It takes from five to seven years for a ginseng seedling to reach a marketable stage, when the dried roots have a value of $5 to $8 a pound. Because of the great demand for this plant from China and Japan, the supply is always insufficient. The Orientals believe ginseng to be a potent factor in influencing the birth-rate of a country.

Possibly, the best known native medicinal tree on this continent is the cascara, the bark of which is ground and used in the preparation of laxatives. One thousand tons of bark are required to supply the market each year, but the tree is becoming scarcer every season. The Japanese, who have almost a monopoly of the collecting of the cascara bark on the Pacific coast, have killed the trees they peeled in their greed. A narrow strip of bark left on the trunk would enable the tree to survive and in time grow another bark, but the Japs insisted on getting every possible cent out of each tree. So far, there has been no interfering legislation.

The famous Balm of Gilead of the Bible is very closely allied to one of our native poplars, tests having shown the Canadian buds to be of equal medicinal value to those of Palestine. Two years ago, 1,500 pounds of poplar buds were shipped from the Fraser Valley to England, and found highly desirable.

All told, there are fifty-five medicinal plants which may be grown in British Columbia alone, according to Professor John Davidson, F.L.S., F.B.S.E., assistant professor of botany at the University of British Columbia, one of the best authorities in Canada.

ONE HOUR

By LOUISE SAUNDERS

So few the hours of beauty Years on years
Trail by with shuffling feet and never one
But brings a bag of dust. Not even tears
Lie there to sparkle when a grief is done
And we are gay once more, not even those
Sometimes—but only dull content, like lead,
Abandoned, disappointed hopes that grow
To thick despair and the cold stones of dread.

These, only, does time send. Then, suddenly,
He floats a flaming hour down the still,
Gray morning, illuming brightly sky and sea,
Rimming with color every distant hill
And waking the world to singing joy at last
But oh, the darkness when that hour has passed!

GET IN THE HARVEST FIELD EARLY.

In order to enable Canadian National Harvesters to be first in the field, first Canadian National Railway train from Toronto, August 13th, will leave at 12.15 a.m. (midnight, Aug 12th). Make your plans early.

Through solid trains will be operated to Winnipeg without change, consisting of convertible (berth) Colonist cars of latest design. Lunch counter cars will be attached to trains serving food and refreshments at reasonable prices. For fares, train service, etc., apply to nearest Canadian National Agent.

COLD STARCH.

After using a bowl of cold starch let it settle, pour off the water and dry the starch in the oven. It will become hard and may be used again.

BIG SPORT DAY FOR BEAVERTON

Amateur Athletic Association Will Stage a Programme on Aug. 18 of Unusual Attraction,

Beaverton, the liveliest little burg on the east side of Lake Simcoe, is in for another big day of sport this summer. Urged by the irrepressible Roth Eaton, the Toronto merchant, who summers up there, and Playfair Brown, the Toronto boxing promoter, who is also a summer resident, the Beaverton Amateur Athletic Association has secured permits from W. J. Smith ,of the Ontario Branch of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada, and from G. L. Mackay, chairman of the Racing Board of the Canadian Wheelman's Association, for a combined athletic and bicycle racing programme at Beaverton on 18th August. The Beaverton A.A. collection of hustlers —George Veale, president, Dr. J. M. Smith, secretary, and J. F. Cooke, a newcomer in Beaverton sport—are not sitting on their heels with their official permits and a set of entry blanks in their fists "hoping" that there will be plenty of competition for the various events on their card. Instead of that, they have jumped right into the work of getting their track and field ready for the big event, and had delegated to Eaton and Brown the task of rounding up the athletes they want to show the residents of Beaverton and the surrounding townships.

Eaton and Brown certainly let no alfalfa grow under their oxfords. The ink was scarcely dry on the permits when they had obtained the persona promise of these Toronto athletes to compete:

Baseball Events.

Lionel Conacher, Canada's greatest all-round athlete. This husky big fellow is the Babe Ruth of Canadian amateur baseball; the Big Train of the Canadian gridiron; one of the best heavyweight boxers that ever and one of Canada's outstanding hockey players. He is a champion in every line of sport he has ever attempted, and is the lad who turned down an offer of $10,000 cash to turn pro. and play for the Montreal Canadiens last winter. Toronto loses this lad this fall when he will go to Pittsburgh University. This will be the last chance the people of this neighbourhood will have of looking this superb athlete over before he invades the domain of Uncle Sam.

Cycling Events.

Frank Brown, 2 mile champion of Canada.

Norman Webster, winner of the Dunlop road race.

Fred McCarthy, 5 mile champion of Canada.

Doc. Horton, one of Canada's most famous riders.

Track and Field.

Alex. Ponton, furlong champion of Canada.

Anthony Vince, National Y.M.C.A. champion.

Jock Dennison, 440 yard provincial champion.

W. Arnott, West-end Y champion sprinter.

Chas. Kelly, Canadian champion sprinter.

Charles Barnes, Canadian walking champion.

Gladstone A.C.

Arthur Scholes, Jimmy Dillon, Art. Allinson, Charles Snell, Charles White, Marathoners; Alex. Stewart, champion javelin thrower.

With bicycle riders, runners, and jumpers, weight throwers, and walkers of undoubted class of those mentioned above competing on a programme of infinite variety, Beaverton should have a big day. There are in addition plenty of local events open to residents of the district surrounding Beaverton, so that local athletes and riders, who lack the competitive opportunities and training of the Toronto squads, will not be neglected. Every amateur athlete and rider in the entire district is invited to step in and compete in any event he fancies.

The meet will be in charge of people who know how to run an athletic programme. Lou E. Marsh, the well-known Toronto sporting writer, will act as referee, while John F. McGarry, the official starter of the Ontario Branch of the A.A.U. of C., will be the man behind the gun. Dr. James Barton, late athletic director of the University of Toronto, will be chief judge, while Elwood A. Hughes, athletic director of the Canadian National Exposition, will be clerk. Walter Knox, Canada's famous all-round athlete, and chief instructor under the Ontario Athletic Commission, will take charge of the field sports, while Jack Corcoran and Eddie Rudd, of the famous Queensberry A.C. of Toronto, and a dozen more Toronto men, well known in amateur and professional sport, will be on hand to help carry the meet to a successful conclusion.

The baseball events—fungo- hitting, base-running, and ball-throwing —will be open to every registered member of a team in the Tri-County League, and the sluggers and husky ball heavers of the north will be given a chance to show what they can do against a man like Lionel Conacher

Extra Special.

An extra special attraction will be a ladies' ball game between two of the best teams in the Toronto leagues. These teams play a regular schedule like the boys, and in the fall play off for the Provincial title. The way in which these bloomer-clad young women can pitch, bat, side to bases, and field their positions will stard the people of the north on their heads. Up this way girls' ball games are usually picnic affairs with a big soft rubber ball and a bat like a tennis racquet These Toronto girls play under the rules of the soft-ball association, and use the regulation equipment. After their game is over there will be a series of running races for these girl athletes, and the spectators will have a chance to see in action several girl sprinters who expect to make a place on the Toronto team in the International relay team race for girls at the Canadian National Exposition this fall, where a Toronto team will meet a team from England and three United States teams.

When the ball games, cycle races, and track and field events are over, Mayor Halls will not lock the town up and turn out the lights. As a matter of fact ,the Mayor has promised to throw the key of the town into the Beaver River at sunrise on 18th August, and has engaged not to dive in after it until after sun-up the next day.

The afternoon sports will be followed by community dancing and singing on the main street. A Toronto orchestra has been secured. It certainly looks like a big day for the north country, and Beaverton's slogan is "Jump in and get your feet wet!"

HIS LAST REST IN THE WHITE HOUSE

In the historic East Room of the White House, where in life he entertained distinguished foreign delegations and received the folks from "back home," Warren G. Harding's body lay in state. The golden chandeliers cast a mellow glow over the flag-draped casket as high government officials called to pay their respects to the nation's late chief.

case. The item referred to is for attending police court in summary trials under part 16 of the Criminal Code, when requested in writing by the Police Magistrate.

This has no bearing upon the fee to be charged in liquor prosecutions.

I am enclosing herewith a copy of a letter received by me of date July 28, 1920. It speaks for itself, and refers to the fee of $5 as a minimum fee and the added duties cast upon the Crown Attorney.

"That the Crown Attorneys have to assume the responsibility for the administration of the law in reference to the O.T.A. on the same footing as other laws, and states in details in part what these duties are. This letter is signed by the Attorney General, the Hon. W. E. Raney.

The fee allowed by the Ontario Government in all cases over $100 is $10; and it is only in cases in which the fine has been 100 or over that the $10 fee is charged. In view of the Attorney-General's instructions and directions, I have charged the minimum fee in each case, as allowed by the Attorney-General's Department.

In consideration of the time spent and the seriousness of certain charges under the O.T.A., some of these cases last for one and two days, the Crown Attorney must consult with the city constabulary, and with the Provincial police, interviewing witnesses and drafting evidence.

In every case that I have conducted for the department I have been allowed a fee of $10 and over in cases where the amount of the fine was in excess of $100, and in all of the cases charged for against the city, where the fee is $10 the fine has been $200 and in one case $400.

Unless the full amount of my account is paid, I will enter same in court for suit. I am retaining the $50 cheque paid to me to-day on account only.

BROTHER ARRAYED AGAINST SISTER

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—GOLD! In high place and low, the whisper of its shimmering name spells an irresistible magic to man. It sets the ties of blood to naught.

Such has been the history of titled and wealthy family disagreement established in the case of the Jay Gould heirs, which once more repeats itself here in the legal controversy over the millions left by the pioneer merchant, Levi Z. Leiter.

The stakes involved in the Leiter suit, now pending, where brother is arrainged against sister and other branches of the Leiter house more or less at each other's throats, are estimated at from $100,000,000 upward.

Decision Expected Soon.

Question as to the rights to the vast sum was raised in the legal action now awaiting settlement in the Superior Court of Cook county. Mrs. Nancy Lathrop Leiter Campbell, daughter of Leiter, has allied herself with her brother, Joseph Leiter, against their sister, Lady Marguerite Hyde, countess of Suffolk, and Marquis George Nathaniel Curzon, British minister of foreign affairs, who seek an accounting of Leiter's stewardship and his removal as trustee of the estate of the elder Leiter.

Marquis Curzon joined in Lady Marguerite's suit in behalf of his three daughters, grandchildren of Leiter. Mrs. Campbell denies her sister's charges in an answer to the suit, countering with the claim "that Joseph Leiter has faithfully, efficiently and unselfishly discharged his duties as trustee, and by his untiring efforts has procured an annual income vastly in excess of that which would have been realized had the estate been deprived of his services."

It's another case of foreign marriages and millionaires' children.

The parallel between the Gould and Leiter cases begins in the the involvement of American heiresses married to foreign noblemen. In each case a brother of a plaintiff was trustee of the father's estate and charged with mismanagement.

No Americans Benefited.

And to the average citizen, the controversy does not mean one cent of money. Whatever the decision of the court, the contested dollars will remain in the same family, resulting in more or less millions to the same affluent possessors.

When Curzon brought his plea he not only asked to have Leiter removed as trustee, but furthermore sought to have forfeited from his possession a tract of Illinois coal land said to be worth from $8,000,000 to $16,000,000.

The mines were left to Joseph Leiter under conditions which the Curzon heirs claim never were complied with.

Europe Gets Money.

The Curzon heirs are the Ladies Irene and Alexandra Curzon and their sister, Lady Cynthia Moseley. Even under present conditions, much of their income goes across to them from the American property left by their American grandfather.

In the case of the Gould estate, George Jay Gould was attacked in his position as trustee by his brothers and sisters, including Anna Gould, the Duchess de Talleyrand. They asserted that he had cost the trust estate $25,000,000 by mismanagement and had him ousted.

Whether that phase of history will develop in the new case is the subject of speculation by the moneyed and moneyless alike who helped build up the Leiter wealth by buying merchandise from the family's store.

THE LOCAL HOUSE.

In an effort to give thoroughly up-to-date service in their line of business the stock-brokerage firm of Nelson and Martyn have just completed extensive alterations to their offices at 332½ George Street.

Although this brokerage office has been in existence only eleven months, it is now equipped with all the latest appliances of the most progressive businesses of its kind. Quotations are received from New York, Chicago, Winnipeg, Montreal, Toronto and the standard mining exchanges by means of the teletype ticker. Nelson and Martyn had the first of these machines to be installed between Toronto and Kingston, and it is to-day the only one in Peterborough. By depressing keys in Toronto or at the other exchanges, this machine in Nelson and Martyn's office is made to print the message exactly as a line of typewritten matter comes from a tpepwriter. This provides continuous and exact service from all exchanges.

Continuous Service Feature.

This continuous service feature, Mr. Nelson said, is an important thing for investors." "To the business man and investor," he said, "it will be obvious that a continuous service will enable them to transact business on the exchange just as they would in the largest centres in the country."

As the quotations are received on the teletype ticker they are chalked on blackboards under the heading which represents the particular stock. In the board-room there are over 600 square feet of blackboard on which the quotatons from all active markets are continuously quoted.

Both Chicago and the mining markets receive the same service that is accorded the New York and the Canadian markets. The board-room also contains literature and maps relating to all stocks, and is comfortably fitted with chairs and tables. A private letter is received daily from a New York specialist, which is of great value to those who use the exchange.

Privacy Assured.

Under the new arrangements the manager of the board-room has a private office where orders are filled and confirmations received. There is a separate room for accounting, and a private sitting-room for the accommodation of clients.

All of these features combine to give a service that has never before been attempted in Peterborough.

HOLY NAME SOCIAL A DECIDED SUCCESS

Large Attendance and Unique Attraction Featured the Event.

The social held yesterday afternoon and evening at Riverside Park, under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's parish was a decided success. The weatherman did his best for the occasion and the committee in charge of arrangements with a multitude of helpers, worked long and hard in their efforts to carry the affair to a successful conclusion with the result that this years social of the Holy Name Society was successful, from start to finish

Between eight and nine hundred people, including men, women and children from the three city parishes, the surrounding district, and visiting friends gathered at Riverside Park, during yesterday afternoon and evening. Some three or four hundred had an excellent supper at the long tables, decorated with flowers, which were placed parallel to the northern fence. Lines of electric lights illuminated the grounds during the evening when the band of the Peterborough Rangers provided excellent music.

The society of the Christian Mothers of St. Peter's Cathedral had charge of the dining-room; the girls of St. Peter's High School had a home-made candy booth; Miss Annie Simons was in charge of the busy fish-pond; Miss Deborah Welsh had the lottery booth, and Messrs. William Bennett and M. Clancy sold soft drinks and ice cream at separate booths. A centre of attraction was the stand conducted by Leo Henry, Ed. Welsh and Jack Lane, where skilful ball-throwers took turns in trying to knock the red hat from the "greatest nigger in captivity,' a tall gentleman with ebony-hued face and long frock coat. Mr. Rueben Brady was an invaluable helper at this stand.

Messrs. Turcotte and Deforge conducted a sale during the evening of many useful and beautiful articles collected at the lottery booth.

An innovation that aroused much interest was the baby contest. Ten smiling infants were on view, and the judges had a very difficult time in making the final awards, which went to (first) Mrs. Graham Weatherhead, prize of five dollars in gold, given by Dr W. Hayes and (second) Mrs. John Condon, Charlotte street, prize of three dollars, given by the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's parish. Judges for the occasion were Dr. J. M. O'Brien, Mr. J. P. Finn, Miss Lillian Simons, and two nurses from St. Joseph's Hospital staff; the Misses Sinclair and Manion.

The prize for the largest family on the grounds, five dollars in gold donated by Mr. Neil Tobin, went to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guerin, 161 Clifton street who brought their ten children.

Brantford and Cobourg Play Crucial Games Here Tomorrow

WASHINGTON WON PRINTERS' TROPHY

Defeated Hamilton and Chicago to Win the Garry Herman Trophy Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(Canadian Press)—For the second year in succession Washington won the championship of the Union Printers' International Baseball League, and retained the Garry Herman Trophy, by defeating the Chicago nine, 11 to 2, in the final round of the thirteenth annual tournament at the Polo Grounds yesterday.

Washington advanced to the final by eliminating Hamilton in the morning, 10 to 2, while across the river in the Yankee Stadium the Windy City outfit took the measure of the St. Paul nine, 9 to 0.

Following its narrow escape from defeat at the hands of Detroit in a previous round, Washington left little doubt that it was the superior of any of its thirteen rivals in the printers' circuit. It played flawless ball on the final game behind the air-tight pitching of Heinie Webb, who is a linotype operator through six weeks of the year, and a good baseball player the other week.

UNUSUAL PLAY IS CAUSE OF WORRY

Several Rulings Might Have Been Given in Strange Play That Came Up in the Majors.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10—Baseball abounds in unusual situations and often the majors produce freak plays that it would seem could not possibly occur among the amateurs.

Who should be called out?

That's a mystery that still envelopes a batting-out-of-order play that came up in a recent game in which Pittsburg was the offending side.

The Pirates' batting order called for Rawlings to be the first man up in a certain inning, Grimm followed him in the batting order and then came Gooch.

Didn't See It Then.

Instead of Rawlings going to bat first, Grimm stepped to the plate and socked. Grimm, of course, had batted out of order, but at the time no attention was paid to the fact. Then Rawlings, who should have batted first, stepped to the plate and socked, sending Grimm to second.

In other words, Grimm and Rawlings simply reversed their positions in the batting order. Then Gooch stepped to the plate. Had a ball been pitched to Gooch all would have been well, but before any pitch was made to Gooch the team in the field realizing a mistake had been made in the batting order appealed to the umpire for a ruling.

Who should be out?

The umpire in charge was called upon to render a ruling on a play that has never before come up in the major leagues. There was no precedent for him to follow.

Ump Worries.

The rule says that if a player bat out of order the mistake must be discovered before a ball has been pitched to a succeeding batsman and an appeal is made to the umpire for a ruling.

Grimm batted out of order, but no appeal was made, and the pitcher threw to Rawlings, who also singled. Then a decision was requested.

The umpire, a trifle confused because of the strangeness of the happening, decided to call Rawlings out, permit Grimm to remain on first and allow Gooch to bat.

On thinking it over that evening it was said he decided that he had been in error, that the proper thing to have done was to simply disregard Rawlings, and when he hit safely after Grimm had singled, that it would have been correct to have called out Gooch, who was the players who should have followed Grimm.

Such a ruling would have eliminated Rawlings entirely, sent Grimm back to first and retired Gooch.

Maybe Heydler Can Decide.

Since then another angle has been raised.

Some major league umpires contend that the succeeding batsman can only be the player called for in the lineup as given to the umpire. Other umpires contend that any batter who steps into the box after another batter becomes the succeeding batsman.

The new angle to the play is that it would have been proper to have simply called Rawlings out and let Grimm bat over.

It seems that who should be called out depends entirely on who is regarded as the succeeding batsman.

Three solutions have already been offered and major league umpires are still arguing the point without being able to agree.

A decision from President Heydler on the point would be interesting, since it would establish a precedent.

Who is the succeeding batsman is the big issue.

Who should be called out is even more important.

RAILWAY EARNINGS.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10—(Canadian Press)—The gross revenues of the Canadian National Railways, including the Central Vermont Railway, for the month of June amounted to $21,216,499.11, whilst operating expenses were $20,039,043.85, leaving a net revenue for the month of $1,177,445.26.

BRANTFORD GAME WILL BE GOOD ONE

War Vets Will Be At Full Strength For Tomorrow's Game For the Ontario Cup.

The Vets-Brantford football game scheduled for tomorrow afternoon should be one of the best exhibitions of soccer seen here in some time. The visitors from the Telephone City have a fast aggregation, a fact which they showed on the occasion of the visit of the Peterboro team to their city and they will make a good bid for the honors. In the event of a tie tomorrow over time periods will be played until a decision is reached for the game must be played to a finish and a winner declared. The winner of this game will play the winner of the Hamilton-St. Catherines game in the semi-final for the Ontario cup.

The Vets are expected to be out in full strength for the game. Charlie Griffin who had his wrist injured in the game at Brantford has recovered sufficiently to be in the nets again tomorrow. One or two changes are expected in the Vets line up and they will field the strongest possible team for the contest.

Puzzling Plays

By Billy Evans.

THE PLAY

Here is a freak squeeze play. The squeeze is put on. The batter bunts a pop fly toward third base. The runner on third, off with the pitch, slides across the plate while the ball is in the air. He gets to his feet and starts for the bench.

The coacher believes the ball will be caught and yells for the runner who has crossed the plate to come back to third. The runner changes his course from the bench back to third.

The ball falls safe, the third baseman not being able to make the catch. However, he picks up the ball and rushes up and touches the runner who is about ten feet from third base.

Does the run count or was the runner out?

THE INTERPRETATION

It was held the run counted. The contention was made that the moment the runner on third touched the plate, he legally scored a run. Since the ball was not caught there was no chance to retire him, as the plate became his base the moment he touched it, and he thereby legally scord a run as defined in rule 59.

THISTLES-QUAKERS BATTLE TO A DRAW

Fast Soccer Game Ended Ten Minutes Ahead of Time When the Ball Burst.

The Quakers and Thistles played to a 3 to 3 draw last evening in a fast game which was stopped ten minutes before time. The players were willing enough to go on but the ball refused to stand up under the strain and a replay will be necessary.

Play was even for the first few minutes till G. Logan broke away on his own and opened the scoring for the Quakers after about three minutes of play. He was followed by Foster who came down the left wing to place an accurate shot into the goal which J. Wilshaw headed into the nets for the second score. The Scots' rally carried the ball into the Quakers' territory where they were awarded a penalty for hands. Richmond took the kick and scored for the Thistles. Some hot play followed in mid-field which gave the half backs a chance to show their wares. The Scots again invaded the Quakers' territory and R. Wilshaw in trying to put the ball over his head hit it with his arm for a penalty. Richmond again took the kick and evened up the score.

A few minutes later the Quakers went into the Thistles' area where they were awarded a penalty which J. Wilshaw took and landed in the nest to put his team in the lead again.

After the half time period the play was confined to the Quakers' end for several minutes and they had several narrow escapes. The good work of Wilshaw and Honour at this period saved them from defeat. Play ran from end to end with each team working hard to score. Hutton got in for a shot for the Thistles and tested Pellow with a fast one. He cleared but Richmond caught the rebound and sent the ball back to equalize the score. Play was fast until about ten minutes before time when the ball burst and the game had to be stopped.

The players were:

Quakers—Pellow, goal; R. Wilshaw and Honour, full-backs; W. Logan, Hepburn and Croft, half-backs; Mayette, Craig, J. Willshaw, G. Logan and Foster, forwards.

Thistle—Richards, goal; Hall and Rae, full-backs; Jackson, McMillan and Hardie, half-backs; McKay, Hutton, Richmond, Williams and Shewan, forwards.

Referee—J. Clark.

THREE GAMES IN 3 DAYS FOR PETES

Cobourg Here Saturday and Two Games With the Oslers on Monday.

The Petes have three games scheduled inside of three days this week end. The Saturday game with Cobourg will by the way make or break one for the honors of the second half and two exhibition games with Oslers of Toronto are scheduled for Monday.

By winning the Cobourg game on Saturday afternoon the Petes can clinch their hold on the honors for the second half of the Big Four schedule and by losing to Cobourg they run the chance of having Kingston pull up on even terms with them. To do this Kingston must defeat Belleville. The Petes safest way is to trim Cobourg and then Kingston won't have a chance.

Kay and Barnes will be the umpires for this game which will start at the usual time, 3 o'clock, at Riverside Park.

The two exhibition games on Monday should be well worth watching. The Oslers were the runners-up in the Hampden Park League and were only nosed out by the Hollcrests by a very narrow margin. The first game will be a morning affair and will start at 10 o'clock while the afternoon game is scheduled for 3 o'clock.

JOHNSON ADMITS HE IS SLIPPING

Greatest Pitcher of His Day Has Been Forced to Work Against Great Odds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Is Walter Johnson going back?

Walter admits it himself, so there can be no doubt about it.

At times, Johnson looks as good as ever, but his pitching lacks the old consistency that made him the greatest pitcher of his day.

Johnson has been pitching in the American League since 1907. He has always been on a losing team, never with a great club. As a result, in order to win, he invariably was forced to press his pitching to the limit.

When a star pitcher begins to go back the blame is invariably laid to an ailing arm. Listen to what Johnson has to say on this point:

"Of course I am not as good as I was 10 or 15 years ago. Age tells in baseball quicker than any other sport.

"I'm going back, and on one knows it better than I do. It may surprise you, however, to know that I figure it is my legs not my throwing arm that troubles me most.

"Unless a pitcher's legs are strong and able to stand up under the constant strain of striding on every ball pitched, he can't get his stuff on the ball.

"My legs are far more troublesome than my arm. Some days they seem too weak to support my body after I have gone four or five innings at top speed.

"Umpires and batters tell me after certain games that I had as much stuff as ever. In those games my legs have always felt strong. It's a pair of weak legs rather than an ailing arm that is robbing me of much of my old-time speed."

SOCCER NOTES

The only game scheduled for Saturday is the Vets-Brantford game at Riverside Park. Kick off at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Niven who will referee tomorrow's game has handled some of the premier games throughout Canada.

Burgess will be out of the game for a while. He received an internal injury in Woollens-Thistle Cup Tie last Tuesday evening.

Jap Won First Round in Davis Cup Match.

CHICAGO, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Zenzo Shimizu, captain of the Japanese tennis team, defeated John B. Hawkes, of Australia, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, in the first round of the American zone Davis Cup match yesterday.

Shimizu's greater steadiness and experience gave him a victory over the more spectacular play of his younger opponent.

WEIRDEST GAME WON BY ST. LOUIS

Giants Made Eight Errors in Game Which Went Fifteen Innings--Twelve Pitchers Used.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., August 10 (Canadian Press). — Pitcher Lou North's single in the fifteenth inning won one of the weirdest major league ball games ever played here, in which the Cardinals defeated the League-leading Giants yesterday, 13 to 12. McGraw sent in six pitchers and the same number worked on the hill for the locals, the most effective being North, who held the visitors hitless during the last four innings.

The visitors got off to an early lead in the opening inning when they scored four runs off the veteran Bill Doak, who was unable to get a man out. Frisch's home run brought in three of the Giants' tallies in the opening inning, the Cardinals tied the score in the third at 5-all, and later took the lead until the ninth, when the Giants put over three runs.

Again in the eleventh the teams scored two runs each, the Cardinals' two tallies being driven in by Hornsby's fourteenth circuit smash of the season. North's single in the fifteenth pushed over Ainsmith with the deciding run.

The Giants played a listless game. In all, eight errors were charged to League leaders, while the Cards had four. Twenty players of the Giants got into the game, three more than Rickey trotted out. Score:

KING'S BOAT WAS DEFEATED AGAIN

Lost Two of Three Races to the Nyria--Torpsichore Ran Ashore.

COWES, Isle of Wight, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Weather conditions were ideal for the third day of the Royal Yacht Squadron Regatta, a fair westerly breeze holding through all events.

The chief race for handicap boats of more than 100 tons displacement for townspeople, was sailed over a 40-mile course.

It was a good contest between the Britannia, upon which King George again sailed, the Nyria and the Torpsichore. The latter went ashore when she was well placed, and the Nyria won by a three-minute margin from the Royal cutter.

K. H. Coster's Paula III. won by a few seconds in the handicap race for boats under 100 tons from the Andreas and the Candida.

The Kelpie won in the 12-meter class, with the Vanity second, and the Atlanta third.

The Suzette, a member of the British team which is competing with the United States four for the British-America Cup, won the 6-meters race, with Jean second, and Capella third.

CHAMPS AFTER SEVERAL CROWNS

No Sooner Do They Win One Title Than They Want Another—Dundee After Three.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(United Press).—Assuming a rather dictatorial rule over boxing, the New York State Commission has done much to promote the interests of the sport and the benefits derived have not been confined to the territory under its immediate jurisdiction.

While many rules have been made that seemed absurd and overstepping the bounds of the commission's authority when they were first passed, some of them prove to have been based on farsighted judgment.

If the commission did nothing else, its most radical step in declaring forfeited the titles of champions who refused to fight worthy challengers brought the flyweight, featherweight and middleweight titles out of hock and put them back into competition.

The right of the commission to rule out Johnny Kilbane, Johnny Wilson, Mickey Walker and Joe Lynch have been forced into the defense of their titles.

While their judgment was sometimes questioned, the sincerity and honesty of the commissioners never have doubted and they have been right as many times as wrong.

There remains much yet to be accomplished and the commission might well devote a little attention to the "class jumping" champions.

It has become the popular custom for a new champion to seek competition in a heavier class no sooner than he has reached the top of the boxers at his own weight.

Pancho Villa won the world's flyweight championship and then started campaigning among the bantamweights and announced himself as ready to fight Joe Lynch. Lynch ignores the challenges of bantams and seeks work among the featherweights. Benny Leonard, although he may be excused because of the wide margin by which he outclassed all lightweights, wants to fight Mickey Walker for the welterweight championship. Walker, although he would be in danger with several welterweights seeking matches with him, has expressed his willingness to fight Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion. Greb ducks matches at his own weight and shouts his desire to fight Jack Dempsey.

The way that the "money-first" champions have fallen into can be shown well by two utterances of Johnny Dundee.

Hardly had Dundee won the featherweight championship from Eugene Criqui when he said:

"I want to be a fighting champion! I will meet all challengers as fast as they come!"

The next day, Dundee announced that he would start a drive after a lightweight championship bout with Benny Leonard and a return bout with Jack Bernstein, who took Dundee's trick junior lightweight title away from him on a decision some time back.

Dundee wants to hold three titles at once, and every one but Jack Dempsey, whose weight confines him to one class, aspire to hold two titles.

Dundee is not to be picked out for criticism, but his is the most recent case of "class jumping." Lynch said the same thing about "meet 'em all,' when he won his title; so did Walker; so did Wilson, and all of them.

There are only two big figures in the boxing game who have been sports enough to take a chance. Gene Tunney, the American lightweight champion, gave Harry Greb a chance at his title within six months after he had won it, and Criqui, the former featherweight champion, of the world, defended his title less than two months after he had knocked Kilbane out. Both Tunney and Criqui did not dodge the toughest man in their class, and both lost. Tunney had a little better fortune than the Frenchman had, as Tunney won his title back, but Criqui has a slight chance to get back under the crown.

SUSPEND PUBLICATION.

FIRST HALF TO SACRED HEART

Great Pitching in Midget Game When Southenders Win by 4 to 2.

First half honours in the Midget series were won by Sacred Heart last evening, when "Casey" Masterson's clever pitching defeated the Curlers by 4 to 2. Only in the third did Masterson falter. In that frame Curlers did all their scoring, McLeish getting a home run, which also scored Baird, the only Curler to be passed by Masterson. Wood followed with a single, but after stealing second was caught at third, ending the rally. Thereafter the Curlers went out in order, the side being struckout in the fifth and sixth. Masterson allowed four hits and fanned twelve.

Wood had a harder time with Sacred Heart. An infield error, a single and a pass put three on in the first. The Curlers' heaver came through neatly and struck out the next three batsmen. Two walks, a wild pitch and a passed ball gave Sacred Heart their first run in the second. When McLeish dropped a peg in the third, he mussed up a possible double play and allowed a run, Grady who got on through the misplay, also scoring later. A pair of errors by Gray and a balk gave Sacred Heart their fourth run. Wood allowed five hits and fanned fifteen.

The game proved to be the most interesting contest of the series. A large crowd of fans witnessed the work of the teams.

Starting for Sacred Heart, Kenneally was safe when Ecobichon fumbled his grounder. Archambault singled and Rishea walked. With the bases loaded, Wood fanned Masterson, McDougall and O'Brien.

For Curlers, Ecobichon struck out, McLeish popped to the pitcher, Wood doubled to right and Baker fanned.

In the second, Grady went out at first. LeBarr walked and stole, and Solmes was passed. A wild pitch advanced the runners. Kenneally lined to Wood, who got LeBarr at the plate. A passed ball after Archambault had missed three, scored Holmes. Rishea fanned.

Masterson fanned in the third, but had to be thrown out at first. McDougall tripled to right. O'Brien fanned. McLeish dropped a throw from Wood off Brady's grounder and McDougall scored. LeBarr singled to score Grady. Solmes missed three.

Barrie popped to LeBarr, Baird walked and stole second, scoring along with McLeish, when the latter hit a homer to right. Wood singled to right and stole second. Kenneally nipped the runner going into third.

In the fourth Kenneally lined out to McLeish and Archambault fanned. Rishea was safe on Gray's fumble and advanced on a balk. He was going into third when Gray missed a throw from Baker, allowing Rishea to make the plate. Masterson whiffed.

Curlers went out in a row, Baker fanning, and Macdonald and Gray being retired on short grounders.

In the fifth, after McDougall had skied to Macdonald, O'Brien singled, and pilfered second and third. Grady flew out to Baird and LeBarr struck out.

Masterson fanned Vincent, Barrie and Baird in the Curlers' half.

Solmes struck out in the sixth, Kenneally walked and went out at second, Archambault fanned.

Masterson repeated his performance of the fifth and struck out Ecobichon, McLeish and Wood.

Rishea fanned in the seventh. Masterson singled over second and stole third, only to be caught going into the plate. McDougall failed to connect.

Curlers failed to start a rally in their last effort. Baker smote mightily and in vain. Macdonald hit an easy one to the pitcher who threw the runner out. Gray fanned.

The box score:

| Curlers: | AB | R | H | PO | A | E |

THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF PETERBORO BOWLERS

Held Up City's Credit at the Belleville Bowling Tourney.

One of the most outstanding features of Peterborough's achievement at the bowling tourney in Belleville was the bowling of Mr. George Giroux, who for four strenuous games bowled in top form in second position on Dr. Allens' rink against such strong rinks at Ship Shaw of Ottawa, who won the eastern cup three times out of four trials; Hodgins, of Kingston; a strong rink from Napanee, skipped by Bell, and a Belleville rink.

To hold up his end with practically no rest and without any practice for many years, is something unusual for a man of his years.

Chief Gimblett as lead on this rink, won the Ottawa skip's unstinted praise for his work against the best lead in Eastern Ontario, in his estimation.

Not satisfied with their success in going into the finals with their rink, Gimblett and Oke and Allen, with Fox as mate, went into the doubles, were drawn against each other in the second round of the draw and put up a spectacular battle. Oke and Gimblett killed ends against them six or seven times, finally winning out by Chief Gimblett making a splendid draw with his last bowl.

Allen and Fox then met in the singles, Allen reaching the semi-finals, where another excellent prize awaited him. But Oke and Gimblett went on victoriously in the doubles, beating out Newman of Kingston for first place, so that altogether with the other rinks from Peterborough putting up stiff fights, out city was well advertised.

Out of thirty-two prizes for competition, Dr. Allen's rink brought home seven. There were thirty rinks in the competition, but the Peterborough rink won more prizes than any other at the tournament.

The bowlers are all pleased with their outing to Belleville and hope to be there next year again.

INDIANS TO HONOR A DEVOTED FRIEND.

Five Thousand Sioux Will Pay Tribute to Work of Rev. Dr. Edward Ashley.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.— (Associated Press.)—Five thousand Sioux Indians will do unique honor to a pale faced brother in the heart of the South Dakota prairie on August 19, when Rev. Dr. Edward Ashley, friend of Roosevelt and Custer, of Rain-in-the-Face and Sitting Bull and the long line of Dakota braves who were famous in Indian warfare, will round out his fiftieth year of service as a missionary among the Red Men.

Dr. Ashley is the sole survivor of the farmers of the treaty of 1876 which opened the Black Hills country to gold seekers, stripping the Indians of their hunting grounds and incidentally leading to the Custer massacre at Little Big Horn. Later he was present on the Cheyenne River reservation during the Ghost Dance, or Messiah Craze, which culminated in the battle of Wounded Knee, where the Federal troopers avenged the slaughter of Custer and his men. Still later it fell to his lot to lead to Christianity Chief Gaul, one of the chief participants in the Little Big Horn affair, of whom he gives testimony that "for the rest of his life he was a conscientious Christian."

As a boy Dr. Ashley came to Michigan from England to practice the trade of carpenter. But the mission field attarcted him, and within a few months he was on his way to the Dakotas where he entered the service under the late Bishop Hare. In the ensuing fifty years his life was spent among the Indians, counselling and advising them, acting as an intermediary for them in their relations with the government at Washington, serving on their tribal councils, ministering to them when they were ill, acting as peace maker, drilling them in the ways of civilization. He has been the personal friend and confidant of such noted chiefs as White Bear, Bad Lodge, Drifting Goose, Rain-in-the-Face, Sitting Bull, Dull Knife, Gaul and others. He has mastered half a dozen Indian dialects, and for his services in preserving the language of the Yanktons, Sissetons and other tribles of the Sioux nation he has received the degree of LLD., from the University of South Dakota.

On the occasion of the anniversary which will mark also the meeting of the Niobrara Convocation of Christianized Indians, of which Dr. Ashley is the Archdeacon, there will assemble 5,000 Sioux who live under the jurisdiction of Rt. Rev. Hugh L. Burkleson, Episcopal Bishop, South Dakota. From a radius of five hundred miles around the Indians will come to White Horse, which is twenty miles from the nearest railroad station, in automobiles, in prairie schooners, on horseback, or in primitive conveyance made from tepee poles; and in the heart of the Great American Desert will erect a city of tepees, in the centre of which will be thrown up an open-air tabernacle and altar.

Here for four days these Christian Indians will hold daily worship, discuss the business affairs of their church, make their annual donations for its support, consider tribal affairs, and on the final day of the Convocation, will give fitting observation of the half century of service of the man whose life has been devoted to their temporal as well as their spiirtual welfare. In large measure, it will be a fianl meeting of the past an dthe present, for the Inhe first went among them has passed on. This will be a meeting of farmers and herders, of mechanics and shop keepers, even of bankers and wealthy business men, for these Christianized Sioux have finally been absorbed into the civilization of the great west. Those who come in leather leggings, buckskin and feathered head-piece will simply emphasize the fact.

McCracken's and Crowe's Landing

McCRACKEN'S LANDING, Aug. 10.—A handsome fireplace has been built at the Victoria House, McCracken's Landing, which will add materially to its attractions. The fireplace s of cut stone from Upper Stoney Lake, and is of such dimensions that it suggests pioneer days to those gifted with historic love, but to the many people who prefer looking forward, not back, it is suggestive of comfort in the chilly days of autumn or when the summer shows signs of waning. It is also delightfully suggestive of the joys of a good book read by the fire. The large sitting-room with a victrola standing invitingly in a corner suggests a merry little dance, several of which have already come off.

At Crowe's Landing.

The first annual illuminated flotilla was held at Crowe's Landing on Saturday night last, August 4, and was such a success that it is bound to become at least an annual event. The craft wended their way among the islands, and after enjoying a bonfire, built upon a raft, and towed to a safe distance from shore, the party returned to the pavilion, where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, and enjoying an impromptu entertainment which was given by one of the summer visitors, who was an expert at conjuring tricks, and who entertained the company very kindly.

Sunday Services.

A special arrangement has been made this year at Crowe's Landing for services. The services are at 3.30 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. on alternate Sundays, the former being especially for the children. This arrangement has been carried out very successfully, and the attendance has repaid the effort made to arrange the services.

Mrs. MacIntyre, of "The Cedars," spent a couple of days ni Toronto ths week.

Among the many who attended the dance on Wednesday night were: Mr. and Mrs. Winder and family, Mr. and Mrs. Welch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Duffield, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Cuffe, Miss Grace Dunsford and Mrs. Clarence Bothwell.

Dr. A. Moir, of Peterboro, went up to "Cliff Cottage" on Tuesday.

Miss Flora MacRae, of Winnipeg, is the guest of Mrs. Craig.

Miss Marion Platt, of Toronto, is visiting her friend, Miss Margaret Henderson.

Misses Coburn and Cairns, of Toronto, are guests of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lawlor, of Norwood, are at "Interlaken."

Misses Isobel Nelson, Emma L. Chenhall and Gladys White, of Peterboro, were guests of Miss Dorothy Moir at "Cliff Cottage" last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, of Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Nicol, of Norwood, at their cottage.

NEWS NUGGETS STONEY LAKE

Toronto Man Hooks Fine Lunge—Tributes to Dead President.

STONEY LAKE, August 10.—Fred Cookson of Toronto, was successful in landing a very fine lunge in Clarke's Bay, on Monday of this week. There were various opinions as to its weight, but Mr. Cookson was convinced that it was a forty pounder. It was 54 inches long and 24 inches in circumference, and wrapped in its covering of sacking was an object of interest on Tuesday when the morning boat came down. Naturally Mr. Cookson was very proud of his fine catch.

Flags Half-Masted.

Our American friends are showing their flags at half mast as a proper token or respect to the memory of the late President Harding, their nation's head. The Canadian cottagers respect and honor the silent tribute.

At St. Peter's.

Canon C. W. Hedley of the Church of the Transfiguration, Toronto, is in charge of the services at St. Peter's for the month of August. Canon N. O. Tremayne of Mimico, had charge in the month of July. The increased size of the church seems to have also increased materially the attendance, and it is still very small for the crowd of worshippers who assemble there every Sunday morning.

Musical Set.

The musical set on Stoney Lake have enjoyed some delightful musicales at various points. Mr. Edward Crawford of Toronto, a prominent musical figure, has been instrumental in getting up several of these and a great deal of pleasure has been given both to the artists themselves and to all music lovers.

A Trim Cruiser.

The "Phyllis Mary" of Buffalo, a trim little cruiser, was a visitor to the lakes on Tuesday, passing down from the upper lakes. Each year nearly doubles the previous years number of these visiting cruisers, which bring many people to view the charms of Stoney Lake under the happiest conditions.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press)—The Deutche Bank now occupies one of the most beautiful palaces in Berlin, and all the bank's branches are housed in one time palaces or beautiful mansions, says a Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail.

The value of these acres of sculpture and masonry, the correspondent goes on to say, is returned in the bank report for the first half of 1923 as only 40,000,000 marks which is somewhere in the neighborhood of $200.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT NELSON, B. C.

Millions of Feet of Dressed Lumber Consumed by Flames.

NELSON, N. B., August 10. Canadian Press. — Damage estimated as high as $250,000, was done here late yesterday by a fire which originated in the planing mill of William Sullivan Limited, and fanned by a hurricane, jumped the road, swept several buildings out of existence, and destroyed from 5,000,000 to 9,000,000 feet of dressed lumber.

At one stage the adjoining villages of Newlandsville and Craigsville appeared doomed, but a change in the wind worked their salvation.

Fire fighters from Chatham and Newcastle, aided by streams from two powerful tugs, the Newcastle engine, and a host of frantically working mill men, proved practically helpless in the face of the gale. The men concentrated their efforts mainly and successfully upon savin gthe big Sullivan mill. Last night the fire was still burning but the worst of the danger was believed to be passed. There is said to be about $80,000 insurance on the lumber.

PART OF WOMEN IN NEXT WAR

They Will Co-ordinate in Thoroughly Worked-Out Programme in Their Own Defence.

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—In the next war—if there is one—watch out for the women.

Their part in any future conflict will not be a haphazard, hastily organized effort. It will be a thoroughly worked-out program designed to co-ordinate to the last detail the part women can play in delivering a decisive wallop to whatever enemy may have stepped on our toes.

While large groups of women are organizing "No More War" clubs and are endeavoring to prevent any future conflict, at least one woman is on the job getting ready to make women an efficient factor in the next war should the pacifists fail to perpetuate peace. This young woman is Miss Anita Phipps. Officially she is director of women's relations, United States War Department, and a member of the army's general staff.

Possibly the hardest jolt old army heads have had in a long time was when Miss Phipps was named by Secretary Weeks as a member of the general staff.

Miss Phipps doesn't believe women should shoulder a gun to fight. Men can march farther and aim straighter, she concedes. But in services of support, shooting biscuits instead of bullets, in jobs releasing every able-bodied man for front-line duty, and in bucking up the morale of the boys in the barracks, she believes women can go even much farther than they went in our recent brush with Germany.

In the meantime, during periods of peace, she hopes to develop, through women, a new attitude toward and interest in the boys in the service "The boys are every bit as much human in peace times as they are heroes in war," she says, "and deserve to be treated accordingly."

LIQUID OXYGEN FOR CHEAPER BLASTING

Already Widely Used in Mexican and Upper Silesian Mines Since the War.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press).—The use of liquid oxygen as an excellent and cheap explosive in salt, metal and other nongaseous mines and in quarry and other outside blasting, is recommended by the United States Bureau of Mines after a series of tests. Preliminary experiments in this novel explosive, conducted at the bureau's experimental station at Pittsburg, indicates that it may be used to advantage where dusts and gases are not present, but is especially useful elsewhere in lessening the cost of blasting.

Whil, liquid oxygen has not been used in this country so far for this purpose, it is already widely used in Mexican mines; has been employed in large quantities in the Upper Silesian mines of Germany since the war, and has been adapted to tunnel work, iron mining, subway and excavation work in cities in that country. It was used not only in Germany but in the French iron mines of Lorraine after the German seizure, and applied by them also to the destruction of French steel plants. French officials of the Briey iron district believe the explosive has come to stay, and the bureau is conducting negotiations with Alaskan companies for its adoption there.

An advantage is that it can be prepared on the job at low cost after the erection of compressing plants which will make it of especial value in Alaska. A liquid oxygen can be made at the place of consumption, dangers common to the transportation of other explosives can be done away with. Low production cost, lessening the cost per unit of material blasted, is another advantage.

In the use of liquid oxygen explosives there is practically no danger of premature ignition, it was found The danger of misfires, too, is eliminated by a wait of 30 to 40 minutes after the fuse is lighted, when practically all of the oxygen will have evaporated. Another advantage is the elimination of the danger of unexploded sticks in shoveling and subsequent handling of coal or ore going out of the mine. Other sources of danger avoided are the handling and thawing processes such as are necessary with frozen dynamite, and the hazard from lightning or fire when stored.

But there are certain disadvantages in the use of this explosive, the bureau says. Because of its rapid evaporation liquid oxygen must be used quickly and within a definite time after the hole is charged, thus limiting the number of holes than can be fired simultaneously, although in Germany as many as 28 have been fired at once. It use virtually requires the installation of a liquidating plant at considerable first cost, and this plant must be kept running regularly to obtain low cost explosive, as the main cost is in the power used.

That the power of liquid oxygen as an explosive is favorable comparable with other explosives is shown in the fact that 5,300,000 pounds of liquid oxygen are equal to 8,000,000 pounds dynamite.

One of the interesting features of high development of this explosive in Germany has been the designing of small portable liquid oxygen making plants to produce three liters an hour. Such plants have been constructed to move about on tracks, making the material much more available for small operators.

BIG FOREST FIRE IN "SCARS OF JEALOUSY."

Sensational Thrills Abound in New Thomas Ince Drama.

"Scars of Jealousy,' Thomas H. Ince's romantic modern drama of the Southland which is at the Royal Theatre is jammed with red - hot thills, according to advance reports from critics who have previewed it. The story deals with the little known "Cajans" or descendents of the Acadians who settled in the mountains of Northern Alabama more than a hundred years ago. It also depicts life as it is really lived today on the big plantations of the South and has for a prologue quite the most pretentious scens showing court, peasant and city life in the time of Louis XV of France that the screen has ever seen.

The climax of the picture revolves around a great forest fire, the real thing by the way. These scenes were filmed in Northern California while a forest ranger was clearing out a timber tract.

The entire Ince company worked for a week at high pressure and at various times were in some danger when a shift in the course of the flames cut them off. In one instance equipment was abandoned and Lambert Hillyer director, was caught in a burning tree.

Another feature of the photo-play is a novel escape through a swamp staged by Marguerite de la Motte and Lloyd Hughes. When a forest fire traps them in a ring of flames, they make their way out by way of a timber flume.

The prologue to the exciting drama of Northern Alabama mountaineer life is one of the most magnificent ever employed as an introduction. It was enacted by nearly a thousand actors and the sets, showing the France of Louis XV reflect the luxury of the period. Contrasted with these magnificent scenes are the penning shots of the production in the hills of Alabama. Descendants of the French nobiltiy who were driven from France and later from Nova Scotia by the British are today living under the most primitive conditions in the south. The picture tells tho story of a descendant of French aristocracy whose blue blood triumphs over sordid hill generations when he is given an opportunity.

In addition to the big feature drama, the million Dollar Serial, "The Social Buccaneer', started yesterday. Don't miss the first episode to-night and to-morrow. Full of action and thrills Also Clyde Cook in a corking comedy, "High and Dry," Best comedian on the screen to-day.

Special to-morrow afternoon, the Rendezvous Orchestra in a select programme. No advance in prices.

Prepares To Entertain 200,000 A. L. Visitors.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10 (United Press.)—Backed by business men and prominent citizens, American Legion members in San Francisco are preparing to entertain 200,000 visitors during the fifth annual national convention of the organization here, October 15 to 19.

The first step that the Legionnairies took to insure the support of all elements in the city in entertaining the convention was the selection of Liut.-Gen. Hunter Liggett, retired, as convention chairman.

General Liggett, who commanded the First Army Corps in France, is one of the most popular war leaders in the eyes of the doughboy, while his standing with San Francisco is of the highest.

A general convention committee, composed of both legionnaires and business men, who have served on previous convention committees, is arranging details for the re-union of the former service men.

Housing arrangements are well under way. The convention committee has enough big hotels available to assign one to each state delegation. At previous legion conventions it has been necessary to house many visitors in private homes.

Unusual entertainment facilities will be provided for the ex-service visitors. Rifle shoots, golf tourneys, swimming meets, baseball, tennis, football, bowling, boxing, wrestling and track and field and other events are planned.

There will be the customary convention parade in which more than 50,000 marchers are expected to participate.

In addition, there will be a huge night procession to illustrate the products grown in every county of California.

VIENNA, (United Press.)—Sixty-four men weighing more than any other 64 men ever assembled in one group—met here to determine who is who in the land of averdupois. One by one these heavy weights submitted themselves to the weighing scales and elongated tape measure. The winner, Franz Brusch, was officially credited with a waist measure of 2 meters, 2 centimeters and 5 millimeters.

EPIC Entertainment

"The Fog," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end, has an intriguing title, but it doesn't live up to expectations. Instead of being a mysterious sort of affair, as might be expected, it is merely one of those American photo-dramas increasingly common, that picture the woes of two soul-mates, and allows the easy road of divorce to be the solution of their difficulties. The fog of the title is just the mental atmosphere of the two central figures until they come together in the grand final close-up.

The hero is a temperamental individual, addicted to poetry. The son of a grim old business villain father, he is prevented from marrying a girl he fancies, and then turns around to wed the lady nearest at hand, who happens to be the champion lady worker in his father's factory. She has a ten-cent store taste, in spending money, and her cave man lover of other hands, a brawny labourer, returns to claim her affections. They carry on a secret intrigue, finally observed by the poet husband, who gets a divorce. His soul-mate, in the meantime, has proved to be an unknown lady of dreamy appearance to whom he dedicates a poem.

The picture, an electric affair of rapid changes, suddenly switches to a Bolshevik soldier camp. The hero, who, within a minute's space, has been transformed from an ordinary American citizen in New York State to a potential hero in the wilds of Russia, saves a Red Cross train from annihilation, after a wild ride in a three-horse conveyance. His lady love has providentially become a Red Cross nurse, and they meet under romantic circumstances. The finale is a touching affair, with the lady posing against a windy hilltop, her wounded lover scrambling to her side.

Mildred Harris, the erstwhile wife of Charlie Chaplin, is the moving spirit in "The Fog."

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear son, Humphrey Donald McRae, who died August 10, 1922:
One precious to our hearts has gone,
A voice we loved is still;
The place made vacant in our home
Can never more be filled.
Our father in his wisdom called
The blossom he had given,
And though in earth his body lies,
His soul is safe in heaven.

PEACE JUSTICES ON COURT BENCH

Harry Rush and Vincent Eastwood Deal With Bicycle Thieves.

Leonard Smithson was released on suspended sentence this morning when he was heard on a remanded charge of stealing a bicycle from White Bros. several months ago. Justices of the Peace H. Rush and Vincent Eastwood presided in the absence of Magistrate O. A. Langley.

Smithson pleaded guilty. He took the bicycle and decamped to north of Minden, where Detective-Sergeant Meagher arrested him on Wednesday. On account of his youth, and his having a wife and six-months-old baby, he was dealt with leniently by the court. He will make restitution and pay all costs.

Another Bicycle Case.

James Wallace was charged with stealing a bicycle, the property of Edward Rowe, 305 McDonnel Street, and was remanded for sentence. Application was received from Lindsay to hold Wallace for the police authorities there.

Wallace was described by Chief Newhall as a veteran of the court in pre-war days, when he was frequently before it on charges of drunkenness. Since his return from overseas, where he was wounded, Chief Newhall said Wallace had been acting queerly. He is married, and has his home in Lindsay.

The accused declared there was a note on the handlebars of the bicycle telling him to take the machine. This was denied by the owner of the bicycle. A short time ago, itt was stated, Wallace entered the Rowe home in the early morning hours and declared he "had the Germans rounded up." He said he was Corporal Rowe. He has been working on a paving gang in Peterborough.

On recommendation of Chief Newhall, the court will await advice from Lindsay as to the charge preferred against Wallace there, which will aid in deciding the punishment to be meted out here.

The Observer

LAWING.

A father sues his son for a million dollars in Providence, R. I. Pa claims he turned the money over to son for investment and son has failed to keep up the income payments as agreed. An unusual case. Maybe the psychologists can explain why you would be less surprised if a son were suing his father.

BANANAS.

"Yes, we have no bananas," is grammatically correct, says Professor Irving Fisher of Yale. Solemnly analyzing this important matter, he comments: "It is correct upon a certain hypothesis. It is misleading at times, but it is technically correct in answer to the question, 'Do you have no bananas?'"

We refer, to Dr. Fisher, the southern negro lines: "I ain't asking you, 'Ain't you is,' . I asking you, 'Ain't you ain't.'"

REWARD.

He finds a purse containing $5,030, returns it to its owner—and gets $5 reward. This experience happens to Giuseppe Euplio, trackwalker for the Boston Elevated. At any rate, he luckily was not charged for finding it.

Speaking of the rewards we get for services rendered in this life: Dr. Ivan Petrovitch Pavlov, Russian winner of the Nobel Prize for medicine in 1904, recently had his pockets picked of his $2,000 bankroll in the Grant Central Terminal, New York City. Emerson's law of compensation occasionally seems to get short-circuited.

BREAD.

With wheat at Kansas elevators bringing farmers about 70 cents a bushel, the Kansas State College of Agriculture suggests that the wheat can be forced to bring $1 a bushel by feeding it to hogs and converting it into pork. Do this on a wide scale, however, and wouldn't the system backfire in the form of lower pork prices? The system catches the farmer coming or going.

Despite cheap wheat, you aren't hearing much about a return of the 5-cent loaf of bread. We city people also have a system that gets us coming and going.

OBITUARY

MRS. FRED. STENTON.

Word was received here last evening from Bad Axe, Michigan, of the death of the wife of Fred Stenton. Mrs. Stenton was the sister of Mrs. J. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Ted Kemp, Messrs. Tom Lance and Will Kemp of this city.

DR. J. W. SIMMONS.
(Contributed).

Dr. J. W. Simmons, of Frankford, entered into rest at the Kingston General Hospital on Thursday, August 9, 1923, in his sixty-second year.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Nora Arnott, and only daughter, Anita (Mrs. George N. Rogers), two sons, Dr. Jack Simmons, of Broad Street Hospital, New York, and Grant A., at home; also three grandsons, Jack, Harry and Allan Rogers, all of whom were with him when he passed in the great beyond.

Funeral at Frankford on Sunday, August 12, at three p.m.

Dr. Simmons, besides his extensive medical practice and his connection with the fall fairs throughout the Province (he being an ex-president of the Ontario Fairs Association), made him one of the most widely known men in the country. His affable and public-spirited nature made him a favorite with every one, and he will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends in the Quinte district.

August Styles

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(United Press).—The revival of the yoke brings an interesting decoration to the new frock. Narrow yokes of beige colored georgette or lace extend to the arm-holes of the frock and are there met by tiny sleeves of the same material. While Irish lace, dyed in either beige or gray tones, predominates on most of the yoke-trimmed frocks, pin-tucked georgette, organdy and chiffon are also popular.

Maize and green—a green slightly more vivid than Nile green—is being used extensively for silk undergarments this summer. Lacey effects are newer than the plain pecoted and hemstitched effects.

Monograms, used as a dress or blouse decoration, are using the initials of the wearer rather than the cryptic letters introduced by the manufacturers as the well dressed woman does not care for the meaningless monogram.

Many of the coiffures seen about the nearby summer resorts show a band of black velvet across the forehead which tucks under the hair at the sides. Some of the younger, bobbed-hair girls wear little rosettes of narrow velvet just back of the ears, giving the ribbon band the appearance of ending there. Parting the hair in the middle from forehead to the nape of the neck and rolling it in buns over the ears is also popular with the younger set.

Yellow remains the most popular sport color of the season. Sweaters, blouses, and summery frocks have accompanying hats of the same shade of yellow. Many large yellow horse-hair hats are seen at afternoon affairs at the smart resorts, trimmed in black velvet ribbon and flowers of shades ranging from light yellow to orange.

The Parisian idea of winding the fancy bead necklace about the arm is being taken up by many of the New York women. Tiny pearls chains were first used in this manner, winding about the arm as many as ten or twelve times. Larger beads of viivd colors are now being used in this way. Amber, cornelian, jade and crystal are popular.

FLOATING CHEST HELD BODY OF A SEAMAN

PANAMA, August 10. Canadian Press.—Shipping circles here fear that the United States tanker Swift Star bound from San Pedro Cal., to Fall River, Mass., with a cargo of crude oil has been lost at sea with her crew of 30 men.

Drifting wreckage with the vessel's name was found by mariners off San Andres Island, 20 miles north of Colon, while fishing boats from that island report that damaged life boats were seen to be drifting off the coast on July 22. Fishermen found a floating ice chest marked Swift Star, the chest containing the body of a man. The sea for some distance around was oil stained.

BICYCLE WRECKED BOY WAS UNHURT

Struck by Automobile at Charlotte and Aylmer Streets.

Ernest O'Connor escaped with his life last night when he was knocked from his bicycle at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer Streets, but his bicycle was wrecked.

O'Connor was travelling east on Charlotte Street when auto 192-519 approached west on Charlotte and started to turn south on Aylmer. The automobile struck the boy, throwing him from his bicycle, passed over the front wheel of the machine, completely smashing it, and veered up Charlotte Street West. Although whistled at by bystanders, the driver of the car paid no attention and speeded away, according to the report of Constable G. Bromley.

Police reports show that the car was owned by Morris Lloyd, 413 Downie Street.

LABORITES DETERMINED REVOLUTIONIZE BRITAIN

LONDON, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Ramsay Macdonald, leader of the Labour Opposition in the House of Commons, says the Labour Party is determined to change Great Britain's method of conducting business with other nations.

In an article in the New Leader Magazine, he condemns what he estimates as the bureaucracy of the British Foreign Office with its "queer mentality and subversive selection of agents with its work in secluded rooms as though some pursuit in alchemy were being conducted by mystic signs in austral times."

Macdonald is going to Constantinople, but he insists that his proposed journey is being taken with a friend, and is to be purely for recreation. He will decline to take part in any political demonstrations, he says; in fact, he would alter his arrangements if such participation were being forced on him.

AUTO ACCIDENTS TAKE TOLL OF THREE LIVES

BUFFALO, Aug. 10.— (Canadian Press).— Three men were killed and four seriously injured in automobile accidents in and near Buffalo last night and to-day and a fourth died of injuries received in a crash Tuesday. Two of the fatal accidents happened within a block of each other.

Thomas Fitzgerald, aged 27, died in hospital to-day from a fractured skull received when the automobile in which he was riding with William Patterson struck a street flusher. Frank Patterson brother of the driver, was seriously injured internally.

PETERBORO OLD BOY RICE RECORD, RETURNS

Mr. Rice Record, brother of George Record, French Dry Cleaner, Simcoe Street, is in the city renewing old acquaintances. It is forty years since Rice left Ashburnham for his present place of residence, Caledonia, Michigan, and naturally he finds much improvement in Peterboro since that time. In fact, to use his own words "he hardly knows the old town—everything has changed but the river."

Mr. Record will be pleased to meet old friends, during his two weeks' visit, who may get in touch with him through his brother George.

Says He Is Innocent.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Denying that he had done anything to cause the death of Elie Sava and protesting innocence of any participation in fight with him, Nick Allivalia Italian laborer, was placed under arrest while he was at work to-day paving one of the city streets The Italian is held pending the coroners inquest.

ARE DECORATING TURNBULL STORE

Customers Not Hampered by Work of Repair.

"Business as usual," is the motto of the J. T. Turnbull Company, who are putting through quite a notable achievement in their big George street store just now. Although extensive repairs are being made to the second floor of the big establishment, customers are not inconvenienced in any way. Above the heads of every-day shoppers, a small army of workmen is engaged in the construction of an entire floor, with its metallic ceiling, woodwork, electric light fixtures, etc. The only hint of their activity is the sound that penetrates to the lower section.

The device which allows of perfect freedom and unhampered activity for the workmen and of perfect safety and convenienre for shoppers is a false ceiling, dropped down for a space of about ten feet from the main floor ceiling, constructed of wood and supported by wooden standards. This contrivance is the suggestion of Mr. Rolph of Toronto, architect superintending the Turnbull Company's repairs. Mr Rolph, who is in charge of the extensive alterations being made at the present time to the T. Eaton Company's store in Toronto, has used this device in many big mercantile establishments, with satisfactory results in the elimination of inconvenience to the store and its customers.

HAVE NO CLUES TO IDENTITY OF ROBBERS

TORONTO, Aug 10.—(Canadian Press).— Although the police and Pinkerton detectives have worked steadily on the robbery of the bank messengers who stole $80,000 on July 24, no fresh developments have been uncovered that will lead to capture of the gang. For the past two weeks and a half the police have investigated scores of reports and clues, and these leads have furnished no accurate information.

Herbert W. Mosher, superintendent of the Criminal branch of the Pinkerton office in New York and Wm. F. Wagner, assistant superintendent who have been here since the robbery working with the Toronto police, are planning to return to New York to-night or to-morrow owing to the fact no important clues have been found.

Murphy was employed as watchman at the Day Building, where the Society Ladies' Wear Company are tenants.

In his statement to the police, Murphy admitted he was approached and told that he would be paid $2,000 to let a gang of men into the building.

Murphy admits that he did this on the night of 11th June, when the stock was destroyed, but was only paid $27.00.

DISORDERS IN MANY PARTS OF THE RHINELAND

Chancellor Ebert Reported to Have Handed in His Resignation to President.

KILLED IN RIOTS

BERLIN, August 11 (United Press). — Eleven persons were killed to-day in wild disorders and food riots in the vicinity of Aachen, according to advices from that city.

Chancellor Cuno handed President Ebert his resignation to-day, says a Central News despatch from Berlin, but the President refused to accept it.

Internal developments in Germany are being watched in London with keen interest, and not without anxiety, the morning newspapers feature long special despatches from Berlin dealing with the food and currency difficulties, the strikes and other disturbing factors in the situation, and some of the correspondents dwell upon what they call the ugly spirit of the workers, and express fears that revolution may possibly come out of it all.

"The flowers of the Reichstag oratory are blooming on the crust of a volcano," says the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, and other writers use similar sinister language.

The Berlin tubes resumed operations to-day as a result of the agreement of the wage question between the strikers and the managers.

No street cars are running, however, as the men of the power stations are still on strike.

The latest addition to the strike movement was furnished by the North Sea pilots at Hamburg and Bremen, who are refusing to work until they are granted additional pay.

There has been continuous rioting at the big industrial plants in and around Berlin during the past few days, caused by the food situation, the money shortage, and the wage disputes.

At the giant Siemens-Halske works in Siemenstadt, the workers assumed an attitude of passive resistance, refusing to do their work upon which the management shut down the plants, which normally employ 100,000 men. At other plants the shop Soviets have hoisted the red flag.

The Reichsbank money presses were again in operation to-day, and Berlin was promised 600,000,000 marks in new currency.

A CONFERENCE ALLIED DEBTS

Premier Baldwin Expresses Approval of a New Scheme.

LONDON, Aug. 11. — (United Press).— Premier Baldwin has expressed complete approval of the International Trade Commissions proposal for the settlement of reparations and Inter-Allied Debts, following a conference with Dr. Clarence J. Owens, President of the Commission and Senator Ralph Metcalf, secretary, who explained the scheme they believe financial troubles of Europe might be overcome.

Dr. Owens and Senator Metcalf were sent to Europe on behalf of southern trade congress for the purpose of studying foreign financial conditions and reparations.

The International Trade Commission is a working instrument of the southern trade congress.

Last week, they discussed their scheme with high officials at the Willhelmstrasse in Berlin who agreed with its principle. Their next move will be to put it up to Premier Poincare in person. Briefly the scheme is that the Allies and the United States agree to accept three per cent on money owed them, plus one half of one per cent sinking fund. All agree also to pay that 3½ per cent on their own debts. This would wipe out Inter-Allied debts and reparations in about 67 years. Dr. Owens proposed this arrangement should also apply to the British debt to America. The plan also provides for a moratorium to such nations as manifestly need it like Germany. The Reichs indemity would be fixed at about $12,000,000,000.

MUST PROTECT FOREIGNER ON CHINESE SOIL

Powers Address a Sharply Worded Note to What is Left of the Chinese Government.

SUPPRESS BRIGANDS

PEKING, August 11. United Press —In a sharply worded note to China the powers condemned brigandage and threatened drastic action unless foreigners were adequately protected.

"If China fails adequately and immediately to suppress brigandage, the powers will further consider measures necessary to protect foreigners in a country which has shown itself incapable of fulfilling even the most fundamental of the duties imposed by membership in the family of nations."

The Central Government, Peking, will be held directly responsible for the protection of alien residents, as outlined in the protocole of 1901.

HAS SYMPATHY FOR DECREASED TOLLS

But Isaac Pitblado, for Manitoba, Vigorously Opposes Application of British Columbia's Attorney General

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(Special).—We have always been forward in insisting, nay, demanding lower freight rates, said Mr. Isaac Pitblado, representing the Province of Manitoba and the Board of Trade of Winnipeg, before the Privy Council to-day in the British Columbia freight rates appeal. We sympathize with every appeal for decreased tolls, but we oppose the application of the Attorney-General of British Columbia. It is not for decreased rates, it is for an unwarranted equalization in favor of British Columbia. He pointed out how nature favored the coast cities with water transportation, both domestic and foreign. The preferential rate basis that resulted, both east and west-bound, and gave to her production and consumption lower rates of transportation than any other province. On the other hand there were natural disadvantages in that four ranges of mountains lay between British Columbia and her sister provinces. Faith, it was said on good authority, would move mountains, but so far there was no precedent to accomplish the task by the process of adopting a freight schedule that ignored their existence, or the railway costs. That had been abundantly proved existed in that mountainous, unproductive and sparsely-settled region. The inevitable result of ignoring these factors of increased operating costs was to eventually raise the rates in the prairies and elsewhere. The deficits resulting had to be made up either in this way or by taxation. The Railways Board, after protected hearings and full consideration, had decided the question on certain established facts.

He demanded that the principle laid down in a previous order of the Privy Council had been affirmed, that the reversal of the Board's rulings would be highly prejudicial to the public interest. To decide otherwise would mean in the end to destroy the usefulness of the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Outlined Basis.

Mr. Pitblado outlined the basis of freight rates, the result of past investigations, the eastern rates influenced by American railways and the waterways stretching from the head of the lakes to the Atlantic, also the prairie scales with the tremendous density of traffic due to grain movement and agricultural products, followed by low operating based on the higher operating costs and lower traffic density. The various commodity tariffs, permitting the widest marketing of the natural products of each section. The distributing schedules to permit the distribution by wholesalers of the necessties of life to outlying communities. He referred to the fact that these rates had been the reason of careful consideration not only by the tariffs but of many hearings and rate applications before the Board by those interested.

Import Traffic.

He referred to the fact that over 85 per cent. of the tonnage of British Columbia was carried under special rates on which the mountain scale had no bearing. Import traffic, such as rice, tea, spices, coffee, oils, etc., arriving via Vancouver, were subject to these preferential rate scales, while the natural products of British Columbia, lumber, shingles, forest products, canned goods and the products of mines not only had these rates, but the basis had been shown to be lower than that which prevailed for similar products either in the prairie provinces or elsewhere in the Dominion. What then is the real nature of the complaint? Simply a desire to deprive the prairie distributing centres of their natural areas of distribution for the benefit of the coast jobbers.

Frogs have been discovered which bark like dogs.

EXTOLLED PETERBORO FOR COURTESY TO ITS VISITORS

Oddfellow Returns After Twenty-five Years and Expresses Gratitude for Many Kindnesses Received During Recent Grand Encampment

A visitor to Peterborough during the recent holding of the Grand Encampment of Oddfellows here, writes The Examiner as follows:

"I may say that the representatives from this district are all grateful for the many courtesies received everywhere in Peterborough. Personally, it is 25 years since I visited Peterborough before, and I was pleased with the improvements in the streets and stores Everywhere I entered, the clerks displayed the utmost courtesy. I was surprised also to know that many of your factory employees and the shop assistants come from this locality, and still compared it favourably with Western Ontario cities of about the same population.

"I am sure everyone was grateful for the kindness received everywhere. The hotels were well kept, and the service as homelike as though we lived in Peterborough.

"Yours very truly,
"C. T. Midgley,
"Woodstock, Ontario."

PRISONERS TO STAY IN COOP

Ireland's Minister of Home Affairs Outlines Position.

DUBLIN, August 11. Canadian Press. — It was officially announced to-day that there will be no immediate release of political prisoners.

Kevin O'Higgins, the Minister of Home Affairs, so informed a delegation of transport workers who called for the release of the prisoners and demanded freedom of speech and of the press for the coming election.

The Minister said the Government had evidence that the Republicans are preparing to renew their onslaught on the economic life of the country. In the circumstances He added, it was not proposed to release immediately and indiscriminately those who have challenged the people. He did not feel that such a step would be conducive to the freedom of the elections.

THE LAST ACT OF LAUSANNE MEETING

Will be Concluded in Rome Some Time Next Week.

ROME, Aug. 11.—(United Press). —The last act of the Lausanne conference will be concluded here. It is announced that M. Jordanski, soviet representative to Italy will receive text of the Straits convention in this city before August 18 and will then sign it on behalf of Moscow.

He was formerly well-known as a journalist, being the editorof an important Russian magazine prior to 1914. Since the revolution he has held high posts under the Soviet, including a mission to Poland and an assignment to the people's commissiarit of foreign affairs.

BELGIAN GOVERNMENT IS IN MARKET FOR NEW LOAN

BRUSSELS, Aug. 11. —(United Press). —The Belgian Government has practically completed negotiations in Paris for a loan of from four to five hundred million francs to bolster up the Belgian franc which is rapidly losing value.

Business circles are gravely alarmed in the drop in the value of the currency, which is attributed to outside of the financial influences.

King Albert of Belgium plans to issue a decree prohibiting speculation in exchanges and also plans to restrict the nations imports.

SELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM.

ROME, Aug. 11.—Draft contracts have been completed for the sake of the Government owned Italian telephone system to private capital.

Considerable opposition has arisen over the project, but informed circles indicate that the move will be carried through.

American firms have been among those negotiating for the concession.

Extra Phone Service Installed in the Local Fire Station

In case of fire, call 100.

The Fire Hall was equipped to-day with an extra telephone for use in case of fire alarm only, th number 100 being given it in line with the practice in other centres. It is believed that this will be the most easily remembered number.

The old number will be retained for business, and all conversations other than alarms, and Fire Chief Gimblett's instructions are that under no circumstances must the alarm telephone be used for any other purpose than giving a call for the Fire Department.

Mr. J. J. Howden, Otonabee Road, surrendered the number 100, and his number now is 187.

Examination Results of Peterboro Pupils

Celebrate on Monday The Relief of Derry

Will Observe Anniversary of One of the Most Outstanding Military Events in Ireland's History.

Apart from the customary church parade and divine worship in commemoration of Derry Day, the Royal Black Knights of Peterborough and district will this year extend their celebration of Sunday to Monday, this city's civic holiday, when a society walk to and programme of sports events at the Exhibition Grounds will feature the day's proceedings.

For citizens who stay at home on Monday this occasion will offer abundant entertainment, including horse and other racing events, interspersed with oratory by capable speakers, not forgetting instrumental numbers by the Peterboro Rangers Band. The sports will commence at about two o'clock in the afternoon and arrangements perfected promise a real good time for both participants and visitors in pleasure bent.

The degree of Royal Black Knights forms a section of the Orange Order named after the Prince of Orange, William III of England. The organizing of Orangemen reached its full development in Ireland after the revolution of 1689 against James II. In 1808 Orangeism extended to England where a Grand Lodge was formed at Manchester, from which warrants were issued for the entire kingdom. The seat of this Grand Lodge was transferred to London in 1821. In 1829 the Orange Society was propagated with a vigor that resulted in lodges being organized in Wales and Scotland, in the Mediterranean, Canada and other British Colonies.

The seige of Derry, or to be correct, Londonderry, Ireland, the relief of which the Royal Black Knights will commemorate on Sunday and Monday, was one of the most celebrated events in Irish history. The people of Derry esousing the cause of William of Orange, closed their gates against James of England on April 17, 1689, and were vigorously blockaded by James' troops until relieved on July 28 by one of King William's frigates, the Dartmouth, and two merchantmen laden with provisions for the starving garrison. The boom which constituted the main blockade of Londonderry harbour, while town and fortress were invested on the land side was forced by the merchant ship Mountjoy. Following this remarkable feat a fleet of English frigates and transports sailed into the harbour, landing guns and troops, commanded by Col. Piercy Kerk. These relieveing forces united with the beseiged and, supported by the guns of the fighting ships, bombarded King James' investing army so effectively that by dawn of August first the camp of the beseigers had become heaps of smouldering ashes.

This memorable siege lasted 105 days, during which time the people were reduced to such extremity of distress from hunger that the rats who came to feast on the decaying dead were eagerly hunted and greedily devoured. Twas indeed a ghastly and emaciated multitude of survivors which welcomed the relieveing forces with their abundance of food.

It is expected that some 3000 Orangemen will be in Peterborough on Monday to participate in the big parad, leaving Central Park at 1.30 in the afternoon.

BLAZING WHEAT TAKEN FOR FIRE CHEMONG PARK

False Alarm Spread Like Wildfire-Cottagers Have Completed Preparations For Record Regatta.

SWAM ACROSS LAKE

Chemong Park residents are interested mainly in the coming regatta at the present time. They are hoping for fine weather and a good crowd for their annual event, which takes place next Thursday. In the Pavilion prizes are on view: paddles, cushions and canoe seats. Four new special cups will be given this year: one from G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., for open sailing; one from Jack Patte for canoe sailing; one from Pete Gettas for the greatest number of points obtained by any Chemong youth, and one from W. J. Thompson for canoe paddling. A fine list of events has been prepared by the committee, of which Reg. M. Dixon is chairman. Mr. Dixon, who has a new dinghy which he recently sailed from Toronto to Port Hope, on Lake Ontario, captured the Trent Valley navigation cup for dinghy sailing at the Sturgeon Point regatta last Monday, in competition with expert dinghy sailors from Toronto.

News Paragraphs.

Yesterday afternoon, the report that the Park was on fine brought plenty of inquiries to the resort telephones. A blazing wheat field three miles away set all the district 'phones working overtime, asking for assistance. Volunteers from the Pavilion collected every available bucket and departed to swell the crowd of 200 or more helpers who attended the conflagration.

The culvert between the fifth and sixth lines on the Chemong Road is practically completed. The process of settling down is all that is required to restore the road to uninterrupted traffic.

Fishing in the Lake is not as good as usual. Old and tried fisher-folk tell the scoffing juniors that the heat affects the fishes' teeth, and that they don't bite well in warm weather, because their molars don't get a good grip on the line.

Last week, an innovation was introduced by Mrs. D. C. Fairman, who comes from Alaska, and is spending the summer at the Park with her brother, Mr. Prosser. Mrs. Fairman entertained at afternoon tea, her guests attending in swimming suits, after their dip. It is whispered that a bathing-suit party, after the fashion of those indulged in on the other side of the border, is planned for the entertainment of Chemong Park residents in the near future.

A Long Swim.

Miss Grace Allen, of Peterboro, was successful in swimming across Chemong Lake last week. She made the trip in thirty-five minute, accompanied by a row-boat.

The work at the Patte and Wolff fox farm is nearing completion. Mr. Gallant, of Summerside, P.E.I., who has been superintending the erection of the special pens, is returning home. It is expected that construction will be finished by the middle of next week.

Cisterns at the Park are almost dried up, and summer residents are looking anxiously for rain.

An exhibition of high and stunt diving was given at the Park on Wednesday, when Chif Chilcatt, of Toronto, ex-high diving champion of Canada, a visitor at the Rendezvous Pavilion, entertained an interested crowd of spectators to a series of diving exploits.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Kenny and daughter, of Toronto, have been visiting their son, Ken. Kenny, a member of the Rendezvous orchestra. Jim Davis and Bob Joy, of Toronto, have also been visitors to the orchestra boys this week.

Three youths, including the two Bartlett boys from Brampton, are camping in the Park. A party of junior boys from one of the Toronto schools have been sailing their light boats on the Lake for the last week.

Mrs. D. McDermid, with small son and daughter, of Oakville, are

Harding's Newspaper Creed Urges Fairness, Kindness and Cleanness

MARION, Ohio, August 11. —Warren G. Harding's newspaper creed, pasted on the wall of the editorial room of his newspaper, the, warns reporters and editors to "be truthful, be fair and above all, be clean!"

Following is the text of the creed:

"Remember there are two sides to every question. Get both.

"Be truthful.

"Get the facts. Mistakes are inevitable, but strive for accuracy. I would rather have one story exactly right than a hundred half wrong.

"Be decent. Be afir. Be generous.

"Boost — don't knock. There's good in everybody. Bring out the good in everybody and never needlessly hurt the feelings of anybody.

"In reporting a political gathering get the facts. Tell the story as it is. not as you would like to have it.

"Treat all parties alike. If there's any politics to be played we will play it in our editorial columns.

"Treat all religious matter reverently.

"If it can possibly be avoided, never bring ignominy to an innocent woman or child in telling of the misdeeds or misfortune of a relative —don't wait to be asked, but do it without the asking.

"And above all, be clean. Never let a dirty word or suggestive story get into type.

"I want this paper so conducted that it can go into any home without destroying the innocence of any child."

Will Unveil Tablet To Memory of the Late F. R. Yokome

The tablet erected by citizens of Peterborough to the memory of the late F. R. Yokome, for many years editor of The Examiner, in St. John's Church, will be unveiled next Tuesday, 14th August, at 8 p.m.

Archdeacon Davidson will opciate.

Not only subscribers, but also all friends of the late Mr. Yokome, are invited to be present. The ceremony is intended to be of a brief and very simple character.

BUNTIN STILL ARMY OFFICER

Mrs. Wallace Buntin Will Take Over Duties of Police Matron.

Adjutant Walace Buntin is desirous of making his position clear with regard to his recent appointment on the Peterboro Police Force, as Special Morality Officer at a salary of $1100 a year.

Adjutant Buntin still retains his connection with the Salvation Army as this sort of police work is merely a branch of the Army's social endeavor.

Adjutant and Mrs. Arthur Smith will be in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army, while Adjutant Buntin, appointed by the Peterboro Police Commission, looks after the social and parole work. Mrs. Buntin replaces Mrs. Smith as Police Matron. Adjt and Mrs. Buntin, instead of removing to Windsor, will make their home in Peterboro

The appointment of a special police officer for this type of social work, while it is carried on in conjunction with the Salvation Army in other centres, is a new departure for Peterboro.

RAILWAY WORKERS HAVING MEETING

Canadian Roads Represented at Wage Conference in Cleveland.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).— The attention of Canadian Railway employees is now fixed upon Cleveland where a conference of Brotherhood representatives in in session arranging for wage movement to include the railways of Canada, a number of Canadian chairmen are in attendance at the Cleveland meeting which is made up of all the general chairmen of the Order of Railway conductors and the Brotherhood of railway trainmen. The meeting takes in the district controlled by the Eastern Association which is east of Chicago and north of Chesapeake and Ohio in the United States and east of Port Arthur in Canada, the conference will launch a movement for the restoration of conditions which prevailed before the general reduction was made in Canada, and the United States, just year ago, the subject is very near to the hearts of the men and though they know they will have an uphill task they hope to be able to convince the railroad executives that the drop in the cost of living expected to follow the wage reduction did not materialize, they admit there has been declines since the peak of 1920 but they refuse to admit any drop within the past year or since the cut was made.

NEW CHEMICAL CHIEF.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(United Press).—Dr. Charles A. Browne, chairman of the New York section of the American Chemical society, will become chief of the Bureau of Chemistry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, on October 1. Dr. Browne has notified Secretary Wallace of his acceptance.

In returning to Washington Dr. Browne will occupy the place held for many years by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, under whom he served during 1906-07. Dr. Browne will resign the headship of the New York Sugar Trade Laboratory, established to serve both buyers and sellers of sugar. Decisions of the laboratory in controversies affecting chemical analysis are accepted as binding.

THE BACKWARD SPRING CAUSE OF THE SHORTAGE

In Spite of This There Will Be a Bumper Honey Crop at Reasonable Prices.

TODAY'S MARKET

Corn on the cob was the latest arrival on the farmers' market this morning, along with honey in the comb. The corn, which was not too plentiful, was selling at 50 cents a dozen, for good, firm cobs.

Comb honey, quoted by a man who said he was in the business "more for pleasure than treasure," was 30 cents. The backward, cold spring of this year is blamed for the mall amount of honey on sale just now.

Apples were on view in one or two of the carts, mixed small St. Lawrence and Early Harvest at 50 cents a peck, or a large-sized basket for 30 cents.

Black currants were 30 cents a quart, or 75 cents for a 5-pound basket.

Tomatoes were down in price, selling for 20 cents a box, or, in two other cases, at 60 cents for a 6-pound container.

White onions were 20 and 25 cents a quart; green and yellow beans, 3 pounds for a quarter; vegetable marrows, 15 and 20 cents apiece; potatoes, 60 cents a peck.

Swiss chard was selling for three bunches for a quarter.

The fish man had fresh salmon trout for 25 cents a pound.

Squealing little porkers, crated safely, and starting for a homeward automobile ride in the back seat, reminded one of the fifth toe in the old nursery rhyme, the little pig that said "wee, wee" all the way home from market.

Upstairs, butter and eggs were fairly plentiful, the former selling from 37 to 40 cents a pound, eggs at 24 to 28 cents a dozen.

Fowl, scarce in quantity, was 40 cents a pound for chicken, and 30 cents for duck.

The auctioneer, his eloquence undaunted by the sun, had various articles for sale, including a runabout that remained unsold at a final bid for $140.00; harness, complete without bridle, that went for $2.00; a Dutch collar and tugs for $1.20; a quantity of ladies' gloves, snapped up by young men buyers, some canvas lining dubbed "cheesecloth," and a lot of stray odds and ends.

PETERBORO TO BE ONE OF CENTRES

Insulin Has Not Been Received Yet by Local Laboratory.

No insulin has yet been received by the branch of the Provincial Laboratory in Peterborough, the Examiner was informed to-day.

It has been announced that eight laboratory centres will be supplied with insulin, Dr. F. G. Banting's remedy for diabetes.

From these laboratories physicians may obtain supplies of insulin for their patients, and all patients unable to pay for the treatment will be supplied free of charge. This is in connection with the plan being put in operation by Ontario's new Minister of Health, Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey. Certificates from the attending physicians as to the patient's inability to pay for the treatment will be required to obtain the free service.

The new remedy is being manufactured in the Connaught Laboratories of the University of Toronto. The distribution of the remedy will commence on September 1, and Kingston is nominated as one of the distribution points.

Ancient Pottery is Unearthed in Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 11. Associated Press. — Swedish archeologists have lately discovered an unusual number of relics that date back twenty to thirty centuries B. C., the latest find being a tomb and shrine of heathen worship of the Stone Age, estimated to be about 4,000 years old.

This tomb is situated in Lackalaenga, Skaane, the most southerly province of Sweden, and until a short time ago it lay buried beneath ten different strata of earth. Built of large stone slabs it has a central chamber about ten feet by five.

Around it is a circular pavement of slabs from which radiate a number of curious walks marked by stones. A considerable quantity of human and animal bones were found together with flint daggers and spear heads.

But the most interesting discovery was that of about 7,000 fragments of ornamented vases which had been thickly strewn outside the tomb. The shattering of these vases probably took place acording to the archeologists, in connection with heathen religious ceremonies. The shaping of the weapons and the ornamentation of the vases indicate an advanced civilization.

The Lackalaenga tomb is estimated to be about 4,000 years old, but the Swedes have evidence that their country was inhabited at least 1,000 years before this tomb was built. A skeleton of that period now on exhibition in Gothenburg, was found in an ancient oyster bed many miles inland from the present seacoast at a point from which the sea began receding during the Stone Age.

SLASHED SKIRT.

NEW YORK MOURNED PASSING OF HARDING LEADER AND FRIEND

Special Memorial Services Held in All Parts of the City—All Public Buildings Closed.

TRAFFIC HALTED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—(Canadian Press). — Hushed with a reverent stillness unparalelled in her history as a metropolis, New York yesterday paid sorrowful tribute to the memory of Warren G. Harding.

Her great banks, her brokerages, her stores, her harbour deserted, the city turned to her myriad churches where the sad ceremonies at Marion, Ohio., for the dead leader, were being echoed.

Yesterday it was almost as if there were a funeral in every home. Broad thoroughfares were stripped of their traffic. Subway and elevated trains, running on reduced schedules, were sparsely occupied. trains to the shore resorts were almost empty. The resorts themselves were as quiet as in winter.

The apex of the day of mourning came at noon.

Subway elevated and railroad trains, trolley cars and automobiles stood motionless for two minutes. Telegraph and cable instruments were the men of his guard from the ceased to crackle. Telephone operators sat motionless at their switchboards. All thoughts turned toward Marion.

Another climax came at a few minutes after 5 oclock when the wires of the Associated Press, connecting the nation with Marion, flashed "Taps," then subsided for two minutes into an accustomed silence. A vast hush filled the city. Crews of ships and tugs in the harbour stood rigid at attention. Foreign vessels dipped their colors.

Far away at sea this moment was similarly observed. Many vessels halted in their course for two to five minutes. Others slowed down to funeral speed. On all, crews stood at attention.

Even after the President's body had been consigned to its tomb, the mourning continued here. Legitimate theatres and vaudeville houses were closed. A few of the motion picture theatres—all closed during the day—opened last evening, but their crowds were small. Some gave a touch of mourning to their program by displaying the late president's features on the screen, while organists played his favorite hymn.

The period of mourning, ushered in Thursday night by the appearance on skyscrapper sides of great crosses of light which gleamed from office windows, began to take definite form at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, when priests in the hundreds of Catholic churches of this archdiocese began celebrating votive masses for the dead. Services were held in virtually every church in the city between that hour and 1 o'clock.

At 11.30 o'clock the chimes of old Trinity boomed forth the strains of the late Presidents favorite hymn, 'Lead, Kindly Light.' Although there were few to hear in the deserted canyons of the financial district, the chimes sang on with other favorites of the dead president—"Nearer My God, to Thee," 'Abide With Me,' and 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul.'

The strains had scarce died away when the thousands, making their way to the historic old church for the simple burial service set for noon, heard the reverberations of cannon, thundering the presidental salute of 21 guns on Governor's Island.

By noon, sorrowing congregations had assembled in more than a thousand churches in the greater city.

Boy scouts held an open air memorial at City Hall, trumpeters sounding 'Tap' while the Stars and Stripes and the Scout Flag were dipped.

Travelling salesmen, who found themselves in the city yesterday, attended a special memorial service at Hotel Pennsylvania.

Dozens of similar services were held by patriotic and other organizations and societies.

On Ellis Island, nearly 2,000 future United States citizens bowed in deference to the grief of their chosen land, at services conducted under the direction of the Immigration Commissioner Curran.

Even the city's jails joined in the general mourning. Services were held in all.

Prisoners in the grim Tombs, who might have been tried and freed yesterday, had not the courts halted along with other activities of the city, joined with hardened offenders in singing the President's favorite hymns

At exactly five o'clock, two uniformed buglers, veterans of the war, stepped from the subway kiosk at Broadway and Forty Second Street, in the heart of the theatrical district, and blew "Taps."

At the same moment stop lights were switched on in the traffic signal towers and every taxicab and trolley, every truck and bus along the length of the Gay white way, came to a halt. the signal was kept on for two minutes and not a movement was visible on the great thoroughfare. Fully 15,000 pedestrains stopped in their tracks and stood silent and bareheaded, until the traffic light was flashed on again.

More than three thousand students representative of every State in the Union, and nearly every country in the world, attended a memorial service at Columbia University.

DR. BANTING RETURNING.

LONDON, Aug. 11.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Dr. F. G. Banting, of Toronto, discoverer of the insulin treatment for diabetes, sailed yesterday for Canada aboard the Montcalm.

Dr. Banting told an interviewer that he had been greatly impressed by what he had heard at the different gatherings of medical men in Great Britain. He believed the doctors of Britain were doing a greater work now than ever they had done before.

PAPER MONEY IS SCARCE IN BERLIN

Takes So Many Million Marks to Get Anything That It Is Difficult to Get Enough to Pay Any Bills.

BERLIN, Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Premiums of 100 per cent. were paid freely on the Bourse yesterday for paper marks which now are so scarce that a man with a check book does not hesitate to pay for them at the rate of two to one.

The striking printers who returned to work yesterday, had complicated gravely the moneyless situation by tying up the uncounted batteries of the Reichsbank's printing presses which caused the Reichsbank and all the big and little privtae banks to lock their iron gates at noon to escape the long lines of clamoring patrons.

While the currency shortage is not void of humorous phases, it nevertheless is contributing a serious aspect to the prevailing nervousness and irritability since it is inconveniencing the workers and middle classes who are accustomed to ready cash.

The Prussion Government yesterday was unable to mobilize enough currency to meet its police payroll and the officers now are in much the same plight as tourists who are unable to lay their hands on sufficient currency to pay their hotel bills and railroad fares.

The General Electric Company is the first of the big industrial plants to organize a food distributing bureau for the benefit of its employees.

New Regulations Will Be Enforced.

OTTAWA, Aug 11.— (Canadian Press).—Except for the statement that the new regulations respecting lake freight rates would be enforced, Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce, declined to comment upon what transpired at a conference yesterday afternoon, between himself and Leslie H. Boyd, K.C., chairman of the Board of Grain Commissioners.

It is understood that Mr. Boyd came east to consult Mr. Robb in regard to a solution of the trouble which has arisen in connection with enforcement of that portion of the act which requires shipping companies to fyle tariffs.

TRADE WITHIN THE EMPIRE TO FILL DEMANDS

Wood to Supply All Needs Can Be Obtained Within the Bounds of the British Empire.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11. Canadian Press. — The debate on Empire trade was continued in the afternoon session of the second British Empire Forestry Conference. E. Battiscombe, Conservator of Forests for Kenya, British East Africa, called the attention of the delegates to the fact that pencil cedar could be produced in his colony in quantities sufficient to meet the Empire's demands; also that there were large areas of bamboo suitable for paper pulp and easily accessible to transportation.

L. M. Ellis, director of state forests for New Zealand, stated that the trade policy of New Zealand was based on trade within the Empire, and that the requirements of that country for soft woods are largely obtained from British Columbia.

W. Kynoch, superintendent of the Forests Products Laboratories, of Montreal, addressed the conference on forests products research. He stated that 50,000 tests on the strength properties of Canadian woods have bee made to date by the Forest Products Laboratories. The question of the preservative treatment of railway ties said Mr.Kynoch is a very important one. There are 100,000,000 ties in use in Canada on ed laboratories as soon as possible. treated ties is only six to seven years. Service tests are being conducted by the laboratories on treated ties in order to determine the processes which will give the greatest durability.

Col. W. S. Graves, Director of the Yale Forest School, presented a paper prepared by Col. W. B. Greeley, Chief Forester of the United States, who was unable to be present owing to the death of President Harding.

The forest products laboratories at Madison, Wisconsin, were established 15 years ago to study the reduction of waste in, the use of timber to a minimum. The laboratories at Madison are now compiling universal grading rules for soft woods which will do away with the confusion resulting from the present use in the United States of 24 different sets of specifications. Paper pulp had been made successfully at the laboratories from over 90 species of woods, although the industry at present uses only five or six.

W. A. Robertson of India, traced the progress of the research institute at Dehra Dun through the three stages of preliminary practice, and amateur experiment to the final fully organized laboratory as it now exists. He stated that in his opinion technology and the identification of the tropical species was their most important line of work and stressed the desirability of new laboratories getting in touch with older established laboratories as soon as possible.

Owen Jones of Australia reported the great need of forest product research in that country.

Professor Troup and Mr. Robinson discussed the progress made since the last conference in 1920, in carrying out the resolutions passed at the conference on the formation of forest products research.

Mr. Ainslee of Nigeria, Major Furse of the British Colonial Office, and Mr. Stevenson also spoke on the subject of forest products research. Mr. Ainslee endorsed the idea proposed by the United Kingdom Forestry Commission of establishing a central research institute for the assistance of all of the colonies.

LATE MARKETING CANADIAN GRAIN.

American Steamship Companies Actively Protest Against Canadian Tariff Law.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press)—American Steamship Companies have already put into effect their threat not to carry Canadian grain to market as a protest against the new Canadian law which requires them to file their tarriffs with the board of grain commissioners at Fort William," states a special despatch to the Manitoba Free Press from Fort William tonight.

"With American boats concentrating on their own grain trade it is anticipated at the head of the lakes that under tremendous handicap of moving record crop with insufficient boats, Canadian grain will thus be later reaching overseas buyer and American grain will thus be sold ahead of that grown in the Canadian West according to the despatch.

Since July 1, only seven cargoes of Canadian Wheat have left the head of the lakes, in American boats, the last one left Fort William on July 31.

VANCOUVER EXPORTS.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press.) — Vancouver exported 19,682,552 bushels of grain for the crop year 1922-23, according to official figures announced yesterday. Of this amount the United Kingdom received 14,894,000 bushels; the Orient, 3,920,661 bushels and South America 354,815 bushels.

WARREN HARDING WAS LAID TO REST IN LITTLE CEMETERY AT MARION

Funeral Services Were Very Simple — Held in Front of Vault Where the Body of the President Now Rests.

MANY PRESENT.

MARION, Ohio, August 11 (Canadian Press), — Harding, of Ohio, is home to-night, sleeping time away near the mother at whose knee his first childish dream of greatness was prattled.

Before his tomb, as the choir sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," another tender, brave woman stood with aching heart, her veiled face lifted to the sky. She stepped a moment into the vault, then turned away, brave to the last; she did not wait to see the iron gates close softly upon her dead.

Aside from the multitude that walled the long way from his father's home to the vault and those others close packed to make a living setting for the funeral rites, there was not much to mark the ceremony as the burial of one who had held highest power in his grasp. There were stilled for a like period. Radio sister services of the nation, the admirals and the generals who formed his honour escort, the friend and comrade who now is president in his stead, the colleagues of his Cabinet.

Otherwise the funeral service was that of a simple ,much-loved citizen of Ohio. Throngs whose number will never be known passed beside his casket and looked their last upon the dead face.

From his father's house he went out again, carried by the men who have stood constantly to guard a dead commander. No solemn music of bands or military pageant marked his going.

In cars behind the simple hearse came President Coolidge, members of the Cabinet, members of the family and the friends and close kin.

There came also Chief Justice Taft and General Pershing. Last to leave the house was Mrs. Harding, in black, with her veil drawn close, and just ahead of her walked the old father, his face plainly showing his grief. Through the silent, face-walled street the cortege passed and around the corner to the quiet little cemetery. As it came towards the gates, the guns spoke afar in honour.

The vault stands ivy-wrapped and set back into the gentle hill with a little space before it. So the funeral train was halted at a distance and the casket carried to a resting-place before the entrance of the tomb.

Already a group of Senators, who knew this dead President under the Capitol dome before he passed to the White House, were in front of those who were gathered in waiting in the line in the roadway that runs in front of the entrance. With them stood comrades of camping days—Ford, Edison, and Firestone.

The Cabinet family came to stand closer, at the foot of the casket, with their new chief among them. The admirals in gleaming white lined the way to the left, the generals to the right, and beyond, behind the Cabinet, stood the little party of intimates and friends.

Then came Dr. Harding and the brave widow, walking to her place at the right of the casket with Secretary Christian and the members of the family.

Within the shadow of the doorway of the vault, the churchmen took their places and from the shrubbery that screened them the choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light."

The last service for Warren Harding had begun. Prayers followed, spoken by an old friend of the dead President; the Scriptural passages that hearten men in sorrow were read, and again the choir sang.

The last hymn of this simple, reverent service was "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and as the softly blending voices came to the last chords, Mrs. Harding slowly raised her veiled face and stood as though in prayer.

The voices died away, and with lifted hand, Bishop Anderson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, pronounced the benediction.

The funeral party and the hundreds who ringed them about stood motionless and silent a moment.

Then the soldiers and sailors and marines who kept the honour watch all the way from San Francisco, and who alone carried the casket, stepped forward. Facing the tomb, they lifted it and bore it in through the shadowy doorway.

Back to the dim depth of the crypt of stone and earth the bearers went with their burden, then turned to file out again and stand stiffly at attention.

As they came out, Mrs. Harding whispered to Secretary Christian. Then she stepped forward on his arm to pass just within the ivy-grown doorway, beyond which lay the flag-draped casket, hardly visible in the dim vault. She halted but a moment in this final farewell, then turned to walk slowly down the roadway to the waiting motor car that took her swiftly away.

After she had gone, President and Mrs. Coolidge also stepped within the doorway, they too standing but a moment.

After they had passed out, the great iron barrier was swung softly shut, and Warren Harding was at home for ever in the town he loved.

As the sorrowing company before the vault moved away to the waiting cars, the guardsmen again took their places before the vault, and the hundreds who stood to watch the simple ceremony, drifted slowly away.

MONEY PRESSES AGAIN AT WORK

Billions of Marks Turned Out Daily in Effort to Meet the Demands For Paper Money.

BERLIN, Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press.) — The strike movement, which is bringing about a tremendous discrepancy between increasing food prices and the wages of the workmen, threatens to become exceedingly serious.

However, the strike at the State Printing Works, ended by agreement yesterday and the presses again are turning out billions of paper marks.

This strike, which tied up the Reichsbank, was in violation of the decision of the Ministry of Labor which warded a wage of approximately 6,500,000 paper marks weekly to the men who demanded 20 gold marks.

Nearly all the Hamburg shipyards are closed because the managers have been unable to accede to the workers' demands for immediate increases in wages. Among the workers generally there is a disposition to take recourse to strikes unless wages are substantially increased. Even in the big factories, where strikes have not occurred, there is a disposition to adopt the tactics of "cacanny," or passive resistance.

The average wage of the workers is between ten and fifteen gold marks monthly, but butter for example, costs one million paper marks per pound.

RAILWAY EARNINGS.

MONTEAL, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week to August 7 were $4,856,035 an increase of five per cent. or $232,934 as compared with the corresponding period of 1922.

Gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways from Jau. 1, 1923 to August 7, 1923, have been $142,642,931.90 an increase of $16,110,475 as compared with the corresponding period of 1922.

STEAMER REFLOATED.

PRESCOTT, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The steamer Glenealey of Maitland, Ont., which ran aground at Farrent Point on Tuesday while en route to Montreal from Fort William with 82,000 bushels of grain was refloated yesterday and proceeded to Montreal. Her cargo was undamaged.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11. —(Canadian Press).— The operating revenue of all Canadian railways in May showed a gain of 4.7 per cent. over April, and of 10.2 per cent over May of last year, as recorded by Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The betterment over 1922 was in all the main earning divisions, but particularly in passenger traffic, which registered an increase of 8.6 per cent. Operat-expenses in May exceeded those of May, 1922. The advance was largely due to increases in the payroll, the number of employees in all departments being 168,227 as compared with 153,336 a year ago. Involving wage bill greater by $1,5943386. The ratio of operating expenses to gross earnings was 88.62 last May, compared with 88.36 in May of 1922. Total operating expense for May were $33,003,367, compared with $29,366,075 the previous May, while total operating revenues were $37,239,655 compared with $33,802, 251.

A betterment of 18.7 per cent. in passenger revenues took place and of 8.5 per cent. in earnings from freight service. Wages increased by $651,173, and the number of employees by 6,271.

NONE-CONFIDENCE VOTE IN CUNO MINISTRY TO BE TAKEN ON MONDAY

WAGE INCREASE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.— (Canadian Press.)—Unanimously deciding on an award which would give employes of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated, outside of the main offices an increase in wages of approximately eight per cent., the board of arbitration appointed to investigate the demands of the employees for a restoration to the 1920 wage rates and working conditions concluded sittings yesterday. The suggestion was also made that an agreement on this bases be drawn up to last for two years. About two thousand men are affected.

Australia Will Not Remove Apple Embargo.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Efforts to have the Australian Government remove an embargo which has had the effect of barring importation of Canadian apples, have failed according to an announcement made last night by official of the Dominion Fruit Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

The embargo took the form of a Commonwealth quarantine proclamation under rate of February 24, 1921. It prohibited importation of apples into Australia from any country in which pear and fire blight were known to exist Efforts have been made on behalf on Canadian shippers to have this regulation modified but advice has been received through the Canadian Trade Commissioner at Melbourne that the Australian Government has finally decided that the embargo on Canadian apples cannot be removed, this season

Socialists Are Expected to Support Non-Confidence Motion to Be Introduced By the Communists.

CUNO MAY RESIGN.

BERLIN, August 11 (Canadian Press). — The early retirement of Chancellor Cuno and his ministry seems foreshadowed in consequence of the decision of the United Socialists to support the "no confidence" motion introduced by the Communists, which will come up for vote in the Reichstag on Monday.

Although the United Socialists originally concluded that they would abstain from voting when the issue came up, the internal situation now is fast drifting to a point where the Socialists face te necessity of saving their political prestige with the workers in order to prevent the workers from deserting to the Communists.

The Socialist leaders last night were conferring with Chancellor Cuno in an effort to induce him to resign. In the event he acquiesces, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, leader of the German People's Party would be asked by President Ebert to reconstruct the Government on the basis of a big coalition, which would include the United Socialists.

The panicky feeling which has marked Germany's internal situation during the past few days and which is being converted into political capital by the Communists, late last night seized the Reichstag, where symptoms of a Cuno crisis developed because of the decision of the Socialists to retire from their position of "benevolent neutrality," toward the present non-partisan, or business men's Cabinet.

Despite the new tax and financial programme promised by Chancellor Cuno, the United Socialist leaders on the party's moderate wing have

GREEK WARDS OF FRANCE.

The backwash of the war carried one hundred orphaned Greek boys into France a few days ago and a shipload of former soldiers of the Czar into the port of New York. Flotsam gathered up from a wide sea of suffering, who are now finding sanctuary and rest in foreign lands.

What an Odyssey that loyal remnant of the great Russian "road roller" could relate in the story of their buffetings about an indifferent or hostile world! They could be terribly articulate in their tale of misery, but those Greek boys are too immature to understand their losses, to realize their symbolism of the victory of the Turk.

Were they from Smyrna or the hinterland of Asia Minor or from the lost Provinces of Eastern Thrace? It is all one, a frightful picture of wretched hordes in flight or in pestilent concentration camps, pushing on wearily before the armies of Islam. The miracle of the Greek catastrophe of 1922 was that there were any children who escaped. But there are others, Armenian boys and Greek, who may follow the first hundred if their removal to France proves a "successful" experiment.

And the irony of it is that they may grow up to serve and love the land that is adopting them.

REGATTAS EVERYWHERE BUT HERE.

Regattas all around the Kawartha Lakes next week emphasize Peterborough's neglect of organized aquatic sports.

What temporary colonies at the summer resorts can do, and have been doing well for years, surely this city could emulate with a large measure of success. There has been no noticeable lessening of interest in paddling on the river and lake, and the bathing beaches are graduating new classes of swimmers every summer.

Here then are sufficient competitors even if outsiders were not attracted.

It is unfair, however, to leave the initiative to private enterprise. Several years ago Mr. H. B. Rye attempted to arouse public interest in water sports and contests, but the burden fell largely upon himself, with an expenditure he could not have been expected to assume annually.

No organization has volunteered to carry on the effort he launched, and competitive aquatics would be dead in the vicinity of Peterborough this summer were it not for the modest programme Mr. R. C. Braund has arranged at his well-known camp, "Braundport," a few miles below the city. No admission or entrance fees are being charged, and it is to be hoped that Mr. Braund's plans meet with the success they deserve.

This undertaking, however, should not be publicly regarded as a substitute for the larger-scaled regatta which Peterborough should call its own.

In more than one respect this city is failing to exploit its splendid resource of water; and to popularize water sports for the young people should be recognized as little less than an obligation devolving upon the community as a whole.

Swimming and boating are not only fine recreations, but they are potent exercises for the upbuilding of vigorous men and women.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.

If Civic Holiday ever signified anything in the scheme of municipal affairs, other than a day of recreation, its purpose has been long since forgotten.

It seems to be an old-fashioned legacy of the time when the townspeople used to amuse themselves on such occasions with calithumpian processions and other lively and picturesque frolics becoming that period.

Civic Holiday was no doubt conceived as a local as distinguished from the national events, and even the ancients of the city do not pretend that it was a day for municipal midsummer stock-taking, for an assembly of the citizens to discover deficiencies and omissions in the town's government and administration, or a community effort to realize that eternal ambition of "making Peterborough a better place to live in."

They did so many things better in those days that one expects Civic Holiday to have witnessed a great revival of municipal virtue. But the truth is, perhaps, that our forefathers had a greater capacity and higher spirits for fun and clowning than we; that their pleasures were simpler and were not hampered and harassed by the present vogue of efficiency which in some of its aspects counts even a holiday as lost time and opportunity.

At any rate we know they contrived their own amusements with all classes of citizens participating; and, because they lacked the transportation facilities that disperse the community today, the tradition persists that Civic Holiday should find all the youth and elders at home.

And yet there may be more civic profit in the modern celebration of Civic Holiday. For ratepayers who motor to this town and that city for an outing with their families may observe improvements abroad that disturb their satisfaction with conditions at home, and thereby kindle a desire for local betterment. Or they may indeed travel the long day through many communities and return with the conviction that none approached theirs in the evidences of municipal competency and natural advantages.

Port Hope, for example, prides itself in its numerous and surging celebrations. So much so that its people are persuaded that a holiday spent elsewhere is wasted.

That may account for the town's delusion, as published at its gates, that it is the prettiest place in Canada. And yet Lindsay, Cobourg or Belleville citizens, not to speak of Peterborough's, should find in the contrast with Port Hope's unpaved streets gratification at their own paved thoroughfares.

Hence, if Peterborough people journey off by many roads on Monday, they may not be possessed with any sense of citizenship on their trips, and yet they might come back inspired to be better citizens because of the impressions they gain on their Civic Holiday.

THE COAL STRIKE PROPAGANDA.

If any proof were lacking of the complexity and difficulty of the problem of anthracite, it could be found in the supplementary report of the United States Coal Commission. This does little more than state in an official and convincing manner the bad conditions with which we are all familiar. It condemns with impartial justice the wrongs committed by both operators and miners.

One point made is new, or at least is stated with such force as to give it an air of novelty. This has to do with the "publicity" methods of the owners and the labor unions alike. Both of them, when a strike is threatened or has occurred, send out masses of what purports to be information for the public. But a great part of this, so the United States Coal Commission asserts, has very little relation to the actual facts.

The result is that these statements by both sides, showered upon the press, have a distinct tendency to embitter the existing quarrel between the miners and the operators, while leaving the general public misled and confused. This sort of strike propaganda ought to be discontinued or regarded by everybody as pretty thoroughly discredited in advance.

Most of the recommendations made by the Coal Commission are sensible enough, though they are largely technical and relate to minor matters in dispute. The proposal which has attracted most attention is that for interference by the Government in case of a general strike in the hard coal mines. The plan suggested is very modest and cautious and in reality amounts to little more than an appeal to public opinion rather than to law.

It is proposed that when the miners and owners are unable to agree upon a renewal of their contract, they shall, sixty days before the old contract has expired, refer the issues upon which they are divided to the President of the United States. Thereupon he is to name one or more persons to inquire into the failure, and to make public a report before the existing mining contract shall have expired.

This is very well as far as it goes, and might sometimes result in bringing about an agreement under pressure of public sentiment. But that sentiment already has many ways of manifesting itself, and unfortunately in the past, as in 1902 and again twenty years later, has not been particularly effective.

In the end, if this nettle is to be firmly grasped, there will have to be a distinct warrant of law for the Government to take steps to prevent the country from suffering acutely because of the failure of a great public utility to meet the urgent needs of the people.—New York Times.

WE ARE ENTITLED TO KNOW.

However dubious may be the result of the deadlock in Europe there is at least no doubt at all as to the next step to be taken. The text of the overtures by Britain and of the French and Belgian replies should be made public. We want to know what Great Britain suggested and why those suggestions were regarded as unacceptable.

It is indicated that Premier Baldwin of Britain has asked or intends to ask the consent of France and Belgium to such publication. That is a gentlemanly thing on the part of Mr. Baldwin, inasmuch as there did exist an agreement for secrecy between the several powers concerned. Up to a certain point Mr. Baldwin is bound by that pledge; beyond that certain point Mr. Baldwin has no power to pledge himself.

The fundamental fact recognized by everyone is that if there is going to be a bad blow-out in Europe, the effect will be felt pretty heavily in this country and everywhere else in the world. To name only one, and perhaps the least of those unwelcome effects, it may be taken for granted that any collection of foreign debts would be indefinitely postponed. No generation of Americans now living would see a penny of it. The American attitude toward Europe and the American concern for Europe's peace is not defined by the extent of the debts nor by the chances of collecting them. But the debts are the outward and visible sign of an inward and invisible condition, which is the inner-relation of all peoples of the world in these perilous days of attempted reconstruction.

Taking the debts then as the patent symbol of this unavoidable relationship, it may be taken for granted that the credit of the debtor powers rests on their declared intention to continue in business along satisfactory lines. The minute circumstances arise that threaten to interfere with that intention, directly the resources and income of that business are placed in jeopardy, an honest debtor will take his creditors into his confidence. If he does not do so the creditor is entitled to act as he thinks best to protect his interest and is an exceedingly unlikely prospect for any further credit.

If affairs have reached so grave a pass as the Premier's speech intimates, if the accord between the European nations, formerly Allies, is at an end or approaches an end, and if that end threatens dangerous days to the peace of the world, then Mr. Baldwin and the British people have a higher obligation than their pledge of secrecy to France and Belgium and that is to explain frankly and fully to the world what has been said and done.—Detroit News.

HARVESTERS COME FROM OLD COUNTRY

Over Nine Hundred Expected at Quebec Tomorrow — Many More Coming.

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—Over 900 harvesters, drawn from all parts of the British Isles, eager to get to work to help harvest Canada's record crop, will land at Quebec on Sunday from the White Star-Dominion liner "Doric" and will leave immediately by special trains for Winnipeg over the Canadian National Railways.

When the offer was made of the special fare of £12 from the port of embarkation to Winnipeg, the European offices of the Canadian National Railways were deluged with applications. Men in all walks of life expressed their willingness to come to Canada. Artisans, mechanics, clerks and even clergymen were among the thousands who rushed to the steamship offices to take advantage of the liberal reduction in fare, made possible by the steamship and railway companies. Besides the 900 harvesters on the "Doric," the "Canada" sails from Liverpool on Saturday with a heavy list, including hundreds more for the Canadian wheat belt.

The Canadian National harvesters' special trains will leave Quebec immediately on arrival of the "Doric." They are made up of colonist and buffet coaches. The comfort of the harvesters while on their journey to Winnipeg has been studied in every detail. Their sleeping berths have been made comfortable and are well ventilated. Meals will be availabe on the trains at reasonable prices, while every facility will be given for those who desire to do their own cooking.

On arrival in Winnipeg, the Britishers will be distributed to the various points in the West where help is needed. The travellers will have the assistance and co-operation of courteous officials at Quebec, en route to Winnipeg and upon their arrival

TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—The Toronto market has been dull for cattle this week, on Tuesday the market opened with over 5,000 cattle offered, of which 1,000 had been carried over from the previous week. Of the cattle offered, about 1,200 were western. The market opened slow with a fair demand for choice butchers cattle, and they were in demand throughout the week at $6.25 to $7.25 and packers brought 3 loads of heavies at $7.25, the top price for the week. On Tuesday exporters took about 20 loads of heavies at $7.50 to $7.65, but there was no further buying during the week and no prospect of heavy buying until the dockers' strike comes to an end.

For the common cattle there was no demand. About half of the run was from the west, poor unfinished cattle that were hard to dispose of. Farmers bought some of them for stockers and feeders at $3.00 to $4.50 and light thin cows were selling at $2.50 to $3.00.

Good butcher cows brought $4.00 to $5.00 with a few at $5.25. Prices were lower for cows and canners and cattlers were difficult to sell, but there was some demand for good milch cows at fair prices. The bull trade was dull. A few heavies sold up to $4.75.

It is probable that prices will be about the same next week. There will be 300 or 400 cattle carried over, all common stuff. Western cattle continue to come in, and lack of pasture is forcing Ontario farmers to send unfinished cattle to the market. The demand for a limited number of choice butcher and export cattle promises to continue steady.

Calf trade remained steady for the week. Choice vealers brought generally $9.50 to $10, with odd sales up to $11 a hundred. Medium to good kinds sold from $7 to $9, with scattered lots of grassers from eastern districts going at $2.90 to $4.50 a hundred.

Hog prices took a strong upward turn with a gain of eight-five cents a hundred for the week. The market opened steady with last week at $8.85 fed and watered, but by Thursday the packers were bidding $9.60 and taking as many hogs as they could get at that price. The bonus for selects was quoted for the week as ninety cents a hundred, making fed and watered selects worth $10.50 on Thursday.

Lambs were generally steady throughout the week at a range of $11.50 to $12.50, with the majority going at $12. Culls and heavies sold from $8 to $11. Light sheep were scarce and prices remained steady at $5 to $6, with a small lot of choice at $6.50.

The Week's Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Aug. 7-9—Received during the week, 376 cars, 5,167 cattle, 1,790 calves, 5,891 hogs, and 3,785 sheep and lambs.

City Cattle Market.

Receipts for the week were: 31 cars, 265 cattle, 1,041 sheep and lambs, 344 hogs, 374 calves and 199 horses.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, Aug. 11.—The Horse Show Committee are busy this week putting Horse Show Park in fine shape for the big show to be held next week. Many entries have come in and prospects are good for another very successful show.

Welcome Showers.

Farmers are smiling because of the welcome showers that have come just in the nick of time to put some renewed life into the root crop. To be sure, there is not nearly enough moisture yet, but the heavy rain on Tuesday night helped some.

Belt Caused Injury.

Clinton Burly of Newtonville, who had both arms broken one day last week when assisting in threshing operations on Mr. Richard Uglow's farm in Hope Township, is getting along as well as can be hoped. The big belt flew off the machine and struck Burly with such force that he fell heavily to the ground. His right arm was broken above the elbow by the force of the blow and his left arm just below the elbow.

Taken Apartments Here.

Miss Lula Long Coombs of Lee Summit, Missouri, who is bringing her string of horses to the Cobourg Horse Show again this year, has taken a suite of rooms at the Arlington Hotel.

Lady Bowlers Reorganized.

The Cobourg ladies have reorganized the Ladies' Bowling Club and have commenced practice on the green at Victoria Park. Quite a few are taking a renewed interest in bowling, and it is hoped that a large number will become connected with it.

Garden Party Well Attended.

The annual garden party in aid of St. Joseph's Orphanage here was held on the lawn at the Orphanage yesterday afternoon and was very successful. The grounds were beautifully decorated, and there were a number of attractive tables and booths.

Tied Port Hope.

The Port Hope Tuxis Boys motored over here one evening at the week-end for an exhibition game with the Cobourg Dye Works. Both teams put up a stubborn fight, and the ball game ended four all. Highfield and Ware were the battery for Port Hope and Campbell brothers for the Dye Works.

Cobourg Bowlers Won.

Four rinks of Port Hope bowlers came to Cobourg on a recent evening for a friendly game. Cobourg won out by 16 shots. Following were the skips and scores:

| Cobourg. | | Port Hope. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| J. Watson | 18 | W. D. Stephens | 15 |

Township Rates.

Haldimand Township Council at its last meeting fixed the rate for the ensuing year as follows: County rate, 10 5-10 mills; township rate, 5 mills; distribution rate, 6 7-10 mills.

In Hamilton Township the county rate is 8 mills, and the municipal rate 4 mills. This is without the school rate.

Working On Highway.

The Warren Paving Company, which is completing a contract on the streets here, has also completed the first section of a five-mile contract on the Kingston road, west of Whitby. It is stated that it will be well into September before all the highway will be linked up by the different sections now under construction. Meantime traffic is being subject to the detours that have for some time been found necessary.

OPTIMISTIC FOR PETERBORO FAIR

Enquiries For Prize-Lists Exceed Those of Previous Years — Very Special Attractions.

Asked today what were the prospects for the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, to be held Sept. 12 to 15, President Denne was very optimistic. Never before have we had as many inquiries for prize lists from intending exhibitors, and already it looks as if every building will be overcrowded, although we have added increased space again this year. This same condition exists in concessions, and inquiries for space have been received from various points in Ontario, and also from Quebec City.

The International Amusement Co., a travelling organization, which is now showing at the Discovery Week Celebration at Sault Ste. Marie, will be here, with their complete Carnival Company, consisting of five new and up-to-date rides, and ten shows. It was found there would not be sufficient room to accomodate the Carnival Company between the Lock and George St. entrances, and consequently the shows will be erected on the field directly in front of the Main Building, and the entrance to the midway will be located at the corner below the entrance to the Manufacturers' Building.

The idea inaugurated last year of admitting all children free on the opening day, Wednesday, Sept. 12, will again be carried out this year, when the usual races, together with complete vaudeville performances will be put on.

This year there will be an extensive display of Fireworks on all four nights, and the Chairman of the Attraction Committee has promised something entirely different from anthing previously shown here. The usual horse races will take place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons, and the committee in charge are using their best endeavors to get a string of horses here that will ensure speedy events.

An innovation this year will be the Baby Show, which is creating more than ordinary interest, and judging from the prospective number of entries, it looks as though it will take the entire four days for the Judges to make their decision.

President Denne was no more enthusiastic than Webber Turner, who when asked by the reporter as to the outlook for the Peterboro Exhibition, declared that he would be extremely disappointed if the attendance was not double this year. "The citizens, farming community, manufacturers and merchants are with us. We have the show, and everything is set for the best Exhibition Peterboro has ever held. If the weather man is with us, you'll see the Exhibition set up a high record this year."

Wheat Bill Caused Strange Situation.

WINNIPEG, August 11 (Canadian Press). — Because the Wheat Board Bill was defeated at the last regular session of the Legislature, and because three Ministers of the Crown voted against it after it was foreshadowed in the Speech from the Throne a political situation of considerable interest and importance has arisen in Manitoba, states the Winnipeg Tribune yesterday afternoon.

The paper says:

"The Conservative Party in the House as a body has forwarded a formal memorial to Sir James Aikins, Lieutenant-Governor, drawing his attention to the facts on record and asking His Honour to take 'such steps as may be necessary to preserve and maintain responsible Government in the Province.'"

The memorial was dated 1st June, but had not been published before. It asks a reply from the Lieutenant-Governor, and it is understood, says the Tribune, that intimation was conveyed that the reply would be expected before the next regular session.

Sir James has acknowledged receipt, but has not replied to date.

CROPS DOING WELL IN SPITE OF DROUTH

Conditions in Lakefield District Are Fair But Rain Is Needed—Lakefield Personals.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 11.—In spite of the extreme dry spell, crop conditions are fair in most of the surrounding districts, the grain has ripened rapidly, and though not heavy will not be a failure by any means. The berry crop is literally burnt up with the sun, the berries being dried on the bushes before they were developed. Gardens are parched and will, in many cases, be a total loss unless rain comes soon. Corn is doing well apparently, and everything is desperately in need of showers.

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. John's Church held their annual picnic to Strickland's Point on Thursday afternoon of last week and had a very jolly time. Miss Mary Hampton is the President of the society and looked after the arrangements.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

To Unveil Soldiers' Memorial at Trent River—Real Estate Transfers — Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 11.—The soldiers' memorial which is being erected at Trent River, will be unveiled on Sunday, 26th of August, with appropriate ceremonies. All the military officers and other distinguished residents of the district, will be invited to attend and make addresses. An invitation will also be tendered to all returned men and these will be asked to appear in uniform if possible. Details of the arrangements for the unveiling will be announced later.

A Unique Memorial.

This memorial is unique for the reason that it has been erected by voluntary subscription and by volunteer labor to perpetuate the memory of only one man, Pte. Richard Oliver Cowain, who olaid down his life for his country at Vmy Ridge on April 9th, 1917. Trent River sent a number of young men to the war, the majority going overseas with the 93rd Battalion, but of these all returned with the exception of Pte. Cowain. The latter had lived at Trent all his life and was well known, not only to the residents but to the owners of summer cottages who spent the holiday season there. His mother and sister now reside in Campbellford.

Had a Premonition.

On the morning of the fatal day, as Pte. Cowain bade good-bye to the men who were left behind, he seemed to have had a premonition of his fate. His remains were never found, but he and 36 young men who were in the same unit are resting in a shell hole on the scene of the engagement which brought honour as well as death to so many Canadian soldiers.

A. H. McKeel, Prime Mover.

It was ex-Reeve McKeel of Campbellford, who first proposed a memorial to the late Pte. Cowain. Mr. McKeel has been spending the summer at Trent Bridge, where he has a cottage, for the past 18 years. He did not know Pte. Cowain personally, but he knew thta he was a Canadian soldier who had made the supreme sacrifice. With Mr. McKeel, to think is to act, and he called a public meeting in the Trent River Methodist church some time ago, at which a committee was formed, Mr. McKeel being appointed chairman. He worked among the regular residents of the village and the owners of summer cottages and in a few weeks the necessary amount of money was raised and the work started. Mrs. Scott, president of the Ladies' Aid, a society that co-operated with Mr. McKeel from the beginning of the movement, turned the first sod for the foundattion of the memorial on Dominion Day.

An Inspiring Column.

The memorial which is almost completed, was designed and erected under the supervision of Mr. McKeel and his son Clarence. It stands on the right bank of the river near the end of the bridge, on a plot of land 30 x 30 feet, which belongs to the government, but which has been leased to the township of Seymour as a site for the memorial at a nominal rental . The base is 10 feet square and the column is three feet in diameter. The height when completed will be 33 feet. A large ball weighing 590 pounds, was placed in position at the top yesterday by means of a gin pole, a feat of considerable difficulty. Upon this ball will be perched a bronze image of a bird with extended wings, bearing in its beak a scroll which represents a message of universal peace. The following is the inscription:

"In memory of Pte. Richard Oliver Cowain, No. 195539, 93rd Battalion, C.E.F., killed in action at Vimy Ridge April 9th, 1917; aged 25 years.

While other towns, whose martyred dead may be numbered by the score, are still planning ways and means for a monument in their memory, Trent River has erected a handsome shaft in honour of its one resident who lost his life in the Great War. It is the free gift of a grateful community and the most of the labor required was donated, farmers in the district leaving their harvesting operations with their teams to draw gravel and other material used in the construction.

Resorters at Trent River.

The following residents of Campbellford are spending the summer in their cottage at Trent River; A. H. McKeel and family, Charles H. Davidson and family; Mrs. George Dickson and family; A. L. Riendean and family; Dr. O. C. Watson and family; Mrs. Thomas Upton and family; S. H. Neal and family; Frank John and Fred Linton; T. J. Horkin and family; S. J. Dolman and family.

Arthur Bates of Toronto is a guest of his uncle, A. H. McKeel. Uncle and nephew went on a fishing trip yesterday and their catch was six lunge and three fine bass.

Robert Pearce and son David, Miss Ferris of Campbellford and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholl are guests at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Neale entertained over 50 guests at their cottage Thursday evening.

Mrs. Fred Linton, assisted by Mrs. Gill of Kingston, entertained Friday evening. The husband of the latter was formerly a professor in Queens.

Conditions Favorable For Abundant Crop.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press.) — Conditions generally throughout the Dominion continue favorable for an abundant crop though they do not fulfill early expectations, states a crop report issued by the Bank of Montreal yesterday. The report says:

"In Alberta evreything points to the best crop since 1915, but in Saskatchewan and Manitoba considerable damage has been caused by heat, rust and saw-fly.

"Cool weather of last ten days is checking rust developments in the Winnipeg district and giving the grain a chance to fill out before harvesting."

WAVERING WAISTLINE.

Designers are at odds over the correct position for the waistline on coming cool weather costumes. Put it anywhere between the extremely low hipline and the natural waistline and you'll be correct.

Prices of the Mark Had Wide Fluctuation.

DUESSELDORF, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press.)—Money changers of the Ruhr, which includes about everyone, were thrown into confusion yesterday when the mark opened on the Duesseldorf stock exchange at the rate of 600,000 to the dollar, although it closed Thursday night at the rate of close to 4,000,000 to the dollar. The mark had a similar fantastic rise in comparison with other foreign currency.

Several hundred million marks were exchanged at the new rate, but those who bought marks were later disillusioned when it slipped to yesterday's figure.

The explanation given by the banks was that the first numeral in the quotation had been dropped through an error in telegraphic transmission so that only the remaining figures— 600,000— were received, the other figures that would give it the denomination of millions not appearing.

NON-CONFIDENCE

been unable to stand off their radical comrades who are clamouring for the Chancellor's resignation.

The Communists craftily turned the party disunion to their purpose by introducing the "no confidence" motion in the Reichstag late yesterday afternoon. This was so worded that the Socialists either had to accept it in view of its moderate phrasing or go before their following as having given the bourgeois government their approval.

The motion simply stated that the Chancellor's policies do not represent the Reichstag's views.

The Parliamentary storm came unexpectedly last night while the House was still voting the Government's tax bills. The United Socialists have now alienated themselves to such an extent from the Cuno Cabinet's programme that the Ministry's retirement appears inevitable.

CROPS IN EMILY MAY BE FAILURE

Lack of Rain Is Causing Considerable Anxiety—Omemee News.

OMEMEE, August 11.—The continued dry weather is giving considerable anxiety to the residents of this district. There has been scarcely any rainfall for several weeks, and the intense heat of the day has ripened the grain too rapidly before the heads are filled.

The berry crop has been a failure in the gardens, much of the fruit having dried up on the bushes. Other garden stuff is also suffering for the want of rain, the cucumbers, beets, etc., being wilted to the ground.

A number of the residents are complaining of the shortage of water both in wells and cisterns, and creeks have run completely dry which to one resident's knowledge has not been the case for 40 years.

Monthly Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. Scott on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. T. E. MacPherson, occupied the chair, and after conducting the opening exercises, the acting secretary, Mrs. R. Cornwall gave a splendid report of the previous meetings.

There was only a small representation of the members present. The chief item of business discussed and settled was the decision to purchase awnings for the two south windows of the junior room of the Public school, the funds to be replenished by a sale of home made cooking to be held on the foundry lot, on Saturday evening, August 18.

Mrs. J. Palmer contributed a short but interesting paper towards the programme at the close of which refreshments were served, and a social half hour enjoyed.

MAN WAS LOCKED IN REFRIGERATOR

London Night Watchman Had Harrowing Experience For 12 Hours.

LONDON, August 11 (Canadian Press). — W. J. Mites, of Tecumseh Avenue, night watchman at the D. S. Perrin factory, was liberated yesterday morning by engineers at the plant after the harrowing experience of twelve hours 'imprisonment in the refrigerator, from which his shouts and hammering could not be heard.

Mites was in an exhausted condition and suffering from shock when the early arrivals at the plant found him.

He entered the refrigerator the previous evening to attempt to stop a leak he had discovered, and while he was inside the heavy door swung closed and trapped him.

He declared that his sufferings from cold were added to by the terror of fire when the alarm of the automatic sprinkler system went off during the night.

COLORED MAN SHOT DIED IN HOSPITAL

Argument Between Two Toronto Negroes Ends in a Fatality.

TORONTO, August 11 (Canadian Press). — George Fletcher, coloured, died at the General Hospital this morning following a shooting affray, in the "foreign quarter," about 2 a.m.

George Tracey, also coloured, is under arrest charged with the murder.

According to Tracey's story to the police, there was an argument between the two men, during which Fletcher "pulled a gun," and Tracey in self-defence, he says, also drew his revolver, and shot twice.

Tracey mounted a passing automobile, and fled, but after going a couple of blocks was overtaken by Police Patrol Sergeant Dickenson, and placed under arrest.

Bethany Team Lost to Elizabethville.

ELIZABETHVILLE, Aug. 11. — Elizabethville defeated Bethany 3-2 in the first game of the play-off for leadership of the East Durham League. Trew, the Elizabethville pitcher, had 17 strike-outs and allowed 3 hits.

The game was scheduled to go seven innings, but at the end of the seventh the score was still 2-2. In the last half of the eighth, with two men on bases, L. Whyte made a safe hit, scoring W. Beatty, and giving Elizabethville the lead.

Staples hit one man, walking none. Trew walked 2 men. Arnold made a 2-base hit.

Game With Campbellford Called at End of Frame 5—Sport Notes.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 11.—The Trent River Baseball Team were here yesterday for a game with the Campbellford juniors and won by a score of 9 to 2. The game was called at the end of the fifth innings as some of the Campbellford team had to leave for Hastings to play lacrosse. J. Christie, pitcher for the visitors, struck out seven men, and held Campbellford down to four scattered hits. Cowell, third baseman for the league team, went in to pitch for the home team in the fourth and stemmed the slaughter, none of the Trent River batters being able to straighten out his curves, even the redoubtable J. Christie striking out. Smith the regular pitcher for Campbellford, had three strike outs in three innings. Doubles were made by Hayward and C. Christie, Trent Bridge, and by Saunders of Campbellford.

The line up:

The League Standing.

Campbellford and Warkworth tied for second place in the Northumberland League have won 9 and lost 5 games. This gives them a percentage of .643. Brighton won 10 and lost 6 games a percentage of .625.

Some of the newspapers and defeated teams claim that Campbellford has lost 6 games, that the second game scheduled with Orland was defaulted by the team here. That game was postponed by mutual consent. Orland was coming here last Saturday to play it off and it was again deferred as several of the Orland team were unable to turn out.

Campbellford is slated to play a game with Hastings this afternoon, one that was twice stopped by rain.

FALL OF CUNO IS IMMINENT

And Critical Food Situation Fosters an Effective Spread of Red Propaganda in Germany.

BERLIN, August 11 (Canadian Press). — A critical food situation, owing to the shortage of supplies and prices beyond the reach of the workers, who are being paid in worthless paper marks, together with an internal economic and financial situation that is regarded as highly favourable to the effective spread of Bolsheviki propaganda, may be said to be the immediate causes of the impending retirement of the Cuno ministry.

Reichstag circles to-day accept the fall of the present Government as an accomplished fact.

With the talk of panic filling the air in Berlin and in the great industrial centres of the Ruhr, the present coalition leaders believe that the situation demands the early retirement of Herr Cuno's non-partisan Cabinet and the appointment of successors who will be able to command the confidence of the Socialists and the working classes genrcally.

While there is no outspoken feeling of ill-will or hostility toward the Chancellor and his associates, there is nevertheless a widespread feeling that his Cabinet is to blame for permitting the internal situation to drift into the present state of chaos.

It is also felt that a Cabinet with a constructive programme should succeed him.

Personnel of Commission Has Not Been Chosen.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. Aug. 11. Canadian Press. — The Prime Minister, Hon. W. R. It is understood however that the names of Sir Robert Bond, Sir W. E. Lloyd, both ex-premiers, and Herbert Knight are associated therewith.

Disobedience of orders or interference with the working of the seized properties will be punished with imprisonment and fines, while the punishment for sabotage will be twenty years in prison, or if fatalities are involved, death.

EXTEND EDUCATION FOR FARM FOLKS

New Minister of Agriculture to Broaden Out Idea of Short Courses

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Agricultural education upon a scale unprecedently general is to be available to the farm youth of the province during the coming winter as the result of the policy announced yesterday by Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture in the Ferguson Cabinet. Courses lasting from November 27 to March 2, the dull season on Ontario farms, are to be given in twelve centres throughout the province on elementary agriculture and home economics. They will represent the broadening out of the idea of short courses lasting from 3 to 6 weeks with which the Drury Government experimented during the period of its administration.

The scheme of education which Hon. Mr. Martin is inaugerating is an interesting and comprehensive one, touching as it does all sides of farm life.

The boys will be instructed in the principles of farming, and given foundational data upon which they can continue, to develope progressive agricultural methods. The girls for their part also included in the plan, and by parallel courses they will be schooled to meet the problems of home life which arise in rural districts. Instructions for the boys will be in the following subjects: animals, husbandry, field, husbandry ,horticulture and vegetable growing, soils and fertilizing, agriculture, farm mechanics, poultry husbandry, farm dairying, farm management, English and mathematics, forestry, veteranary science, drainage, elementary physics and chemistry, civic rural organization and co-operative marketing.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PROUD OF NEW CAR.

Piece of Apparatus Created By Their Own Labor at Minimum Cost.

The men of the Fire Department are proud of the new car which has caused so much interest on its appearance on the streets during the short time it has been in commission. Their pride is in the creation of a piece of fire apparatus by their own labor which could not be purchased for less than $6,000 from any dealer in fire-fighting apparatus. They built it at a total cost for chassis, engine, materials and fixtures of $875.

A six-cylinder chassis was taken by the firemen, thoroughly overhauled, fitted with a box, seat and running boards which were made for them in the city, painted and fitted and turned out a complete unit of up-to-date fire-fighting apparatus. The work was all done in the Fire Hall under the direction of Chief George Gimblett.

Replaces Horses.

This motor hose wagon will replace the obsolete horse-drawn hose wagon, which will now be sold. The Fire Chief expects to realize enough from the sale of the obsolete equipment to balance the expenditure on the new apparatus, so that the cost of the up-to-date truck will be nil.

The capacity of the truck may be judged from the apparatus carried—1,200 feet of 2 1-2-inch hose, one 20-foot extension ladder, one 12-foot extension ladder, two hand extinguishers, four tarpaulins, 2 electric and 2 oil lamps, four nozzles, fifty feet of 1 1-2-inch hose and the usual equipment of spare tires and parts.

Among other recommendations, the new truck is faster than the horse-drawn vehicle, and is handier to manage in traffic.

Economy Shown.

Interesting figures given by Chief Gimblett show that a great reduction has been made this year in the cost for gasoline, despite the fact that a larger number of alarms has been handled than in the full year of 1922.

In 1922 there were 250 alarms, a total mileage of 630, and 578 gallons of gasoline were used.

In 1923, from January to July, 270 alarms were answered; 536 1-2 miles travelled, and only 288 gallons of gasoline used.

The appropriation for the Fire Department this year was $38,471. This covers $1,500 for hose, $225 for a life net, $200 for tarpaulins, $240 for an alarm box and the wages of 21 men, the maintenance of 4 horses, 4 horse vehicles and 3 motor vehicles.

SEND SPEAKER ON OPIUM TRAFFIC TO NATIONS' LEAGUE.

U.S. Consents to Co-operate in World-Wide Campaign Against Illicit Drug Trade.

(By Henry Wood.)

GENEVA, (By mail to the United Press. — When the fourth annual assembly of the League of Nations, which convenes at Geneva, September 3rd, takes up the question of the control of the opium, morphine and cocaine traffic, one of the surprises may be an address before the assembly for the first time, of a representative of the United States.

During the past year the United States has not only consented to co-operate with the league in its world-wide campaign against the harmful drugs traffic, but has actually assumed the leadership. To maintain this leadership however it is generally conceded that it will be necessary for the United States to have a representative present at the fourth assembly.

While this would create an entirely new precedent for the League namely the right of a government which is not a member of the league to have a speaker present on the floor of the assembly, Leaguers declare their wilingness to establish such a precedent.

The question has also been unofficially broached to the American government and it is generally believed that a spokesman will be named.

Porter or Brent.

The choice will unquestionably fall either on Congressman Porter chairman of the commission on foreign affairs of the American House of Representatives, or on Bishop Brent.

Both of these men were members of the delegation which the American government sent the past summer to Geneva to collaborate with the League's advisory commission on the opium traffic. Congressman Porter has already expressed a willingness to present the American viewpoint on the opium traffic to the League assembly.

During the May and June meeting of the League's advisory commission on the opium traffic the American delegation succeeded in securing the adoption by the commission of what is known as the American program. This program is embodied in the United States in the Porter house resolution and stipulates that control of the harmful drugs traffic can only be attained by limiting the world's production, both of the raw material, such as poppies and coca leaves, as well as the manufactured derivatives, to the world's actual medical and scientifi needs.

This program, after being adopted by the League's advisory commission, was recommended by the latter to the League council for approval. The council, however, merely decided to circularize it to all the members of the League, they to send to the September assembly delegations fully instructed.

Unless the United States has a speaker present at the assembly, both to present and defend the American program, she will be in the embarrassing position either of having to leave this defense to some other country like England, or take the risk of defeat at the hands of such countries as India and Holland which are not keen about limiting the production of poppies and coca leaves.

ENGLISH MALE QUARTETTE AT THE CAPITOL.

The Aeolian Singers, the most famous of the London (Eng.) quartettes, are doing a short tour in Canada. This is not a vaudeville turn but a real high-class musical combination, who have appeared before Royalty and at Queen's Hall, London, and the prncipal concerts throughout the British Isles. They sing in the style of the old English Madrigalists, and in their inimitable style render delightful selections of folk songs, glees, madrigals and part songs. It is a rare treat for the ear and for the heart, and a genuine fresh novelty in quartette ensemble singing in which the finest qualities of subtilized tone, beautiful enunciation, dynamic and color shading, and close harmony are outstanding. The Quartette comprises Lynndale Byers, principal alto, Carlisle Cathedral; Frank Odell, tenor, Carlisle Cathedral; James Loque, baritone, and Jack George, basso. They are all medallists. The Aeolian Male Quartette have just completed a successful two weeks' engagement at the Toronto Hippodrome, and will be the special attraction at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of next week, commencing with the holiday matinee.

YOU CAN'T DOWN IRA SPARKS

Modern Crusader Who Tried to Cross Sea in Packing Case, Takes to Lifeboat

HONOLULU, Aug. 9.—The indomitable spirit of the Crusader still lives.

Ira Sparks' attempt to reach the Holy Land by crossing the Pacific in a packing case resulted in his being put ashore here. Now, he plans to finish the journey in a little old lifeboat!

"Dauntless" is the name Sparks has given the craft he plans to sail from Honolulu to the Holy Land. Dauntless too is Sparks—known throughout Pacific ports as "the world's strangest stowaway." Through him, the eleventh and twentieth centuries join hands.

A student of the Scriptures, Sparks, a native of Peru, Ind., says he received a direct command from Abraham to set forth.

Sparks lacked money for the passage. He thought of going as freight in a box.

Makes Own Box.

A carpenter, Sparks had no trouble in making the box, and fitting it to hold himself, his food and his belongings. Getting on ship was a different matter—but he was dauntless.

Watching the stevedores at the docks in San Francisco, Sparks learned how some of the baggage marked "personal effects" was not stowed in the hold but segregated in another part of sea-going liners.

At the offices of a steamship line he obtained a properly filed bill of lading, made out for a specified size and weight of box. He paid the freight charge to Bombay, India.

Then Sparks engaged a drayman. Shortly before the truck arrived, Sparks, with three jugs of water, some bread, oleomargarine and canned goods, his tools, a few clothes and a flashlight, climbed in h's portable "stateroom." He closed the box from the inside, sniffed at the air holes he had bored through the boards and waited.

Nearly Dies.

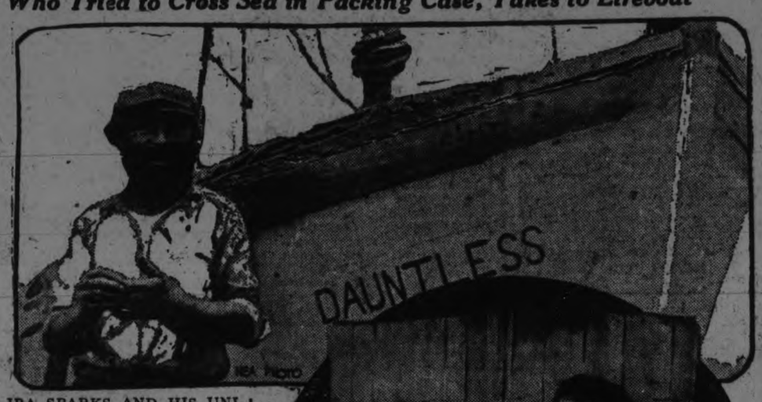
It was a tough trip to the wharves. When he was dumped off the dray, a water can toppled down on his head. Dangling on the hoisting belt, he heard the crew discussing the possibility of room in the hold. Finally the box was lowered into the silk room.

Three days in a terribly cramped position, under insanitary conditions and drinking only enough to keep alive— And then the stowaway "came up for air."



IRA SPARKS AND HIS UNIQUE TRANSPORTATION AIDS. ABOVE, SPARKS AND THE SMALL BOAT IN WHICH HE PLANS TO SAIL TO INDIA. BELOW, THE PACKING CASE HE USED IN STOWING AWAY OUT OF SAN FRANCISCO.

When the steamer docked here, Sparks walked to police headquarters and told his story.

While the steamship company was wondering how it could explain the undelivered "freight," Sparks went to work in Pearl Harbor. He saved his earnings and recently bought an old lifeboat.

He set it up on ways and toiled from sunrise to sunset to make it seaworthy. He decked it over, hoisted a second-hand mast, patched the worn-out timbers of the brow with strips of sheet iron, hammered in brass screws and painted it with tar. The name, he declares, came to him in a flash, and he daubed the now-famous letters on the ancient craft.

He's Determined.

"You're plumb crazy," skeptical old mariners are telling him. "You'll never get across in that tub."

"Give my love to Davy Jones," chimes in a wharf loafer.

But [illegible]s.

He has [illegible]raph, no ship's clock, no modern navigating implements. But he has his itinerary planned. First a northerly point in Hawaii, then Marshall Islands, Guam, the Philippines. On, on and on until he sails into the harbor of Bombay!

If courage and determination count for anything, he'll reach the Holy Land some day.

Dauntless the ship. And dauntless the man.

PASCAL

Blaise Pascal was one of those master-minds which have set so indelible a mark upon the thought of humanity that their names cannot be obscured by the passage of the years. And the fact that Europe has celebrated the tercentenary of his birth only serves to enhance the interest of the thinking public in the facts of his life and in the nature of his contribution to the progress of knowledge and of letters.

Pascal—born at Clermont-Ferrand, high on the tableland of central France in 1623—spent his boyhood in the heart of Paris, where, as early as his twelfth year, he gave proof of marvellous intellectual precocity. An intellectual genius, scarcely less though very different from his great contemporary, Descartes, he devoted the first thirty years of his life to scientific research. Yet it was to questions of faith, above all else, that he was to consecrate his brilliant intellect and passionate soul. And this creates no surprise, when one remembers that his age was one in which Christian faith was being tried amidst fiercest controversy. Thousands had broken with the creeds and the forms of the Catholic Church and had formed the great Huguenot Church; and thousands had followed Voltaire into infidelity. In this atmosphere, electric with religious controversty, Pascal came under the influence of the Jansenists—those passionate advocates within the Roman Church of the austere doctrines of Augustine in opposition to the casuistry of the Jesuits—and passed through a species of religious conversion. The fire born of this spiritual experience never died within him; in fact, it leapt up still more fiercely through the accident of the Neuilly Bridge and impelled him to consecrate his remaining years to a definitely religious life. From this time until his death in 1662, amid austerity and sickness, he produced the two masterpieces—the controversial Lettres Provinciales and the magnificent, though incomplete Pensees.

* * *

It is no easy task to think oneself back from this twentieth century into a real interest in the worn-out controversies of seventeenth century Catholicism. But whatever be our attitude to Jansenist and Jesuit, we must admire the glowing force of conviction which actuated a writer so cultured, so endowed with literary ability as this great controversionalist. The immediate and immense success of the famous Lettres is due not merely to their theme, but to their literary style. Almost every element of a perfect style is to be found in them—keen logic and trenchant argument, boundless energy and fascinating grace, fine irony and lofty comedy, rhetorical artifice and transparent clearness. Indeed, it may be said of Pascal's style that, not only doess it interpose nothing between the reader and the author's thought, it is thought itself. In France's greatest literary period, it was Pascal who first raised French prose to the level of absolute perfection.

But the interest in the Lettres is largely confined to the seventeenth century. The interest in the Pensees is timeless; they are always modern. For their theme concerns the mastery of human origin and destiny—the God above us and the soul within us. The author's intent in this work was to combat the heretic within the Church and the ambition without it, by presenting a complete apology for the Christian Faith. With what insight he the human heart With what fervour he leads the seeker after truth up to the sole satisfaction in the salvation of Christ In his method much of the value lies in the insistence upon the testimony of the heart in addition to the testimony of the mind. Pascal cannot see that a belief in God, built up by the Descartian method of mathematical demonstration, would bring a man within experimental grasp of salvation. "La foi," he writes, "est Dieu rendu sensible au coeur, non a la raison."

* * *

Blaise Pascal was composed of many factors—the ardent scientist, the burning evangelist, the cultured literary man, the profound mystic. Three centuries have passed since his birth; yet he still wins our admiration, stirs our hearts, awakens us from the deadly indifference of modern worldliness and leads us face to face with the age-long problem of life and destiny. Surely Pascal is among the prophets, as well as being a master in the world of letters —W. Harvey Jellie.

RENEWED RELATIONS

WASHINGTON, August 10. Canadian Press. — The ranking officials of all the foreign embassies and legations here, who instead of being accredited merely to the United States government, are empowered technically to deal with the president in person, called on President Coolidge yesterday and formally renewed the relations broken by the death of President Harding.

Y. W. C. A. CAMP HAPPENINGS

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 10.—Monday was rather like a spring cleaning as there had been a number of departures and preparations were made to put things in order for the new comers. Five girls arrived on the noon boat: Marie Louise Loscher of Toronto, Flossie Pammet of Peterboro, Ruth MacCowell, Jessie and Annie Thomson of Hamilton, and settled in. There is rather a shortage of boats at camp and if there are more than ten girls in a punt, which was probably Noah's life boat, is pressed into service and there the fun runs high as the punt responds slowly, if at all, to an effort to steer its course. The girls all went over to the Beach to bathe as Noah's craft was perforce taken along there was lots of fun which served to link up the new comers to the rest of the crowd and makes them feel quite at home. In the evening the girls discovered some musical talent so some played for singing and a little informal dance.

On Tuesday the girls walked over to Burleigh in the morning and visited Perry's Creek (always a favorite spot with the "Y" girls) and had refreshments at Burleigh which did taste refreshing as the day was hot and the roads very dusty, refreshed they "hit the trail" for Kawartha and arrived home for dinner. Miss Dixon of Peterboro arrived on the noon boat just as dinner was over. The usual ever-refreshing swim made the afternoon speed quickly away. Mail time is the most thrilling time of the day even more than swimming time. It has the charm of a lottery, "will I get a letter" is in every girl's mind if not on her lips.

Latterly a seeress has sprung up who tells fortunes in various ways, and this has made the arrival of the mail even more of an event.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon B. Frazer, of Peterborough, are spending a couple of weeks at Juniper Island.

Archdeacon Beamish ,of Belleville, who spent the past three weeks at Viamede, returned home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kelly of Detroit, Mrs. R. V. O'Brien of Toronto and Geo. P. Kelly of Peterborough are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sheehy at "Lyrefoune."

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Baker, J. W. Johnson and Miss Jesica Freeman of Cleveland are at "Glenwood."

Miss Ethel Linton of Toronto is the guest of Miss Stubbs at "Chateau du Loe."

Up Early in the Morning.

On Wednesday, it was "Up in the Morning early" as the excursion to Bobcaygeon was billed to leave Kawartha at 8.05 a.m. and ten of the girls went taking the trip and it would not do to be late. What a trip it was, ideal weather for a boat trip and a very happy day was spent. The captain earned the lasting gratitude of the girls as he dropped them at "Gladhalken" dock on the return trip and saved the row over from Kawartha. The girls were all ready to seek their beds that night after a most enjoyable trip.

On Thursday, Miss Doole of Hamilton, and Phemia Hendry of Peterboro went home. The crowd had planned to attend the regatta at McCracken's Landing but it was so hot they decided to remain at home. In the evening they attended the dance at Kawartha Park and though they were not acquainted with many of the young folks they had a good time among themselves.

On Friday, the daily swim took place in the morning as a trip on the Island was planned for the afternoon and which proved no exception to the usual rule of a delightful excursion. The girls are loud in their praise of the courtesy extended them by the men on the boats who apparently enjoy showing them the points of interest. A large rock in the upper lake which has flourishing trees growing on it was "snapped" as one of the wonders of the lake.

One must not fail to mention a remarkable performance of Marie Louise Loescher a member of Toronto Ladies Swimming Club and the winner of a silver medal and award of merit for swimming Toronto Bay. Miss Loescher swam from "Gladhalken" to Kawartha shore which one might easily call "some swim."

Rowed Around Island.

On Saturday the girls rowed about the islands in the vicinity of the camp and planned to attend the Kawartha Park field sports in the afternoon but it was too rough so the trip was given up. In the evening they went to Juniper and found it very gay, the Saturday night previous to Torontos civic holiday is always a gala night as there are always week-end visitors to swell the crowd. The Kawartha Park flotilla passed the camp en route for Juniper and was a very pretty sight.

Attended Service.

On Sunday morning, the girls went over to St. Peter's to service and after they returned they had a swim before dinner. The afternoon was very warm and was spent very quietly in reading, writing home or in just loafing about. In the evening they went out to see the sunset which was remarkably fine, The usual Sunday evening sing song was held and later the girls gathered on the rock at the end of the island and had a little bon fire. Some marsh mellows, which had been originally intended for a roast were passed around and much enjoyed. Misses Elliott and Story of the "Y" from Peterboro were week-end visitors to the camp. On Saturday Freda Shurety and Beatrice Kent returned home and Elsie Shurety arrived.

It was a pleasant week-end enjoyed by the girls who are making the most of their holiday and are enjoying the camp.

(To be continued).

Baby Cutting Teeth Was Very Sick With Diarrhoea

When the baby starts to cut its teeth, especially during the hot weather, then is the time that the poor mother is under the stress and strain of great anxiety.

There is no remedy so safe and effectual, for the teething complaints of infants, as is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, no remedy that has had the endorsation of so many Canadian mothers during the past 78 years it has been on the market.

Mrs. C. W. Meyers, Clanwilliam, Man., writes:—"My baby girl was very sick with diarrhoea when she was cutting her teeth. I tried several different remedies, but nothing did her any good. She was getting worse when my mother sent me out a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I gave her a few doses and the next day she was much better, and in a couple more days she was as well as ever.

Now I always keep 'Dr. Fowler's' in the house and recommend it to all those troubled with diarrhoea."

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Terence Desmond (Terry) Exquisite and convent-reared, unbelievably innocent, is forced to work as a cashier in her father's roadhouse while

Juliet Divine, the stage name of her beautiful half-sister, whom Terry has not seen for years, lives like a princess and talks vaguely of a millionaire.

Terrence Desmond, their father, moody and selfish, formerly caretaker of an estate, is now the proprietor of the Blue Moon, a roadhouse. He is anxious to get Terry married and off his hands.

Mrs. Parmalee owns Silverwood, the estate of which Desmond was caretaker.

Betty Sheridan, her grand-daughter, whose rudeness to Terry the latter will never forget, is the wife of Miles Sheridan, handsome and likable, who when Terry was a child furnished the money to send her to the Convent, partly to atone for his wife's rudeness. To Terry, he is always 'The Prince.'

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, unscrupulous with women, is impressed by Terry's beauty and her resemblance to Juliet Divine, the famous stage beauty. He invites her to go for an auto ride and on the way to New York, he kisses her.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Bird Has Flown!

Terry wriggled herself free in an instant, sprang up, and was thrown onto the seat again by the motion of the car. She fell against Nazlo's shoulder and he steadied her, but did not attempt to repeat his experiment.

"Don't look so cross, little girl," he said. "I didn't mean any harm. You're only a child. You shouldn't have such a pretty back of a neck, if you don't want it kissed " and he laughed pleasantly.

"Please take me home," Terry whispered. "I—don't want to go anywhere to dinner."

"Now—now, we mustn't be silly " the Shoe King gently scolded. "I've said I was sorry, isn't that enough. I tell you I'm on the square. If your father didn't know that, he wouldn't let me take you out.

"These days girls don't mind a kiss or two, I swear they don't. You've been brought up in an old-fashioned way. But now I understand you better, it'll be all right—you'll see.

"I'm going to show you the nicest place in New York to dine. We'll have a beautiful little room all to ourselves, and you shall choose just what you want to eat. Say you forgive me "

He took her hand, but, notwithstanding her father's advice, Terry snatched it away from him.

"I hate being touched " she said.

Her heart was pounding, her ears burning. She feared the man. Precisely what he could do to hurt her she did not know, but the sight of him so near made her sick.

How angry Mother would be Tears stung the girl's eyelids, but she would not let them fall. What ought she to do?

It was clear that Nazlo would not take her home. She could not make him. If she leaned out of the window and called the chauffeur, he'd obey Nazlo, not her. If she tried to spring out of the car, she would fall, and perhaps be killed.

Yet she must make up her mind to some plan. There was just one thing certain: she would not dine with this man in the "beautiful little room all to themselves," which he described.

Suddenly an inspiration came. The girl almost laughed with the relief and excitement of it.

"Well, do you forgive me?" Nazlo repeated.

"If you'll let me alone," Terry said.

The Greek had been disconcerted for a moment. He had thought that the silly little chicken meant to make a scene, so now he accepted her concession thankfully,

Anxious to win her back again, he began to talk of impersonal things: theatres, and roof gardens that she must go to some night in future. And as he spoke, Nazlo mentally set the stage for the next act.

He'd give the child sweet champagne; she wouldn't like it dry, at first taste. "The nicest place in New York" owed some of its niceness to ingenuity in circumventing prohibition rules. Yes—sweet champagne, well iced. He could see her sipping it.....

They arrived at their destination. The chauffeur, long ago warned through the speaking tube, turned into a quiet side street and drew up in front of a door with clipped, dwarf box trees for sentinels.

There was an instant when Nazlo watched the girl alertly, lest she meant to give him the slip; but he took her arm with a show of firmness, and she walked demurely into the entrance hall.

"Is there a room where I could wash my face, and make my hair tidy?" she asked. Her eyes were wide and innocent. She flushed delicately as Nazlo tried to read her look. He was sure, at last, that she had recovered from the "flutters," and had settled down in a tractable mood.

While she was shown up a short stairway to the ladies' cloak room, Nazlo occupied himself in engaging a private dining-room for two, and ordering such a dinner as he thought would delight a convent-child, new to New York.

Fortunately, at that season of the year, the popular restaurant was not crowded. There were several rooms to choose from, and Nazlo selected one with decorations to suit Terry Desmond's coloring. It was all white and gold, with a few purple cushions.

The Greek thought that the girl with the red hair and the simple black dress would be a dazzling beauty in that setting. When he had asked for yellow roses to be placed on the small round table, Nazlo went out to intercept Terry as she came downstairs.

He had been so anxious to finish in time to meet her, that hardly ten minutes had passed; and he waited patiently for eight or ten more. But surely a girl like Teresa Desmond, innocent of paint and powder, wouldn't need half an hour to banish the little dust picked up in a limousine

Five minutes more he grudgingly gave. Then he sent a message to the cloakroom. A young lady with red hair and dark eyes, dressed in mourning, was to be reminded that Mr. Nazlo was waiting and hoped whe was all right.

The boy who ran up to tell the cloak-room attendant returned almost at once. The young woman said that no such young lady had come into the cloak room that evening: and there wasn't anyone there now.

For an instant Nazlo was dumb with rage, rage at himself for his idiotic trustfulness, rage at the girl for the cunning that had deceived him. And under the rage was sharp disappointment. His heart felt hot and heavy, as it had not felt since he was young.

Then vanity rushed to the rescue. He knew that his face had reddened, for his forehead was damp. Eyes were fixed upon him in curiosity; and, hating his humiliation, he laughed.

"The little lady wants a game of tag with me " he said good-naturedly. "I suppose I must go catch her, and fetch her back before she's tired of the game."

He went to the man at the door, and described Terry. "Perhaps you remember the young girl who arrived with me half an hour ago," he added.

The man did remember. Yes, he'd noticed the young lady go out alone, not more than five minutes after she came in.

PALE FACES AND WORN OUT NERVES

Due Solely to Weak, Watery Blood—A Tonic is Needed.

Anaemia — literally impoverished blood—comes on so stealthily that it is often well advanced before its presence is recognized. Feelings of fatigue and discomfort are the earliest manifestations of the trouble and these are seldom taken seriously. Gradually small tasks become an effort and exertion causes the heart to palpitate violently. The complexion becomes sallow or pale and there is loss of weight. The nerves grow weak and the victim displays irritability under slight provocation and is extremely sensitive to noise. The appetite is fickle and indigestion often follows.

A condition of anaemia calls for a tonic, one that will enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves, and for this purpose there is nothing can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills give the blood all those missing elements necessary to give strength to the nerves, color to the cheeks, and nourishment to starved organs and tissues. Miss Margaret J. Fraer, R.R. 2, Thessalon, Ont., has proved the value of this treatment. She says: "I was very pale and weak. My blood was poor and I was very nervous. I lost my appetite, my feet and ankles were swollen and I was in a very miserable condition. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got two boxes, and found before they were finished that they were helping me. I continued the pills until I had taken a half dozen boxes, with the result that I am now enjoying the best of health, all symptoms having disappeared. I feel confident that what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me they will do for others, if given a fair trial."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D.C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run-down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1529 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

NITRATE MOST VALUABLE TO THE CHILEANS

SANTIAGO, Chile.—Recent improvement of the nitrate market with accompanying important sales of the commodity have already produced a stimulating action of the economic pulse of Chile, business men say. This is proof of how close are the bonds that link the Chilean people to their most valuable natural possession. The effect of any change in the volume ot sales of nitrate of soda is comparable to nothing less elemental than the effect of the rise or fall of the sap in a tree in the spring or fall. An increase in sales actually seems to send a quiver of added life through the entire population. A corresponding drop brings gloom, depression and often, as in the prolonged dull period of the few years, real suffering.

Chile with its nitrate beds is in very much the same position as Detroit with its automobile industry. Though each has other industries in plenty the prosperity of each is dictated by its one big industrial Frankenstein.

How of Future?

No one here is agreed with anyone else as to what caused the recent improvement in nitrates or whether the present condition will continue. But there is no lack of agreement on the point that the turn for the better came at a most opportune time for Chile and for its government. The government especially, as the treasury statements plainly enough showed, had been riding toward what looked very much like disaster during recent years at a speed that even those most experienced in the ups and downs of Chile's economics must have found vertiginous.

For 40 years a fourth or a half or more of Chilean government revenue has come from an export tax on nitrate. During the war, because nitrates are used in making explosives, the country found itself with a veritable treasure trove; prices went sky high and more nitrates were shipped to be exploded eventually over the battle lines in France than had ever been exported in peace times for the manufacture of fertilizer. Government income from the export tax mounted accordingly.

But the armistice brought a sudden and disastrous slump.

The output of 1919 was only a fraction of that of preceding years. There was a temporary revival in 1920 when various belligerent countries scraped together money to pay for orders they had almost cancelled, but the next year and the year after saw the nitrate production again drop to less than half that of war time.

Government Hard Up

With 25 to 50 per cent. of the actual, though not the paper, value of its revenue vanished, the government, which had been following with respect to expenditures the grasshopper policy usual with governments, found itself hard up. Deficit followed deficit in the last four years, and the public debt piled up frightfully.
